McCauley Inaugural Proposals

- Sewer User Charge
- Restrict Smoking In Restaurants
- 4-Year Terms For Mayor, Council
- Property Upkeep

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

In his inauguration address Monday, Mayor Francis McCauley began his fourth term by saying he would "reluctantly" seek to establish a sewer user fee for the small commercial and residential property owner.

"I am submitting (this) rather reluctantly, but I feel it is necessary, that its time has come," said McCauley, who noted large increases in sewer assessments to the city.

McCauley also said he would resubmit a home rule petition which would increase the terms of office for the mayor and city council from two to four years.

The petition had first been introduced by McCauley in his inaugural address Jan. 6, 1986.

In addition, McCauley said he would submit an order, at the request of Health Commr. M. Jane Gallahue, which would restrict and control smoking in restaurants and eating places in Quincy.

McCauley said another proposed ordinance change would place responsibility on property owners in Quincy to not only keep their own property clean, but also the adjacent areas.

Those were some of the highlights of McCauley's address presented before a sparse crowd of city department heads and others who braved the morning's snow storm to attend the ceremonies at Quincy Vo-Tech gym.

During the ceremonies, the mayor, city councillors and school committee members were sworn in to new terms by City Clerk John Gillis.

In addition, two women, Patricia Toland and Mary Collins, were unanimously elected to head the City Council and School Committee, respectively.

Councillor at Large Toland is the first woman to be elected council president.

"...In a city steeped in some of the most glorious chapters in American history, I am pleased that it will be footnoted in the history books that in the city of Quincy's centennial year, the City Council voted its first woman president.

"I am happy to be that woman and the person you have chosen to be in the council's leadership position for the next two years," she said.

Councillor Toland said she would submit to the council an order creating a commission called Quincy Pride to work towards a clean community.

She also said she would work towards revitalization of downtown Quincy, and would create a data processing committee to help expedite computerization of all city departments.

Mary Collins was sworn in as vice chairman of the School Committee, a post she had held previously. She noted that she was beginning her 11th year on the school committee.

"The direction of the School Committee will be positive and productive," said vice chairman Collins.

Auxiliary Police Return

Quincy's Auxiliary Police Department is back.

"This is where we want to stay," said Anthony Siciliano, chief of the 25-member auxiliary which resigned in September.

The auxiliary took that action after its duties were sharply reduced because of the threat of legal liability.

It had planned to move to Braintree after Siciliano was offered the opportunity to head that town's auxiliary, but the move never occurred.

"They requested to come back," said Mayor Francis McCauley at a Tuesday press conference.

"We need them and we want them," he said.

"Tony Siciliano and his group have done an excellent job."

McCauley noted that the auxiliary will still be limited, as it was earlier, to acting in a disaster or emergency as declared by Police Chief Francis Finn.

The auxiliary had previously performed such tasks as patrolling playgrounds and schools.

"They are not allowed to do that anymore," said McCauley.

"If during the patrol, they came upon someone and got into a fight, the individual (from the auxiliary) could be sued, even if he was doing the right thing."

"There has been a feeling of frustration all along.

"We're delighted to have the auxiliary back."

"Something has to occur on the statewide level. Maybe some legislation in the future will broaden their scope."

Siciliano said he is hopeful that House Bill 911, regarding volunteer liability, will pass.

"I hope in the near future, the bill will pass so that volunteers who give their time will have adequate protection," Siciliano said.

License Board May Allow Self-Service Gas Stations

By KRISTINE STRENGE

At an informal hearing Tuesday at City Hall, the License Board indicated that it may be changing its opinion on self-service gas stations in the city.

According to ordinance, Quincy is prohibited from having self-service gas stations.

Robert Fleming, attorney for Merit Oil, discussed with the board the possibility of changing Merit's full-service gas station in North Quincy to a self-service station. Merit is anxious to change the North Quincy station because it is the only Merit gas station that is not self-service, said Flemming.

"Merit has 52 self-service station in New England, 29 of them are in Massachusetts," said Fleming. In the surrounding communities, Merit has self-service stations

This Dog Really Needs A Home

A German Shepherd-Collie mix about three years old is at the Quincy dog pound and if you can help her call 773-6297.

She desperately needs a home.

She is described as black, tan, grey and shorthaired.

And, she is pregnant.

IT WAS ANOTHER day off for Quincy school children but there was work involved. Julie DiPlacido, 9, and her brother, Olimpio, 12, shovel snow in front of their home at 43 Putnam St., Monday afternoon. About eight inches of snow fell closing schools and prolonging winter vacation another day.

Third Snowstorm Hits

The third snowstorm of the season, second in a week, turned Quincy into a winter wonderland Monday and gave local youngsters an extra day of Christmas vacation when classes were cancelled.

Mayor Francis McCauley said that the city's 14 pieces of equipment were joined by 36 to 40 pieces of hired equipment in fighting the storm which began in the early hours and ended by mid-morning.

He said he did not yet have an estimate of how much the three storms have taken out of the snow budget.

Willis Humiston Awarded Air Force Medal

Capt. Willis J. Humiston, son of Vera A. Humiston of 125 Granite St., Quincy, has been decorated with the fourth award of the Air Force Commendation Medal in Guam.

The Air Force Commendation Medal is awarded to those individuals who demonstrate outstanding achievement or meritorious service in the performance of their duties on behalf of the Air Force.

Humiston is the deputy chief of the Public Affairs Division with the 43rd Bombardment Wing.

He is a 1968 graduate of St. Anselm College, Manchester, N.H.

Public Briefing On Braintree Incinerator Proposal Thursday

Quincy residents and others will get a chance tonight (Thursday) to comment on a proposal to build a hazardous waste incinerator in Braintree.

The Department of Environmental Management is sponsoring the public briefing session Jan. 7 at East Junior High School, Braintree, from 7:30 to 10 p.m.

Representatives from Clean Harbors Inc. will explain Clean Harbors' proposal to build an incinerator at the company's Braintree location.

Representatives from the Braintree Local Assessment Committee will talk about their responsibilities and state officials will explain the process for siting a hazardous waste facility.

The agenda includes time for questions and comments from the public. Residents of Braintree and surrounding communities including Quincy, Weymouth, Randolph and Holbrook are urged to attend.

Clean Harbors Inc. is proposing to modify its existing facility by building a rotary kiln incinerator that will burn 45,000 tons of hazardous waste a year. Currently, hazardous waste is stored, recycled and chemically treated at the site.

For more information, call John Rogers at the Department of Environmental Management, Office of Safe Waste Management, 727-3260.

License Board Briefs

The city's License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting at City Hall.

• Postponed the hearing regarding Chevy's Belair Cafe, 79 Parkingway, until the status of the investigation by the District Attorney and Registry of Motor Vehicles can be completed.

• Granted the request from La Paloma Mexican Restaurant, 185 Newport Ave., Quincy for the change of corporate structure. Michael F. Walsh of Halifax will hold 50 percent of the shares and act as treasurer.

• Granted the request from Hough's Neck Legion Post, 1116-1118 Sea St., for a change in management from Thomas McDonald to Raymond LaRue.

• Granted the request from St. Ann's Mariannis for a one day all alcoholic license for a dance Jan. 23 from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. at St. Ann's School.

• Granted with stipulations the request from Paul J. Leman and John M. Kelly, Jr. for a transfer of the lodging house license, 60-62 Spear St. from Louis A. Delpidio to Leman and Kelly. City Clerk John Gillis, chairman of the License Board requested a fence erected around the area. Also inspection certificates must be given to the Fire Chief, Health Commissioner and Building Inspector.

First Woman Council President

Toland Calls For Downtown Revitalization, Environment Commission

PATRICIA TOLAND was elected president of the City Council during inauguration ceremonies Monday, becoming the first woman in the city's 100-year history to hold that position.

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Patricia M. Toland, unanimously elected as the first woman president of the Quincy City Council during inauguration ceremonies Monday, outlined several goals including improving the city's environment and revitalizing downtown Quincy.

Toland addressing a storm reduced audience of approximately 200 at the Quincy Vocational Technical High School gymnasium, called for the formation of a special commission to work towards improving Quincy's environment.

"I would like to see Quincy, a city which has an historical legacy of lasting pride, a city which has been blessed with a natural beauty of lovely shorelines, grassy meadows, and green hills look clean and beautiful, well-groomed at all times," she said.

"Toward that end," Toland said, "I will submit an order to the council creating a commission called Quincy Pride. Its membership will be a cross section of the community.

"It's first charge will be to explore the nature of the clean community system of the Keep America Beautiful organization. Vital to this effort is an educational program in both the schools and the community on the importance of everyone's participation in maintaining a clean environment in our city," she said.

Regarding the revitalization of downtown Quincy Center, Toland said, "I will confer with the chairman of the downtown and economic development committee about convening private citizens, to discuss strategies for revitalization of the downtown area.

"Major planning for Quincy Center is an imperative if we are to be proud of our city as we enter the 21st century," she said.

Toland also said she intends to create a data-processing committee to help expedite the process of computerizing all city departments. "Complete and up-to-date information is needed in council work for correct decision making and proper action," Toland said.

Other goals declared by Toland:

- Continued monitoring development under the newly revised zoning ordinance.
- Seek new and creative approaches to affordable housing.
- Lessen traffic impacts by implementing realistic traffic 2000 recommendations (possibly first on a trial basis.)
- "Fighting" the incineration of sludge at the Quincy shipyard.
- "Holding the line to what is good for Quincy" on the commuter rail restoration of the Old Colony Line.
- New technologies in the disposal of trash.
- Generating more child care facilities for working parents.
- Working with the Quincy City Hospital Board of Managers as the replacement facility moves toward completion to insure high quality health care for citizens.

Toland is the first woman to be elected president of the City Council in the 100-year history of the city of Quincy. In thanking her fellow councillors for their support, Toland described the council as a "good mix – a balance of youth and fresh ideas on one side, and experience and knowledge on the other."

In addition to Toland, the City Council consists of Councillors-at-large Stephen J. McGrath and Timothy P. Cahill, Ward 1 Councillor Michael T. Cheney, Ward 2 Councillor Theodore P. DeCristofaro, Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence F. Chretien, Ward 4 Councillor James A. Sheets, Ward 5 Councillor Charles J. Phelan Jr., and Ward 6 Councillor Thomas J. Nutley.

Toland has served as city councillor since 1981. Prior to that she served on the school committee from 1976 to 1981.

Firefighters Picket Inaugural Over Contract Talks Slowdown

Quincy firefighters from Local 792 picketed outside inauguration ceremonies Monday morning at Quincy Vocational Technical School to protest lack of movement in contract negotiations.

"We wanted to show the mayor that we are unhappy that nothing has happened in the last six months," said George Parker, newly elected president of the 283-member union.

Parker, who said there were 40 pickets at the height of the protest, explained that the union's contract with the city ran out June 30, 1987.

"Negotiations are at a standstill," said Parker.

"We hope to set up a meeting with the city as soon as possible."

Parker said the union is seeking "decent livable working conditions, wages, and manpower increases."

He pointed out one sign held by a firefighter which stated, "Buildings get bigger, the Fire Department gets smaller."

"That's why we have so many multiple alarms," said Parker.

Quincy Hospital Offers Snow Shoveling Advice

Winter weather brings to mind the realization that heart attack is the leading cause of death in the United States, and that heart attacks take their greatest toll in the winter, especially when you need to shovel out from under a snowstorm, and do so in freezing temperatures.

"The need to perform physical work, the crisis situation that occurs when snow must be removed, coupled with freezing temperatures that cause small arteries to construct, combine to raise blood pressure," according to Alan Berrick, M.D., chairman of the Division of Cardiology, and the Intensive Care Committee, at Quincy City Hospital.

The heart normally has a tremendous reserve capacity to meet these special demands. During exertion, the coronary arteries dilate, enabling them to deliver more blood to the heart muscle. If these coronary arteries become obstructed, rigid, and fixed with cholesterol plaques, dilation is restricted, decreasing the delivery of blood to the heart.

With severe coronary artery disease, the reserve capacity of blood in the heart becomes greatly restricted, setting up the right conditions for a heart attack. It is at this point that overexertion in freezing temperatures plays a critical role in precipitating acute insufficiency of the blood supply to the heart.

A typical example is the overweight 45-year-old male who, after a large meal and a few cigarettes, goes out in freezing temperatures to shovel his walk. The cigarettes increase heart rate and constrict blood vessels, raising the blood pressure. Digestion of the meal requires more blood, stressing the heart further. This combination of circumstances can result in chest pains and possibly a heart attack.

- Refrain from eating large meals and smoking when you may be put in a situation that will cause overexertion in freezing temperatures.
- Attempt to develop a lifestyle that avoids crises, emotional stresses, frustrations and anger.
- Cultivate habits of moderate drinking and eating, and avoid smoking.
- And, of course, take steps to prevent high blood pressure, and continue to take any prescribed high blood pressure medications.

Keep Path To Mailbox Clear Of Ice And Snow

The Postal Service is asking area residents to clear ice and snow from walkways and steps leading to their mailbox so that letter carriers will be able to deliver their mail in a safe and timely manner this winter.

Letter carriers experience a high incidence of injuries resulting from slips, trips and falls when icy and snowy weather conditions prevail. Many of these accidents could be prevented if walkways and steps were shoveled, salted or sanded.

A safe, clear pathway not only benefits a letter carrier, but also family, friends and other visitors.

Holiday Spirit At Sheraton-Tara

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Sharing is what the holidays are all about, a fact no one has to point out to the management at the Sheraton-Tara Hotel in Braintree.

Thanks to their generosity, family members of many of Braintree Hospital's patients were able to visit with their hospitalized loved ones over the holidays without incurring lodging expenses. The Tara offered relatives located more than 50 miles from Braintree up to three nights' complimentary accommodations.

According to Braintree Hospital social workers who helped extend this invitation to eligible families, people from as far away as Minnesota benefited from this Holiday gift.

On behalf of all of our patients, family members and staff, I extend my appreciation and best wishes for a happy and healthy 1988 to the management and employees at the Sheraton-Tara Hotel.

The Next Mayor?

As Mayor Francis McCauley delivered his fourth term inaugural address Monday an inevitable question must have danced through the heads of some political observers:

Who will be the next one to stand there on the decorated rostrum and raise his (her) right hand to take the oath of office as Quincy's chief executive?

Was this the last time for McCauley or might he make it once more for an historic fifth term as Plan A mayor?

Or, looking around the rostrum, will it be, say, Steve McGrath who gave up his Ward 5 seat to run for councillor at-large – a move he made to put him in a better position to make a future mayoral bid?

McGRATH

Or, what about James Sheets who is now the "dean" of the City Council in point of service. He's starting his eighth term, 15th year.

SHEETS

Sheets was elected Ward 4 councillor in 1973 and took his seat in January, 1974. On the 1974-75 council with him were Arthur Tobin, John Quinn, Joseph LaRaia, Leo Kelly, Clifford Marshall, John Lydon, Warren Powers and Dennis Harrington.

LaRaia and Lydon both gave up their seats in last year's election. LaRaia in a close but unsuccessful run for mayor and Lydon who retired.

Sheets has expressed interest in running for mayor in the past and may still be warming up to it. One question he would have to consider: Can a ward councillor make the jump to the mayor's office without first running at-large?

Then there's Patricia Toland who Monday became Quincy's first woman City Council president in its history. Toland who isn't exactly a speed merchant getting to appointments, was travelling at least 100 miles per hour when she put together the votes (all of nine of them) for the council presidency.

Incidentally, she was a bit tardy getting to the inaugural ceremonies after accidentally locking her keys in her car and then having the car get stuck in the snow.

Some day, Quincy will have its first woman mayor. Toland hasn't said so but she wouldn't mind being Quincy's first Her Honor.

Now, let's see, who else might be the next mayor. Hmmm. There's Senator Paul Harold. What about him?

Harold took the Quincy-Braintree-Holbrook-Avon senatorial seat away from Tobin in 1978 saying he would not run for mayor while serving as a senator. That was 10 years ago.

HAROLD

Today, the mayor's office is a full-time job. So, if Harold is re-elected to the Senate this year, he would have to give up his Senate seat if he ran for and was elected mayor in 1989. He probably would finish out the senatorial term.

Is it politically far-fetched that he might run for mayor? Well, it is still an honor to be elected mayor of your home town and Harold might just decide to have a go at it one of these years.

If he did it in 1989 he certainly would be a strong contender. If not then, two or four years later.

DONNELLY

Harold no doubt would like to succeed Congressman Brian Donnelly if the latter moves on to something else. But right now it appears that Donnelly is going to be our man in Washington for sometime to come.

Harold is in a similar position with Donnelly that James McIntyre was with James Burke. McIntyre wanted to succeed Burke and was being considered his heir apparent. But when the Congressional seat was finally available, it was too late for McIntyre.

The same thing could happen to Harold with Donnelly. Donnelly politically "owns" that Congressional seat and until he decides to give it up no one is going to get him out of it even with dynamite.

Who will be the next one to take the oath as Quincy's mayor?

Only time will tell, for sure. And your guess is as good as anyone's.

But it is something to think about. And a lot of people are doing just that right now.

STEVE TOBIN, son of the former Mayor Arthur Tobin, sat with his father on the rostrum at Monday's inaugural ceremonies. This was seen by observers as further evidence that young Tobin will run for the state representative seat vacated by Thomas Brownell by accept appointment by Gov. Michael Dukakis as an associate justice of Plymouth District Court.

SPEAKING OF BROWNELL, you've got to say he stayed on the job right to the end.

BROWNELL

Brownell, a guest at the inaugural ceremonies, rushed off to the State House where the legislature was trying to complete its session.

Brownell planned to stay in the House through the night if necessary. Then he would announce his resignation, in time to get to the 4 p.m. ceremony Tuesday to take his oath from Dukakis as a judge.

MAYOR McCauley and School Committee chief Frank Anselmo don't always see eye to eye. In fact Anselmo at times has been one of McCauley's severest critics usually in McCauley's dual role as chairman of the School Committee.

ANSELMO

But, that didn't stop McCauley from paying tribute to Anselmo who is a young 89.

McCauley noted that Anselmo is starting his 27th year on the School Committee and that only one other person has had longer service in the city's history – Nathaniel Hunting who served 35 years on School Committee.

McCauley also mused that Anselmo has made a New Year's resolution "not to beat up on the mayor of Quincy."

He added, with a smile, that Anselmo will keep that resolution at least until the second School Committee meeting of the year.

SENATOR PAUL HAROLD had a gift for new City Council President Patricia Toland at Monday's inaugural ceremonies: an engraved gavel.

He has presented similar gavels in the past to former Council Presidents James Sheets, John Lydon and Steve McGrath.

CITY CLERK John Gillis who has been swearing in Quincy mayors and City Council presidents since 1960, administered the oath Monday to Patricia Toland. He then kissed her on the cheek and noted, "That's the first time I ever kissed a City Council president."

GILLIS

Toland, of course, is the first woman in the city's history to hold that post.

Atlantic Advisory Council To Meet

The Atlantic Middle School Parents Advisory Council will meet Jan. 12 at 7:30 p.m. at the school.

Dr. Eileen Anderson will speak on adolescent growth and development with a business meeting following.

Fifth grade parents from area grammar schools are welcome.

QHA Receives $1.7 Million For Housing Modernization

The Executive Office of Communities and Development recently awarded a $1.7 million grant to the Quincy Housing Authority for the rehabilitation of low income housing units in the city.

The award to Quincy is part of astate effort to rehabilitate more than 30,000 units of housing for low income households throughout the state. A total of $85.5 million has been awarded to 191 local housing authorities.

At a press conference at the Quincy Housing Authority, joined by local officials, members of the state legislative delegation, and residents, ECD deputy assistant secretary Joan Patterson presented the award. "On behalf of the Dukakis administration, I am pleased to make this award which will further oureffortsto rehabilitate every state-assisted public housing unit in Massachusetts," he said. "This housing is an invaluable resource which we must maintain so that families, the elderly, and citizens with special needs have access to housing that is decent and affordable."

The $85.5 million awarded is part of the state's 'Modernization Program,' initiated with the passage of the Housing Act of 1983 and designed to provide funds for the rehabilitation of every unit of state-supported public housing unit in need of repair. Over the past five years, in three major housing bills, the state legislature has appropriated $251 million to this effort which has funded rehabilitation work in 565 public housing developments across the state.

QUINCY HOUSING AUTHORITY was recently awarded a $1.7 million grant from the state's Executive Office of Communities and Development for the rehabilitation of low income housing units in Quincy. Looking over award are, seated from left, John Kane, acting executive director of the QHA, Rose Mary Wahlberg, QHA chairman, and Juan Patterson, deputy assistant secretary for EOCD. Standing are Carmine D'Olimpio, Sen. Paul Harold, Kathleen Camara, John Cattaneo and Rep. Michael Morrissey.

The Modernization Program provides funds for such renovation work as window replacements, utility system improvements and painting. Funds are also used to renovate kitchens, to remove lead paint, and to make housing units accessible to the handicapped. In a prepared statement, EOCD secretary Amy Anthony said, "Not only does this program provide funds for essential rehabilitation work, it also pays for design improvements and landscaping which make these developments safer, more energy-efficient, and easier to maintain."

In addition to funds for the rehabilitation of state public housing developments, Anthony noted that Massachusetts has undertaken a unique effort which targets state resources to the renovation of federally-subsidized public housing.

"In an era when affordable housing is so desperately needed, it is unacceptable that the federal government has virtually abandoned its commitment to housing programs and neglected its responsibility to maintain the public housing which it built," she said. "For that reason, we have embarked on this unprecedented effort in Massachusetts - dedicating state funds to rehabilitate federal housing projects--recognizing that we cannot stand idly by while thousands of units stand vacant, an insult to those families in need of decent and affordable housing."

The state has already awarded $35 million for the renovation of federal public housing. An additional $50 million will be awarded to local housing authorities early next year.

Crane Library Designated National Historical Landmark

The 106-year-old library, designed by the world-reknown 19th-century architect H.H. Richardson, was one of 17sites throughout the country named national landmarks by Interior Secretary Hodel Monday.

According to Frank Tirrell, a spokesman for U.S Representative Brian Donnelly, whose district includes Quincy, the designation means the library will be even more eligible for state and federal preservation and restoration funds than it is now.

Tirrell said the Crane Library Board of Directors contacted Rep. Donnelly's office two years ago. A lengthy application process followed with Rep. Donnelly working with the U.S. Department of the Interior to get the library designated a national landmark. Those efforts culminated with Monday's announcement.

The library, known for its high beamed ceiling, wood carvings and stained glass windows, has been listed on the National Register of Historic Places for 16 years and as a result, is eligible for preservation money.

Assistant Library Director Ann McLaughlin said the Crane Library will be assured of even further protection as a designated national landmark.

"It means we have an increased priority for any historic preservation money," McLaughlin said. "It also gives us even greater protection from any buildings that may be erected near our building....We kind of have a halo around us," she said.

The library will receive a certificate and bronze plaque stating its landmark designation.

Young Faith Healer Draws Large Crowds

Jan. 6-12 1926 61 Years Ago

Nelson Loris, 1 16-year-old faith healer from Texas was drawing large crowds to the Adams Shore Evangelical Church at the corner of Albatross and Pelican Rds.

Testimony to the young preacher's healing prowess was given by Mrs. Warren Young of Houghs Neck who said she was completely cured of a spinal injury that had prevented her from washing dishes since 1917.

Mrs. George Church of Norfolk Downs told of how she was cured of neuritis of the feet and back and Mrs. Robert Prescott of Bicknell St., Germantown, reported her stiff knee on the mend.

Delicious Lasagne

Out Of Broken Shells

It was during Christmas dinner when our son Dom said something funny to his sister Rita.

When I asked what was so funny, he said, "Ma's the only one I know that would make lasagne out of broken shells." I had to laugh too. However, when I was stuffing those shells, it wasn't so funny because every other one was broken.

So after arranging the good shells in the baking pans (after all "only" 17 were coming to dinner), I was suddenly left with a sizeable amount of broken ones. Consequently the shell lasagne. And you really couldn't tell when all the cheeses were all blended together. I just thought a lot of you out there can relate to broken shells!

With the shells we had roast stuffed pork, sweet potatoes and regular ones, broccoli and of course we began it all with antipasto. In addition, here's a recipe for a different kind of antipasto, used for many years by my mother, and one which you can put on the side or use it instead of the usual one.

ANTIPASTO

2 Tbsps olive oil
half onion chopped
1 garlic clove (chopped)
2 Tbsps tomato paste
½ tsp cinnamon
smidgen of salt
1 small can pitted black olives
1 small jar green olives
½ can anchovies (optional)
1 can tuna fish
½ jar red pimento peppers
1 small can mushrooms
1 small can string beans small jar vinegar peppers
(use with ½ cup of the juice)
½ tsp parsley, and basil

In a saucepan heat the oil and add the onion, garlic and then the tomato paste with a little water. Add the parsley and basil and cook until blended. Add the cinammon and salt and more water if needed. Then cook for about 15 minutes. Cool. Ad all the other ingredients. Refrigerate and serve anytime. It's a little work, but worth it, you'll see!

Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian-And Then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at That's Italian, Franklin St., South Quincy; Previte's Market, Sumner St., Quincy Point; Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount and Winfield Gift Emporium, Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Crime Watch

By ROBERT HANNA
Crime Prevention Officer
Quincy Police Department

Let's Take A Minute For Victims

How many times have you listened to a conversation about crime - either a newspaper story or the experience of a friend - and heard "He (she) shouldn't have been on that street at night" or "He (she) was asking for trouble."

It's been all too common for society to blame victims and for courts and law enforcement to insensitive to victim needs. We often tend to forget that victims lose more than property: they lose a sense of security and control; they lose days from work or home responsibilities while replacing important documents or testifying in court; and they lose some faith in a civilized society.

If you know someone who has been a victim of crime you can help:

- Be there. Your presence means you care and helps counter feelings of helplessness, guilt, and isolation that victims experience.
- Listen to the victim in a non-judgemental way. Console, don't judge the victim's actions.
- Offer to accompany the victim to the hospital or police station. Help with cooking a meal, babysitting, repairing broken locks or windows, and trips to court.
- Encourage the victim to seek help in coping with emotional and practical problems that result from the victimization. Many communities now offer victim assistance services through the district attorney's office, the police department, the sheriff's office, social service agencies, or self help groups.
- If you see a crime in progress or hear someone screaming for help CALL THE POLICE IMMEDIATELY! You never know, you could be the next victim.

'Now Is The Time' Sermon Topic At Squantum First Church

"Now Is The Time" was the title of the sermon Sunday morning preached at the First Church of Squantum by pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin.

His text was the "Nunc Dimittis."

The Lord's Supper was celebrated at this first service of the new year. Seated with the pastor at the Lord's Table were Deacons Gretchen Bumpus, Dana Olson, Barbara Anderson, Grace Holmes, and Tom Williamson.

The congregation sang "Our God, Our Help in Ages Past," "Ring Out, Wild Bells," "O Come, All Ye Faithful," and "Angels We Have Heard on High." They were accompanied by pianist Janet Williamson and organist Mary Ruth Scott.

The Chancel Choir sang Hutson-Burt's "O Hearken Ye" for the offertory anthem. Other special music was "Ding Dong! Merrily on High."

Janet Sumner and Helen Miller were the greeters for the morning. Tore Wallin and Stewart Scott were the ushers. Doris Longmire and Hazel Mayne hosted the Fellowship Hour.

The annual meeting of the church will be held on Friday, Jan. 15, at 7 p.m. A potluck church supper will precede the meeting at 6 p.m. Annual reports are due now in the church office.

This Sunday, Jan. 10, there will be one worship service for all at 10:30 a.m. Sunday School meets during the service and a nursery is provided.

New Building Inspector To Address QCA

Building Inspector Mathias Mulvey was scheduled to be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Quincy Citizens Association last night (Wednesday) at 8 p.m. at the Montclair Men's Club, Holbrook Rd.

Mulvey was scheduled to discuss building projects in the city, and how the Building Department will operate to assure that zoning ordinances and building codes are obeyed.

At the regular business meeting to follow, the citizens association was scheduled to discuss and vote on a proposal for the city of the MDC to take over the old Quincy Lumber Co. property on Southern Artery for open space.

In February, the association will organize a steering committee to represent the six wards in Quincy.

Board May Allow Self-Service Gas Stations

in Dedham, Needham, Wellesley, Whalen, Braintree, Norwell, Scituate and Cohasset, he said.

In the past, the board has opposed self-service stations for a number of reasons such as the number of senior citizens in Quincy, and safety problems.

Quincy Fire Chief Carl Valenti said he had been strongly against self-service stations. But after considerable investigation, he said he found that self-service stations are safer than full-service stations because of suppression systems used with self-service stations.

Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro, who noted that he operated a gas station for 15 years, said he had also been opposed to self-service stations. But he has changed his mind due to the suppression systems which would suppress any type of fire, DeCristofaro explained.

Quincy Police Chief Francis Finn said he was also originally opposed to self-service stations because of the chances of fire and the loss of employment for gas attendants. Because of changes and lack of employees he can see the values of self service stations.

During the discussion, Fleming said "that from a police standpoint you have a self-contained individual. You don't have someone walking around the station with cash in their pocket. You have everything in a particular area where all the cash is centrally controlled. You have all tanks controlled by one central area that can be shut off at any time."

Chief Finn said he is interested in learning what other self-service stations will provide.

Fleming said, "He is only talking about one gas station in the city and it would be a pure gas station that would only provide gasoline."

Blood Pressure Screenings At Quincy Hospital Jan. 19

Quincy City Hospital will conduct a free blood pressure screening for the public Tuesday, Jan. 19 in the Ambulatory Care Department from 1:30 p.m. to 3 p.m.

The Ambulatory Care Department is located on Hunting-1.

The screenings, performed by nursing staff, will enable individuals to keep track of their blood pressure, and to be aware of dangerous elevations in the pressure. Persons in need of referral to a physician will be advised to do so. Referrals to physicians are possible through the QCH Doctor Directory at the individual's request.

The screenings, which take place at the hospital on the first and third Tuesday of each month, are free of charge. All are welcome to attend.

'Orderly Creation' Sermon At Wollaston Congregational Church

A hymn sing at 9:45 a.m. will precede the morning worship service in the sanctuary at Wollaston Congregational Church Sunday.

Participants will be parishioners and choir led by organist-director, Donald Reade.

The Rev. Elden D.J. Zuern will preach a sermon on the topic "Orderly Creation." Lay scripture reader will be Donald Frazer and acolyte, Tavey L. Towle.

Ushers will be Joseph Sandahl and his daughter Pamela Sandahl. Greeters will be Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gifford.

Church school will be in session from 10-11 a.m. for grades 1-12. Nursery care for infants and toddlers is provided. A fellowship hour will be held in the social hall immediately following the service.

Members and friends of the parish are invited to the annual Festival of Lights Sunday at 7 p.m. at Sacred Heart Church, Hancock St., North Quincy. This service is sponsored each year by the Inter-Church Council of Wollaston and North Quincy.

The Youth Fellowship will meet at the church at 6 p.m. for a short meeting and then proceed to the service at Sacred Heart church.

Ecumenical Feast Of Lights At Sacred Heart Sunday Night

The public is invited to attend the 12th annual Ecumenical Epiphany Feast of Lights Service at Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy, Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

The annual event is sponsored by the Inter-Church Council of North Quincy and Wollaston which lists 12 member congregations.

The service will feature the Eastern Nazarene College A Cappella Choir and Brass Ensemble of 40 voices, marching in under the direction of Prof. Robert Howard, and the Treble Women's Choir of 30 voices, directed by Dr. Susan Welch, plus 10 members of the Hand Bell Ringers, with Prof. Charles Seifert. Organist will be Lambert Brandes of Eastern Nazarene College.

The Rev. A. "Buzz" Wismar of Wollaston Lutheran Church, president of the council, will deliver a brief homily. Clergy and laity from all member churches will participate.

A candle-lighting ceremony is a central feature, the event representing the Light of Christ entering the world and "gradually spreading through time and space. The candle-lighting ceremony climaxes with each worshipper holding a lighted candle to carry forth into the world.

All worshippers are invited to a collation served in the school cafeteria across the street.

Participating churches are First Baptist Church of Wollaston, First Church of Squantum, Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, Memorial Congregational Church, Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church, Star of the Sea Roman Catholic Church, St. Chrysostom's Episcopal Church, Union Congregational Church, Wollaston Church of the Nazarene, Wollaston Lutheran Church, Wollaston Congregational Church, Quincy Community United Methodist Church.

The offering will be used to further the mission of Christ in our community through the work of the Quincy Crisis Center and the Quincy Sheltering Coalition.

The committee stresses that this Feast of Lights is for the entire community and open to the public and that there will be ample room for all who wish to attend.

Epiphany Sunday At Covenant Congregational

In recognition of Epiphany, the sermon by Rev. Fred Lawson of the Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Sts., Sunday will be "Gifts That Cannot Be Exchanged."

The 10:45 a.m. worship service will be preceded by Sunday School, with classes for all ages, nursery through adult, at 9:30 a.m.

Communion will be served by members of the Deaconate: Luisa Dano, Anna Day, Stanley Nelson, and Charles Sylvester.

The choir, directed and accompanied on the organ by Richard Smith, minister of music, will sing "Whence is that Goodly Fragrance" arranged by Baker as introit and "Behold a Star from Jacob Shining" by Mendelssohn. "Gift of Love" arranged by Hopson will be sung by soprano soloist, Luisa Dano.

The organ prelude and postlude will be played by Mr. Smith, who will also play "How Bright Appears the Morning Star" by Pachelbel as offertory.

A nursery is available for children age five and younger. The attendant will be Ida Taylor.

For children up to age 12 there is junior church.

Ushers for January are Stephen Copp, Don Johnson, Carl Sylvester and Anders Wihk.

Both the Christian Education Board and the Deaconate will meet at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, Jan. 8 at the church.

More information about any of the church's activities is available by calling the church office at 479-5728.

'Watch For Centurions' Sermon Topic At Bethany

There will be two worship services Sunday, Jan. 10, at Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center, at 9 a.m. in the chapel and at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary.

The Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will preach the sermon at both services entitled "Watch for Centurions."

Lay scripture readers will be Robert L. Lockwood for the early service and Amy MacLeod Lawton for the late service. The associate minister, Rev. Joel F. Huntington, will assist in leading the worship at both services.

At the sanctuary service, the Chancel Choir under the direction of Peter F. Krasinski, organist, will sing two selections. The anthem will be "Lauda Anima" composed by Mark Andrews and the offertory will be Bach's "Alleluia" from the "Christmas Cantata."

The service will be broadcast "live" at 10 a.m. direct from Bethany's sanctuary, over station WJDA, 1300 kc.

Sunday School will be in session from 10 to 11 a.m. with classes for pre-school through eighth grade. Nursery care is provided for babies and toddlers, under the professional supervision of Pamela Ford Curran, Bethany's early childhood coordinator.

At 11 a.m. there will be a fellowship hour in the Allen Parlor. Individuals and families from the community are welcome to attend the worship service and share in the fellowship hour, and to enroll children in the Sunday School.

For additional information about Bethany's ministry and programs, contact the church office at 479-7300.

Animal League Elections Sunday

The Quincy Animal League will hold its annual election meeting Sunday, Jan. 10, at 2 p.m., at the Quincy Community United Methodist Church, Beale St., Wollaston.

In case of bad weather, the meeting will be held Sunday, Jan. 17. Refreshments will be served. For questions about the weather and the meeting, call John McDuff at 479-8140 at noon Jan. 10 for information.

Human Rights Theme At United First Parish

Human rights and prisoners of conscience will be the theme of the worship service at United First Parish Church, Sunday, Jan. 10, at 10:30 a.m.

The service will reflect the work of Amnesty International from the point of view of a modern religious understanding of the human person. Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett, minister, will deliver the sermon, "Amnesty International: Never to Forget." Visitors are welcome and are invited to attend the social hour following the service.

The church is supporting a local group of Amnesty International. Chartering ceremonies of the local group will take place at its meeting the next night, Monday, Jan. 11 at 7:30 p.m. at the church.

Deirdre Doherty and Brenda Powers, members of the church and charter members of the local group of Amnesty International will participate in the worship service as readers. Norman Corey, church music director, will play organ works by Cabezon, Walcha and Bach, and there will be a guest instrumentalist.

Historic United First Parish Church, "Church of the Presidents," was first settled in 1636 in colonial New England as a Puritan congregational church. An early leader in liberal religious thought and practice, the church has been Unitarian since 1750. It is the church of Presidents John Adams and John Quincy Adams, whose remains rest in granite tombs in a stone crypt within the church, together with those of their respective wives, Abigail and Louisa Catherine.

The church conducts a church school for children and child care is provided.

McCauley Elaborates On Orders To Council

Mayor Francis McCauley held a press conference Tuesday to elaborate on four orders he will submit to the City Council Tuesday, Jan. 19, for its consideration.

The orders, announced by McCauley in his inaugural address Monday morning, regard restricting smoking in eating establishments, requiring property owners to keep their property and adjacent areas clean, a four year term for mayor and city councillors, and a sewer user fee.

McCauley said that the smoking restriction, drafted with the help of Health Commr. M. Jane Gallahue, would require that eating establishments with over 40 seats put aside 25 percent for non-smokers.

Those with under 40 seats would have to put in an acceptable air cleaning device which would cost about $1,000, according to Gallahue.

The Department of Environmental Quality Engineering must also approve the order which would go into effect 90 days later, McCauley said.

Fines to restaurant owners for the first offense would be $50 to $100, said McCauley, and for subsequent offenses, $200 to $500.

"Our intent is not to harass people," he said. "But smoke is a matter of health."

"Personally, I find smoking offensive," said McCauley. "In many other places, persons are asked if they prefer smoking or non-smoking areas."

Miss Gallahue noted the surgeon general's report that passive smoke can cause lung cancer in non-smokers.

She noted that 36 other communities have no smoking restrictions.

McCauley said that the Planning Department may be able to assist restaurant owners with low interest loans for the air cleaning device.

"You can't be proud of a city if you have to walk through trash," said McCauley of the order pertaining to upkeep of property.

He said that he has travelled outside of Quincy as far away as China and has not found such problems with litter.

"We'd like some education in the elementary schools so that young people will think twice before they throw something on the ground," McCauley said.

The mayor said the city has increased its litter cleanup efforts, and needs some help from citizens.

He acknowledged that fast food restaurants generate a lot of litter.

"Cleanliness is everybody's business, not just city government's," said McCauley.

Up to a $100 fine would be assessed to an offender, he said.

"If we get compliance, I would rather not see one fine come in," he said.

McCauley said the home rule petition to increase the terms of office for mayor and city councillors from two to four years would not go into effect until 1991 if it is approved.

He said that it would need approval by the mayor, city council and state legislature before it could be signed by the governor and placed on the ballot in November.

McCauley had made the proposal in 1986, but the city council voted against it.

"It is an action whose time has come," said McCauley. He noted that he has not decided if he will run for a fifth term in two years, but that he will not run for a sixth term in 1991 for a four-year term.

McCauley said he had no figures yet on how much the sewer user fee would cost residents, but will have them for the next City Council meeting.

He said the fee would begin July 1, and residents would receive a sewer and water bill semi-annually.

"We have to recover the sewer cost dealing with Mass. Water Resources Authority assessments," said McCauley.

He said that the city's assessments are rising sharply because of the cleanup of Boston Harbor and Quincy Bay.

McCauley said this year's assesment was $2,655,000, and that amount could go up 35 to 40 percent in 1989.

"That's an awful lot for the city to obsorb," he said.

A survey of 16 communities showed that they all have sewer user fees, according to McCauley.

on the major issue of middle school consolidation will be occurring soon, and hopefully, will end any discussion of school closings for many years to come," she said.

"These issues take time and cause disruption and chaos, but we have always survived and bounced back and will continue to do so."

She proposed to form sub-committees of the school committee to meet biannually with the various groups in the school system to discuss their concerns and ideas on non-collective bargaining issues.

"I also intend to have school committee representation on a regular basis on the student union," she said.

Three new members were sworn in to the City Council. They are Timothy P. Cahill, councillor at large; Lawrence F. Chretien, Ward 3; and Charles J. Phelan, Jr., Ward 5.

Former Ward 5 Councillor Stephen McGrath will now serve as councillor at large.

School Committee members who took the oath of office in addition to Collins are Francis F. Anselmo, who is beginning his 27th year; Stephen J. Durkin, Christopher F. Kennedy, Margaret D. Nigro, and Frank C. Santoro.

Rabbi Jacob Mann, Temple Beth Israel, gave a prayer for guidance.

Tefta Burrelli was swon in as clerk of committees for the School Committee.

McCauley noted that the inauguration was Rep. Brownell's final appearance as state legislator after 16 years.

Brownell was sworn in as an associate justice to the Plymouth District Court Tuesday by Gov. Michael Dukakis.

Barbara Norris On Computer Learning Honor Roll

Collins Says:

School Committee Direction 'Positive And Productive'

Newly elected School Committee vice chairman Mary Collins said during inauguration ceremonies Monday that the direction of the committee will be positive and productive.

"The deliberation and vote on the major issue of middle consolidation will be occurring soon, and hopefully, will end any discussion of school closings for many years to come," she said.

"These issues take time and cause disruption and chaos, but we have always survived and bounced back and will continue to do so," said Collins, who is beginning her 11th year on the School Committee.

She has previously served as school committee vice chairman.

Noting the amount of time the committee spends on collective bargaining, she proposed to form sub-committees of the School Committee to meet biannually with groups in the school system to discuss their concerns and ideas on non-collective bargaining issues.

Collins said she also intended to have School Committee representation on a regular basis on the student union.

"Since its inception, the Quincy Public School system has been noted for excellence, even in difficult times, it has been a source of pride for the city and a drawing card for new residents.

"Our goal in the next two years is to continue this proud tradition, building on the past and taking a creative and energetic approach to the future.

"Happily, there is presently growing support in our community for public education, indicating a genuine desire to preserve and improve the school system.

"Our three new councillors being sworn in today, as well as our incumbent councillors, have indicated their concern and support for education.

"It is my hope to see the City Council Education Committee, that was formed two years ago by Councillor Stephen McGrath, become a more viable and informed on the operation of the school system.

He is "working very hard and has new ideas which should start coming to fruition shortly on issues in which the School Committee and community has had high interest over the years," she said.

She also noted that School Committee member Frank Anselmo is starting his 27th year of service.

"Frank has been an unselfish public servant and made a major contribution to the community," she said.

In addition to thanking other School Committee members, Collins expressed appreciation to Mayor Francis McCauley for his continuing support, "especially during trying financial times."

"I look forward to a continuing good relationship with the Mayor's office," she said.

Collins also noted that she was happy to be serving with Toland, a close friend, both personally and in government.

"I wish her the best and hope to be working closely with her," Collins said.

Harold Seeks Directional Signs To Registry

State Senator Paul D. Harold has asked the Registry of Motor Vehicles to install directional signs to help motorists find the new Registry office at Quincy Fair in downtown Quincy, scheduled to open in January.

In a letter to Registrar Robert M. Hutchinson, Senator Harold noted that the public is likely to have some trouble finding the new office, which will be located in the old Sears Roebuck building, on the rear Parkingway side.

Harold said it would be advantageous if the directional signs were posted as quickly as possible to coincide with the mid-January opening.

Thanks

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

D. Scott Deware

It has been said that life without friendship is like the sky without the sun.

We all know people that for one reason or another we don't really like. Have you ever stopped to ask the reason why? You may not like his attitudes, his selfishness, his stubbornness, his insincerity. But might is just be that he is not feeding your ego! ...

All of us can be quite tolerant of people's faults, but often what really irritates us is that they make no effort ot defer to us or to flatter us ... it is human nature to like people who cheer us, who tell us that we are better than we are ... who make us feel better ... who overlook our insufficiencies ... but such people sometimes are not very helpful and sometimes are not 'true friends.'

Couldn't it be said that a true friend is one who has the courage to disagree with us when we are in the wrong, and advise us for our own good rather than let his sympathy or sentimentality cause him to agree? ... Couldn't it also be said that the best way to have friends is to be one? ...

Raiders Win First Holiday Tourney

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy boys' basketball team, under first-year head coach Ted Stevenson, is off to a fast start and, having won the fifth annual holiday tournament last week for the first time in history, took a 5-2 record into the first Suburban League game Tuesday night against Brockton.

Following the league opener against a perennial league power, the Raiders will play at Newton North Friday night at 7:30 and will be home to another league power, Cambridge Rindge and Latin, Tuesday at 5 p.m.

North clinched its first holiday tournament title last Saturday night with a 68-59 victory over Weymouth North.

Teddy Stevenson, named the tournament's Most Valuable Player, had another big night with 17 points, 11 assists and five steals.

B.J. Sylva, named to the all-tournament team, led the offense with 21 points.

"Everyone played a fine game and if we continue to play like that, we should hold our own against Brockton and anyone else," said Stevenson. "Derek Goodman came off the bench and scored 10 points and Billy MacDougall, who scored the winning basket in our first tournament game, had eight points.

"Dave Lawless has been playing hurt and seeing limited action, but he has played very well. He played excellent defense and had six rebounds in only a little over a quarter."

North squeezed by Weymouth South, 43-42, in the opening game of the tournament, with MacDougall scoring the winning basket with 30 seconds left in the game.

The basket by MacDougall, who scored six of his eight points in the final quarter, gave the Raiders a 43-40 lead.

Stevenson had 11 points and six assists from Stevenson, while Sylva and Mike Ainsley had nine points each.

Stevenson had five three-point baskets in the tournament. He is becoming one of the best three-point shots in the area and earlier, in a practice game against Hyde Park, he hit 11 in a row.

Presidents Look For New Start

Although the Quincy boys' basketball team lost both games in last week's fifth annual holiday tournament to drop its record to 0-6, coach John Franceschini is pleased with the performance of several players and with the continuous hustle of the team.

The Presidents were scheduled to open the Suburban League season Tuesday night against Waltham. They will host Brookline Friday night at 7:30 and will play at Brockton Tuesday night at 7:30.

Dan Biagini, who has been the Presidents' outstanding all-around player, scored 15 points and the team's leading scorer, sophomore Joe Russell, had 10. Nick Dragone Russell, had 10. Nick Dragone also had 10.

In the tournament opener Quincy lost to Weymouth North, 73-57.

Biagini also led the offense in that game with 12 points and Russell scored 11.

"The boys continue to hustle at all times and in four of our six games we outscored the opponents in the second half," said Franceschini. "Our big problem is in the second quarter when we just can't seem to score and we give the other teams a 12-13 point edge which we can't overcome.

"Biagini has been a real steady player all season and was named to the all-tournament team. He is our second leading scorer with an average of 9.9 points a game, is the second leading rebounder and leads the team in steals.

"Russell has done a fine job and is averaging 10.3 points a game. He has hit on 60 percent of his three-point tries. Chris Noble is having an excellent season and leads the team in rebounds.

"Our youth program is beginning to pay off and our freshman team is undefeated. We still have shooting problems, but we are improving and we could pull a few surprises before the season is over."

North Jayvees 6-0

The North Quincy boys' junior varsity basketball team, under first-year coach Ged Phelan, went into its scheduled Suburban League opener against Brockton Tuesday night with a 6-0 record against non-league opponents.

North opened with a 61-53 win over Everett with Anthony Rinetta's 10 second-half points leading the way. Eric DeBoer and Matt Sumner combined for 27 points.

North then rolled over Malden, 64-41, led by Sumner's 21 points. Jeff Powers, 6-5 junior, had 10 points and 10 rebounds.

DeBoar had 19 points in a 73-59 decision over Arlington, while Jeff Calvert had 10 points and 10 assists and Dave Cawthorne had 10 points.

North topped Peabody, 64-43, led by Danny McLean's 12 points.

The Raiders edged Taunton, 71-70, in overtime. With no time left on the clock, Jim Bryan's half-court three-point shot went in to send the game into OT. Angelo Kyranis led North with 19 points, Sumner had 12 and DeBoer 12 points and 18 rebounds.

Phelan, who coached the freshmen last year, credits hard work, solid defense and all-around team play for the early success.

"We have 19 players and all of them are pulling for each other," said Phelan, a former North star himself. "These kids are a credit to their parents and their school and a pleasure to work with."

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Quincy hockey team, off to its best start in several years, defeated Somerville, 4-2, last Saturday night to finish with a 5-2 record against Greater Boston League teams and, with three wins in a row, had some momentum going into the scheduled Suburban League opener last night (Wednesday) against Waltham at the Quincy Youth Arena.

Bob Sylvia's Presidents will play Newton North Saturday at the Watertown Rink and will face North Quincy next Wednesday night at 6:40 at the Youth Arena.

The win over Somerville capped a perfect week for Quincy, which swept three games.

O'Neil scored in the second period with Eric Abboud and LaForest assisting, Scola had the third goal with assists for LaForest and Wayne Chambers, and Rod Davis had the final goal with Chuck Quigley and Tim Mann having the assists.

"Scola and LaForest have been outstanding and have spearheaded the high scoring first line," said assistant coach George Peachey. "And Greg Chambers has done an excellent job in goal."

Karl Staskiewicz scored two goals and Chambers, O'Neil, Scola, LaForest, Ken Staskiewicz and Mann had one each.

LaForest had four assists. Ken Staskiewicz three, Cotter two and Don Burke, Scola and Abboud one each.

Earlier in the week Quincy opened up a 4-0 lead in the first period and went on to defeat Peabody, 8-2.

Scola and Chambers had two assists each and Abboud, Ken Staskiewicz, Mann, O'Neil and Davis one apiece.

"We accomplished what Bob (Sylvia) had hoped for, winning five of our seven games against Greater Boston League teams," said Peachey. "Arlington and Medford (which defeated Quincy), have particularly strong teams, as strong as any we will face, and I feel we will do well in the Suburban League this year."

North Romps Over Revere, 8-0

The North Quincy hockey team was scheduled to open its Suburban League season last night (Wednesday) at Brockton.

The Raiders, with a 5-2 record against Greater Boston League teams, already have more wins than a year ago when they were 4-14-1.

Kevin Jago's North team ended its pre-league schedule against the GBL with an 8-0 romp over Revere last Saturday night.

The Raiders will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin Saturday night at 7:50 at the Youth Arena and will face Quincy, which has the same record, next Wednesday night at 6:40 at the Youth Arena.

Sophomore Joey Fasano, who has been outstanding all season, had a hat trick. Furtado, Jay Rodrigues and Dineen two goals apiece and Bobby Kane, Connolly and Marty Feeney one each.

Earlier North had suffered its second defeat, 5-1, at the hands of GBL power Medford. The only other loss was to the GBL's top team, Arlington, always one of the best teams in the state.

Sun, Johnson In Squirt House Finals

The first place Quincy Sun was scheduled to meet Johnson Motor Parts Tuesday in the finals of the Squirt House League jamboree.

In the semifinals the Sun topped Burgin Platner, 8-2, paced by Scott MacPherson's four goals. Brendan Mulcahy had two and Josh Wingate and Robbie Callow one each. Wingate had six assists, Mulcahy five, MacPherson three and Sean MacDonald one. Timmy Kane and J.J. Farrell scored for Burgin and Jim Gallagher had an assist.

Johnson edged Doran & Horrigan, 3-1, on two goals by Joe McPhee and one by Ronnie McGann. Jamie Murphy and McGann had two assists each, Pat Donovan scored for Doran and John Wintergreen and Marc Glennon had assists.

Harold, Balducci In Mite House Showdown

The last place Paul Harold Club and Balducci's were scheduled to meet Tuesday in the Mite House League jamboree finals at the Youth Arena.

Balducci's blanked Lydon-Russell, 5-0, sign John Barron having two goals and Pat McGann, Kevin Regan and Brian Gates one each. Mike Gallagher, Bill Barron and Joe Bracken had assists.

Keohane's, UCT In Pee Wee House Finals

League-leading Keohane's and UCT were slated to meet Tuesday night in the finals of the Pee Wee House League jamboree.

Keohane's edged Colonial Federal, 3-2, on Matt McGowan's goal in overtime. John Lewis and Jim Cipriano had the other goals. Lewis had two assists and Kevin Barrett one. Joe Carinci had both goals for Colonial Federal and Aidan O'Donoghue and Mark Zych had assists.

UCT edged Bersani Brothers, 5-4, on goals by Jamie Schatzl, Joe Koceniak, Lou Bertucci, Scott Wysocki and Kevin Boylen. Brian Fitzgerald, Matt O'Toole, Mike Grant, Mike Kelly, Wysocki, Brian Connolly, Boylen and Mike Flaherty had assists. Kevin Mantville had two goals and John McGowan and Jimmy Smith one each for Bersani. Steve Des Roche had two assists and Smith, Danny Grant, Mike Des Roche and Brian Kelley one each.

Squirt B's Sweep 3, Bow In Tourney Semifinals

The Quincy Squirt B hockey team swept its first three games in the annual North Quincy K. of C. tournament at the Quincy Youth Arena before losing to state champion Framingham, 3-1, in the semifinals.

In their third game the team blanked Medford, 7-0, as goalies Mike Manganaro and Joe MacLennan were outstanding and Dan Mann and Ron McGann had two goals each. McGann's second came on a beautiful move on a penalty shot in the third period. Steve Barrett, Tim Kunz and Robbie Callow had one goal each.

Framingham went on to top Weymouth for the tournament championship.

Returning to Greater Boston League action, the Squirt B's faced their old nemesis, Canton, on a night when every member of the team had played one or two games in the Quincy House League jamboree.

The team was tired and flat and lost, 5-2, for its first loss in open league competition. Quincy fell behind, 3-0, early, before Barrett scored off feeds from Mann and McGann. Jimmy Gallagher scored the other goal with Kunz and Carthas assisting.

The Squirt B's had advanced to the K of C. tournament quarterfinals with wins over Swansea-Wompatuck-Somerset, 10-0, and the South Shore Seahawks, 3-1.

Quincy broke open a close game against S-W-S with five unanswered goals in the second period. Dan Mann, Chris Geary and Ron McGann had two goals apiece and A.J. Carthas, Jim Gallagher, Tim Kunz and R.J. DiMattia one each. Steve Barrett and Dan Boylen had two assists each and Mann, Jim Keegan, Jamie Murphy and Robbie Callow one apiece.

Against the Seahawks McGann gave Quincy a quick lead and the score remained 1-0 into the third period when the Seahawks tied it up. Mann scored the game-winner on a rebound and Geary scored on a short-handed breakaway. Barrett had two assists and McGann and Callow one each. Goalies Mike Manganaro and Joe MacLennan were outstanding.

In Greater Boston League play the Squirt B's rallied from two goals down to tie Wellesley, 2-2, and stay unbeaten in the "open" division.

Second period goals by Gallagher and Carthas, with Kunz and Murphy assisting, tied the score.

Quincy coach Rich Reinhardt had special praise for his shorthanded squad of four defensemen, Barrett, Keegan, DiMattia and Eric Griffin, all of whom worked double shifts to hold off a bigger and more experienced Wellesley team.

Earlier the team started its "open league" competition with a 9-3 victory over Charlestown and a 6-0 win over Brookline.

Against Charlestown the Squirt B's broke open a close game with three goals within 20 seconds midway through the second period.

Chris Geary and Ron McGann had hat tricks and Steve Barrett, Robbie Callow and Dan Mann had a goal each. Barrett had five assists, McGann, Mann and Jamie Murphy two each and Geary one.

After scoring off his third shot on a breakaway, Callow had a second breakaway where he was hauled down from behind by a Brookline player. Within 10 seconds after the penalty was assessed, he broke through the defense off a faceoff, circled the net and set up a beautiful goal by Barrett to put the game out of reach. McGann also had a goal and Geary, R.J. DiMattia and A.J. Carthas had assists.

In an earlier game Quincy had overwhelmed Canton's No. 3 team, 16-0, as Manganaro and MacLennan recorded their fourth shutout.

Jimmy Gallagher had four goals and McGann, Callow and Carthas a hat trick each. Jim Keegan, Jamie Murhy and Dan Boylen had a goal apiece. Callow, Mann and Jason Fennelly had three assists apiece, Eric Griffin, Geary, Carl Dobbins and Keegan two each and McGann and Tim Kunz one apiece.

Mike O'Connell scored two goals to lead Adams Sports to a 6-1 victory over Emmott's Electric in Executive Hockey League action Monday night at the Youth Arena.

Paul O'Brien, Paul Hurley, Skip Maganaro and Freddie Ahearn had the other goals. Dennis O'Connell had two assists and Billy Hanson and Bibby Lewis one each. Ralph Gibbs scored for Emmott's with Marty Tolson assisting.

The Jago brothers and the Boyle father/son duo teamed up to spark Beacon Sports' 4-1 win over Bob White's Place. Mark Jago scored with brother Kevin assisting, Kevin scored unassisted, and Art Boyle scored twice with son Artie assisting on each. Jim Connolly scored for White's with Kevin Lewis assisting.

DiMattia's Sailmakers were awarded a 1-0 forfeit win over South Shore Bearing.

Dave Connell and Dave Mullen had the other goals. Stan Lisowski had two assists and Connell, Connolly, Rich Gibbs, Jim Gilmore and goalie Ralph DiMattia one each. Mike Maganaro and Joe Flibbotte scored for White's with each assisting on the other's goal.

Beacon Sports and Adams Sports battled to a 5-5 tie as Artie Boyle and Chuck Behenna had two goals each for Beacon and Jack Crowley and Paul Hurley had two each for Adams. Kevin Jago had Beacon's other goal and Dennis O'Connell scored the other for Adams. Art Boyle and Joe Verlicco had two assists each for Beacon and Artie Boyle and Ed Farren one apiece. Hurley had three and Crowley, O'Connell and Kevin Cobban one each for Adams.

Jack Aldred had a hat trick as South Shore Bearing rolled over Emmott's Electrical, 9-1. Chip Linscott had two goals and Ken Gardiner, Larry O'Connor, Jack Hurley and Steve Dyment one each. Dyment, John Farren, Hurley, Gardiner, goalie Chuck Hughes, Bob Carroll (3), Don Bonito and Kevin Noone had assists. Dick McCabe scored for Emmott's with Rick Coleman assisting.

Raiderettes Win Third Straight Holiday Tourney

The North Quincy girls' basketball team won its third straight holiday tournament championship at Weymouth North last Saturday, improving its record to 5-1.

Paul Bregoli's Raiderettes edged Weymouth South, 42-41, in overtime in its opener, then topped host Weymouth North, 39-21, in the title game.

The North girls were scheduled to open their Suburban League season Tuesday at Brockton. They will host Newton North Friday at 5 p.m and will play at Cambridge Rindge and Latin next Tuesday at 5.

North took a 10-9 lead after a quarter against Weymouth South with Nancy Flukes and Weymouth's Terri Ahlstrom hitting for five points each. Patty Feeney did a fine job covering Ahlstrom in a box and one defense.

Flukes increased the lead to 14-9 with a wing jumper and two free throws Rita Rooney made two free throws and then made a great pass to Kerri McDonald for a basket as North took a 20-16 lead at halftime.

Melissa Miles and Tarra Meyer both did excellent work on the boards and on defense.

Rooney took a feed from Feeney for a basket and then proceeded to hit for six more points including a pretty turnaround in the lane. North held a 32-26 advantage going into the final quarter.

The Raiderettes shooting went cold in the fourth quarter as they did not score a field goal. Two free throws each from Stacey Welch, Flukes and Karrie Pistorino, plus a Rooney free throw, was all North could manage. Still, they led by four with less than a minute to go before Weymouth tied it up with four seconds left.

Paula Tolson hit a long jumper and then hit one of two from the foul line to give North the victory.

Rooney led the way with 14 points, six rebounds and five steals, while Flukes finished with 11 points, seven rebounds, four assists and four steals.

In the championship game the Raiderettes hit six of their first seven shots and jumped out to a 12-2 lead. Beth Bunker got North off hitting a 15-footer and Tolson hit four long jumpers.

North's offense sputtered in the second quarter by the defense led by Kellene Duffy, Miles and Meyer, shut out the Maroons without a field goal until there was only 2:30 left in the second quarter. North led, 19-10, at the half.

Feeney's baseline jumper, and a steal for two free throws kept the Maroons at bay. Flukes hit a jump shot at the buzzer as the Raiderettes took a 29-16 lead into the final session.

Karin Reister played well and blocked a shot early in the quarter. Tolson and McDonald combined for eight four-quarter points.

Tolson led all scorers with 14 points, Flukes added 12 points, seven rebounds and four steals, Feeney had six points and three assists and two steals and six assists.

"It is a great start being 5-1 going into the league season," said Bregoli. "Although Flukes has carried most of the offensive load, all the other players are contributing something in each game. This will be important as we go along as teams in our league will be keying on Nancy."

The Quincy girls lost two heartbreakers in the tournament, bowing to Weymouth North, 40-38, and to Weymouth South, 41-38, dropping their record to 2-4.

Prior to the tournament the North girls broke even against Greater Boston League opponents, defeating Arlington, 48-40, but losing to Peabody, ranked number eight in Eastern Mass., 56-41.

North went five minutes without scoring against Arlington before Flukes hit two free throws. Tolson then scored the team's final nine points of the first quarter giving North an 11-7 lead. Meyer and Rooney played tough defense in the quarter.

North's defensive pressure increased in the second quarter led by Miles. The Raiderettes ran off seven straight points including a Welch baseline jumper and Flukes' five points. However, North got careless and Arlington came back to score 16 unanswered points to take a 23-20 halftime edge.

Arlington's three-quarter court trap continued to bother the Raiderettes as it increased its lead to 28-20. However, North came back to tie the game at 30 on Flukes' three-point play on a driving layup. Another Flukes three-point play gave North a 33-32 edge going into the final quarter.

Bunker came up with two steals and two rebounds early in the quarter. Tolson hit a jump shot and Rooney hit on a turnaround in the lane. Flukes made four free throws and Rooney took a feed from Patty Feeney and scored to give North its final eight-point edge.

Flukes had a career high 26 points including a school record 14 free throws to go along with six rebounds. Tolson finished with 14 points and six rebounds and Kellene Duffy played an excellent floor game.

The Raiderettes fell behind early at Peabody and could never make up the difference. After Flukes gave North a 2-0 lead, the Tanners ran off seven points in a row. Two baskets by Rooney and a free throw by Feeney kept North within four until late in the quarter when Peabody extended its lead to 16-7.

Rooney picked up her third foul early and was replaced by Bunker, who did a fine job. Kerri McDonald came in to give the Raiderettes a defensive spark.

North was hurt by turnovers and poor shooting. Only Flukes hit for double figures, scoring 22 points, while Feeney added six.

"Defensively we are doing a lot of good things, but I am concerned about our offensive output," said Bregoli. "Our shooting and ball handling were not good against Arlington and Peabody. Duffy played well in relief of Karrie Pistorino as did Flukes. Bunker also showed flashes of her ability in the loss to Peabody. I look for us to get much better as the season progresses."

North Quincy Branch Library Plans Spring Poetry Workshop

The Thomas Crane Public Library North Quincy branch will host a spring poetry workshop during March and April.

The eight-session workshop, limited to 15 South Shore area poets, will be based upon their original poetry.

In the spring poetry workshop, participants will create new poetry and actively participate in discussions of their work in an informal class environment. The workshop will be led by Lynn R. Feingold, a Stoughton poet, who recently organized a series of open poetry readings in five South Shore communities, including Quincy.

The workshop will be free of charge to participants and is open to the public. This project is funded by a grant from the Massachusetts Arts Lottery, as administered by the Quincy Arts Lottery Council, and preference will be given to Quincy residents. After that, spaces will be made available on a first-come, first-served basis to South Shore poets who are either actively writing poetry or just need a "nudge" to get going again.

Workshop participants will be expected to create new poetry in response to class assignments, and to bring enough copies of their new poetry for everyone to study. Each meeting will feature informal discussions by workshop participants on technique, form, theme, tone, rhythm and use of language in the newly-created poetry. As a result of these discussions, revisions may be undertaken by the poets. Other special subjects to be discussed will include reading poetry aloud and publishing poetry.

Pre-registration for this workshop is necessary by January 30, 1988. If you are interested in being a participant, please write to Lynn R. Feingold, Spring Poetry Workshop, 860 Turnpike St., Stoughton, MA 02072 for a registration form.

YMCA Strypers Boys Swimming In Good Performance

The South Shore Y.M.C.A. Strypers boys' swim team recently faced the Andover-North Andover Y team with several outstanding performances.

The E team (under 8) came from behind to win, 36-32, led by Paul Zukauskas, who won the 25-yard freestyle (14.50) and the 50-yard freestyle (35.57).

James M. Keyes won the 100-yard individual medley (1:34.86) and 25-yard backstroke (19.42).

For the D team (9-10) James Morrelli, Steven Leonard, Tom Zukauskas and Jay Magno won the 200-yard freestyle (2:29.50) and Morelli took seconds in the 50 freestyle (36.17) and 50-yard breaststroke (47.76). Zukauskas was third in the 50 freestyle (36.84) and 100 freestyle (1:24.54).

The B team (13-14) took solid 49-39 win with the relay team of David Cangiano, Michael Martorano, Paul Ketchum and Richard Doyle winning in 1:47.53 to clinch the win.

Cagiano won both the 100 freestyle (58.65) and 100 backstroke (1:09.79) and Martorano won the 200 individual medley and took second in the 100 freestyle (1:00.38). Doyle won the 200 freestyle (2:03.97) and Chip Anderson was second (2:31.97).

The A team (5-18) won, 30-10, with Brian Kowalski winning the 50 freestyle (24.15), and Brian Tilden placing second (25.54), Eric Stenfors winning the 100 freestyle (58.39), and Tim Roche taking second (59.48), and Kowalski, Roche, Tilden and Stenfors winning the 400 freestyle relay (3:55.7).

The girls team defeated Nashua, N.H., with the E team continuing undefeated in Div. 1 competition, winning, 41-26.

The 100 medley relay team of Meredith Curley, Blakie and Meaghen Powers won in 1:26.24. Blakie won the 100 individual medley (1:33.44) and the 25 butterfly (17.97). The 100 freestyle relay team of Powers, Jill Stonehouse, Melissa Tansey and Salerno won (1:15.65).

Mayor's Fireside Chat On Cabletalk Thursday

Quincy Community Television's "Cabletalk" program will begin its new season with the sixth annual Mayor's Fireside Chat Thursday, at 9 p.m. on Ch. 3.

Program host John Noonan visited Mayor Francis McCauley at his home and discussed four new proposals for 1988. They are a sewer user fee, a four-year term for city councillors and mayors, an anti-smoking ordinance for restaurants and cleanliness ordinance for home and business owners.

Clare Annswell's Starscope

WEEK OF: January 7

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
You pursue goals with determination and tend to be business oriented. Some criticize you for being "too practical" and a bit more imagination in your life would do no harm. The coming 12 months accent a broadening of both your interests and your friendship circle.

AQUARIUS – January 21 - February 19
Behind the scenes, individuals are promoting you. Information from various places piles up; it's important to sort it out promptly. You may be involved in politics.

PISCES – February 20 - March 20
The week sees you involved in debates and earning praise for your public speaking abilities. Money matters take up much time as the new year gets underway.

ARIES – March 21 - April 20
You become involved in an admirable cause, but expect a few hurdles along the way. Virgo may be stepping into the friendship picture. Budgets benefit from a thorough review.

TAURUS – April 21 - May 22
A stubborn streak may surface at an inopportune time, but otherwise the week is generally positive. Bargain hunting, hobbies, and education prove favorable pursuits.

GEMINI – May 23 - June 21
You're especially charismatic at this time, but don't rely exclusively on your charm. Competition may heat up at the workplace. New friend shares your values.

CANCER – June 22 - July 22
As the new year gets underway, a truce – largely owing to your diplomatic skills – is called. Opportunity to earn extra cash may open up. You're in the limelight.

LEO – July 23 - August 22
Organizational skills are particularly noteworthy, winning you praise from on high. A major social event may be announced this week. Friend proves surprisingly enthusiastic.

VIRGO – August 23 - September 22
Loved ones may be prone to exaggeration, but their heart is in the right place. You become more assertive in general; don't hesitate to ask for your due.

LIBRA – September 23 - October 22
Home life becomes hectic, with unexpected guests and obligations. Weekend offers an unplanned travel opportunity. Partnership arrangements are generally favored.

SCORPIO – October 23 - November 21
Imagination is your strong suit, assisting you in both career projects and personal dealings. Neighbors are uncommonly cooperative. Family responsibilities are shared more evenly.

SAGITTARIUS – November 22 - December 22
Week sees you collecting overdue debts and balancing budgets. Persistence pays off as you pursue a career goal. Platonic friendships are highlighted through this period.

CAPRICORN – December 23 - January 20
Budgeting is important as expenses may be higher than planned. Cooperation from an unexpected source is a pleasant surprise. Writing skills are sharp; put them to good use.

BORN THIS WEEK
January 7th, actor Vincent Gardenia. 8th, actress Yvette Mimieux. 9th, actress Susannah York. 10th, singer Gisele MacKenzie. 11th, actor Rod Taylor. 12th, actress Patsy Kelly. 13th, actor Charles Nelson Reilly.

Panel Named To Make F

35 Nominated ... Sun ... itizen Of Year'

Thirty-five persons have been nominated for The Quincy Sun's third annual "Citizen of the Year Award."

A special panel of judges has been appointed by Sun publisher Henry Bosworth to select the final winner from the 37 nominees submitted by Sun readers.

Named to the panel were:

Dr. Clayton Johnson, president of Quincy Junior College; Senator Paul Harold, School Committee vice- chairwoman Mary Collins, City Clerk John Gillis, Carmela Corbin, president North Quincy Business and Professional Association; Bernie Reisberg, City Harbormaster, businessman and past president Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, John DeCarli, president Quincy Sons of Italy; Thomas McDonald, past state VFW commander and past commander George Bryan VFW Post; and Ruth Wainwright, long-time community volunteer and winner of last year's Citizen of the Year Award.

The panel will begin its deliberations tomorrow (Friday). The final winner is expected to be announced next week.

The award was established by The Sun in 1985 to recognize an individual for outstanding community service or achievement.

Prior winners are Tony Siciliano, Deputy Director of Civil Defense and Ruth Wainwright for long-time community service.

Everyone nominated is considered for the honor. The award does not necessarily go to the person receiving the most nominations. A person receiving only one nomination is equally considered.

The Sun's award is unique in that the public is invited to participate.

Sun readers nominated those they feel worthy of the recognition. Then the panel of judges makes the final selection from among those nominated.

"This gives the community input in the choice from beginning to the final selection," Bosworth notes.

"We appreciate the response on the part of our readers in submitting nominations.

"And we also appreciate those who have accepted appointment as judges. Their task, like judges before them, is not going to be easy. There are some outstanding nominees again this year. Selecting the final winner will be no easy matter."

Toland Names Chairmen

McGrath, Cheney Head Top Council Committees

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

City Councillors Stephen McGrath and Michael Cheney were named chairmen of key committees at a press conference held Tuesday by council president Patricia Toland in the Council Chambers at City Hall.

McGrath, former council president, was named Finance Committee chairman, a post he has held previously, according to Toland.

Vice chairman is Thomas Nutley.

Cheney was appointed Ordinance Committee chairman and will continue monitoring the zoning code which was revised last year, Toland said.

Nutley was also appointed vice chairman of the ordinance committee.

Toland explained that there was some lobbying for chairmanships.

"But I talked with everyone and came to a consensus.

"Some choices jumped out at you. I think everyone is satisfied," she said.

Toland joked that the appointments are for two years "if they behave."

Committee meetings are held at the discretion of the chairmen, and usually precede the regular city council meetings held the first and third Monday of the month she explained.

"The committee meetings are where the most interesting discussions take place," Toland said.

Other appointments of chairmen and vice chairmen are:

Public Works, Theodore DeCristofaro (who has held the post for the past six years), James Sheets.

Oversight, Nutley, Timothy Cahill.

Disposal and Sanitary, Sheets, Larry Chretien.

Downtown and Economic Development, Cahill, McGrath.

Public Safety, Charles Phelan, DeCristofaro.

State and Federal Funds, McGrath, Chretien.

McCauley Seeks Ordinance For Self-Service Gas Stations

Mayor Francis McCauley will introduce an ordinance change to the City Council Tuesday night which would allow self-service gas stations in Quincy.

If the change is approved by the council, the License Board would approve or disapprove the stations in individual cases, explained McCauley.

The ban had originally been enacted years ago at the urging of former Fire Chief Edward Barry because of safety reasons, the mayor said.

However, the License Board, including the new fire chief, recently indicated it may be changing its opinion of self-service gas stations.

"I see no problems with self serve gas stations," said McCauley. "But I didn't want to submit this over the objections of the fire chief."

McCauley said one gas station owner has contacted him to urge the change.

At a recent informal hearing of the License Board, Atty. Robert Fleming, who represented another station, Merit Oil, discussed the possibility of changing Merit's full-service gas station in North Quincy to a self-serve station.

The North Quincy Merit station is the only one owned by that company that is not self-serve, according to Fleming.

Fire Chief Carl Valenti said he had been strongly against self-serve stations. But after considerable investigation, he said he found that self-serve stations are safer than full-service stations because of (fire) suppression systems.

Police Chief Francis Finn also said he had been opposed because of the chances of fire and the loss of employment for gas station attendants. But because of changes and lack of employees, Finn said he could now see the value of self serve.

No Changes In 'Official Family'

Mayor Francis McCauley announces that members of his administration will be sworn-in by City Clerk John Gillis Monday, Feb. 1 at 9 a.m., in the mayor's office.

The following have been reappointed to one year terms, expiring on the first Monday in February 1989: Joseph A. MacRitchie, City Solicitor; Robert Quinn, Assistant City Solicitor; Donald W. Hansen, Assistant City Solicitor; Paul Barbadoro, Legal Counsel to the Quincy Police Department; Paul N. Anderson, Commissioner of Public Works Department; David Colton, Deputy Commissioner of Public Works Department; Robert F. Denvir, Purchasing and Parking Agent; Richard H. Meade, Planning Director.

Also, David A. Kinnecom, Traffic Engineer; Robert Brennan, Director of Data Processing; David H. Smith, Director of Personnel; Dana Childs, Treasurer-Collector; Jane Reikard, Executive Secretary of the Rent Grievance Board; Heather Sargent, Conservation Enforcement Officer; Barry Welch, Director of Recreation; John F. Koegler, Superintendent of Forestry; and Elmer Fagerlund, Assessor, appointed to a three year term expiring on the first Monday in February, 1991.

Permits Issued For $3,656,637 In Construction

The Building Department issued 104 permits for construction estimated to cost $3,656,637 during the month of December.

Building Inspector Mathias Mulvey said that $62,798 was received in permit fees, and $2,235 for public safety inspections.

A total of seven dwelling units were added through new construction, and 22 through alteration.

Permits were issued for four, one-family dwellings estimated to cost $414,000, and one, three-family dwelling at $120,000.

There was one permit for storage at $150,000, 70 residential alterations at $741,165; 11 other alterations, $331,900; five removals, $24,500; five signs, $1,675; and seven miscellaneous, $1,873,397.

In December, 1986, 113 permits had been issued for work estimated to cost $24,097,623.

Gillig Sells Three McDonald's, Will Open Own Restaurants

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Steve Gillig recently sold his three Quincy and Weymouth McDonald's restaurants to the parent corporation, but he's not leaving the business.

Gillis, 34, who owned the McDonald's with his father, John, plans to open drive-thru, fast food restaurants called "U-Turn" on the South Shore. Possibly by the end of the year.

The restaurants, which he will operate with brother Jack and Roy, and sister, Chris Anne, will offer such items as burgers, hot dogs, pizza and salad for take-out only, from about 10-11 a.m. to 11 p.m.-midnight.

Once the restaurants are established, Gillig plans to expand to home delivery of some items, and then to meals which can be bought, brought home, heated and eaten later.

STEVE GILLIG

"We think there is a market for this type of restaurant," said Gillig, a resident of Carver.

"McDonald's, Burger King, and Wendy's have turned into full service restaurants with playgrounds for the kids, a big dining room, salads, sandwiches and breakfast.

"They changed from the way they started out originally with six things on the menu and no seating.

"Where they were and where they are now is completely different.

"We want to offer fast, friendly service and good food."

Gillis has had plenty of experience in the fast food business.

He and his father purchased the North Weymouth McDonald's on Bridge St. 13 or 14 years ago, and built the Quincy restaurant on Southern Artery in 1979 and the North Quincy business on Hancock St. in 1985.

All three were sold to McDonald's Corporation effective Jan. 5, for an undisclosed price, according to Gillig.

"Business was excellent, but we had problems with staffing," said Gillig.

"It was very difficult to get employees.

"The nature of the business has changed a lot, too.

"It used to be quick service, then breakfast, then salads.

"The decisions were made on the national level. Some ideas are correct on the national level, but not locally.

"They were a success customer-wise, but service slowed down.

"New England is different as far as staffing."

Gillig said the decision to sell the restaurants was a hard one to make, but one which he had contemplated for several years.

"We were waiting for the right time," he explained. "My brother, Jack, has been working on this concept for a year and a half."

At peak hours, the new restaurants will employ 8 to 10 workers, compared to 24 to 26 at McDonalds, according to Gillig.

"The kitchen will be set up to reduce the need for employees," he said.

"There will be two drive-up windows and one walk-up window, he explained.

Gillig said he hopes to keep prices inexpensive, possibly even lower than McDonald's, by using 14 by 54 foot modular, pre-fabricated buildings roughly the size of Dunkin' Donuts.

He also said he hopes to keep land costs down because he only needs 10,000 square feet of property.

Parking spaces would likely be limited to employees, at least at first, according to Gillig.

Gillig said he would like to locate one of the new restaurants in this city, "but land in Quincy is scarce for any use."

He is also looking at such communities as Taunton and Bourne.

Gillig said he hopes to offer fast service since employees won't have to split their attention between the counter and drive-thru. He noted that drive-thru constituted 50 percent of his business at McDonald's.

Right now, he doesn't plan on having public rest rooms at the restaurants, but may add them later if necessary.

He also said the areas of the restaurants will be patrolled for trash, and in time, litter bags for cars may be given to customers.

"If we didn't think this was a good idea, we wouldn't do it," said Gillig.

"We have a lot of ideas that look good on paper.

"You always have a few problems, but hopefully, we have anticipated lots of them."

Gillig said the restaurants that he has in mind are popular in such places as California where they operate under such names as "In and Out Burgers" and "Fast Fox."

The concept is working very well out there, but there really aren't a lot out here," he said.

"The major thing will be good food and convenience."

"We hope to open at least two or three restaurants over the next year and a half.

"Then we'll know a lot better what the prospects are."

License Board Briefs

The city's License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting at City Hall.

● Granted a request from Manet Lunch, 1099 Sea St., Quincy to put a pool table in the establishment.

● Granted a request from Quincy High School Hockey Boosters Club for canning dates Jan. 21 through Jan. 23.

● Granted a request from Masonic Temple Association, 1170 Hancock St., Quincy for the request of one day liquor license for the weekends of Jan. 15 through May 7.

Army Pvt. First Class Shaun P. Frenette, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Frenette of 9 Ratchford Circle, Quincy recently arrived for duty with the 48th Infantry, West Germany.

Registry To Open Jan. 19 In Downtown Quincy

The Registry of Motor Vehicles is scheduled to open for business Tuesday, Jan. 19, at 8:45 a.m. at its new location, 76 Ross Way, also known as the Parkingway, Quincy Sq.

The move from its 38 Broad St. location is expected to take place Jan. 16 and 17.

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Robert M. Hutchinson, Jr., said that Quincy residents "can now do their downtown shopping and handle registry business at the same time."

The office will be open from 8:45 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and until 7 p.m. Thursday.

"In addition to improved accessibility, the new Quincy location boasts a unique design," Hutchinson said.

The interior is divided into two sections, with all registration procedures handled to the right of the entrance, and all driver's license processing handled to the left.

This arrangement, the first at any registry branch, is aimed at reducing customer confusion over which line to stand in for registration and which for licensing.

"We hope the new arrangement will eliminate unnecessary waiting for customers who inadvertently joined the wrong line," Hutchinson explained.

He added that the new location also has three more counter spaces to help further reduce waiting.

The registry has arranged to have 18 parking spaces available for road tests and handicapped drivers. The 109-space Ross Parking Deck, opposite the office's main office, is also available.

In addition to offering the public restrooms, the new location is 2400 square feet larger and is accessible to the handicapped.

The building is owned by Messina Quincy Fair Properties Ltd. Partnership of Braintree. The office was designed by the Director of Real Property, Roland St. Germain, who designed the original office 20 years ago.

The office, which has been at its Broad St. location since 1968, handles some 350,000 transactions and ranks fourth out of 37 branch offices statewide.

McCauley To Send Inaugural Proposals To City Council

Four proposals made by Mayor Francis McCauley in his inaugural address will be introduced to the City Council at its meeting Tuesday night.

McCauley said he expected the orders to be sent to committee.

They regard establishment of a sewer user fee, four year term for the mayor and city council, property upkeep, and smoking restrictions which would require restaurants which allow smoking to install air cleaning devices. Those with over 40 seats would be required to set aside 25 percent for non-smokers.

Lack Of Heat Complaints At Health Center

Mayor Francis McCauley said he has asked Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson to investigate several complaints of lack of heat in the basement of the J.F. Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

McCauley said Anderson will determine whether a whole new system is needed at the city-owned building.

The basement of the building houses such offices as the Council on Aging, Consumer Affairs and Rent Grievance Board

Edward Bedford of Quincy Center called The Quincy Sun to complain about the lack of heat he encountered during a recent visit to the center. He said the situation has continued for three years.

However, McCauley said he wasn't made aware of the situation until recently.

McCauley Outspends LaRaia 2-to-1

Mayor Francis McCauley outspent his challenger Joseph LaRaia by almost 2 to 1 at the end of the campaign according to financial disclosure reports due Monday at City Hall.

McCauley ended up with a $32,332 surplus, while LaRaia had $193 and $7,370 in debts.

In the councillor at large race, Patricia M. Toland had a surplus of $2,655 while Stephen M. McGrath had $507.

A debt of slightly over $4,000 was reported by Timothy P. Cahill who also won that race.

HN Chicken Barbeque

Houghs Neck Legion Post, 1116 Sea St., Quincy will hold a chicken barbeque Sunday, Jan. 17 from noon to 6 p.m.

McCauley To Attend Mayor's Washington Conference

Mayor Francis McCauley is scheduled to attend the annual U.S. Conference of Mayor's Mid Winter Conference Wednesday to Friday, Jan. 20 to 22, in Washington, D.C.

Planning to attend the conference along with McCauley will be Planning Director Richard Meade, City Solicitor Joseph (Jay) MacRitchie, and the mayor's executive secretary Peter Kenney, he said.

A member of the Community Development, Housing and Economic Development Committee, McCauley said he was looking forward to a special meeting on Community Development Block Grant money.

"That's a critical one for us," he said.

The conference will also include speakers, seminars and updates on pending legislation, according to McCauley.

Why Tinker With It?

Mayor Francis McCauley is carrying the ball again for four-year terms for mayor and the city council.

Two years ago he called the same play and was sacked.

McCAULEY

The 1986-87 City Council voted the proposal down on an 8-1 vote with only Ted DeCristofaro backing it.

Stephen McGrath, who was then Ward 5 councillor and council president probably summed up McCauley's proposal defeat best when he observed: "If it aint broken, don't fix it."

McGRATH

He meant the present Plan A city charter calling for two-year mayoral and City Council terms seems to be working just fine. So why tinker with it?

McGrath also noted, "There seems to be a lack of groundswell (support) and demand for it."

The proposal was initiated by McCauley in his third term inaugural address two years ago. Not by the people. And initiated again this year in his fourth term inaugural address. Again, not by the people.

McCauley noted then and now that his home rule petition which he is submitting to the City Council for the second time has to follow a democratic process: passed by the City Council, approved by the state legislature and then go on the ballot as a referendum question to be voted on by the people. "The people would have the final say," he notes.

That's nice. But what about them having the first say? There has been no petition from them to make a change. No demand from them. Not even a little request from them.

So why put everyone to all the bother?

Six of the councillors who voted on the proposal two years ago are still in office. Unless there has been a drastic change in their thinking they would probably continue to stand 5-1 against changing the terms.

Patricia Toland, Michael Cheney, James Sheets, Thomas Nutley and McGrath against it. Ted DeCristofaro who two years ago saw positive aspects to the proposal, for it.

All three went through gruelling campaigns to be elected and might be tempted to favor a four-year term. Tempting for the others, too.

Some observers think McCauley included the four year term for the council in his proposal both times as a carrot to get council support for a four-year mayoral term.

Our objection to four-year terms is simple: it makes it too convenient for a mayor and the City Council to hold public office.

It allows them two extra years to "coast" if they chose. Four years is too long a period before answering to the people at the polls.

Two year terms make them accountable to the people sooner. And that's the way it would be: sooner not later.

The best argument against four-year terms would be the wrong people in the mayor's office and or in the City Council. That can happen.

Four years would then drag on like eternity before a needed change could be made.

A mayor or councillor who is doing a good job has nothing to fear about a two-year term.

There have been some good mayors -- McCauley included -- under the present two-year term setup down through the years. Some good councillors too, -- including those re-elected last year. And some good prospects -- including the three young new ones elected last year.

Giving them four-year terms isn't going to make them better -- comfortable, maybe, but not better.

Why take away the right of the people to evaluate their mayor and city councillors every two years and make them wait twice as long to exercise that privilege?

Why tinker with something that isn't broken?

DENIS TARDO, president of the Quincy Tenant Organization, may be on a new campaign trail soon. Tardo is giving "serious thought" to making a run for the House seat vacated by Thomas Brownell to accept appointment as an associate justice of Plymouth District Court.

Tardo is a Republican. He also favors a special election, as does Ray Shamie, to fill the vacancy.

Calls Sewer User Fee A 'Sneak Tax'

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

In his Inaugural Address, Mayor Francis McCauley called for a sewer user fee for the small commercial and residential property owner.

McCauley said he was "submitting (this) reluctantly, but I feel it is necessary." According to the mayor, the city has to find a way to recover the sewer assessment costs from the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority which will rise sharply as the court-mandated cleanup of Boston Harbor and Quincy Bay begins.

The property tax alone can not absorb this rising MWRA assessment and the mayor sees the need for a new and separate sewer fee bill. I do not agree with the conclusions drawn by the mayor as reported in The Quincy Sun. In light of the limitations placed on municipal governments by the voter-approved Proposition 2.5, I find user fees to be an end run around the spirit of Prop. 2.5.

If increased property tax revenues are necessary in light of the harbor cleanup, then the correct way to deal with the revenue issue is to seek a voter override at a special election to change Prop. 2.5 limits legally.

If more tax revenue is needed, raise it properly but don't throw a "sneak tax" at us. As far as I'm concerned a sewer user fee means two different property tax bills.

Special Election Should Be Called

Editor, The Quincy Sun.

House Speaker George Keverian has no special interest in Quincy. However, he should call a special election to replace former Representative Brownell. I cannot help disagree with the logic of campaigns benefiting the people, as suggested, by a prospective candidate.

Special elections are only confusing to candidates who have to orchestrate a platform and perhaps, a strategy, to attract votes. The candidates with substantial interest in government and the government's relationship with the community have not faltered from an active civic involvement nor do they jump the fence when the grass looks greener.

Quincy needs representation at the state house not solely to handle constituent requests but to actively participate in a governmental process, time tested for effectiveness, in giving all the people proper representation in the legislative bureaucracy. The general court is not an idle branch of government and no doubt many of the bills facing the current legislative session will be of concern to Quincy, if not specifically, including, the second Norfolk district.

State Republican Party chairman Ray Shamie has voiced the concern of the people to Speaker Keverian and the speaker should heed the call, be a leader, exercise fairness, call a special election and allow the second Norfolk district a voice, and a vote.

Judiciary Must Maintain Its Independence Says New Judge Brownell

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Newly sworn-in Plymouth County judge Thomas Brownell said that the most important feature of the judiciary which must be maintained is its independence.

"As I've often said, the judge has to have the courage to make the right decisions in accordance with the law," said Brownell, during a recent interview with Sun Ch. 26.

He completed 16 years as a state representative before being sworn in by Gov. Michael Dukakis.

Brownell said decisions must be made "whether it's popular or unpopular, and I hope to be able to carry on that tradition.

"We have an excellent judiciary here in Massachusetts, and I think everyone recognizes that across the country.

"It's really a great honor and privilege to join the men and women who are currently serving in the judiciary and I look forward to working with them."

Looking back over his career as a state representative, Brownell singled out three accomplishments as chairman of the committee on judiciary of which he is proud.

"We just enacted a new judicial conduct commission bill which is a total reform of the way judges are disciplined," he said.

"I'm very, very proud that we have accomplished that," said Brownell, who participated in signing of the bill in the governor's office.

He also pointed to establishment of a pilot program eliminating trial de novo in the district courts "which I think is a needed improvement and reform of the way district court operates."

A third accomplishment was enactment of legislation to protect abused children, according to Brownell.

"It allows the admission of testing by video tape in cases where the kids would be harmed by it," he said.

As a state representative, Brownell said he was proud of progress made since he came into office.

"When I came into office and was sworn in in 1971 by Gov. (Frank) Sargent, we had an employment rate around 11 percent," he said.

"We had a deficit in the state budget, and in fact, a major issue every year was what kind of new taxes we would have to enact to balance the budget.

"During the course of my service in office, we made a lot of progress," he said.

"We are talking not about tax increases, but tax decreases.

"We are talking about putting caps on the government raising too much money, and we have one of the most productive and attractive cities in the nation in terms of economic development."

Brownell continued, "I am very happy and proud that I made a small contribution working with the people of Quincy, the people of the commonwealth of Massachusetts, the governors, senate president and speaker of the house in bringing about this period of prosperity."

Brownell also worked toward the cleanup of Boston Harbor and Quincy Bay.

"I think cleaning up Quincy Bay was always a goal of mine," he said, "and to ensure that the city of Quincy was treated fairly.

"I think it was a major accomplishment that we did not have a secondary treatment plant placed in Quincy.

"As you know, the powers that be were focusing on Quincy, and I think we do have a fair plan that can be implemented.

"I look forward in a short time, a period of five or six years, of looking out to Quincy Bay and once again seeing people swim in it."

He praised his former aide, Larry Chretien, who was recently elected to the Quincy City Council to represent Ward 3.

"Larry Chretien is a hardworking, dedicated young man," said Brownell. "I'm very proud that he could work with me.

Judge THOMAS BROWNELL

"I know he will work well with the mayor, and I know he has a deep concern for the problems of the people in his neighborhood.

"I know he is sincere, and I think Larry Chretien will be a hardworking, dedicated City Councillor, and I think the people of Ward 3 are lucky in having him work for them."

Tardo Cites Cooperation In Delaying Power Shut-Off

Quincy Tenant Organization president Denis Tardo says he is "very proud of the cooperation" speaking of an electrical power shut-off at the Town House Apartments on Jan. 6.

Tardo said "management was persuaded by the Quincy Tenant Organization to postpone electrical work and power shut-offs Dec. 23 and 24."

"We worked closely with the Rent Grievance Board, the Building Department and Massachusetts Electric to reschedule the replacement of wires burnt during the fire at 151 (Sea St.)."

"This work was not of an emergency nature and should never have been scheduled during the holidays. All parties involved realized such postponements could be costly and when management rescheduled the work to be done on a day forecasters predicted single digit temperatures and wind chill factors well below zero, we didn't panic, we displayed our expertise of problem solving," Tardo said.

"We immediately approached solutions to comfort the tenants during this inconvenience. The illegality of kerosene heaters discounted the possibility of tenants remaining on the premises, so we called on our neighbors," he said.

Tardo continued, "And we are very grateful to the residents of the Town Brook House, Reverend and Mrs. Bauer. These fine folks opened their apartment house to us during this bitter cold ordeal, they served coffee and Danish and even invited us to join them for exercise class, their hospitality was enormously kind."

6 Mayors Honorary Pall Bearers At Harry Tirrell Funeral

Six Mayors of Quincy were honorary pall bearers at the funeral of Harry W. Tirrell, Quincy's first and only city messenger, who died at Quincy City Hospital at the age of 85.

Jan. 13-19
37 Years Ago

Tirrell was elected city messenger in 1889, the year Quincy became a city, and was re-elected in each succeeding year.

A native of Quincy, he was the son of Quincy Tirrell, city tax collector and proprietor of a prosperous carriage shop in what is now the parking lot behind Sheridan's. The shop went out of business soon after the coming of the automobile.

Mayor Thomas S. Burgin and former Mayors Charles A. Ross, Joseph L. Whiton and William A. Bradford attended Tirrell's funeral. Ex-Mayors Charles Francis Adams and Perley E. Barbour were out of the city.

Chicken, Sausage Soup

Tasty And Hearty

During that snowy Monday, my thoughts turned to soup. And in my freezer, I had the bare necessities. Not quite enough chicken, no beef, but two pork sausages. But that turned out to be enough for a hearty soup after adding celery, onion and then rice.

CHICKEN, SAUSAGE SOUP

(about a pound or so)
2 sausages
a stalk of celery (cut up) a medium sized oniuon (cut up)
I cup rice (boiled) separately
salt and pepper to taste

In 2 quarts of water put the chicken and sausages. Add the celery, onion, salt and pepper. Cover and cook for about an hour to an hour and a half. In another pan, cook the rice and drain. Drain the soup and cut up some of the chicken and the two sausages into small pieces. Add the drained rice. Serve with grated cheese. To this soup, you can add any kind of small pasta, also spinach or tortellini. But this is all I had that day and it turned out pretty hearty.

Crime Watch

By ROBERT HANNA
Crime Prevention Officer
Quincy Police Department

Let's Be Safe At Home

In the last six months:

Did you leave the front door or garage door unlocked while you made a quick trip to the grocery store?

Was it too much trouble to check the meter reader's identification before letting him in?

Did you forget to tell a neighbor that you were going away for the weekend?

If you answered "yes" to any of these questions, you are making it easier for a thief to work in your community.

What can you do?

Good locks, simple precautions, neighborly alertness, and common sense can help prevent most property crimes.

Get together with your neighbors to keep an eye on each other's homes. Half of all burglaries occur during the day when alert neighbors could spot the thieves and call the police. Many neighborhoods have started "Neighborhood Watch Programs," which is a program of neighbors being the eyes and ears of the police and roporting anything suspicious to police immediately.

Locks, doors, and windows:

- Install good deadbolt locks in your doors, not the springlatch ones with the key in the knob, and USE THEM! (About 50 percent of burglars get in through unlocked doors and windows.)
- Avoid door locks that can be manipulated by breaking glass or door panels to reach inside.
- Lock double-hung windows by "pinning" them with an eight penny nail. You can do this by drilling a hole at a downward angle in each top corner of the inside sash and partway through the outside sash. When you install the eight penny nail the window is secured but can be opened quickly in case of an emergency.

Outside:

- Trim back all shrubbery that hides doors or windows. Cut back tree limbs that could help a thief climb into a second story window.
- Make sure all porches, entrances, and yards are well-lighted. In spite of today's high energy costs it only costs a nickel or so to burn a 30 watt bulb for twelve hours. And that's cheap security. But remember to turn the light off during daylight hours. This is an unmistakeable tip that no one is home to turn them off.

Key sense:

- Do not hide house keys in mailboxes, planters, or under doormats. Give a duplicate key to a trusted friend or neighbor in case you are locked out.
- Do not put any personal identification on key rings.
- If you lose the keys to your home or move, change the locks immediately.

If you would like to start a Neighborhood Watch program in your area, please call me at 479-1212 ext 368 and I will assist you in any way that I can. If we all work together we surely can "Take A Bite Out Of Crime."

Student Council Established At Vo-Tech

For the first time in its 20 year history, a Student Council has been established at Quincy Vocational Technical School.

Director Joseph A. Mazzarella says it's a "new beginning, a new chapter as vocational education becomes more and more viable in a high tech age."

The council, directed by faculty advisor Raymond Eldredge, will give students a different voice and a better representation since it will now be separate from the council at Quincy High School.

"I think there will be a real infusion of pride and commitment to a variety of activities students should be involved in," remarked Keith Newcomb, Student Council vice president.

So far the council has encouraged eligible students to donate blood during the late November American Red Cross blood drive. They are also in the process of collecting canned foods and other goods for the poor of the city, and high on the council's agenda is on-going education about drugs and alcohol.

Like other schools and a growing number of educators, administrators at Quincy Vocational Technical advocate the practice of students talking to students about drug and alcohol abuse. "We have found this method of communication to be effective and in line with the philosophy of Governor Michael Dukakis who urges educators to get youth talking to youth," explained Mazzarella.

Shamie Calls For Special Election To Fill Seat

Republican Party chairman, Ray Shamie, today called on House Speaker George Keverian to quickly set a date for a special election to fill Quincy's second Norfolk District House of Representatives seat.

The seat was vacated last Wednesday when Rep. Thomas Brownell was sworn in as an associate justice of Plymouth District Court.

"Until a special election is called, the people who live in that part of Quincy will not have a voice in the House of Representatives and that should not be allowed to happen," Shamie said.

"The people of Quincy have the same right to proper representation as everyone else in this state does. It would be wrong and unfair for them to go for an entire year without it."

So that money would be saved on election costs, Shamie suggested that the special election primary be set for March 8, the day of the state's Presidential primary when voter turnout would be high and that the final election be scheduled one month later.

"That way, the more than 35,000 people of this district, will be represented during the annual budget deliberations and the period of debate on other important issues leading up to the summer recess."

"Giving Quincy the proper representation is both essential and fair," Shamie said. "I hope that the speaker will do the right thing and do it quickly."

Q: What's up and coming in health care?
A: The New QCH!
Quincy City Hospital has begun an impressive $57 million renovation. Almost two-thirds of the buildings and other facilities will be replaced—all part of a dramatic plan to better serve the growing and changing health care needs of the South Shore.
The focal point of the new hospital complex will be a brand new six story building that will contain 234 patient beds as well as all of the necessary patient care support services.
Since its founding in 1890, Quincy City Hospital has been in the forefront of health care on the South Shore. With our new facilities we'll continue to deliver the highest quality health care services with warm, personal attention.

Laban H. Whittaker, Jr., 64

Prize-Winning Photographer

LABAN H. WHITTAKER

A funeral service for Laban H. Whittaker Jr., 64, of Braintree Highlands, a prize-winning photographer who worked for the Boston Herald, The Patriot Ledger and The Quincy Sun, was conducted Monday at the First Baptist Church, Braintree, by Rev. Kenneth Raynor, pastor.

Mr. Whittaker died Jan. 6 at South Shore Hospital in Weymouth.

For the past 13 years, he was a media technician in the audio-visual department at Braintree High School.

He began his career at The Patriot Ledger in 1940 in the advertising department following his graduation from North Quincy High School. He was also a sports cartoonist. He was transferred to the photography department in 1942 just before entering the Army. After serving two and a half years in Africa and Europe, he returned to the newspaper as a staff photographer.

Mr. Whittaker worked at The Ledger until 1962 during which time he covered the Boston Red Sox in Sarasota, Fla., and Scottsdale, Ariz. He was also a sports cartoonist.

In 1962, he began work at The Herald, where he was a photographer until 1972. He covered President Richard Nixon's inaugural and the funerals of John F. Kennedy and Robert F. Kennedy.

Mr. Whittaker also worked as a photographer at The Quincy Sun, in 1973 and in the production department.

Mr. Whittaker received the Boston Press Photographers Association Award in 1962, the United Press International Newspaper Editors Award in 1956 and the Moe Fineberg Memorial Award in 1951, given by the Boston Press Photographers Association. In 1950 and 1953, he won the New England Press Association news photo contest.

Born in Boston, he had lived in Wollaston before moving to Braintree 34 years ago.

An Army airborne veteran of World War II, Mr. Whittaker was a member of the Braintree Disabled American Veterans.

He was a coach in the Braintree Baseball Little League during the 1960s.

He is survived by his wife, Carol M. (Furlong) Whittaker, two sons, Barry H. Whittaker of East Bridgewater and Robert H. Whittaker of Bridgewater, a daughter, Joanne M. Hester of Spring, Texas; a brother, Alan R. Whittaker of Fairfax, Va., a sister, Ruth G. Fraser of East Weymouth, and seven grandchildren.

Burial was in Braintree Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by the Mortimer N. Peck Funeral Home, 516 Washington St., Braintree.

Memorial donations may be made to the American Heart Association, 1105 W. Chestnut St., Brockton, MA 02401.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

A tradition is defined as an unwritten belief, law or custom. Generally a tradition is an expression or means of implementing a principle or belief but as time passes frequently the principle is forgotten and being the creatures of habit that we are, we continue a tradition because others before us did it that way. But, if tradition has replaced or smothered principle, it is time for change... There is a story told about a young bride and groom preparing their first Ham dinner. In preparing it the young wife asked her husband to "cut the end off the ham." When asked "why?" she said, "Mother always did it that way." Mother was called and asked why she always did this. Her answer was, "Because Grandma always did it that way." Grandma was then called and asked why ... Her answer was, "Because the pot was not big enough."

As we see in this illustration, oft times a practice is continued and the reason forgotten. Grandma followed a principle, others just followed Grandma. Granted, it is now wrong to follow. Traditions are not in themselves wrong. But if our actions are not based on principle, if we follow blindly, if we do not seek after knowledge, we can come to a place of confusion or defeat ...

A Total Team Effort

Mister Sub Sandwich Shop Has All The Right 'Ingredients'

MR. SUB'S STAFF is ready to serve you. Front row, left to right, Donna McLean, Rob Zaruba and Joe Buccini. Back row, Brian Palmer, Mike Buccini and Dave Buccini.

Buccini, owner of Mister Sub sandwich shop, 64 Billings Rd., North Quincy, says his key to prosperity has been a commitment to quality, consistency and promptness along with a dedicated work staff.

"People don't want to spend a lot of time waiting for a meal. At Mister Sub, we stick to the basics: fast service, quality food and cleanliness are always stressed," says Buccini, who has owned and operated Mister Sub 14 years.

Buccini describes his staff as a "team" and explains they have a "devotion to the business."

"It's not all me, it's the people who work here, too. Serving the public is the key.

"We take a lot of pride in our work. My staff cares about their work and how well they do it. It's a total team effort," he adds.

Buccini's menu is enough to make any mouth water. It includes more than 30 hot and cold subs, ranging from American and Italian cold cut to homemade chicken parmigiana prepared from fresh boneless breasts of chicken.

That sandwich, initiated by manager Donna McLean two months ago, is now "selling like crazy," Joe boasts.

Among the hot sub sandwiches are hot pastrami, eggplant parmigiana and the popular steak and cheese and meatball with melted cheese.

Buccini also lists five different salads: mixed garden, chef, Greek, antipasto and tuna. All salads are served with complimentary Syrian bread.

In addition, Mister Sub carries a variety of potato chips, popcorn and other snack food plus an assortment of beverages including soda, juice and mineral water.

But Mister Sub's food doesn't end there. Joe says he tries to add to his menu. "When we have the time, we create new dishes."

Before opening Mister Sub, Joe was employed at the General Dynamics shipyard for 10 years. But he left the yard because he had gone as far as he could and his "outlook was bleak."

But Buccini turned that around when he opened his sandwich shop and surrounded himself with loyal workers. That combination has formed the backbone of Mister Sub's success.

Another ingredient to the shop's success is the detailed preparation performed each and every business day. Joe and his "team" take care of many "behind the scene" jobs before the doors open for service.

One such preparation is cooking meat, handled by Donna McLean, at 7 a.m. Donna continues cooking meat for several hours and is joined by Rob Zaruba at 9 a.m. who makes salads from fresh produce supplied by Farmer's Exchange of Quincy.

Next, David Buccini (Joe's son) prepares many homemade meatballs and roast beef and Brian Palmer does his part by re-stocking the front counter. After about three hours of preparation, Mister Sub is ready to serve hungry customers.

Other staff members include Michael Buccini (another son who is the night supervisor, Maura Welch, John McCarthy, Laurie Powers (Joe's daughter) and Robert Hiem.

Of course the real ingredient of Mister Sub's continued success is the food it serves. Joe is quick to point out Mister Sub sells "highly nutritious" food for well-balanced meals.

All sandwiches, salads and hot soups contain fresh vegetables and lean meat. Mister Sub also features vegetarian and seafood dishes.

As for his biggest challenge, Joe says it's staying ahead of Mister Sub's growth.

But Joe's "ingredients" and "team" should serve that situation quite well.

Mister Sub is open 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday and Saturday 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Doran & Horrigan A Successful 'Problem Solving' Team

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

It was 23 years ago this past September that insurance agents Joe Doran and John Horrigan decided to team up and open their own agency at 19 Billings Rd., North Quincy.

The rest is history: they prospered

Today, Joe and John, former life insurance agents for a major insurance company, manage the North Quincy service-oriented insurance agency which has one objective: "Our clients will always be a name and not a computer number."

In addition to tireless work habits and pleasant dispositions, Doran & Horrigan have succeeded because of their "problem solving" approach to business.

"We are problem solvers for people. Every day is different because people have different problems every day. And to help these people gives us a real sense of accomplishment, says Doran.

"I enjoy people. It's fun to do business with all different types of people," he adds.

Doran & Horrigan, which has been located at its present site since its start, has grown over the years and taken changes in stride.

In 1981, their headquarters underwent extensive remodeling to modernize and expand the office in order to better serve their customers.

To add to office quality, Doran & Horrigan installed an in-house computer system. This not only increases customer service representatives' efficiency but creates an additional service aspect for clients, processing claims and new rates.

And recently, the agency installed a computerized automatic grading package system for auto and home insurance processing.

The agency is staffed by professionals, all well-trained and highly skilled customer service representatives (CRSs). In addition to Doran and Horrigan, they are Sally Campbell, Lois Bilton, Beth Mullin and Wendy Corkery.

Their clients are repeatedly outspoken in high praise for the agency's time saving, one-stop financial services. Besides automotive, home and business insurance departments, Doran & Horrigan handle real estate, life insurance and income tax preparation. They also feature the service of one notary public.

Doran & Horrigan also believe in constantly upgrading education. They actively participate in insurance programs and seminars sponsored by PIA and IIAM insurance industries. Staff members frequently attend these educational seminars.

Doran & Horrigan are also active members in a number of local and state insurance and real estate organizations. They include the Independent Insurance Agents of Massachusetts (IIAM), Professional Insurance Agents (PIA), South Shore Board of Realtors, Quincy Board of Realtors, Quincy-Braintree Agents Association, Society of Certified Insurance Counselors and the National Association of Realtors.

As the new year begins, Doran & Horrigan are looking forward to 1988 as their most productive and "problem solving" year ever.

They stress they would like you to be one of their satisfied customers whether it be in insurance, real estate or just plain sound advice.

In urging you to drop in and say hello, they will look over your policies for a free, no obligation quote.

You'll be glad you did. So many others have.

'The Unforgivable Sin' Sermon Topic At Bethany

There will be two worship services Sunday at Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center, at 9 a.m. in the chapel and 10 a.m. in the sanctuary.

Lay scripture readers will be Calvin Young in the chapel and Brian D. Tsao in the sanctuary. The Rev. Joel F. Huntington, associate minister, will serve as liturgist at both services.

During the sanctuary service, the Chancel Choir under the direction of Peter E. Krasinski, organist, will present two anthems, "The Prayers I Make" by Jane Marshall, and "Be Joyful" composed by August G. Homilius.

The worship service will be broadcast "live" from Bethany's sanctuary at 10 a.m. over radio station WJDA, 1300 kc.

Sunday School will be in session from 10 to 11 a.m. with classes for pre-school through 8th grade. Nursery care is provided for babies and toddlers, under the professional supervision of Pamela Ford Curren, Bethany's early childhood coordinator.

At 11 a.m., there will be a fellowship hour in the Allen Parlor with light refreshments. Individuals and families from the area are welcome to share in the worship, education and fellowship, and to enroll children in the Sunday school.

From 11:30 to 12:30 Sunday, there will be an adult education group meeting in the Ladies' Parlor. The tape and discussion session on "Developing Christian Community" is being led by Jerry and Lisa Birr. A light lunch and child care are also provided for the group, which is open to the public.

For information on any of Bethany's ministries or programs, contact the church office at 479-7300.

Martin Luther King Tribute At United First Parish

Ben Tousley, a nationally known folk singer and a Unitarian Minister, returns to lead the worship service at United First Parish Church, "Church of the Presidents," Quincy Center, Sunday, Jan. 17, at 10:30 a.m.

The service, "Martin Luther King, Jr.," will be a tribute in music, narrative, and song to the civil rights leader, whose birthday will be celebrated Monday.

Rev. Tousley has performed across the country and has traveled to England and Iceland bringing his music and his concerns for justice and peace to church communities and social service groups. He has been featured on radio and television broadcasts, and his recordings are sold nationally. His visit last year at First Parish was greeted by a full house and great enthusiasm.

Rev. BEN TOUSLEY

The Martin Luther King, Jr., service this Sunday includes an inspiring narrative of Dr. King's ministry from Montgomery to Memphis, with music from the civil rights movement and Afro-American tradition. The service is for all ages and includes sing-along and participation by the congregation.

The community is invited to [illegible] service beginning at 10:30 a.m., and remain for the social hour immediately following at 11:30 a.m. in the Parish Hall. The church is located at 1306 Hancock St. Child care is provided.

'Go Tell It!' Sermon Topic At Covenant Congregational

At the 10:45 a.m. worship service Sunday at Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Sts., Rev. Fred Lawson will preach on the topic of "Go Tell It!" At 9:30 a.m. Sunday school, with classes for all ages, nursery through adult, will begin.

The choir, directed and accompanied on the organ by Richard Smith, minister of music, will sing "Break Forth O Beauteous Light" by Bach; "We Have Seen His Star" by Titcomb, and "Behold a Star from Jacob Shining" by Mendelssohn. The organ prelude and postlude will be played by Mr. Smith, who will also play "How Bright Appears the Morning Star" by Armsdorf as offertory.

A nursery is available for children age five and younger. The attendant will be Ailsa LaCoste. For children up to age 12, there is junior church, led by Lynn White.

On Friday, Jan. 10 the Trustee Board will meet at the church at 7:30 p.m. The Naomi Society meeting, postponed from Jan. 11 will be held Jan. 18.

The annual meeting of the church will be Sunday, Jan. 24 after a soup and sandwich luncheon which will follow the morning worship service. Each family is requested to bring sandwiches to share with others.

For more information about any of the church's activities call the church office at 479-5728.

'How Does God Speak To Us?' Wollaston Congregational Topic

The Rev. Elden D. J. Zuern will preach a sermon at Wollaston Congregational Church on Sunday, Jan. 17 at 10 a.m. entitled "How Does God Speak To Us?"

Lay scripture reader will be Paul Frazer and the acolyte Eric Schwendenman. Ushers will be Barbara Frazer and Kathryn Kelley and the greeters, Gilda Knowles and her son Joshua.

Church School children will attend the first part of the morning service. After the children's sermon is given they then go to their respective classes held for grades 1-12. Nursery care for infants and toddlers is provided.

A fellowship hour is held immediately following the service in the social hall. The Youth Fellowship will meet at 7 p.m. at the church for their weekly get-together.

Martin Luther King Birthday Celebration Sunday

The city of Quincy will celebrate the birthday of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., Sunday, Jan. 17, at 3:30 p.m. at First Parish Church, Quincy Sq.

Speaker will be Sen. William Golden.

Music will be by Voices of Women Victorious, a group of 40 women gospel singers, from St. Paul's African Methodist Episcopal Church.

Readings will be by Quincy Public Schools students.

The celebration is sponsored by the city of Quincy, Quincy Public Schools, Quincy Fair Housing Committee, Quincy Human Relations Council, Quincy Community Action Program and South Shore Coalition for Human Rights.

Everyone is welcome.

Squantum Church Service Held In Fellowship Hall

The regular 10:30 a.m. service at First Church of Squantum was held for the first time this winter in Fellowship Hall, a concession to the difficulty of adequately heating the sanctuary upstairs.

Taking as his scriptural base the words of John 4:7-12, substitute minister Craig Zaehring, preached that God Zaehring, preached that God dwells in all of us, so that what we do to others we do also to God, we are both the crucifiers and the crucified. Love and forgiveness are the only answers.

Assisting Mr. Zaehring were Katherine Hansen, greeter, and Joe Wallin and Stewart Scott, ushers.

The flowers on the altar were given in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Richards by their family.

The annual meeting of the church, preceded by a pot-luck dinner will be held Friday, Jan. 15 at 6 p.m.

'Liturgy' Topic At Our Lady Jan. 21

"Liturgy, A Variety of Ministries" will be the topic of the Rev. Richard Bourgeois, OSB of Glastonbury Abbey, Hingham, at Our Lady of Good Counsel Parish Thursday, Jan. 21, at 7:30 p.m. in the Parish Hall.

The evening will consist of a presentation, an opportunity for questions-answers and refreshments.

Blessed Sacrament Parish and St. Boniface Parish will be represented. Those who would benefit from the program are lectors, ministers of hospitality, extraordinary ministers music ministry, acolytes and those who care for the altar.

St. Chrysostom's Day Care Registration

St. Chrysostom's Day Care Center, Inc., 1 Linden St., Wollaston, is now accepting registrations for their January to June session, as there are a few openings left.

The center operates Monday, Wednesday and Fridays from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. This is a full program which includes free play, working with children with basic skills, experimentation with arts, crafts, cooking and music, with special emphasis on working with children in small groups with a caring context.

For further information call the church office, 472-0737, on Tuesdays, Wednesday and Thursdays between 9:30 a.m. and 4 p.m.

CPR Class At Masonic Temple

An eight-hour C.P.R. class, sponsored by the Quincy Heart Saver Task Force and the American Heart Association, will be held Monday, Jan. 18 and Monday, Jan. 25 from 6:30 to 10:30 p.m. at the Quincy Masonic Temple, Hancock St., Quincy.

Participants must attend both sessions to be certified.

Course fee is $10 and enrollment is limited to 20.

Raiders Defeat Cambridge Rindge For 6th Win

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy hockey team rebounded from a disappointing loss at Brockton to defeat Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 7-2, last Saturday and improve its record to 6-3.

Kevin Jago's Raiders were scheduled to meet Quincy (with the same record) last night (Wednesday) at the Youth Arena. They will face Newton North Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Watertown rink.

Matt Furtado, who is having an outstanding season, had a goal and four assists in the victory over Cambridge. Paul McGrath and Jay Rodrigues had two goals and two assists each and Rich Connolly and Bill Dineen a goal apiece. Bob Thomas, Brian Zimmerman and goalie Brian Mahoney also had assists.

"Furtado is playing the best hockey of his career and is just about unstoppable," said assistant coach Rick Avery. "The entire team is playing excellent hockey and Brian Mahoney has been excellent in goal.

"We are going to have a real dogfight in the Suburban League and there is clear-cut favorite to win the title. There is great competition and it is going to be an interesting season."

Earlier in the week North dropped a hard-fought 5-4 decision to Brockton in its league opener.

There was a lot of close checking and end-to-end action and the game had a little bit of everything.

"If anyone walked in off the street and saw this game, they'd have seen one very good high school hockey game," said Jago. "I won't expect anything less from these kids from now on."

After the Boxers took an early 1-0 lead, Rodrigues scored the equalizer with Furtado assisting. Rodrigues scored again late in the opening period with Furtado and John Keegan assisting to give North a 2-1 lead.

Brockton evened the score early in the second period but Furtado put Brockton ahead with Joe Keegan getting the assist.

Here Brockton scored three unanswered goals, tying the score late in the middle period and going ahead, 5-3, in the third period.

The Raiders were awarded a penalty shot and Furtado scored on a low wrist shot past the glove side of Boxer freshman goalie Ken Schwabe, who had 4 saves.

Mahoney also had an excellent game in goal for North Quincy with 28 saves.

In a recent 8-0 win over Revere, Furtado had a hat trick, Connolly two goals, Dineen two and Zimmerman one.

Backup goalie Jeff McClory, who had been in goal in a win over Malden, had an outstanding game and recorded North's first shutout of the season.

Quincy Win Streak Snapped By Newton North

The Quincy hockey team had a four-game win streak snapped last Saturday when it dropped a hard-fought 3-2 decision to Newton North, and the Presidents took a 6-3 record into the game with North Quincy (same record) last night (Wednesday) at the Youth Arena.

Bob Sylvia's Quincy team, already with as many wins as last season, will host Brockton Saturday night at 7:50 at the Quincy Youth Arena and will face Cambridge Rindge and Latin next Wednesday night at 9 p.m. at Boston University.

Newton North scored in the opening period last Saturday and both teams scored twice in the second period.

Rod Davis scored Quincy's first goal with Jon Bertoni assisting, and Shawn O'Neil scored unassisted to tie the game, only to have Newton score the winning goal minutes later.

"Bob (Sylvia) told goalie Greg Chambers, who was outstanding, to hold them in the last period and he did, but we just couldn't get the tying goal," said Quincy assistant coach George Peachey. "Greg had a fine game, as did the Newton goalie, and made some excellent saves in the last period. There were a lot of penalties and we were shorthanded several times, but Greg held them off."

Earlier in the week, in another well-played game, Quincy edged Waltham, 3-2, for its fourth win in a row.

Joe Cotter, Chuck Quigley and Tim Mann scored the Quincy goals, Eric Abboud and Wayne Chambers played excellent defense and Greg Chambers again was strong in goal with 15 saves, including some spectacular ones.

"We can skate with anyone in the league, but we still have to get more scoring output," said Sylvia. "Our defense has done a fine job and Greg Chambers is having an excellent year in goal. This is a real competitive league this season."

Quincy Girls Win

The Quincy girls' basketball team rebounded from two tough losses in the holiday tournament to defeat Waltham, 39-33, last week and improve its record to 3-4.

The First Ladies, snowed out of their game against Brookline last Friday, were scheduled to play Brockton Tuesday night. They will play at Cambridge Rindge and Latin Friday at 5 p.m. and will play at North Quincy Tuesday night at 7:30.

Quincy was once again led by the Morrell sisters as Gayle scored 14 points and Patti had seven points and 11 rebounds.

Tracey Thornhill had a fine defensive game and had four steals as the First Ladies took a 22-14 lead at halftime and took a 31-25 advantage into the final quarter.

Kristin Curtin had an outstanding game as she had seven points and five steals.

Squirt B's Breeze, 10-3

Quincy's Squirt B hockey team soundly defeated league rival Triboro last week, 10-3, in a game played at the Skating Club of Boston in Allston.

Triboro, one of only two Greater Boston League teams to have bested Quincy earlier this year, fell behind quickly, 3-0, in the first period, and never got back into the game as Quincy increased its lead at every opportunity during the final two periods.

A.J. Carthas, Ron McGann, Chris Geary and Jason Fennelly scored two goals apiece, while Dan Mann and Tim Kunz each scored a goal. The assists were given out to Carthas, McGann and Jimmy Gallagher with two each, and Mann, Steve Barrett, Jamie Murphy and Carl Dobbins with one apiece.

Injury Jinx Moves In On North Quincy

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy boys' basketball team got off to a good start with a 5-2 record against non-league opponents but the injury jinx hit first-year coach Ted Stevenson hard as the Raiders opened their Suburban League season last week.

Stevenson lost his son, Teddy, one of his high scorers and one of the best three-point shooters in the area, before the season's opener against Brockton when he suffered a sprained ankle in practice.

He lost Dave Lawless, who was playing hurt with a knee problem, for the season after the Brockton game, and in the first quarter of last Monday's game at Newton North (the game had been snowed out last Friday), another starter, Mike Ainsley, sprained an ankle and will be out at least two weeks.

As a result, North, after taking an 11-point lead, lost to Brockton, 67-46, and dropped a 68-56 decision to Newton North.

"We are going to have a tough time without three excellent players," said Stevenson. "I hope Teddy will be back for our game against Quincy next Tuesday, but Ainsley will be out for at least two weeks and Lawless is gone for the season.

"Lawless was doing a fine job seeing limited action, but his knee injury just proved too much for him. He is a real competitor and he hated to have to quit."

B.J. Sylvia had another good day at Newton with 10 points and three boys, all of whom have been playing for the junior varsity, stepped in and played excellent games.

Matt Sumner had 15 points, mark Kennedy 12 and Eric DeBoer, playing in his first varsity game, chipped in with 10.

"With the three starters out, these kids will have to carry more of the load, and they all performed well at Newton," said Stevenson.

"Brockton's coach told me he thought we would have had a good chance of winning if Teddy was playing."

Sylva had another good night with 12 points and eight rebounds, Dennis Cronin and Ainsley had eight points each and Lawless, despite his knee problems, scored seven.

North Quincy was scheduled to face Cambridge Rindge and Latin Tuesday, and will play at Quincy Tuesday night at 7:30.

Calabro's Last Second Basket Gives Quincy Win

It took more than a year, but the Quincy boys' basketball team finally had a chance to rejoice last week when Frank Calabro's last second basket gave the Presidents a 51-50 victory over Waltham.

The win improved Quincy's record to 1-6 and ended a 28-game losing streak which extended back to the final two games two years ago.

The Presidents were snowed out of their game with Brookline last Friday night and were scheduled to play Brockton Tuesday. They will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin Friday at 5 p.m. and will be home to North Quincy Tuesday night at 7:30.

"I'm very happy for the boys," said coach John Franceschini after the Waltham win. "They have been hustling in every game through a winless season and through six losses this year. Tonight their perseverance and hustle finally paid off."

Quincy held a 35-34 halftime edge but Waltham quickly took the lead with its fast-break offense in the third quarter.

The presidents, displaying their best shooting in two years, hit for 54 percent from the floor and 64 percent from the foul line and held Waltham to three points in the last quarter to overcome a seven-point Waltham lead.

Nick Dragone and Scott Logan hit for 15 points apiece for Quincy, while Calabro had nine points and 11 rebounds.

Raiderettes Bow To Brockton

The North Quincy girls' basketball team, which went into the Suburban League with a 5-1 non-league record last week, lost to Brockton, 57-48, in its league opener.

Paul Bregoli's Raiderettes were scheduled to play Cambridge Rindge and Latin Tuesday and will host Quincy next Tuesday at 7:30.

Brockton raced out to an 8-0 lead after three minutes as North managed only field goals by Patty Feeney and Paula Tolson, but hit for seven free throws, two each by Karrie Pistorino, Melissa Miles and Rita Rooney. North trailed, 16-11, after a quarter.

The Raiderettes closed the gap midway through the second quarter and took a 25-24 lead with a minute to go behind eight points by Nancy Flukes. However, the Boxers scored the final two baskets of the quarter and took a 28-25 halftime lead.

North's offense sputtered all through the third quarter, managing nine points but missing nine layups and seven free throws. However, the defense, led by Pistorino, Kellene Duffy and Tarra Meyer kept the Raiderettes close as they trailed by only four, 38-34, entering the final quarter.

Feeney and Flukes kept North within striking distance with 10 points between them. The Raiderettes trailed by only four with two minutes to play before Brockton pulled away.

Flukes led all scorers with 18 points, nine rebounds and four assists, Feeney had nine points and 11 rebounds and Pistorino had four points, three assists and two steals.

"Despite an overall lackluster effort, we lost to a good Brockton team by only nine and had our chances to win," said Bregoli. "But we missed layups and free throws and a high amount of turnovers really did us in. The kids were disappointed after the game but feel they can beat them when they come to our place next month."

North Girls Win Second

The North Quincy girls track team ran its indoor season record to 2-0 with a 49-32 victory over Brookline last week.

North started out slowly, but rebounded quickly. Tristen Mastrogiacomo scored first for the Raiders with a third place in the 50-yard hurdles, edging teammate Claire Walsh.

Robin Guilfoy remained undefeated in the 50-yard dash and freshmen Debbie Ramos and Nancy McCadden finished third and fourth respectively. All three girls also threw the shot put, with Guilfoy placing second with a throw of 28-5.

The distance runners fared well for North, with all participants in the mile and two-mile scoring for the Raiderettes. Bridget Toland and her sister Colleen finished first and third in the two-mile, and sophomores Sherrin Quintiliani and Joanne Moriarty finished 1-2 in the mile.

Caryn Collings finished first in both the 1,000 yards and the high jump, North's only double winner. Also in the 1000 yards was freshman Amanda Young, who finished third.

"Collings and Young are showing signs of improvement," commented head coach Kevin Kelly. "In order to beat the stronger teams in the league, those two will have to come through for us."

Freshman Annmarie Montgomery took second place in the 600 yards ahead of teammates Jennifer Flynn and Rachel Marshall. Junior Betsy Zadig won the 300 yards with a time of 44.3 seconds ahead of North's Julie Fitzgerald-Swan.

North's relay team was also victorious, with a time of 4:45.32. Leading off the mile team was Joanne Moriarty, followed by Quintiliani, Collings, and finishing with Montgomery.

"Our relay team will be the key to victory in the next two meets," noted Kelly. "Newton and Brockton match up very evenly with us and the relay will make or break us."

Also last week two of the Raiderettes participated in the Dartmouth Relays at Hanover, N.H. Guilfoy threw the shot, but was hampered by illness. Quintiliani won the unseeded section of the mile run with a time of 5:41.9.

Mite B's Extend Streak To 8

The Quincy Mite B hockey team, sponsored by the Quincy Firefighters Association and playing in the Mite Open Division of the Greater Boston League, edged a physical Charlestown team, 7-6, to extend its winning streak to eight games only to have it snapped by powerhouse South Boston the next day.

Against Charlestown it was Eric Wood's four goals which sparked the victory. Robbie Winter, John Manning and Joe Bracken each had a goal and Tommy Sullivan, Matt Langille and Manning had assists.

Eric Joyce, Chris DiMattia and Tim Wood played strong defense and Timmy Sheehan was outstanding in goal with a quick glove that robbed Charlestown of several sure goals.

Quincy bowed to South Boston, 8-3, with Eric Wood scoring twice and Sullivan once. Timmy Wood had two assists and DiMattia and Winter one each.

Quincy High 9th Graders To Make TV Debut Today

A group of Quincy High School ninth grade students will make their television debut when they star in "Christmas Magic at Quincy High" to air today (Thursday) at 6 p.m. on Channel 52, Quincy Cable.

The show was produced and directed by writing teacher Patricia Dunne. Dunne recently received an award from the Massachusetts Cable Television Commission for the "Just Say No: Make Your Voice Be Heard" music video which she wrote and produced at Broad Meadows Middle School last year.

Segments consist of student readings about Christmas tradition and trivia, such as the origin of Christmas songs, and the history of the Christmas tree, mistletoe, gift giving and more.

Students said participating in the making of the video was a learning experience as well as an opportunity to share their creative writing.

Brian Smith, video coordinator for Quincy Public Schools, was the show's technical consultant. Video equipment was provided by the Quincy school system.

WEEK OF: January 14

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
Determination is your middle name; you're ambitious and hard working. At times, however, you're overly cautious. Intellectual activities dominate the first half of the year. Travel and new career pursuits are highlighted from mid '88 on.

AQUARIUS — January 21 - February 19
Plans blocked for the last months of '87 are "full steam ahead." As well, a cloudy romantic situation clears. You may be relinquishing a community related responsibility.

PISCES — February 20 - March 20
Current events in the community may affect you personally; it's wise to pay close attention. Avoid intervening in disputes in which you're not involved. Romance remains upbeat.

ARIES — March 21 - April 20
Important agreement may be forged during the week; be sure to review all details that relate to your role. You can make key career strides now -- thanks to your ingenuity.

TAURUS — April 21 - May 22
Travel options are accented; pay special attention in choosing your destination as well as your companions. You may be hearing from a childhood friend or a "lost" relative.

GEMINI — May 23 - June 21
Before launching a new phase -- at home or at work -- be sure you've completed the previous one. Making comparisons is essential, especially if purchasing a major item.

CANCER — June 22 - July 22
You realize soon that you can't make important decisions and remain entirely popular. Be wary of slick salespersons. Allow time on the weekend to sort out short term priorities.

LEO — July 23 - August 22
Optimism combined with diligence can lead to the completion of a key task ahead of schedule. Some surprises are indicated if you're traveling. Family problem may be settled.

VIRGO — August 23 - September 22
You may become privy to some confidential information -- be on guard not to let others coax it out of you. Friendship is the week's theme.

LIBRA — September 23 - October 22
If you're to help mediate disputes at home and at the workplace, the key is to remain objective. You may be meeting someone who shares an unusual interest.

SCORPIO — October 23 - November 21
You may be signing up for an interesting course of study, and it's important that you organize your time effectively. Information arriving by Monday is especially useful.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22 - December 22
Opposites indeed attract, as you realize this period. Commitments made now can come back to haunt you; don't make promises lightly. Relationships require a tender approach.

CAPRICORN — December 23 - January 20
The week is favorable for launching new projects and making an important contact. Idealistic cause captures your attention. New health program requires commonsense approach.

Quincy Sun Car Care Guide

Maintenance Tips

The American Automobile Association (AAA), the automotive services industry and agencies of the federal government have issued several maintenance tips for car owners and motorists to help them keep their vehicle run more efficiently.

According to AAA, proper maintenance includes these checks:

- Battery. Make sure cables are free of corrosion, and that proper fluid level is maintained.
- Drive belts, hoses and wipers. Make sure they are not cracked, frayed, split or worn.
- Air filter. Check at least every two months and replace if dirty.
- Oil. Change oil and replace filter on a regular basis.
- Headlights, turn signals, brake lights and windshield wipes. Check for proper operatin.
- Other fluids. Check transmission oil, power steering fluid, engine coolant, brake fluid, axle lubricant, and air conditioning refrigerant.
- Brake system. Monitor for pad and shoe wear.

VOL. 20 No. 17 Thursday, January 21, 1988 25¢

Honored Posthumously

Dick Koch, Sr. Named Sun's 'Citizen Of Year'

Richard J. Koch, Sr., a leader in charitable and community causes for four decades, has been selected posthumously as The Quincy Sun's "Citizen of The Year" for 1987.

Koch, who died last August at age 64 was the choice of a special panel of judges that made its selection from 35 nominations submitted by Quincy Sun readers.

He is the third winner of the award, the first posthumously. Prior winners were Anthony Siciliano, Deputy Civil Defense Director, and Ruth Wainwright, long-time community volunteer.

Koch was nominated by Fr. Cornelius J. Heery, pastor of Sacred Heart Church, where Koch was active as a parish member and usher.

"Richard "Dick" Koch," said Fr. Heery in his nomination, "has been "Mr. Quincy" for many reasons: his love for this historic city, his love for its poor, his love for its youth."

Koch's wife, Simone (Simmy) when informed by Sun Publisher Henry Bosworth of her husband's selection for the award, said:

"This is a beautiful tribute to Dick. I want to thank The Sun, its readers, the judges and Fr. Heery. Our family is deeply honored."

The award was established by The Sun in 1985 to annually recognize an individual for outstanding community service or for a special achievement.

DICK KOCH, Sr.

Sun readers are invited to submit nominations from which a panel of judges makes the final selection.

"Again this year we had some outstanding nominees," Bosworth said, "but after deliberations it became apparent that Dick Koch would be the final choice and was unanimously."

"We want to congratulate the 34 other nominees who are deserving of recognition. To be nominated is an honor in itself because the nominations come from the community."

Bosworth noted:

"Dick was an outstanding individual who gave so much of himself to so many causes. He was a doer, a mover. He knew how to get things done and got them done—and done right.

"He helped the young, the elderly, the hungry, the poor and the ill. He was always there when anyone needed a helping hand. He had the biggest helping hands in Quincy.

"The Koch Club which Dick founded and which gave thousands of youngsters the opportunity to participate in sports will mark its 40th anniversary in May. I think it appropriate that The Citizen of The Year Award will be presented in Dick's memory this same year."

Koch was executive director of the Quincy Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments.

In addition to founding the Koch Club, he was one of the founders of the Quincy City Club in 1974.

He organized the Koch Club annual Flag Day parade in which hundreds of youngsters march carrying American flags which they get to keep.

He was co-chairman with Bosworth of the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee which has raised more than $1 million to fight muscular dystrophy.

Ask Board's Recommendation

Police Want No One Under 21 Serving Liquor

By KRISTINE STRENGE

Quincy liquor establishments may be asked by the City's License Board not to hire any persons under the age of 21 to serve alcohol.

Quincy Police Sgt. Richard Laracy also Liquor Inspector submitted a letter to the board requesting that it ask liquor establishments in Quincy not to hire anyone under 21 years old or at least not under 20 years old.

Several years ago Massachusetts increased the drinking age to 21 keeping the age of people serving alcohol to 18.

In the five months that Laracy has been Liquor Inspector he said, he has found that minors serving alcohol have been a large problem with underage people obtaining alcohol and people obtaining too much alcohol and becoming intoxicated.

"These employees serve other underage people without proper I.D.'s because they are underage themselves and quite possibly drink also," said Laracy. "They are not experienced enough to detect and shut off people that have had too much to drink because they are quite a bit younger than them and are intimidated by the older people," he said.

In Tuesday's meeting at City Hall the board members agreed that having under age people serving alcohol causes many problems. However, the law which allows minors to serve is a state law. The board can only request that establishments hire legally age employees.

Union Head Says More Firefighters Needed

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

"New engine companies and fancy fire houses do not put fires out, it's the people on board," says George Parker, newly elected president of Quincy Firefighters Local 792.

"The city should take a serious look at increasing its manpower," said Parker, a 10-year veteran of the department.

The union is scheduled to sit down with the city Feb. 4 to negotiate a new contract. The previous contract expired June 30, 1987.

Manpower increases are among the things the union is looking for in a new contract.

"Decent livable working conditions and wages" are also among the issues, Parker said in an earlier interview.

According to Parker, the National Fire Protection Association stated in its "Fire Protection Handbook" that minimum manning apparatus is five persons per truck.

"It's far less in Quincy," he said.

There were 11 officers and 34 firefighters assigned to work Tuesday, according to Parker, with an average of three persons per truck.

Donnelly Unhappy With Way MWRA Bought Shipyard

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Cong. Brian Donnelly said he is not satisfied with the way the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority acquired the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard.

"A public agency should not act in private," said Donnelly. "And that's basically what the MWRA did."

Donnelly noted that the shipyard had been for sale for two years before it was purchased by the MWRA to be used as a staging area for the Deer Island sewage treatment facility and for an interim sludge plant.

"The reason that no private developer purchased the yard was because of the liability of potential removal of toxic waste," said Donnelly.

"All of a sudden, Mr. (Paul) Levy became executive director of the MWRA and in less than a week put together a $49 million deal.

"They never told any of us - either local, city, state or federal legislators - what they were up to. So I'm very unhappy about that.

"I just strongly feel that it's my people's money that is paying the salaries over at the MWRA and when the MWRA does something that affects those folks, then they at least ought to have some input.

"That's what representative government is all about.

"That is not any sort of aristocracy over there that can do anything it wants to do irrespective of any effects on a community."

Donnelly said that he requested both the EPA and MWRA, under the Superfund Statute, to do an analysis of all the toxic wastes on the site.

One of the reasons is the "clear potential for public health hazards," according to Donnelly.

"Those of us that lived in this area for a while know that people have been pouring oil, grease, asbestos and all those sorts of things into that soil for over 100 years.

"I also represent Holbrook and they have a toxic waste site there, the old Baird McGuire plant."

Such substances as Agent Orange, used as a defoliant in Vietnam, were made there, he said.

"It was a very small, 20-acre, site, but it's going to cost us almost $50 million to clean it up.

"Now, if in fact they find these types of toxins in the soil at the General Dynamics shipyard, then the true cost of the yard will not be $49 million. It could be millions more.

"That money is not going to come from the state or from the federal government, it's going to come from the rate payers, the people that are paying for water and sewers.

"So, I think in their rush to appease the federal court... Boston Harbor has been filthy as long as I have been around. I swam in the filth. I grew up in Dorchester.

"And it's going to take some time to clean it up.

"...Everybody is for cleaning up the harbor, well, so aren't I.

"But to solve one problem of pollution, I'll be darned if they are going to overlook another problem which could potentially be the toxicity that's in the soil at the shipyard."

Donnelly noted that after six months, the MWRA assumes liability for the yard.

"You have a public agency that is assuming liabilities that private developers wouldn't assume, and that's what worries me," Donnelly said.

"If the sharp business people in this region would not buy the place because they were afraid of the cost of toxic waste removal, why should the tax payers do that?

"If, in fact, it's not there, there's no problem.

"If it is, then there will be a problem."

Donnelly praised Quincy for first bringing the initial lawsuit against the state and the MDC for polluting the harbor.

"No one else would, the federal government wouldn't," he said.

"We have all these white knights in EPA. They were the ones that were responsible for two decades for the environment of the harbor and did nothing.

"The commonwealth of Massachusetts is responsible for the public welfare of the environment of Massachusetts and did nothing.

"It was the city that had to force the people who are responsible for doing it to do something about it.

"Quincy has shown its responsibility and I think would be willing to accept its fair share of the burden of cleaning the harbor.

"But I think it has to be allocated on a fair basis.

"So I'm going to be looking very closely at every decision this authority makes."

Long-term, low-interest financing from the Massachusetts Industrial Finance Agency would have to be a key component to "make the numbers work" for former shipyard workers to buy part of the shipyard, according to Donnelly.

"I think especially with the closure of some of the other repair yards in the harbor, there is still a potential.

"I don't want to raise anybody's hopes," cautioned Donnelly. "The reason General Dynamics closed is because there were no ships to build.

Donnelly also commented on the following issues:

The Presidential Election: "The American people are going to have to make some big decisions in this presidential election, as to which path they'd like America to take.

"We have a very conservative, Republican president and the people have elected a moderate, sometimes liberal Democratic House of Representatives and Senate.

"So you have conflicting economic philosophies and frankly that's not very good for the country."

Taxes: "Next year, there will be no increase in the personal income tax rate. I think you'll see more loopholes closed.

"It all depends on whose eyes you look through to call it a loophole. But at least some tax preferences will be closed to raise additional revenues."

Social Security: "Benefits will stay as they have been. Medicare might be expanded somewhat.

"We'll make some determination on catastrophic illness coverage in the next few months."

Retirement of House Speaker Tip O'Neill: "It's different down there without Tip O'Neill. It puts more responsibility on us.

Boston Harbor Cleanup: "That study will be out the end of this month. Preliminary results were not very encouraging, but they are only preliminary.

"We need to know exactly what's down there, and then when that's decided, we have to determine what to do.

"There's a lot of talk about Boston Harbor. I'm all for the cleaning of Boston Harbor.

"But we have to include Quincy Bay. Recreational wise, a lot more people use Quincy Bay than Boston Harbor."

Presidential Candidates: "Gov. Michael Dukakis is the frontrunner. He has $10 million and an impressive organization nationwide."

CONG. BRIAN DONNELLY, right, is interviewed by Sun Ch. 26 correspondent John Noonan during a recent visit to Quincy.

Garrigan-Polito Family Benefit Set For Sunday

A Garrigan-Polito Family Benefit will be held Sunday, Jan. 24, 2 p.m. to 7 p.m. at Sons of Italy, Quarry St., West Quincy.

Proceeds will benefit the four adults and four children who were burned out of their Chapman St. home Dec. 22.

Tickets, which are $10 each, will be sold at the door. Children under age 12 will be admitted free.

They include a buffet lunch and chances to win numerous prizes such as round trip air fare to Cancun or Aruba, Celtics and Bruins tickets.

There will also be a disc jockey and cash bar.

"We hope a lot of people will turn out," said Penny Lowry, a friend of the Garrigans and Politos and a committee member for the benefit.

Members of the two families are expected to attend the benefit, Lowry said.

"They want to say thank you to a lot of people," she said.

Anne and Robert Garrigan and their four children hope to relocate soon to 12 Chapman St. next door to the house they used to occupy, according to Lowry.

The Garrigan-Polito Family Fund, which so far has raised $1,400, is still open, she noted.

Donations may be sent to the fund, c/o Quincy Savings Bank, 1200 Hancock St., Quincy, 02169.

Tall Ship To Be Raised To Find Cause Of Sinking

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The Regina Maris, an 80-year old Danish tall ship that sank after springing a leak last Friday while docked in Boston Harbor, will be hoisted above the water within a week in order to determine the precise cause of the sinking, a spokesperson from O'Connell Management Co. of Quincy said Tuesday.

Preliminary inspection of the ship's hull by underwater divers Tuesday morning showed no definite reason why the three-masted square-rigged clipper sunk early Friday morning at the Boston Marine Works in East Boston, said Mary Larkin of O'Connell Management Co., the ship's owner.

"Divers examined the hull but there is nothing readily apparent," Larkin said, adding murky water reduced the diver's visibility.

There is speculation that Friday's sub-freezing temperatures turned water in the ship's bilge to ice, expanding the outer planking and separating it from the vessel's ribs, thus causing it to sink.

Larkin said a "large, cracking sound" around 4 a.m. Friday was reportedly heard by security guards. Moments later they found the Regina Maris tipped against a barge. Larkin said the ship lay submerged on her starboard side at a 45-degree angle Tuesday in 30 feet of water.

The ship, bought by Peter O'Connell, partner of the O'Connell Management Co. for $500,000 two years ago from the Ocean Research and Educational Society of Gloucester, had been moored at the shipyard for refitting, restoration and hull inspection.

Plans to convert the historic vessel to a floating, deck cafe-type restaurant, have been temporarily put on hold, Larkin said.

"If there's a way to salvage the ship, they will do it. It is very close to their (O'Connell Management Co.) hearts," Larkin said.

Larkin said the O'Connell Management Co. has put $300,000 towards the ship's restoration since purchasing it in 1986.

Larkin said the Regina Maris was scheduled to be dry docked before it sank. Two of the ship's three masts, made of Oregon pine, were broken, she said.

The Regina Maris was built in 1908 in Denmark and was used for a time to carry coal and lumber across the Baltic Sea. More recently, it performed research purposes in the North Shore.

The ship sailed in the Tall Ships races for the nation's bicentennial and in the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the Statue of Liberty.

The ship was also lighted last summer during ceremonies at Marina Bay, where it had been a landmark.

McCauley Hopes For Quick Action On Sewer Fee

Mayor Francis McCauley said he hoped the City Council would act quickly on his proposal for a sewer user fee.

The proposal was among four made by McCauley in his inaugural address and was on the agenda for Tuesday's City Council meeting.

The other proposals regard four year terms for the mayor and city councillors rather than two, regulation of smoke within establishments, and cleaning of streets and sidewalks.

He considers the sewer user fee and the four year term as priority items.

"The sewer user fee is a necessity, and we hope to have it in effect by July," said McCauley.

The charge is being proposed to recover the increasing Massachusetts Water Resources Authority assessment, explained McCauley.

At present, only the major water users and tax exempt properties in the city pay a sewer user fee, he said.

Board Briefs

The City's License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting at City Hall.

- Continued until Feb. 2, a request from the 50-Fifty Diner, 622 Washington St., for a wine and malt license.
- Continued until Jan. 25, a request from South Shore Marine Generator for a repair shop license. Building Inspector Mathias Mulvey must inspect the inside of the building.
- Granted the request from the Wollaston Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, to hold their 33rd annual antique show and sale at the Quincy Masonic Temple, Feb. 13 from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m., Feb. 14, from noon to 8 p.m., and Feb. 15, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Agrees Special Election Should Be Called For House Seat Vacancy

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I read Denis Tardo's letter and agree with his call for a special election for former Rep. Tom Brownell's legislative seat.

As a resident of Quincy's First Norfolk district represented by Rep. Mike Morrissey, I have neither a personal stake nor vested interest in my support of a special election. My only concern is as a Quincy resident and taxpayer who believes it is unwise to allow the Second Norfolk seat to go unfilled for almost one year.

In a democratic republican form of government, the cost of freedom has always been high and financial considerations can not over-rule the citizens of the Second Norfolk District from having both a voice and a vote in legislative matters up on Beacon Hill.

Al Frezza from the Speaker's Office, which is not exactly supportive of a special election, says, "the city is not without representation" because Reps. Morrissey and Cerasoli are available to tend to the city's interests but, I feel, constituent services are just one small part of the overall job of a state rep and all Quincy's residents should have an equal voice in the State Legislature. Whatever happened to the "one person, one vote" rule of American government?

Whatever the costs, the Second Norfolk District deserves full-time representation from within their district and not helpful assistance from legislators in adjacent districts.

In a democracy the people rule and have a right to representation and when vacancies occur, those seats of power must be filled as soon as possible.

However, the only voices being raised on the issue of a special election are those of the Massachusetts Republican Party, the Republican City Committee, a prospective Republican candidate and Mary Quinn from the Quincy League of Women Voters. Apparently, city officials and potential Democratic candidates for the job are willing to wait until September for a primary election.

As City Clerk John Gillis has stated, "It (Special Election) would be an awful lot of work and a lot of confusion but it could be done."

I believe a special election should be set up for both former Rep. Tom Brownell's legislative seat as well as that of Rep. Mike McGlynn who will be resigning from the State Legislature on January 29 to become full-time Mayor of Medford.

Save Point Middle School

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

On Feb. 3 the Quincy School Committee will vote on the possible closing of the Point Middle School.

As a Quincy Point resident deeply concerned about our area and our neighborhood schools, I strongly urge that the school be kept as it is. This end of the city has been getting a bad deal in recent years, including school closings and the death of Quincy Square shopping. Our shipyard has been closed, and soon we will face 200 trucks a day rumbling through our streets carrying sewage plant construction material, as well as an interim sludge treatment plant in our backyard which may well become permanent.

I urge the School Committee members to put as much energy into saving the Point Middle School as they put into being re-elected. I urge them to save the Point.

The Case For Four Year Mayoral, City Council Terms

(Editors note: Because of the opposition to four-year terms for mayor and city councillors expressed in last week's Sunbeams column, Mayor Francis McCauley was invited this week to present his case for them.)

By FRANCIS X. McCAULEY
Mayor of Quincy

The time has come to change the terms of office for the Mayor and the City Council from two years to four years.

McCAULEY

The four year term of office for mayors and city councillors is already in effect in many parts of the country. While two year terms of office have been in effect for most cities in Massachusetts for many years the trend to four year terms for the office of mayor has been accelerating.

Boston has had a four year term for its mayor for many years. Newton went to a four year mayoral term several years ago, while in the last two years the cities of Lawrence, Brockton, and Waltham have changed their charters to provide for four year terms for their mayors.

The duties and responsibilities of the office of Mayor and the City Council have increased dramatically over the years. The Mayor's position is now a full time, seven days a week job.

The responsibilities of the City Councillors, who not only have to deal with a myriad of constituent problems, but are also required to understand and act on an ever increasing legislative work load of many important and complex issues, have also increased substantially.

A new Mayor and new City Councillors have only one year to learn the job before having to face an election year. Political campaigns, have in recent years, become lengthy efforts starting in January and are not completed until election in November, ten months later. Election campaigns are time consuming, expensive and cut into the time the elected official has to do the job.

Continuity in a government is extremely important. In a city election only two names appear on the ballot, however when a mayor is defeated or leaves office voluntarily most all of his appointees leave with him.

The new mayor then brings his own people into office. The learning experience applies not only to the mayor, but also to his appointees who need time to adjust and gain experience in their new position. Prior to my taking office in 1982, the City of Quincy had three mayors in a 10-year period (1972-1982).

The transitions between administrations during this time were acrimonious. Department heads and other mayoral appointees who were just getting to the point of really functioning in their jobs, found themselves out of office. This turbulent period in Quincy politics had a disastrous effect on the City, particularly in the area of City finances.

Mayors and city councillors running for re-election and facing strong opposition frequently are tempted to make political decisions that, while enhancing their chances for re-election may not be in the long range interest of the city and their constituents.

During the past mayoral election, with the city finances in excellent condition and a "Free Cash Surplus" of over 10 million dollars, I could have literally "bought the election" by generously disbursing city funds in an attempt to win support of unions and special interest groups.

I resisted the temptation to take this course of action because I did not feel that it would be in the best long range interest of the citizens of Quincy.

Holding city elections every four years instead of every two years would cut in half the occasion for elected officials to make political decisions under the pressure of an election year.

Six times during the past 100 years, the citizens of Quincy were given the opportunity to change the form of government at the ballot box. Four of those occasions dealt with the Plan E vs. the Plan A form of government, which I will not comment on in this article.

However, on the other occasions, in June of 1888 and November of 1916, the citizens of Quincy, by majority vote in referenda, made substantial changes in their city government.

In June, 1888 by a vote of 812 in favor to 454 opposed, a margin of 358 or 64%, the citizens voted to change from a town meeting form of government to a city form of government with an elected mayor, 23 city councillors and nine School Committee members. The terms of office under this charter were for one year.

In the presidential election held November 7, 1916 the citizens of Quincy, by a majority vote of 2616 in favor to 2025 opposed, a margin of 591 or 57% voted to reduce the membership of the City Council from 23 members to nine members and the membership of the School Committee from nine members to 6 members. The terms of office for local elected officials were increased from one year to two years. There was strong opposition in Quincy to both of these major governmental changes and the issues were hotly debated. However, a majority of citizens supported the changes at the ballot box.

Some people, while agreeing that a four year term of office for the mayor would be a good change, argue that the terms of office for the City Council should remain at two years. I disagree.

If you can make a case for a four year term for mayor, a position with a substantial amount of authority and power, then you can make the case for the office of city councillor which is part time and does not by statute have substantial power.

In cities with a mayor elected to four year terms and City Council elected to two year terms, the "off year elections" when the office of mayor is not on the ballot, the turnout of voters is extremely low.

In 1985, the last off year election in the City of Boston, the voter turnout was only about 20% of the total electorate. A municipal preliminary and final election in Quincy costs between $40,000 and $45,000 regardless of the voter turnout.

I strongly feel that both the office of mayor and city council should be four year terms. Incidentally, the members of the Quincy School Committee already serve four year terms.

The Home Rule petition concerning four year terms which I have submitted to the City Council requires not only that body's approval, but also the approval of the state legislature and Governor Dukakis. Once these approvals are received the issue would be placed on the November 7, 1988 presidential election ballot.

I am sure issue of the change would be hotly debated as the previous changes were in 1888 and in 1916. The important point to remember is the final decision on whether to approve the change or not would rest with the voters and not the politicians.

I urge the City Council to give the voters this chance by approving the Home Rule petition.

He was also active in the Cancer Crusade, the Heart Fund, United Fund, South Shore Association for Retarded Children and the South Shore Christmas Festival.

Koch was active in the Democratic Party and state and local campaigns. He served as Quincy coordinator when a young Congressman by the name of John F. Kennedy first ran for the U.S. Senate.

Koch was a 1942 graduate of North Quincy High School and served in the U.S. Army during World War II

He was past president of the Sacred Heart Holy Name Society and was grand knight of the North Quincy Knights of Columbus.

He was the father of seven children: Linda Bowes, Joseph W. Koch, Susan A. Larsen, Debra Eaton, Thomas P. Koch, Simone J. Leary, and former City Councillor Richard J. Koch, Jr.

He was also the grandfather of seven.

Bosworth thanked Sun readers for submitting the nominations and the panel of judges representing a cross section of the city for their willingness to serve.

"Because of them," he said, "this is truly a community award."

The award will be presented at a reception at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center in March.

Members of the judging panel:

Dr. Clayton Johnson, president of Quincy Junior College; Senator Paul Harold, School Committee vice-chairwoman Mary Collins, City Clerk John Gillis, Carmela Corbin, president North Quincy Business and Professional Association; Bernie Reisberg, City Harbormaster, businessman and past president Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, John DeCarli, president Quincy Sons of Italy; Thomas McDonald, past state VFW commander and past commander George Bryan VFW Post; and Ruth Wainwright, long-time community volunteer and winner of last year's Citizen of the Year Award.

The award will be presented at a reception at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center in March.

34 Others Nominated

There were 34 other nominees for The Quincy Sun "Citizen Of The Year Award" for 1987.

They are, in alphabetical order and with comment excerpts from those nominating them:

• RITA BROWN, Hobomack Rd., "She is the epitome of a good neighbor. Volunteers many hours weekly on behalf of area homeless; keeps a watchful eye on Merrymount's senior citizens, active with church and youth activities, dedicated hospital worker."--Jeanne Reardon, Chicatabut Rd.

• BRIAN BUCKLEY, coordinator Quincy Council on Aging and Quincy Youth commission: "He is involved with many activities in Quincy dealing with all ages. He is a positive influence on whoever he reaches. He is a dedicated worker."--Tom Stansbury, Everett.

• JOHN F. BURKE, JR.: "He saved my life" (in a three family house fire on Fayette St. Feb. 17. Seven firefighters were injured and eight occupants were forced to the street.) "The firemen arrived and told my brother (on the third floor) that the fire was uncontrollable and he had to leave the house at once. He replied, "I can't leave until I find my sister. I know she's up here somewhere. Then he heard movements under a blanket on the couch and found me. He then led me to safety to join the rest of our family, still dressed in just his underclothes. I wouldn't be here to share this story with you if it weren't for him."--Elizabeth Burke, Old Colony Ave.

• BETSY CANAVAN: "She takes care of her parents who are very sick. She also goes out of her way especially around the holidays to make sure the whole family is happy."--Barry Canavan, Pontiac Rd.

• JOHN P. (JAKE) COMER: National Commander American Legion--Joseph Hajjar, Edinboro Rd.

• HOWARD F. CROWLEY: "He is a very active citizen of Quincy. Park and Recreation Board member, Koch Club youth organizer and past Grand Knight Knights of Columbus, head usher Sacred Heart Church. Very outgoing, thoughtful of others.--Gail Crowley, Highland Ave.

• JACK T. DONAHUE: "As president and I believe founder of Project Feelings, Jack has made a great contribution for his "Sober Dances." His fight against drug abuse is so important."--Marilyn Hanabury, Hancock St.

• CLAIRE FITCH: "She is always helping anyone who is in need and one who will listen to what you have to say. She is one of a kind and my special friend."--Karen Spano, Greenleaf St.

• FRANCES FLYNN: "She has given selflessly of her time and talents for many years. Formerly as a Camp Fire Leader and long time committee member in that organization...currently doing weekly volunteer work at the Long Island Hospital...She drives neighbors and friends who are ill or without transportation to and from the hospital or doctors' appointments." -- Kathleen Cameron, Beach St.

• KAYE JORDAN, Charles St., retired registered nurse:

"For the past nine years every Wednesday, has volunteered as Blood Pressure Clinic nurse at the Houghs Neck Community Center...she is also a volunteer "on call" nurse at the Manet Health Center. People in the neighborhood call her and she comes to their house (and she doesn't drive) and ministers to them after they are released from the hospital."--Pat Ridlen, Rock Island Rd.

• SABINA KAVANAGH: "She has given so much of her efforts and materials to the handicapped, aged and senior citizens."--Phyllis Ciampa, Adams St.

• Fr. WILLIAM McCARTHY, pastor St. John's Church: "When someone does so much for the poor and homeless that a shelter is named for him, what else can be said but "Whatsoever you do to the least of my brethren, you do unto me."--Sue and Peter Graceffa, Exeter St.

• CHARLENE McDONALD: "Her leadership and generosity as the director of the Germantown Neighborhood Center has revived the neighborhood. As well, her work as vice-chairperson of the Quincy Human Relations Commission is helping the city to welcome new people into our city."--Rev. Frances H. Kelley, St. Boniface Church.

• JOHN H. McDUFF: "Because of his concern about animal welfare, including his efforts to build a new shelter and for his concern about the total quality of life in Quincy by his willingness to speak out on issues that concern us all."--Nancy Provost, Sea Ave.

• SHEILA McINTYRE, "She does a lot of work for elderly and Haiti and much, much more. She also is a great mother and was a great wife to James McIntyre, former mayor and senator."--Marie Romano, Manet Ave.

• WILLIAM McKINLEY, Small St.: "A wonderful neighbor. Always there to help in any way he can. Broken fuses, watching houses when we are away, taking in mail, etc."--E. Farrell, Small St.

• ANN McLAUGHLIN: "She tries to make a better life for people. She has organized and runs a literacy program for adults in the area. This program has enriched the lives of many people...She is actively involved in coordinating programs to serve Quincy's growing Asian community. She devotes a lot of her free time to these projects. As assistant director of the Crane Library, she has many other obligations which she fulfills with equal vision and grace."--Fairlie Kinnecom, Beach St.

• AL NACAR, owner Quincy Bay Inn and Grill 29 Restaurant: "Beginning in May of 1985, twice a month, Al opened the doors of the Grill 29 to groups in the community who are unable to dine out, due to physical and financial restrictions...June

Police Officer Shoots It Out With Burglars

Jan. 20-26, 1933
55 Years Ago

Patrolman John J. Sheehan shot it out with two burglars that he surprised trying to break into the office of the Quincy Coal Co., 156 Penn St., South Quincy. The officers fired six shots, the burglars three but no one was hit.

Sheehan said he was walking his beat and about to try the door to the coal company office when "the first thing that indicated anything was amiss was the report of a revolver and a bullet whizzing past my ear."

Sheehan is the brother-in-law of Patrolman Alfred Hollis, who was shot to death in 1927 by a man he caught cracking the safe in Pill Brothers Store on Hancock St. Stephen Hoppe later was convicted in the slayings.

TEACHERS VOLUNTEER MONEY

Members of the Quincy Teachers Association volunteered to contribute a portion of their salaries, the amount to be decided by the School Committee, "to meet the economic needs of those less fortunate than themselves."

Last year, the teachers donated two weeks' salary to the same cause.

The Police and Firemen's Relief Associations were expected to join the teachers in making a contribution.

Salmon Casserole

Tasty And Easy

One of my New Year's resolutions was that I was going to spend less time in the kitchen!!! And one of the things was to try to find some tasty recipes that didn't take too much time but were tasty! I found a great one ... a salmon casserole. It came out like a souffle! My husband didn't even say, "where's the pasta!"

POTATO SALMON CASSEROLE

2 cups salmon (I bought canned red salmon, you might find it a little espensive)
2 cups mashed potatoes (I used instant)
salt and pepper to taste
1 small onion (shredded)
a quarter cup shredded cheddar cheese

Remove the skin and the bones from the canned salmon. Mix well together and add the cooked potatoes, the salmon, salt and papper. Put in a greased casserole dish, and sprinkle the cheese over the top. Bake uncovered in a 350 degree oven for half an hour or until heated throgh the hall an hour or until heated through and brown on the top. This recipe served six. I served a tossed salad and corn on the cob the night we had it.

Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian-And Then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at That's Italian, Franklin St., South Quincy; Previte's Market, Sumner St., Quincy Point , Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount and Winfield Gift Emporium, Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Annual Meeting Sunday At Covenant Congregational

Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Sts., will hold its annual business meeting following the 10:45 a.m. worship service Sunday.

There will be a soup and sandwich luncheon preceding the meeting. Members are asked to bring sandwiches, cookies or squares for dessert and their own utensils. Clam chowder and coffee will be provided.

New officers and board members will be elected. All members are urged to attend.

Sunday School, with classes for nursery through adult, will meet at 9:30 a.m. At the morning worship service Rev. Fred Lawson will preach on the topic, "The Salt of the Earth."

A nursery is available for all children age five and under. The attendant will be Nancy Johnson. For children up to a age 12, there is junior church, led by Linda Day.

The choir, directed and accompanied on the organ by Richard Smith, minister of music, will sing "Holy Art Thou" by Handel. Luisa Dano, soprano soloist, will sing "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings" by Liddle. Smith will play "Prelude and Fugue in G Minor" by Bach as well as an offertory, prayer response and postlude.

Sunday, Jan. 31 will be pulpit exchange Sunday. Rev. Fred Lawson will preach at the Community Covenant Church in East Bridgewater, and Rev. Scot Gillan of East Bridgewater will preach in Quincy.

For more information about any of the church's activities, call the church office at 479-5728.

NEW PASTOR – Rev. Denis O'Driscoll, right, was recently installed as the new pastor of Most Blessed Sacrament Church, Houghs Neck, succeeding Rev. James Hart, left, who had been pastor for 19 years. Fr. Hart will retire to Brighton.

Officers Elected At Squantum First Church

The annual meeting of the First Church of Squantum was held last Friday.

Cynthia Stanton, clerk; Allyson Barnum, treasurer; Evelyn Ahearn, assistant treasurer; Patti Hurd, church school superintendent; Joan Hansen and Renee Johnson, church council members-at-large.

Katrina Silver, Flower Committee; Sandra Stohlberg, furnishings committee; Barbara Sorensen, property committee; Katrina Silver, stewardship committee; Lynda Thornton and Anne Wallin, wedding arrangements.

Special recognition was given to Renee Johnson and Robert Von Riegers by the presentation of certificates bearing the words, "for years of hard work and good service to the church."

The service Sunday was conducted by Tom Williamson, substituting for Rev. Gene Langevin, pastor. He preached on the subject of the Christian Habit.

Greeters were Lorraine and Fred Josslyn; ushers were Tore Wallin and Stewart Scott. Flowers on the altar were given in loving memory of Mrs. Mabel Tennant Adams by her daughter, Mrs. R.C. Richards.

It was announced that Jens "Papa" Thornton, a member of the church for over 60 years had died at age 95. It was also announced that Ralph Dougherty was returning home from the hospital.

'Christian Hate' Sermon Topic At Bethany Sunday

There will be two worship services this Sunday at Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center, at 9 a.m. in the chapel and at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary.

J. William Arnold, senior pastor, will preach at both hours on the topic of "Christian Hate." Rev. Joel F. Huntington, associate pastor, will lead the liturgy at both services.

The lay Scripture readers will be Jeanette Carnathan in the chapel and Maria I. Sanchez in the sanctuary.

At the 10 a.m. service, the chancel choir under the direction of Peter F. Krasinski, organist and choir director, will sing "Savior Like A Shepherd Lead Us" by Bradbury as the first anthem. They will also sing "Jesus Shall Reign Where'er the Sun" by John Hatton as the offertory anthem.

A special treat at this service as well will be the baptism of Margaret Vea Fernald Huntington, daughter of the Rev. Joel F. Huntington and Tora Fernald Huntington. Rev. Huntington will baptize his own daughter and the folk singing group will sing "Child of Blessing, Child of Promise" by Ruth Duck.

The worship service is broadcast live over WJDA, 1300 kc, at 10 a.m. In addition a cassette tape of the service can be obtained for $2 by contacting the church office at 479-7300.

The Sunday School will be in session from 10 to 11 a.m. with classes for children of pre-school through eighth grade. Nursery care for babies is also provided as well as a toddler class for those slightly older. Our Early Childhood Coordinator, Pamela Curran, will be present to supervise the care of infants through first graders.

Following worship the fellowship hour will take place in the social hall downstairs as the church prepares for its annual meeting. At 11:45 members and friends will sit down to an all-church pot luck dinner followed at 12:30 by the business portion of the gathering. Reports will be given, comments and reflections will be made, the budget will be discussed and voted upon, and officers and committee members will be elected. Such a meeting continues a long tradition of democratic decision-making that is rooted in our system of government and in the basic beliefs of those who are congregationalists. Individuals and families from the community are welcome to share in the worship and in the fellowship. You are also invited to enroll children in the Sunday School.

For additional information about Bethany's ministries contact the church office at 479-7300.

19, 1987 marked a milestone at the Grill 29. Al Nacar served his 5000th free lunch since he instituted the program two years prior...The happiness of the many groups was the only charge...There are people who do care in Quincy and Mr. Nacar is certainly one of them."--Hugo P. Fabrizio, Emerald St.

• WILLIAM, PETER and THOMAS O'CONNELL: For "their erection of the Memorial Clock Tower at Marina Bay dedicated to the men of Quincy who gave their lives in the Vietnam War."--John J. Walsh, Surfside Lane.

• GUSTAVE (GUS) OSTER: "Gus generously donates countless hours to the boys of Pack 14 Cub Scouts, Troop 14 Boy Scouts and to the Wollaston Congregational Church as deacon and head of the Youth Group."--Gilda Knowles, Sachem St.

• POLICE DEPT. DISPATCHERS (William Buckley and David Doherty). "As the new owner of a scanner I have become much more appreciative and aware of how important the Police Dept. is to the security of our city. The dispatcher plays a vital role in assigning members of the force to all kinds of emergencies especially during weather emergencies such as snowstorms, floods, etc. I marvel at the patience and at times, the sense of humor that this job requires."--Nancy Hart, Unity St.

• FRANK OSBORNE: For "his outstanding service and dedication to both Quincy High Fathers Club and Morrisette Post Baseball. For over 30 years he has been the official scorer, fund raising chairman and athletic officer for Morrisette Baseball."--Ray Cattaneo, Barry St.

• JANE REIKARD, executive director Quincy Rent Grievance Board: "Jane deserves this award more than anyone in this city for her hard work and long hours and dedication to the people of this city and their problems."--Mildred Kusser, Edgewater Dr.

• PATRICIA RIDLEN, director Houghs Neck Community Center: "She is a helpful, hard worker for the community. Good listener. Considerate and caring for the children, teen agers and senior citizens."--Peggy Shannon, Granite St.

• ESTHER SANGER, director Quincy Crisis Center: For all her tireless work in helping the homeless and hungry."Mary Tompkins, Clay St.

• DONALD STRONG, Elder Advocate, Beechwood Community Life Center: "He has done more to make the elderly active than anyone I've heard of through Senior Olympics and Elder Action."--Jean Jones, Edwards St.

• LOREN STROUT, president Quincy Tourism Council: "Quincy tourism has grown with Loren's tireless leadership. It has put Quincy on the map of national awareness."--Edith Matthes, Corinth, Vt., formerly of Quincy.

• ARTHUR H. TOBIN: "In a quiet, unassuming manner, he demonstrates the highest degree of kindness and compassion toward people of all walks of life. He is constantly performing kind acts without seeking any form of recognition. He truly deserves some appreciation."--Lawrence J. Falvey, Jr., Robertson St.

• MATTHEW D. TOBIN: "Matthew was a private person whose true personality--that of an unselfish, noble young man who privately contributed to charities only to please God and himself--was discovered only after his unfortunate and tragic death. To me, Matthew is not only the citizen of this year but of all years past and all to come."--Christine Flynn, Hollis Ave.

• AGNES M. TRILCOTT: "She has been involved in teaching swimming to handicapped children for the last 16 years: "Swim With A Special Child." Has been a member of the Christmas Festival Committee for 11 years. Was also with Koch Club for 13 years at Broadmeadows."--K. Kirby, Woodcliff Rd.

• GEORGE ZIEBA, driver of the Thomas Crane Library Bookmobile: "Provides a most valued service to ensure that no resident of Quincy should be denied access to books...He is the city of Quincy's most congenial Ambassador of Good Will. Each week he makes his rounds of the neighborhoods bringing joy and good cheer. He is most dedicated to his work of distributing book friends to the people of all ages throughout Quincy. He is the man for all seasons bringing his treasures to young and old."--John Noonan, 4 Alton Rd.

Planning ahead can offer peace of mind...

It is only human to put things off. But proper planning for the event of one's death can spare a family many traumatic decisions and financial burdens. By pre-arranging the desires and wishes of one's funeral, burial and expenses can be specified to eliminate confusion, differences of opinion and difficult decisions on the part of family members. To ease this burden, we are making available to you FREE a booklet with all necessary information and forms to assist and guide you. Why not visit us or write for your FREE Pre-arrangement Booklet.

Booklet covers the following subjects:

- Funeral and Interment Preferences
- Vital Statistics and Data
- Survivors Information, Social Security, Insurance, Bank Accounts, Real Estate, Automobile, Safety Deposit Box, Savings Bonds, Stocks and Bonds, Retirement Accounts and Veterans Benefits.
- Pre-Arrangement Information
- Three duplicate copies of a Funeral and Interment Pre-Arrangement Agreement.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

"If something can go wrong, it will" - (Murphy's Law) ... Indeed, as we read our daily newspapers and as we watch the nightly news on television with the reports of one disaster or tragedy after another, it seems that Murphy's Law is more true now than ever before.

And perhaps on the homefront, as well, the outlook is just as bleak. The bank account won't balance, the car won't start, out job is not secure or we don't know if the crop will get in. In addition, the kids won't stop bickering, and even the dog is starting to snarl at you!

Doesn't anyone care?

Of course, there is One who does care ... God still cares about you and about your situation. He cares what happens to you in your daily life as well as He cares about what happens to you eternally ...

And so, if you are feeling 'down and out' ... the day seems bleak ... Remember ... "...I have loved you with an everlasting love; therefore, I have continued my faithfulness to you." ... Jeremiah 31:3

ENC's Future Plans Public Meeting Topic Jan. 25

Wollaston residents are invited to attend a community meeting of the neighbors of Eastern Nazarene College to discuss the college's future plans on Monday, Jan. 25 at 7:30 p.m. in the O'Connell Auditorium of the Cove Fine Arts Building, Wendell Ave., on the college campus.

For the past two years ENC has engaged a professional campus planner to assist in developing long range plans for the enhancement of the campus. This campus consultant, Ray Bowman of McCall, Idaho, will share college plans at the meeting.

Dr. Nease said the Board of Trustees had asked Bowman to prepare a master plan for the next 25-year period. That plan has now been completed and approved in principle by the board of trustees. It has also been discussed with city leaders during a meeting last month.

Dr. Nease said it is important to discuss these plans with the neighbors of ENC. He also said the entire campus plan is based on utilizing property already owned by the college. The plan includes remodeling and upgrading existing facilities, campus beautification, improved traffic flow, parking and safety measures, and future building needs.

ENC is a four-year liberal arts college located in Quincy since 1918. Approximately two-thirds of the 900 students are residents of the campus.

The college has seen an historic growth rate of approximately two percent a year, which according to Dr. Nease, is the same growth rate that is being projected into the future.

Bristol County D.A. To Speak At Lions Meeting

Bristol County Dist. Atty. Ronald Pina will be the guest speaker at the Thursday, Jan. 28 Quincy Lions Club meeting.

His topic will be the Massachusetts Corrupt Practices Act. The 12 noon meeting will take place at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy.

Pina, president of the State District Attorney's Association, has been touring the state speaking to various organizations about this legislation, which is co-sponsored by the Massachusetts District Attorney's Association.

The Massachusetts Corrupt Practices Act, the Massachusetts version of the national RICO bill, directly affects such issues as white collar crime, organized crime and drug trafficking. The recommendation that it be enacted into legislation was the subject of Massachusetts Atty. Gen. James Shannon's op-ed piece in the Jan. 4 Boston Globe.

Pina is best known for the successful prosecution of several major cases, including the nationally known Big Dan rape case of several years ago.

Anneli Johnson On Trip To Israel, Holland

Quincy resident Anneli Johnson of the Massachusetts Department of Food and Agriculture will be among a group of 17 people which will leave Saturday, Jan. 23 for a 10 day trip to Israel and Holland.

Mrs. Johnson will join the director of the Division of Agricultural Development and University of Massachusetts researchers on the trip.

The group is making the trip on the invitation of Israel's ministry of agriculture to see research underway into methods of growing and developing new fruits, vegetables and flowers.

Participants will pay their own way with some assistance from the agriculture ministry.

Focus will be on the research of solar heated greenhouses, methods and irrigation-fertilization techniques.

"I look forward to visiting the Man and His Work Pavilion at the Haaretz Museum where the development of agriculture since the ancient times is displayed, and to meet with representatives of the Friends of the Botanical Gardens at the Hebrew University," said Mrs. Johnson.

"My interest is to learn more about vegetable growing out of season in an under cover environment, such as hydroponics, since Massachusetts is highly dependent on imported foods (86 percent) and develop a slide show for others to learn from this experience," she said.

The tour will also include a trip to Holland and the Alsmeer Flower Auction to see the world's largest floral market.

Raiders Shed Lead, Settle For Tie With Newton N.

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy hockey team, following an impressive win over Quincy, lost a 5-2 lead last Saturday and had to settle for a 5-5 tie with Newton North.

Kevin Jago's Raiders (7-3-1) were idle last night (Wednesday), will be home to Waltham Saturday night at 7:50 at the Youth Arena and will host Brookline, one of the Suburban League's top teams, next Wednesday at 6:40, also at the Youth Arena.

North appeared headed for its eighth win against Newton North as it rolled out to a 5-2 lead, but then things fell apart as Newton scored three unanswered goals to salvage the tie.

"We just fell asleep," said assistant coach Rick Avery. "We hope this will be our one bad game of the year, because we have some tough games coming up and can't afford to lose leads like this if we hope to make the tournament. We played an excellent game against Quincy and were doing another good job until we let that lead get away against Newton."

Matt Furtado continued his outstanding play as he had his third hat trick of the season and added two assists. He is the number two scorer in the league with 19 goals and 15 assists for 34 points. Brockton's Kevin Burke has 15 goals and 25 assists for 40 points, tops in the state.

Jay Rodrigues had a goal and three assists, Billy Dineen a goal, Paul McGrath two assists and Joe Keegan one.

Earlier in the week North turned in an excellent performance to top Quincy, 5-2, as Brian Mahoney had a great night in goal with 27 saves.

Furtado had another hat trick, all three goals being unassisted, and also had an assist.

Joe Kane and Joey Fasano had the other goals and Joe Keegan had an assist.

"This was a classic North Quincy-Quincy game," said Jago. "These are two teams that lift hearts on ice. They are as balanced as two teams can get. Our key is our special teams. We had a solid team defense, especially when we were down two men. Our kids really are beginning to believe now."

Quincy was unable to capitalize on two five-on-three manpower advantages.

• St. Ann's League

Noonan's 6 Goals, 5 Assists Powers Lydon, 10-5

Mike Noonan had six goals and five assists to lead Lydon-Russell to a 10-5 victory over the Bruins in St. Ann's Youth Hockey League Bantam Division action.

Chris Oliver had the other four goals. Mike Reilly had two goals and two assists, Dan Miller had two goals and an assist and Lou Bertucci a goal for the Bruins.

Plaza Olds topped M&I, 10-6, as Steve Reilly had a hat trick and three assists, Lou Rodophele a hat trick and two assists, Jeff Connor two goals and two assists and Mark Lonczak two goals and an assist. For M&I John Palazzola had two goals and an assist, Bob Ieradi two goals and Chris McDermott two goals.

In Pee Wee Division action Keohane's and Colonial Federal tied, 4-4. Lou Bertucci had two goals and an assist, Bo Smith a goal and assist and Kevin Barrett a goal and assist for Keohane's. Joe Schlicte had two goals and three assists, Scott Bradberry two goals and an assist and Kevin Karlberg four assists for Colonial Federal.

Ideal Elevator and Goodhue's also tied, 4-4, with Steve Dean having two goals and two assists, Sean Dean a goal and assist and James Grant a goal for Ideal. Brian Fitzgerald had a hat trick and an assist and John DiCristofaro a goal for Goodhue's.

Presidents Bombed By Brockton, 7-1

The Quincy hockey team, after four straight wins, has fallen on hard times and last Saturday lost to Brockton, 7-1, for its third loss in a row, dropping its record to 6-5.

Bob Sylvia's Presidents hoped to get back on the right track last night (Wednesday) against Cambridge Rindge and Latin. Saturday they will host one of the Suburban League's top teams, Brookline, at 5:30 at the Quincy Youth Arena.

Quincy stayed with Brockton for two periods but the Boxers, led by the state's top scorer, Kevin Burke, exploded for five goals in the third period.

Both goalies, Brockton freshman Ken Schwabe and Quincy's Greg Chambers, stood out in the first two periods as Brockton took a 2-0 lead into the final session.

Here Burke, who has 15 goals and 25 assists, scored all four of his goals as the Boxers pulled away.

Chuck Quigley scored the only Quincy goal late in the game with Shawn O'Neil and Chris LaForest assisting.

"They just overpowered us in the last period," said Quincy assistant coach George Peachey. "Their young goalie was just outstanding and Greg (Chambers) also was excellent for two periods. Brockton swarmed all over him in the last period and he didn't have much chance on most of the shots."

Earlier in the week Quincy lost to North Quincy, 5-2, although out-shooting the Raiders, 29-20.

The Presidents were unable to take advantage of two five-on-three situations and they couldn't handle North's Matt Furtado, who turned in his third hat trick of the season.

It was 1-0, North, after a period, but the Raiders added two goals in each of the next two periods while Quincy was held to single goals in the second and third periods as North's Brian Mahoney had 27 saves.

With North leading, 2-0, Paul Scola scored for Quincy with Ken Staskywicz assisting. In the third period, with North ahead, 4-1, Rod Davis scored an unassisted goal.

"I give a lot of credit to North Quincy," said Sylvia. "We were beaten by a better team and credit should be given to North's kids and coaches. We are capable of playing better hockey. Maybe we were tired, but they didn't let us play our game."

Mount Holds Off Timmins To Win Jaehnig Title

The Mount held off Timmins Contracting to take a dramatic 76-73 victory to win the championship of the Jaehnig Chiropractic Fall Basketball League. The Mount, which also won the spring league title, finished with a 13-0 record.

Bruno Giles led the way for the Mount, scoring 18 of his game-high 26 points in the second half. Ray Baltz added 24 points and league MVP and high scorer Mark Millane chipped in with 22. Kurt O'Sullivan played a steady floor game and had four points.

Timmins, behind Billy Murphy, who scored all 20 of his points in the second half, made one of its patented second-half comebacks but couldn't quite pull the upset.

Timmins trailed by 14 points at one point, but cut the lead to a single point with 15 seconds left, only to have its final shot bounce off the rim. A last second foul shot accounted for the final three-point differential.

The second all-star team includes Mike Keeley of Lower Mills, Rich McGuire of the Jaehnig Club, Steve Millane, Rick Stoltz of the Quincy Nets and Paul Forbes of Joe's.

The all-hustle club consisted of Murphy and Hourihan, David Britt of Jaehnig Club, Tom Henry of Joe's and Joe DeLuca of Lower Mills.

Newcomb, Balducci Win

Newcomb Farms maintained its one-point lead in the Mite House League with a 3-0 victory over Lydon-Russell.

Jason Ivas, Robbie Winter and Bruce Stenberg scored the goals and Ryan Barrett, John Bertucci, Chris DiMattia and Winter had assists. Goalie Timmy Sheehan recorded the shutout.

Balducci's stopped the Paul Harold Club, 6-1, paced by Patrick McGinn's hat trick. Joe Bracken, Kevin Regan and Bill Barron had a goal apiece. Mike Gallagher had three assists, Regan and John Barron two apiece and Bill Barron, McGann and John-Paul Laukkanen one each.

Tommy Sullivan scored for Harold.

The standings: Newcomb Farms, 7-4-1; Balducci's, 6-4-2, Lydon-Russell, 5-6-1; Harold, 4-8-0.

Keohane's Defeats UCT, Bersani, Colonial Tie

Keohane's increased its Pee Wee House League lead to two points with a 4-2 victory over UCT.

Jim Ford, John Lewis, Kevin Flaherty and Jim Cipriano scored the goals and Ford, Michelle Melone and Peter Nee had assists. Scott Wysocki and Lou Bertucci scored for UCT and Jamie Schatzl and Mike Grant had assists.

Second-place Bersani Brothers tied Colonial Federal, 3-3. John McGowan, John MacNeil and Kevin Mantville scored for Bersani and Jimmy Smith had two assists and Brian Kelley and Mike DesRoche one each. Joe Carinci, Eric Kreuz and John Foley scored for Colonial Federal and Mark Zych, Aidan O'Donoghue, Mike Morrison and Nelson Gee had assists.

The standings: Keohane's, 7-4-1; Bersani, 5-4-3; UCT, 4-5-3, Colonial Federal, 3-6-3.

• Squirt House

Johnson Edges Sun, Takes First Place

Johnson Motor Parts moved ahead of the Quincy Sun for first place in the Squirt House League by defeating the Sun, 3-2.

Carlos Suchan had two goals and Joe McPhee one for Johnson, while R.J. DiMattia had an assist. Scot MacPherson and Joshua Wingate scored for the Sun and MacPherson had an assist.

The standings: Johnson, 8-3-1; Quincy Sun, 7-3-2, Doran & Horrigan, 4-6-4, Burgin Platner, 1-8-3.

Pee Wee B's Move Up

Quincy's Pee Wee B hockey team, sponsored by AT&T Movers, has moved up to the lower A Division of the Greater Boston League.

During first round competition of the District 3 playdowns, Quincy soundly defeated Dedham, 17-0, paced by Scott Joyce and David Edwards with a hat trick and an assist each.

Kevin Mantville had two goals and two assists, Karen McCabe a goal and three assists, Jeff Craig four assists, Brian Fitzgerald two goals and an assist, Steve Miller a goal and two assists, Brian Sullivan three assists, Chris Connor two goals, Jim Smith two goals, John Gladu a goal and assist, Dan Morrell two assists and Mike DesRoche and Joe Carinci an assist each.

Cambridge Too Hot At Foul Line For Quincy

The Quincy boys' basketball team, which recently celebrated its first win in over a year, turned in one of its best performances of the season last Friday, but Cambridge Rindge and Latin's proficiency from the free throw line in the second half led to a 67-59 decision over the Presidents (1-8).

John Franceschini's Quincy team was scheduled to face North Quincy Tuesday and will play at Newton North Friday night at 7:30.

Joe Russell and Dan Biagini combined for 30 points as Quincy had one of its better shooting nights, but Cambridge hit on 15 of 17 free throws in the second half.

Russell scored 16 points, including two three-pointers, while Biagini had 14 points, also including a pair of three-pointers. Mike Perkins had six points and nine rebounds for the Presidents.

Quincy cut a 28-21 halftime deficit to four points on a Biagini layup with 3:30 to play, but Cambridge's Mike Williams, the game's top scorer with 25 points, hit on six straight free throws to nail down the win.

Earlier in the week Quincy was outclassed by Brockton (8-1), 91-51, as the Boxers used their greater height to good advantage.

Biagini scored 14 points as the Presidents cut a 12-4 deficit to two, 14-12, but Brockton went on a scoring spree and scored the next 32 points. Brockton held a huge 66-26 edge after three quarters.

Scott Logan paced the Presidents with 11 points and Chris Noble added 10.

North Struggles With 3 Top Players Out

The North Quincy boys' basketball team continues to struggle with three of its top players out of action and last week the Raiders lost their third straight Suburban League game to Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 55-48, dropping their record to 5-5.

Ted Stevenson hoped to have his son, Teddy, one of his top scorers and one of the best three-point shooters in the area, back for North's game last Tuesday against Quincy. The Raiders will host Waltham Friday night at 7:30 and will play at Brookline next Tuesday at 5 p.m.

Eric DeBoer, who came up from the junior varsity in the previous game, and Billy MacDougall had 10 points each to pace North, while Kip Caldwell had a fine game and chipped in with eight points.

Cambridge had only a 31-28 halftime lead but outscored North, 11-6, in the third quarter to salt things away.

Quincy Girls Defeat Cambridge

The Quincy girls' basketball team defeated Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 51-46, last Friday to improve its record to 4-5.

The First Ladies were scheduled to meet North Quincy Tuesday and will be home to Newton North Friday at 5 p.m.

As usual, the Morrell sisters, Gayle and Patti, paced Quincy's attack against Cambridge. Gayle had a big night with 29 points, 16 of them in the second half, while Patti had 10 points and 11 rebounds.

Karen Craig had seven rebounds and two steals for Quincy and Kristen McGhee turned in a solid defensive performance.

The First Ladies trailed, 26-24, at halftime but came back to take a 37-30 advantage going into the fourth quarter.

Earlier in the week Quincy lost to Brockton, 59-32, with Gayle Morrell scoring 12 points and Patti eight.

Quincy trailed, 13-10, after a quarter but Brockton extended its lead to 29-17 at the half and 44-22 after three quarters.

Tough Week For Raiderettes

The North Quincy girls' basketball team saw its record fall to 5-4 (0-3 in the Suburban League) when it lost to Newton North, 50-33, and Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 45-38, last week.

Paul Bregoli's Raiderettes were scheduled to play Quincy Tuesday night, will play at Waltham Friday at 5 p.m. and will be home to Brookline Tuesday at 5.

North led early at Cambridge last Friday behind baskets by Nancy Flukes and Patty Feeney. However, Cambridge ran off nine points in a row to take a 9-4 lead and North's impatience on offense hurt as it trailed by three after a quarter.

The Raiderettes missed seven layups in the second quarter and shot only two for 18. Flukes hit for two baskets and two free throws, but Cambridge went off the floor with a 21-14 lead at the half.

Cambridge opened up a 13-point lead before North finally got going as two Feeney baskets, three for Paula Tolson and a Rita Rooney layup brought North to within four, 35-31. Behind, 39-33, with two minutes left, Flukes hit a three-pointer and was fouled.

She completed the four-point play to make it 39-37, but on the next Cambridge shot North failed to collect the rebound and Cambridge scored the basket and added the free throw. The Raiderettes then ran out of gas.

Flukes had 14 points and five steals, Tolson 12 points and six steals, Feeney a season high 10 points and eight rebounds and Rooney seven rebounds, five steals and five assists.

North's inability to take care of the ball in the first quarter against Newton North proved decisive as the Raiderettes turned the ball over 11 times early. After Tolson hit a long jumper to tie the score at two, North did nothing until Melissa Miles hit a free throw in the second quarter. Newton took a big 21-3 lead before Flukes hit a three-pointer and then added a jump shot off the blass. Tolson hit another long jumper before Feeney's steal and layup closed the gap slightly. Newton had a 30-12 lead at halftime.

North fell farther behind in the third quarter with Rooney's the third quarter with Rooney's basket on an offensive rebound the only hoop in the quarter. Free throws by Stacey Welch, Flukes and Feeney were the only other North points.

Defensively, Kerri McDonald played well as did Karen Reister, who took a charge and gathered in three rebounds.

The Raiderettes made one last run early in the fourth quarter behind another three-pointer by Flukes, an offensive rebound by Flukes and two Feeney free throws. A Tolson jumper cut the lead to 13, but that was as close as North came.

Flukes had 16 points and seven rebounds, Tolson eight points and six rebounds, Kellene Duffy two assists and three steals and Rooney seven rebounds.

Finian's Leads Olindy's Junior All-Stars

With only one week left in the first half, Finian's still leads Olindy's Junior All-Star Bowling League with a 52-26 record, followed by Marchionne Insurance at 50-28.

The rest of the standings: Mike's Auto Body, 48-30; Tony's, 46-32; Patriot Glass, 44-34; Dom's, 43-35; President Pharmacy, 43-35; Scarry Realty, 38-40; Eco Muffler, 38-40; Sweeney Brothers, 38-40; Olindy's 1, 36-42; Patriot Service, 32-46; Adams Cleaners, 30-48; Goodhues, 27-51; Hancock Tire, 27-51; Olindy's 2, 24-54.

Bowlers of the week were Joey Inferrera, who rolled a 296, 53 pins over his average with a high string of 103; Joe Carr, who had a 277, 52 pins over his average with a high string of 96, and Randy Urich, who bowled 291, 45 pins over his average with a high string of 107.

Team of the week was Scarry's, which took all six points from Sweeney Brothers with a high team three of 955. John Swett rolled 214, Carl Boomhower 233, Brian Noonan 273 and Eddie Downey 235.

'Hold Onto Life' Record To Aid Suicide Prevention

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Last year, a suicide prevention organization in Boston received more than 75,000 phone calls from people seeking help.

This year, even more people may be helped, thanks to a rock and roll band and one of its songs.

The Citizenz, a five-member local pop rock band, recently released a four song EP entitled "Enz With Z" that includes the track "Hold Onto Life," a song about preventing suicide.

That song, which has been played by several Boston area radio stations including WBCN, WAAF and WFNX, could become part of an advertising campaign for the Samaritans-Samariteens, a suicide prevention organization in Boston.

According to Susan Bratton, assistant director of the Samaritans, the support group received over 75,000 phone calls last year, including more than 5,000 calls from the Samariteen line. That line was initiated in November, 1986, to specifically help troubled and desperate teenagers, she said.

According to Bratton and Citizens lead singer Bob Anderson, of Quincy, "Hold Onto Life" should help suicidal people, especially teenagers, do just that.

"I think it will make teenagers more aware that there is a teen service available to help them," said Bratton, who added the Samariteens handle over 200 calls a week.

"The kids really like it (the song) and people have called us looking for it. The song will help us help others. We've got a lot of calls already reacting to the song," she said, adding the song is being considered as a part of a future advertising campaign.

Anderson, the Citizenz spokesman, said the song's main message is about not taking one's life, no matter how desperate the situation.

"Everyone has a choice in life and as bad as things may get, you've got to work to overcome it. There's always something that you can put your efforts into to make the world a little better," Anderson said.

"They (Samaritans-Samariteens) like the song because it gives a message without preaching," he added.

According to Bratton, the song is very popular.

"Everyone took a liking to it. The Citizenz are a very enthusiastic group and are willing to help. They have the attitude we're looking for," she said.

The Citizenz, which formed five years ago, includes band members James Loving, lead guitarist and vocals; Joe Harper, keyboards; Andrew Perfetto, electric bass; Ron "Buzzy" Sylvester, drums and percussion; and Anderson. The band performs only original music.

The idea for "Hold Onto Life" came from the personal experiences of two band members. A 16-year old cousin of Anderson's committed suicide three years ago, a friend of Loving's did the same a year ago. Together they wrote the song's lyrics.

"There's not a lot you can do to prevent suicide," admitted Anderson, "but if this song can influence one person not to, then the song is helping the situation."

"Hold Onto Life" closes the EP with Harper and Loving supplying a catchy melody line. Anderson adds impassioned vocals to the track singing "Hold on to life, don't throw it away." Other songs on the record are "The Boy in Me," "Wish I Held on to You," and "Tears Are Falling."

The EP was produced by Tony Bongiovi, owner and producer at the renowned power station in New York. Bongiovi is the first cousin and producer of rock star Jon Bon Jovi. Other notable groups he's produced include the talking Heads and the legendary Jimmy Hendrix.

The Citizenz received their first "big break" when one of Bongiovi's scouts saw the band perform at a Boston nightclub a year and a half ago. She approached the group after its performance and told them if and when they were in New York, to stop in with a demo tape and see Bongiovi at the Power Station. Anderson said the band traveled to New York six months ago to meet with Bongiovi. But once there, they were turned away because Bongiovi was too busy producing material for the Talking Heads.

But the trip did pay off.

"He (Bongiovi) told us he would listen to the tape and get back to us. After listening to it, he changed his mind and said 'I'll find the time to produce it,'" Anderson said.

Things continued to go the Citizenz way once they returned to Boston. The band held a record release party for "Enz With Z" at the Paradise in Boston on Nov. 17. The show was sold out with 500 people attending, including WBCN disc jockey Mark Parenteau and John Garrabe, dean of television channel 66. Scouts from EMI-America were there as well.

"The show went really well. Tony (Bongiovi) has been very excited representing us in our search for a major (recording) label. It's a question of waiting and getting a good deal," Anderson said.

Citizenz has been described as a "metal-edged pop band" along the sounds of Van Halen and Bon Jovi. But Anderson insists that the Citizenz' sound is unique and more closely resembles Genesis and Rush.

Although making it big in the music world is a long shot, they do have the tools needed to build their success. Perfetto has a marketing degree and is employed at the Berklee College of Music. Loving holds a music degree from the University of Wisconsin and Sylvester graduated from college with a management degree.

"We are all very talented musicians and we work well together. The chemistry is good," Anderson said, adding that this is a definite career move.

"We want to be a good rock and roll act but also, in some way, help the community. We'd like to be looked up to as having a clean image," Anderson said.

As for the many potholes along the road to success, Anderson said, "Anyone who's had a taste of the entertainment field wants to stay in it. Being a musician is very rewarding but it does have its ups and downs," he added.

Bound to help them in their quest for success is their upcoming "Hold Onto Life Tour," scheduled to begin in Boston in March. The band will also perform in Worcester, Cape Cod and New York and depending on resources, will play in several major cities across the United States.

Anyone wishing to contribute to the tour can send donations to the Samaritans, care of Hold Onto Life Tour, 500 Commonwealth Ave., Boston, MA 02215. All tour proceeds and donations will benefit the Samaritans.

WEEK OF: January 21

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
Originality and curiosity are your trademarks – and you're very much an individualist. That individuality, as you know, can work for or against you. The next 6 months find you making a commitment to an important cause. Throughout the year, your closest relationships are enhanced.

AQUARIUS – January 21 - February 19
Reviewing ancient history can prove counterproductive; make an added effort to get on with the new year. Your knack for bringing together people and ideas pays off.

PISCES – February 20 - March 20
Brainstorming sessions bring results in a week that accents career and education. Communications snags may temporarily keep your message from getting through; be persistent.

ARIES – March 21 - April 20
Year is off to a work-oriented start, and this week favors conferences and long-term planning. Home environment is unusually hectic. Allow time for comprehensive health review.

TAURUS – April 21 - May 22
Good week for rearranging objects and redeveloping ideas. Some detours prove inevitable over the weekend. First and second impressions may be misleading at this time.

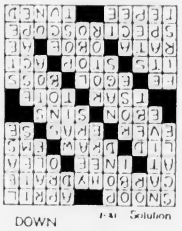
GEMINI – May 23 - June 21
Offbeat ideas prove surprisingly sound. Your gift of gab wins you the admiration of an influential individual. You play a key role in motivating a young person.

CANCER – June 22 - July 22
By reading a variety of publications you can solve a mystery or two. Public speaking engagements may be featured after the weekend. Financial favor is returned.

LEO – July 23 - August 22
The week sees you enjoying the limelight. Some local travel may lead to the development of a new interest. Intuition is uncommonly strong. Sense of humor wins friends.

VIRGO – August 23 - September 22
Try to stay clear of feuds – once involved, it's hard to remain objective. Average job becomes more exciting. Your organizational abilities may lead to advancement.

LIBRA – September 23 - October 22
The new year favors self-improvement – so long as your plan is realistic. Work environment sees you taking a stand on an important issue. Interest in foreign cultures develops.



SCORPIO – October 23 - November 21
Relatives are especially supportive. Coworkers, meanwhile, may lean too heavily on your crying shoulder. Real estate ventures should be checked out with a professional.

SAGITTARIUS – November 22 - December 22
An argumentative acquaintance becomes suspiciously easy to please; you're probably wise to remain somewhat skeptical. Romance accents its sentimental side. Intellectual discussions prove rewarding.

CAPRICORN – December 23 - January 20
Invitations arrive unexpectedly and opportunities to travel may develop on short notice. Recent acquisition may prove more valuable than you initially believe. Review of budget is imperative.

BORN THIS WEEK
January 21st, singer Placido Domingo; 22nd, actor Bill Bixby; 23rd, actor John Vince; 24th, actor Ernest Borgnine; 25th, actor Dean Jones; 26th, singer Eartha Kitt; 27th, dancer Mikhail Baryshnikov.

Crime Watch

By ROBERT HANNA
Crime Prevention Officer
Quincy Police Department

Workplace Crime Prevention Tips

- Keep your purse, wallet, or other valuables with you at all times or locked in a drawer or closet.
- Check the identification of any strangers who ask for confidential information or any delivery or repair persons who want to enter an area restricted to employees.
- Be discreet. Don't advertise your social life or vacation plans, or those of fellow employees, to strangers visiting your place of work.
- Park in well-lighted and well travelled areas.
- If you must work late or at odd hours, walk with a group or ask another employee or security guard to escort you to your car.
- If you notice any suspicious person or vehicles, notify security personnel or police immediately. Trust your instincts and never hesitate to report anythig that makes you feel uneasy.
- For your own sake, and to protect others, take the time and effort to pursue your case through the courts.

Take Action Today!

- Ask your employer to sponsor a crime prevention program for employees. Call me at 479-1212, ext. 368 for further information.
- Assess your workplace's vulnerability to crime. Look at access conrol, locks and doors, visibility, lighting, parking arrangements, secure places for employees' belongings. Give suggestions to management.
- If a co-worker is a victim of crime, be supportive. Help with things like getting to court and contacting a victim service program.

If you, your company or neighborhood would like to start a Crime Prevention Program, please call me at 479-1212, ext 368 and I will forward the information to you.

Remember if we all work together we can "Take A Bite Out Of Crime."

Mite A's Win On Late Goal

With 10 seconds remaining, Mark Regan, Scot Cooper, Danny Hughes and John Ryan forced the play deep in the Canton end. Regan controlled the puck around the back of the Canton net, turned and tried to tuck it between the post and the Canton goalie. The puck appeared to have been tied up, but fell loose and Cooper scored the winner.

The second period was all Quincy as it played great position with John Ryan and Hughes played their finest, breaking up plays every time Canton had control of the puck.

Canton, however, came back to score the tying goals in a minute and two seconds.

With three minutes left, Robbie Pirelli, Mat Watkins and Brian Walsh back-checked well and kept Canton out of reach. The play of the game came as Brian Beaton stopped a breakaway of Canton's best skater and scorer. He played an outstanding game.

Grande Takes Lead In St. John's League

John Grande finally overtook Bob Saluti and leads St. John's Holy Name Bowling league with a 101.4 average, followed by Saluti's 100.8.

Squirt B's Edge Brookline, 2-1

Quincy's Squirt B hockey team took its first step forward in the tournament leading to the state championship by defeating Brookline, 2-1, at the Drexler Arena in Brookline.

It was a qualifying match for the state District 3 title.

It was a tight defensive game with goalies Mike Manganaro of Quincy and Sam May of Brookline dominating a scoreless first period.

Quincy made it 2-0 in the third period when Steve Barrett scored on passes from Dan Mann and Ron McGann.

Brookline averted a shutout with a goal with three minutes left in the game.

Goalie Joe MacLennan and the Quincy defense turned in outstanding efforts to hold off Brookline in the waning minutes.

Returning to regular Greater Boston League action, Quincy lost a 3-2 squeaker to Pembroke in the final minute of the game.

Following an early Pembroke score, Quincy tied it late in the first period when Geary scored from an assist by Jim Keegan. Pembroke went ahead but Quincy again tied it up on a Geary goal with an assist for Eric Griffin, who had stolen the puck and got behind the entire Pembroke defense. Pembroke, however, scored with a minute left to win it.

Police Chief, Francis Finn, also a board member said "we must get the message out to the establishments that if they hire minors they are going to be held accountable."

Sgt. Laracy also wrote to the board in regards to all establishments where there is a combination of music, dance and alcohol including function halls with outside rentals as well as their own club member functions hiring a detailed Police Officer.

On New Year's Eve, Laracy said he found that the Morrisette Legion Post and the Quincy Legion Post among others, had New Year's Eve parties without a police officer on duty.

"During my tour of duty I check on as many police details that I can during the night," said Laracy. "This is how I came upon this problem."

City Clerk John Gillis who is also chairman of the board continued these issues until Jan. 26 so that board members can review each letter.

Engine 3 in Quincy Point and Engine 8 in Germantown had four persons per truck, he said.

Parker noted that the courts have stated that manning is a management prerogative.

"The mayor determines that," said Parker.

Mayor Francis McCauley said that Quincy fairs well in comparison of manpower to other local cities and towns.

McCauley also said that "an exhaustive study" of the fire department was conducted four years ago and it showed that staffing was adequate to cover the city.

Parker said he is not aware of such a study and would like to see a copy of it.

"If he wants a copy I can provide one to him," McCauley said.

McCauley said that a copy of the report had been supplied to William Barron, former union president.

McCauley Leaves For Mayor's Washington Conference

Mayor Francis McCauley was scheduled to leave Wednesday for the Mayor's Mid-Winter Conference Jan. 20-22 in Washington, D.C.

Also planning to make the trip were Planning Director Richard Meade, City Solicitor Joseph (Jay) MacRitchie, and Peter Kenney, the mayor's executive secretary.

The conference was to cover a range of urban issues and mayoral concerns, including holding the line against any additional reductions in federal urban programs in fiscal 1989.

Costs $317,868 -- $17,868 Over

Storms Wipe Out Snow Funds

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The city has exceeded its snow removal budget by $17,868 so far this winter season, but that doesn't mean that the plows won't be hitting the streets for the next storm.

"We will either charge the difference to next year's tax rate or take the money from any surplus that is available at the end of the year," said Mayor Francis McCauley.

"In recent years, we have been in good enough shape that we didn't have to add it to the tax rate.

"We don't run the snow account like other accounts," explained McCauley.

"We are allowed under special state legislation to spend additional funds without first seeking appropriations from the City Council," said McCauley.

The city had budgeted $300,000 for snow removal this year.

Snow removal for the four storms so far this season has cost a total of $317,868.94, according to McCauley.

That breaks down to $67,161.10 for payroll, and $250,707.84 for hired contractors and equipment maintenance, he said.

McCauley noted the difficulty in estimating how much money should be appropriated in the yearly budget for snow removal.

"We haven't had severe winters since the Blizzard of '78," said McCauley. "The $300,000 amount is usually in the ball park."

"If we appropriate more, we are taking it out of another department's budget."

He added that several years ago, the snow budget was increased to $300,000.

According to City Auditor Robert Foy, a total of $536,172.17 was spent for snow removal in fiscal 1987.

There was originally $300,000 appropriated in the budget for that purpose, and the council approved the additional money at the end of the fiscal year, Foy said.

In 1986, only $197,456.74 was spent for snow removal from $300,000 that had been appropriated, according to Foy.

Cost for snow removal in 1985 was $337,819.95. Some $127,461 had been originally budgeted, but that was later increased to $340,679, Foy said.

McGRUFF, the Crime Fighting Dog, is the newest member of the Quincy Police Department. He will work with Officer Bob Hanna, left, in the Crime Prevention Unit of the department. At right, is Jerry Gardiner, treasurer of the Quincy Police Betterment Association which purchased the McGruff program and costume. McGruff was portrayed by Kevin Cook, association vice president.

McGruff will work with Officer Bob Hanna in the Crime Prevention Unit of the department, according to Police Chief Francis Finn.

Among his many duties, McGruff will present a three-part Crime Prevention Program to elementary school children. The elementary program deals with three very important topics that children face every day, said Finn.

The first topic deals with drugs. McGruff warns children about drugs, both legal and illegal drugs. He makes it clear that drugs are like poison, but unlike poison, drugs have no warning labels. McGruff teaches children how to stand up to peer pressure and how to protect themselves from people who try to persuade them to take drugs.

The next topic is on personal property. McGruff explains that things belong to people and dramatically illustrates the reasons why youngsters can't take what isn't theirs. The dramatizations include "borrowing" without asking, stealing from a store and taking something from a friend which puts the friendship at risk.

The third topic is a guide to personal safety. In this segment, McGruff helps children understand that they have personal space. He explains that everybody has the right to protect their personal space, to refuse to allow someone to be physically close, even a relative, friend or neighbor. McGruff also makes it clear that people need to be close to those they love and trust. He illustrates the difference between the actions of people whose closeness is natural and those who may put the child's safety at risk.

The McGruff Program and character costume were purchased by the Quincy Police Betterment Association and presented to Crime Prevention Officer Bob Hanna to help keep the children of Quincy from becoming victims of crime.

Smoking Regulations, Self-Service Gas Stations Before Council Feb. 1

Proposed ordinance changes regulating smoking in restaurants and allowing self-serve gasoline stations in Quincy will be among the agenda items at the City Council's Ordinance Committee meeting Monday night, Feb. 1.

The committee will also consider at its 6:45 p.m. meeting other ordinance changes submitted by the mayor dealing with cleaning of streets and sidewalks by property owners, and replacing 5 cent per hour parking meters with 10 cent per hour meters in Quincy.

The committee will make its recommendation to the council which meets at 7:30 p.m.

"Self-serve filling stations are an issue in Ward 1," said Michael Cheney, newly appointed Ordinance Committee chairman.

"I have deep reservations about allowing it."

Cheney explained that he was concerned about the senior citizens who use gas stations.

"If we had a tremendous influx of self serve stations, then I would want to be assured that an attendant would be there to help someone out who could not pump gas.

"Also, gas stations are not easily accessible to people in handicapped vans at self serve stations."

Cheney said he was also concerned that if the ordinance change was approved, stations would apply to the License Board to sell other items.

"Most self serve stations in other cities and towns have another function," said Cheney. "They sell such items as cigarettes, bread and milk.

"I have some reservations about controls."

Cheney said he generally favored smoking regulations proposed by the mayor which would require air cleaning systems in restaurants which allow smoking, and a no-smoking section in establishments with over 40 seats.

The clean streets ordinance would prohibit residents from littering streets, and require property owners to take "reasonable" efforts to keep sidewalks and gutters adjacent to their property free of all waste, litter and other offensive material.

Fine for violation would not exceed $100.

REP. MICHAEL MORRISSEY discussed the role of a state representative in government during a recent visit with fourth graders at the Wollaston School. Morrissey's visit was a follow-up to the classes recent visit to the State House. Teachers are Peggy Daly, Denise Leonard and Joanne Daley.

Buckley Named Park-Forestry Asst. Executive Secretary

Mayor Francis McCauley announces the appointment of Brian Buckley of 60 Sims Rd., Wollaston, to fill the position of assistant executive secretary of the Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments for the city of Quincy.

Annual salary for the position is $28,582.

Buckley's appointment is effective Monday, Feb. 8.

He has served as Community Development Coordinator under the Planning Department for the City of Quincy since 1981.

Previously, he had been a Community Leader of Neighborhood Activities from Nov. 13, 1979 to June 30, 1981.

McCauley added that Buckley has been a lifelong resident of the city and that he has also been employed by the Quincy Recreation Department for the past 21 years.

GRADUATION EXERCISES were held recently at Wollaston Lutheran Church for an English as a Second Language program. Judith Travers, ESL instructor, Urbanistics Foundation, presented a certificate to Joy Bell Tsui. At center is Mayor Francis McCauley.

DeCristofaro Urges No Merger For Point-Sterling

Ward 2 Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro today urged the School Committee not to vote to merge the Quincy Point Middle School with Sterling.

DeCristofaro said:

"I hope you will be very concerned about the students attending the Quincy Point Middle School and how the proposed merger would affect them adversely because Point is a fine school where students are receiving a fine education.

"The consolidation of Quincy Point Middle School and Sterling would not be in the best interest of the students. It would be dissolving a school. Historically, Quincy Point Junior High School was constructed as a smaller school than its peer schools in Quincy. At least since the building of Broadmeadows and Atlantic, the Point enrollment has been substantially smaller than the other schools. Does this mean that over the 60 years of its existence Point students received less, were short-changed or gained less personalized instruction? Certainly not.

"The fact that the Daniel Webster School is at capacity is the result of a related series of events: the Washington School in Quincy Point was closed and demolished; the Pollard School in Quincy Point was closed and demolished; the Adams School, which partially served Quincy Point, was converted to condominiums.

"Is a further closing and transportation of the children of the community the way to enhance their personalized education? At Quincy Point, the staff has always been able to point with pride to the personalized attention given each student.

"The Point-Webster kindergarten through grade eight continuum is the only such organization in the Quincy Public Schools. It is working well to the benefit of the youth of the community, and I propose that it not be disrupted.

"Quincy Point's extra-curricular intramural program is outstanding. In percentage of participation, variety of offerings and balance of time allotted to activities, the program at Quincy Point is another reflection of the commitment to excellence for Point children. Flag football, soccer, volleyball, basketball, tennis, swimming, softball, floor hockey, computers, silk screening and woodworking have been offered in the past year. In other years, depending on student and teacher interest, dramatics, museum tours and bowling have been offered.

"Bus transportation for Quincy Point students to another middle school would present problems. Transportation by MBTA would involve a walk to either Washington St. or Quincy Ave. - a bus ride to Quincy Sq. - a wait in the undesirable environment of the Quincy T station - and yet another bus ride to either Sterling or Broad Meadows. Should students want to participate in after-school activities, the afternoon trip would necessitate waiting at a bus stop on a cold, dark, winter afternoon. We know that Point parents do not want this for their children.

"The cost savings as projected for the consolidation of Quincy Point or any of the middle schools are so miniscule as to be unworthy of consideration.

"Quincy Point Junior High-Quincy Point Middle School has been meeting the needs of the Quincy Point community since 1927. These needs will not be met as well or as personally by transporting the children of this neighborhood to another part of the city."

Keenan, Kiley Named To City Boards

Mayor Francis McCauley announces he has appointed John F. Keenan of 83 Lincoln Ave., Wollaston, to the Commission on Handicapped Affairs to fill the unexpired term of Thomas Barrett, which expires on the first Monday in February, 1990.

Kendall H. Kiley of 37 Wallace Rd., Quincy, was appointed to fill a vacancy on the Council on Aging Board for a three year term, which expires on the first Monday in February, 1991, McCauley said.

Keenan received his B.A. degree from Harvard University, where he majored in government. He is attending Suffolk University Law School and is expected to receive a Juris Doctor Degree in June 1989.

Keenan is employed at The Boston Herald.

He was also a candidate for city councillor of Ward 5 in the recent city election, and is chairman of Ward 5 Cancer Crusade, a member of the Quincy City Club and a member of the Harvard Club of Quincy.

Kiley retired from AT&T in 1973 and since then has been active serving in various capacities to assist the elderly.

He has served as the financial consultant and tax advisor in the Officer of the Council on Aging for about six years. Kiley has initiated seminars and programs on taxes and health insurance for various groups including the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP).

He has participated in VISTA and was associated with the Massachusetts Association of Older Americans for four years and has extensive knowledge concerning the rights of elderly regarding property, rentals, eviction and rights.

Sewer User Fee Could Cost Typical Family $64.34

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

It could cost a typical Quincy family of four about $64.34 this year if a sewer user fee for the small commercial and residential property owner proposed by the mayor is approved by the City Council.

The council's Ordinance Committee will take up the matter at a meeting to be scheduled during the first half of February, according to committee chairman Michael Cheney.

Other typical bills, according to information sent to the council by the mayor, could be single senior citizen, $20.38; single person, $28.67; one adult and two children, $47.14; 30 unit apartment building, $1,246.61; and large office building, $7,182.18.

The amounts would be divided into two charges sent out with water bills to residents twice a year.

Up until now, only major industrial users have paid separate sewer bills.

"I am submitting (this) rather reluctantly, but I feel it is necessary, that its time has come," said Mayor Francis McCauley during his inaugural address earlier this month.

"For many years, the small residential commercial owner paid his sewer fees as part of his property taxes.

"...The assessment this year was $2,655,000. We expect a 40 percent increase in fiscal 1989 and that's a little too much for us to try to absorb during the Prop. 2½ budgets."

He said the city's assessments are rising sharply because of the cost of the cleanup of Boston Harbor and Quincy Bay.

The sample rates were computed using 70 percent of the water typically used by residents, according to David Colton, Quincy's Deputy Commissioner of Public Works.

"We take 70 percent because not all water used by residents ends up in the sewer," explained Colton.

Colton said that the sample bills are based on a hypothetical rate using the MWRA assessment for the city for fiscal 1988.

Councillor Cheney said that he and other councillors have a number of questions about the fee.

"We will be waiting to see what kind of mitigating package the MWRA negotiates with Quincy," said Cheney, noting that agency's recent purchase of the Quincy shipyard.

The MWRA plans to use parts of the yard as a staging area for the Deer Island Sewage Treatment Facility and an interim sludge treatment facility.

"If they offer Quincy money, that can cover the water and sewer bills," said Cheney.

He said he has asked City Auditor Robert Foy how much individual home owners are paying now in sewer charges included in the property tax.

Cheney also questioned whether property taxes will be reduced to reflect the subtraction of the sewer user fee.

"Some day, at some time, we will have to separate the sewer user fee out of the tax rate," said Cheney.

"The question is when, how and how much will be separated out."

Richard Noonan Donates $10,000 Scholarship To QJC

Peter Eleey, chairman of the Quincy Junior College Foundation, announces the receipt of $10,000 for a College Scholarship from Richard Noonan in memory of his father, Herbert T. Noonan.

The income from this gift will be used to annually provide a scholarship to a student returning for his or her second year who displays human concern and has worked to enhance community life for all. This scholarship will be awarded annually.

BENEFIT

A benefit for Mary and Joseph Perry and their son, James, will be held on Saturday, January 30, 1988 at Babe's Place, 312 Bridge Street, Route 3A, Weymouth at 7:00 P.M. Proceeds will benefit the three adults who were burned out of their Palmer Street, Quincy, apartment on Jan. 11th.

Thomas Koch Named Council On Aging Director

Koch, a life-time resident of the city, will be responsible for the administration and supervision of all the components of the city's Council on Aging.

That includes operation of the Senior Drop-In Center, the transportation vans, and the coordination of the non-profit elder organizations.

Koch is a member of the Quincy Community Action Organization, the Quincy City Club, the Koch Club and is vice president of the Montclair Men's Club.

"Tom Koch brings with him a strong background in community organization," said Mayor McCauley. "I am confident that this valuable experience will be beneficial in working with the Council on Aging to continue to develop programs that will meet the ever-increasing needs of our elderly population."

Koch will fill the position which will be vacated by Brian Buckley who has been the coordinator since June, 1981.

Buckley will assume a new position in the Park, Forestry and Cemetery Department as an assistant to Raymond Cattaneo Feb. 8.

Children's Council Offers School-Age Child Care Guide

The South Shore Council for Children is distributing a free "Guide to School-Age Child Care" in Quincy, Milton, and Randolph to families interested in finding quality care for their children.

The guide was compiled in the spring of 1987 by the Day Care Committee of the Council. Committee members obtained written information from each after-school program and visited each site to interview staff and view the program in operation. The guide contains a program quality checklist and information on hours of operation, costs, age range, activities, and staffing for each program.

Members of the Day Care Committee who worked on the project were Rosanne Blanchard, First Chance Head Start; Karen Iacobucci, Quincy; Ellen Mee, Milton; Joan McCarthy, Virginia's Day Nursery, Quincy; and Katrina Selawsky, the Village School, Milton.

The South Shore Council for Children is part of the citizen arm of the state Office for Children. It is responsible for assessing children's service needs in the South Shore area and advocating for resources where they are lacking.

Copies of the guide may be obtained by calling the South Shore Council for Children at 849-1882 or by contacting local elementary school offices.

Lawyer Referral Service • 471-9693

This feature focuses on questions most frequently asked by callers and will be answered by various members of the Norfolk County Bar Assn.

This week's guest is Attorney Frederick J. Sheehan, past president of the bar association of Norfolk County, and has his law office at 1245 Hancock St., Quincy.

Q. We are husband and wife and need a will. Do we need two individual wills written, or will one suffice?

L.R. Quincy

A. Dear L.R.

There is no law or practice in Massachusetts as to either joint or mutual wills. There is no apparent reason why under our laws a joint will would not be valid. However, I strongly recommend individual wills as I forsee no advantage whatsoever to joint or mutual wills.

Q. My husband and I made out our will fifteen years ago. The attorney who drew up our will has since passed away. Does his mean our will is invalid?

J.K. Quincy

A. Dear J.K.

The fact that the attorney who drew up your wills has passed away does not in any way invalidate your wills. However, you should periodically have your wills reviewed by an attorney. It might well be that changes in the tax laws, family or other circumstances are such that new wills are in order.

No Farewell For Lydon

The roast for former City Councillor John Lydon the other night may not have been a political fundraiser.

But neither was it a political farewell.

LYDON

"Is that the end of Jack Lydon politically," he was asked before the roast.

"No," he replied.

"Well, are you considering a run for the Second Norfolk District state representative seat?".

"I'm considering it but there is another option."

"There are reports you might run for Norfolk County commissioner. Is that the option?

"I'm considering it."

Lydon's problem is friendship.

KELLY

Former Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly long ago indicated he would run for the Second Norfolk District seat vacated by Thomas Brownell to become an associate justice of Plymouth District Court.

Lydon and Kelly are friends.

TOLAND

City Council President Patricia Toland has also indicated she will seek the seat.

She is also a Lydon friend.

And George McDonald, the incumbent County Commissioner from Quincy, is also a friend.

McDONALD

But Lydon, if he runs for state representative wouldn't exactly be, -- no pun intended, -- a Johnny-come-lately in that race.

He was thinking about it the night he stood up on the City Council chamber last June and announced he would not seek re-election as Ward 3 City Councillor.

The following day word spread quickly around the State House that Gov. Michael Dukakis was going to nominate Brownell for a judgeship. And, the next day, he did.

Some were convinced Lydon had some inside info on the Brownell nomination. And that he was thinking of making a run for the Brownell seat even as he was announcing he would not seek re-election to the City Council.

There had been rumors Brownell was to be appointed a judge but those rumors had circulated so many times in the past without him actually being nominated that few were paying much attention to the new batch of rumors.

Lydon, they think, was.

"I was considering it that night," he admits.

But that night, Lydon said "Government for me has become dour -- it is overly concerned with regulation. I have never perceived myself in this type role."

He sounded like a man who really wanted to retire from politics.

He was talking, he said later, about city government.

"You mean you could find state government challenging," he was asked.

"Yes."

And, apparently, county government, too.

One of the things that bothered him between the time he announced for re-election to the City Council in April, followed by the announcement in June he would not seek re-election was zoning.

The zoning change that put a six-story limit on new construction in downtown Quincy may come back to haunt the city, he says.

"Developers aren't going to come to downtown Quincy with that kind of restriction," he says. "You may yet see a move to exclude the downtown area from that restriction."

Well, is he going to run for state representative?

"I'm thinking about it."

Incidentally, Precincts 1, 2 and 5 of Ward 3 which have usually been good vote getting precincts for him as a city councillor are in the Second Norfolk District.

Lydon is quite aware of that.

Meanwhile, interestingly, there seems to be no big rush on the part of anyone to declare himself or herself an official candidate.

Names mentioned as potential candidates in addition to Kelly, Toland and Lydon are School Committeeman Steve Durkin and Steve Tobin, son of former Mayor-Senator Arthur Tobin, all Democrats. And, on the Republican side, Denis Tardo, president of the Quincy Tenant Organization.

Each of the potential candidates would like to be the only one running out of his (her) area so as not to have to divvy up votes.

Precincts 1, 2 and 5 in Ward 3 could be biggies for Lydon if he runs.

Whether he runs for State Representative or County Commissioner this year or doesn't, it's a safe bet you haven't seen the last of Smiling Jack Lydon in the political ring.

DOVE Receives 2-Year $60,000 Grant

DOVE, a Quincy shelter for abused women and their children, has received a two-year grant of $60,000 to assist women who are homeless as a result of domestic violence.

The money will also go towards expanding services in the children's program.

The grant is from the Department of Housing and Urban Development, under the Steward B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Act and the Supplemental Assistance for Facilities to Assist the Homeless.

It is one of 38 grants that were awarded nationally from a field of over 260 applicants, and one of four granted in New England.

DOVE, (Domestic Violence Ended), is the only non-profit organization from New England to receive monies under SAFAH.

It offers shelter, a daily, 24-hour crisis hot line, housing, welfare and legal advocacy, counseling both individual and support groups, a children's program and the Community Programs Division.

DOVE shelters some 400 women and children yearly and answers at least 4,000 cries of pain.

It acknowledges the support of Cong. Brian Donnelly of the 11th District, Sen. Paul Harold, Rep. Michael Morrissey and the City of Quincy.

It Had Everything But:

No Clear Cut Winner In N.H. Democratic Debate

(Quincy Sun staff writer Robert Bosworth returned to his alma mater, the University of New Hampshire Sunday to cover the Democratic Presidential debate.)

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Sunday's Democratic Presidential Debate at the University of New Hampshire in Durham, N.H., had just about everything a debate could have, except a clear-cut winner.

The debate among the seven contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination included pointed exchanges, criticisms of the so-called "Massachusetts Miracle," opinions on the Cold War, stands on domestic issues and even a candidate introduction that drew boos from some of the 400 audience onlookers.

Still, with three weeks to go before the all-important first in the nation New Hampshire primary Feb. 16 no candidate could break away from the crowded field. But the exposure certainly helped since this was the first time the state's electorate had a chance to see all seven candidates go head to head.

New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation primary status and resident scrutiny go hand-in-hand: No U.S. president has ever been elected without winning the New Hampshire primary. And every candidate knows it.

The debate was moderated by John Chancellor of NBC News. More than 200 media representatives covered the debate held in the university's Granite State Room of its student center.

Six of the seven candidates were aggressive, with several of them, including Gore, who is trailing heavily in most polls, answering virtually every question. Only Gov. Dukakis, who is leading in the New Hampshire primary polls, adopted a low-key strategy.

Hart was in the hot seat even before the formal debating started. During his introduction by Chancellor, the NBC News commentator noted the candidate's re-entry in the race "following stories of his involvement with a Miami model...thereby answering the question posed in the song, 'Will You Love Me In December As You Do In May?'"

A tight-lipped Hart remained motionless as a chorus of boos and groans rumbled through the crowd.

A few minutes later Hart, in answering a question about the federal deficit, glared at Chancellor.

"I think handling the budget deficit is a lot more important in people's minds than the questionable introduction on your part," Hart said sharply.

Chancellor defended himself replying, "I certainly didn't mean to be offensive. I thought it was a kind of a nice old joke."

That exchange set the tone for the two-hour debate which at times was scrappy. Issues discussed included foreign policy, the Cold War, taxes and the trade deficit.

One student questioned Jackson's ability to lead the country without having the experience of being elected to any local, state, or federal office.

Jackson replied: "A president lifts the moral tone of the country. Leadership is the ability to make things happen and I've made things happen," adding his efforts to increase voter registration throughout the country.

Gephardt remarked on the question of leadership saying, "I believe any of us can do a far better job than what we've had the last seven years."

Another student asked Dukakis about his credit for the "Massachusetts Miracle," and his ability to transfer it to the many regions of the country. Dukakis said the state's economy is not automatically transferable to the rest of the country but some practices can be applied, such as investing in workers and education.

Babbitt jumped on this question and pointed out that Arizona has had the top-ranked economy in the nation for some time.

Babbitt said the state has undergone "economic renewal" and has "changed the way we work by listening to workers and rewarding them with profit sharing."

Jackson criticized the "miracle" saying it "missed Roxbury." "The alienation was so intense that the people tried to secede from the city."

Referring to the defeat of the referendum question to form a new city called Mandela, Dukakis said, "They voted against it."

Jackson replied, "There are pockets of poverty that missed the miracle."

Gore set up an exchange with Dukakis by noting that New Hampshire's 2.1 percent unemployment rate was lower than the 2.9 percent jobless rate in Massachusetts.

"Surely John Sununu should not be president," Gore said, referring to New Hampshire's conservative Republican governor.

Gephardt was repeatedly pummeled for what the other Democrats called his "protectionist" stand on foreign trade. Gephardt said the status quo of trade "is not working" and that "the pattern of unfair trade practices" must stop. Fairness on trade is a "two-way street" Gephardt remarked.

A student asked Hart how voters could trust him after his "escapades in Bimini... recent admission of illegalities of campaign financing" and "compromising positions that could lead to blackmail."

Hart replied:

"Character is an issue in

Scramble On For City Clerk's Job

Jan. 27-Feb. 2, 1941

47 Years Ago

Republicans, however, were arguing that since Democrat Leo E. Mullin had been chosen city auditor a Republican should have a crack at the city clerk's job. [redacted]

The City Council was said to be split with four favoring Shaughnessy, two for acting City Clerk Hattiemay Thomas, two for Avery Gilkerson and Council President William W. Jenness undecided.

POLICEMAN DRAFTED

Harold L. Tobin, 35, was the first married member of the Quincy Police Department to be on the list of draftees due to go into the Army on Feb. 15.

Also on the list of Draft Board No. 126 was Ralph A. McLeod, an outfielder for the St. Paul, Minn., team in the American Association.

Two of the three Quincy draft boards were preparing to induct married men Feb. 15 while Draft Board No. 125 (Wards 1 and 2) had not yet begun to classify them.

Fish Fillet Florentine

A Family Favorite

Here is a wonderful way to prepare fish and a family favoarite. It is fish fillet florentine (or fish with spinach). I used flounder but if you can't find it, any kind of a thinly sliced fish fillet will do.

FISH FILLET FLORENTINE

3 pkgs 10 oz frozen spinach (or fresh equivalent)
2 tbsps flour half tsp salt
salt and pepper to taste
2 cups milk
half cup grated cheese
2 lbs fish fillets
quarter cup of butter

Cook the spinach and drain. Chop coarsely. Place in a baking dish. Make a cream sauce by melting the butter and blending in the flour, salt and pepper. Add milk and cook until thickened. Add the cheese and continue heating until blended. Pour the sauce over the spinach. Place fish fillets on top and bake uncovered in a 375 degree oven for half and hour. It serves six to eight.

Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian-And Then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at That's Italian, Franklin St., South Quincy; Previte's Market, Sumner St., Quincy Point, Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount and Winfield Gift Emporium, Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Koch Club 40th Year, To Hold Dinner Dance May 14

The Koch Club of Quincy is celebrating its 40th anniversary as a community service organization this year and will initiate a series of events to commemorate the four decades of activities with a Dinner Dance on Saturday, May 14 at 7 p.m. at the George F. Bryan V.F.W. Post Hall, Broad St., Quincy.

Established in May of 1948 with an intramural softball program at Cavanaugh Stadium in North Quincy, the Koch Club continued to flourish for 40 years under the leadership and direction of the late Richard J. Koch, the club's founder and executive director.

In its four decades of community service, the Koch Club has touched the lives of over 100,000 children and adults in a variety of recreational, social and charitable endeavors. The organization has been staffed entirely by volunteers and has raised all of its finances through its members and friends without government aid or United Way assistance.

The May 14th celebration is a tribute to Koch, the club's founder.

Thomas P. Koch announces the committee members. They are:

Mrs. Simone N. Koch, honorary chairman; James B. Moody, dinner chairman; Marilyn Nestor, ticket chairman; Thomas F. Nestor, souvenir book chairman and other members include Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Delmonico, Mr. and Mrs. Howard F. Crowley, Mr. and Mrs. David J. Donahue, Paul Koch, Mrs. [illegible] Bowes, Mrs. Milan Ajemian, Mrs. Simone Teare, Ralph W. Woods and John J. Hemphill.

Keeping Kids Safe

Would your child know what to do if the babysitter wanted to play a "secret game that no one would know about?" Would he or she know where to get help if something frightening happened and you weren't around?

Parents can take positive actions to protect their children and help them learn how to respond to threatening situations.

- Walk your neighborhood with your children. Show them safe places they can go in an emergency, like a neighbor's house, a McGruff Safe House, or an open store. Make sure they are taking the safest route to school.
- Check your neighborhood for areas that threaten children's safety -- brush in wooded areas, high shrubberty, abandoned buildings, bad lighting.
- Rehearse with children their full name, address, and phoen number (including area code) and how to make emergency phone calls from home and public phone booths.
- Make certain children are alone or isolated as little as possible. Encourage them to walk and play with friends and stay in well-lighted, open areas where others can see them.
- If you must ever leave your child at home alone, leave a number where you or a neighbor can be reached.
- Thoroughly check the background of babysitters and day care center personnel.
- Teach your children that no one -- even someone they know -- has the right to touch them in a way that makes them feel uncomfortable. Tell them they can and should share any such experiences with you.
- If you and your spouse are not living together, make sure your children know exactly the days they are supposed to be with each parent, and that they always have a right to call you from wherever they are.
- LISTEN CAREFULLY TO YOUR CHILDREN. Let them know they can talk to you about anything and you will always love them and want them to be with you.

Trip To Benefit QHS Scholarship Fund

Parents, former Quincy High School students and interested residents are invited to participate in a trip to New York City Feb 26-28 to benefit the Quincy High School Summer Scholarship Fund.

Each year 10 to 12 students receive scholarship assistance to study at various colleges and universities and the trip to New York will allow two students to attend the 2-week session at Worcester Polytechnic Institute.

The trip will be similar to the annual December student trip, including visits to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, Fifth Avenue, Macy's department store, NBC Studios, South Street Seaport and other sites.

Cost is $165 per person and hotel, bus, admission fees and breakfasts are included.

Interested persons should contact Charles MacLaughlin at 471-0100 ext. 372 before Feb. 4.

Police Dept. Urges Parents 'Buckle Up Your Children'

The week of Feb. 7 to Feb. 13 is National Child Passenger Safety Awareness Week and Quincy Police Week and the Quincy Police Department is asking parents to make a special effort to buckle up their children.

Police Chief Francis Finn said that every year in Massachusetts, hundreds of children are seriously injured or killed in motor vehicle accidents.

"Of the survivors, many are crippled for life by spinal cord injuries, brain damage and traumatic epilepsy. Most of these deaths and injuries could be prevented simply by using car seats and safety belts," Finn said.

The Massachusetts Child Passenger Safety Law requires all children 12 years old and under to be fastened in a properly adjusted car seat or safety belt. While the law does not apply to children older than 12, safety belts are still the best available protection in vehicle accidents for people of all ages, according to Finn.

"During the week of Feb. 7 to 13, our officers will be making a special effort to enforce the law that protects our children. We think it is important that people understand the benefits of buckling up," said Finn.

Lydon Presents $5,000 Donation To QJC

Former Ward 3 City Councillor John Lydon recently presented a $5,000 general purpose donation to Peter Eleey, chairman of the Quincy Junior College Foundation.

In making the donation, Lydon said "a great job" is being done at the college and stressed how much the facility is needed as Quincy changes in the future.

QJC President O. Clayton Johnson expressed his appreciation for Lydon's concerns and indicated his very high respect for the former city councillor.

John McDuff Re-elected Animal League President

Also re-elected were Nancy Provost, vice president-secretary, and Audrey Wilcoxen, treasurer.

Members of the board of directors elected for the coming year were Althea Griffin, Muriel Carlsen, Josephine Martin, Ann Sava and Joan Rutigliano.

Guest speaker was Mildred Merritt of Greyhound Pets of America who discussed the greyhound adoption program. She introduced her pet greyhound, Cox.

Following her presentation, the league awarded her a check for $150 for the work of her organization in Massachusetts.

McDuff told the league the opening of the city's new animal shelter scheduled for this fall will be a turning point in Quincy's handling of animals.

JOHN McDUFF

He credited the league with being the moving force behind its construction.

"The city realized for 30 years that the old pound needed to go, but you people have been the catalyst that will soon make that dream a reality.

"We look forward to it with high hopes."

Q: What's up and coming in health care?
A: The New QCH!

Quincy City Hospital has begun an impressive $57 million renovation. Almost two-thirds of the buildings and other facilities will be replaced — all part of a dramatic plan to better serve the growing and changing health care needs of the South Shore.

The focal point of the new hospital complex will be a brand new six story building that will contain 234 patient beds as well as all of the necessary patient care support services.

Since its founding in 1890, Quincy City Hospital has been in the forefront of health care on the South Shore. With our new facilities we'll continue to deliver the highest quality health care services with warm, personal attention.

Church Leaders To Be Installed At Bethany

There will be two worship services Sunday at Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center at 9 a.m. in the chapel and 10 a.m. in the sanctuary.

The Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will preach the sermon at both services on 'Follow Me.'

Reading the scriptures at the chapel service will be Jean C. Smart, and during the sanctuary service, Kinya Mikami. The associate minister, Rev. Joel F. Huntington, will lead a weekend retreat at Gorham, New Hampshire, for Bethany youth and advisors.

During the 10 a.m. service the newly elected church leaders for 1988, officers and committee members, a total of 88 persons will be installed.

Re-elected as officers of the congregation for one year terms were: Louise B. Forsyth, moderator; Marcia Jacob, clerk; and Joan C. Cunningham, treasurer.

The Chancel Choir under the direction of Peter F. Krasinski, organist, will sing two selections at the sanctuary service: "There's Not a Bird with Lonely Nest" composed by Minns, and "Praise the Lord, Ye Heavens Adore Him" by Rowland Prichard.

The worship service will be broadcast "live" direct from Bethany's sanctuary at 10 a.m. over radio station WJDA, 1300 kc.

Sunday School will be in session from 10 to 11 a.m. with classes for pre-school through 8th grade. Nursery care will be provided for babies and toddlers under the supervision of Bethany's professional early childhood coordinator, Pamela Ford Curran.

At 11 a.m. there will be a fellowship hour in the Allen Parlor. Individuals and families from the community are welcome to come and share in the worship and fellowship, and to enroll children in the Sunday School.

A one hour adult discussion group will be held from 11:30 to 12:30 in the Ladies' Parlor, led by Jerry and Lisa Birr on the subject, "Christian Community." Luncheon snacks, beverages, and child care are provided.

For information on any of Bethany's ministries or programs, please contact the church office, 479-7300.

Sacred Heart School Highlights

By DAVID BROWNELL and ELLEN SAVAGE
Student Reporters

National Children's Book Week was recently observed at Sacred Heart School, North Quincy. This year's theme was "Change Your Mind."

On Dec. 6 the children in grades 1 and 2 participated in their annual Christmas Pageant as they enacted "The First Christmas." Dec. 9 and 11 afforded the students the opportunity to purchase small gifts for friends and family through Santa's Secret Shop. On Dec. 22 the PTO gave the students of Sacred Heart School a Christmas gift, the Hampstead Players, who performed "A Christmas Carol."

Jan. 11-15 was Mission Awareness Week at Sacred Heart. This week's activities informed the students of the hard work performed by the missionaries and inspired the children to share themselves. Many classes have responded by reaching out to those in need both near and far.

Grade 2 children received First Reconciliation Jan. 16 or Jan. 23. Credit is due to the children, the teachers, the parents and the priests for their fine preparation for the reception of this sacrament.

Jan. 31-Feb. 6 is Catholic Schools Week. On Jan. 31 there will be a Mass at noon to celebrate the theme of Catholic Schools Week, Share The Spirit. Immediately following the liturgy there will be an open house at the school from 1 - 3 p.m. so that parents, students and the Sacred Heart community may visit the classrooms.

On Feb. 1-3 the PTO will sponsor a book fair. There will be a wide selection of books available for purchase by the students.

On Wednesday, Feb. 3, the parents of Grades 4-6 are invited to visit the computer room to see what the students are learning. Friday, Feb. 5, Grade 5 will prepare the closing liturgy for the week. Grade 8 will also have the opportunity to enjoy an ice skating party on Friday. Other activities are still in the planning stage.

Stay tuned to this column for future highlights at Sacred Heart School.

St. Joseph School Registration Feb. 3

St. Joseph School, Quincy Point, will hold registration for the coming year Wednesday, Feb. 3 from 9 a.m. to 2:30 in the school library.

Students may register for kindergarten through grade 6. Parents are asked to bring a copy of the child's baptismal record and the record of all immunizations.

St. Joseph School kindergarten is an all day program, from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. The school offers a quality academic education in a God centered atmosphere. Extracurricular programs are offered in basketball, volleyball and cheerleading. An art, music, computer and program in human development are major parts of the general curriculum.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

"Do not think that what your thoughts dwell upon is of no matter. Your thoughts are making you." --- Bishop Steere

One can develop nothing that does not exist first of all in one's mind. It is your thinking that is your most precious asset ... Nothing outside you can possibly affect you and your life as much as what goes on in your mind. What you think affects your actions. Lovable thoughts produce one result. Thoughts of hate produce the opposite result.

Norman Vincent Peale in his book "You Can Have God's Help With Daily Problems" writes: "Practice letting your mind stretch itself. Deliberately think bigger and bigger thoughts of faith. Conceive of greater things occurring through your faith. Take a deep breath and venture out beyond your depth. Do not hug the shore; do not fear high places. You can go as far as you think you can. Think high and wide and deep and far."

It is true! "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he."

Quincy Hospital Offers Free Blood Sugar Screenings

Between the hours of 9:30 a.m. and noon, the hospital's diabetic teaching nurse will be available at the Ward II Community Center, 16 Nevada Rd., Quincy Point between 1 and 2:30 p.m., she will perform the testings at the Squantum Senior Citizens Center, 85 Huckins Ave., Quincy.

The screening consists of a blood test by simple fingerstick. Fasting is not required prior to the test, and results are available in two minutes.

According to QCH, recent blood sugar screenings throughout the community have been successful in identifying persons with elevations in blood sugar, so that they might be referred to their physicians for treatment.

For those individuals who do not have a private physician, and need to see one, or would like to see a physician, the diabetic teaching nurse is able to provide referral.

The program is under the direction of Arleen Ferretti, R.N., C.D.E., Certified Diabetes Educator, who is available to perform the testing, and to answer questions. For additional information on this, or on any of the Diabetes Education Programs at Quincy City Hospital, call 773-6100, ext. 3029.

The staff will provide information on physicians and their specialties, to guide residents in choosing a physician to their needs.

QHS Grade 9 Math Team At Top Again

The second competition of the Continental Mathematics League Euclidean Division was administered at Quincy High School recently.

This is national competition and Grade 9 students participated.

The results of the second competition have been received by Quincy High School. The team placed first in Massachusetts, third in New England, and tied for third place nationally with a total of 119 schools participating.

Quincy High School has been listed as a "national leading school." Jason Bouffard had a perfect score and has been listed as a "national student leader" for this second competition.

Other high scorers include John Drohan, Allan Larson, Lap Wai Cheng, Tom Manning, Beth Sullivan, and Bobby Trifone.

Cumulatively, after two competitions, the QHS team is first in Massachusetts, third in New England, and tied for fifth nationally with a total of 130 participating schools.

Ward 2 Diabetes Testing

The Ward 2 Community Center has scheduled a blood-sugar test for diabetes detection Thursday Feb. 4 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

The testing will be done at the Community Center in the Fore River Clubhouse 16 Nevada Rd., Quincy.

Arlene Ferretti, R.N., the patient education nurse from Quincy City Hospital will do the testing. There is no charge for this test. All are welcome.

William Henderson Executive Director Carney Hospital Foundation

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

William F. Henderson, director of Community Relations-Development at Quincy City Hospital since 1981, will begin new duties as executive director of the Foundation of Carney Hospital Feb. 22.

"Over the years, I've made a lot of friends, both at the hospital and in the community," said Henderson, 41, a resident of Hull.

"My relationship with the staff at Quincy City Hospital was really not as co-workers. I consider them to be friends," he said.

"I've really enjoyed working with everyone from the board of managers to staff members.

"I've enjoyed working with John Kane, general chairman of the Quincy City Hospital Capital Campaign. I learned a lot from him."

"The foundation is the fund raising arm at Carney and it was begun six years ago," said Sr. Mary Walter Boyle, chairman of the board of trustees, with whom Henderson will work.

Henderson developed a volunteer group and administered a capital campaign for the hospital for the first time with a goal of $1.6 million. To date, some $1.4 million has been pledged to the campaign, he said.

"A half million dollars came just from the hospital family including the staff, auxiliary and board of managers," he said.

Henderson also acknowledged business leaders who solicited donations from local companies.

Key volunteers include Steve Ricciardi of the Ricciardi Co.; Robert Quinn, vice president, South Shore Bank; and Henry Bosworth, publisher and editor, The Quincy Sun, he said.

"They helped to make it a big success," said Henderson.

Hospital spokesman on call 24 hours a day, Henderson was also responsible for all hospital publications including the development and design of brochures, newsletters and advertisements.

WILLIAM HENDERSON

"I enjoyed initiating hospital programs such as the annual family outing, Christmas party and employee recognition," he added.

Henderson acknowledged the help of his "very competent and innovative associate, Kathy Miller."

"I'll be sorry to miss completion of the hospital's new building, and the celebration of its centennial in 1989," he said.

"But this (new job) is a great career opportunity made possible by my training and experience gained at the hospital," said Henderson.

His last day at Quincy City Hospital is scheduled for Feb. 12.

Married to the former Nancy Kelley, he is the father of Lisa, William, Patrick and Julie Henderson.

Before working at Quincy City Hospital, he was senior coordinator at the Mattapan Chronic Disease Hospital and a junior high school teacher in the Boston public schools.

He also served for five years as a member of the Hull Parks and Recreation Commission, three years as its chairman.

Henderson is active at St. Mary's Parish, Hull, as well as with such organizations as the Salvation Army, Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition and Hull Knights of Columbus.

Blood Pressure Screenings At Quincy Hospital

Quincy City Hospital will conduct a free blood pressure screening for the public Tuesday, Feb. 2, in their Ambulatory Care Department from 1:30 p.m. to 3 p.m.

The Ambulatory Care Department is located on Hunting-1.

The screenings, performed by nursing staff, will enable individuals to keep track of their blood pressure, and to be aware of dangerous elevations in the pressure. Persons in need of referral to a physician will be advised to do so.

The screenings, which take place at the hospital on the first and third Tuesday of each month, are free of charge. All are welcome to attend.

Rebound From 2 Defeats

Raiderettes Down Quincy, Waltham

The North Quincy girls' basketball team rebounded from two losses in a row to take two impressive victories last week to improve to 7-4 (2-3 in the Suburban League).

Paul Bregoli's Raiderettes defeated Quincy (4-7), 59-51, after Doug MacFarlane's Quincy had jumped off to a 4-0 lead on two baskets by high scorer, Gayle Morrell.

North then took a lead it never relinquished behind two jump shots by Paula Tolson and a three-point bomb by Nancy Flukes.

North extended its lead to 13-6 as Tolson hit another long jumper and Kellene Duffy stole the ball for a layup and then went coast-to-coast for another basket. Quincy came back behind Gayle Morrell and Kristen Curtin but North led, 22-16, on a Tolson three-pointer, a Flukes jump shot and a Rita Rooney basket at the buzzer.

After a Patti Morrell basket brought Quincy to within four, Duffy hit two foul line jumpers, Melissa Miles made one of two free throws, Flukes converted an offensive rebound to give the Raiderettes a 29-20 lead. North then hit six successive free throws by Tolson, Rooney and Patty Feeney to build a 35-25 halftime advantage.

Quincy changed its defense in the second half and gave North some trouble. After two baskets by Flukes and one by Tolson gave North a 41-29 lead, Gayle Morrell hit for eight points to close the gap to 46-41 after three quarters.

Freshman Christine Barrett scored early for Quincy to cut the lead to three. After a Duffy steal and basket, Patti Morrell and Rita Rooney each hit for four points. Kristen McGhee hit a long jumper for Quincy to keep Quincy within five, but Flukes hit another long jumper and two free throws to increase the lead to the final eight-point margin.

Patti Morrell led all scorers with 21 points and sister Gayle had 20 for Quincy. Curtin added six. Flukes had 19 points for North, Tolson 16, Duffy 10, Rooney nine and Feeney seven.

North later defeated Waltham, 39-30, after getting off to a slow start as Waltham surprised with a triangle and two defense against Flukes and Tolson. North took a 7-6 lead after one quarter and completely shut down Waltham's attack, limiting the Hawks to three points in the second quarter and taking a 17-9 lead at halftime.

Waltham cut the lead to three early in the third quarter but North then hit its next five shots in a row. Two baskets by Flukes and one each by Tolson, Feeney and Duffy opened up a 29-17 lead after three.

North took a 15-point lead early in the final quarter on baskets by Deirdre Murphy and Flukes. Waltham was never able to get closer than nine points as Debbie Panaro, Miles and Murphy played strong defense.

Flukes led all scorers with 18 points and had 13 rebounds, Feeney scored nine and Tolson eight.

Quincy then made an excellent showing against Newton North's league leaders but dropped a 47-43 squeaker.

The teams were tied at 20 at halftime but Newton took a 35-30 lead into the fourth quarter.

Gayle Morrell had 16 points and Patti added eight, despite a bad ankle. Both excelled on defense.

North Quincy will be home to Brockton Friday at 5 p.m. and Quincy will play at Waltham at 5.

Mahoney Shines As North Ties Waltham

North Quincy goalie Brian Mahoney had the best game of his career last Saturday night as the Raiders tied Waltham, 1-1, making their record 7-3-2.

Kevin Jago's North team was scheduled to play Suburban League-leading Brookline last night (Wednesday), will host Brockton Saturday at 7:50 at the Quincy Youth Arena and will play Cambridge Rindge and Latin next Wednesday night at 8:45 at Boston University.

"Brian was fantastic and had 45 saves," said assistant coach Rick Avery. "Waltham was all over him and he made many spectacular saves."

Jay Rodrigues scored the only North Quincy goal with Billy Dineen and Matt Furtado assisting.

Paul McGrath and Joe Keegan played strong games on defense for the Raiders.

"Waltham was the first team to effectively tie up Furtado," Avery said.

Furtado is the number two scorer in the league with 35 points.

North has seven games remaining and must get seven of a possible 14 points to make the tournament.

Stevenson Leads North To Wins Over Quincy, Waltham

Ted Stevenson, the leading scorer in the Suburban League and one of the area's top three-point shooters, who missed three games for the North Quincy boys' basketball team (all lost by the Raiders), returned last week and led North to wins over Quincy and Waltham, improving its record to 7-5.

Stevenson had a big night in a 75-55 victory over Quincy (1-11) as he scored 20 points, including three straight three-point shots. B.J. Sylva, another of the league's top scorers, appreciated Stevenson's return as he was able to play his inside-outside game and scored 14 points.

North raced out to a big 26-9 lead in the opening quarter and was never in danger. The Raiders led, 39-19, at halftime and 56-33 after three quarters.

"There's no doubt we missed Ted," said Ted Stevenson, his dad and head coach. "We missed his three-point shooting, which opens up a lot of things for us underneath.

"I still think we have a chance to make the tournament if we stay healthy the rest of the way."

"We don't have the shooters to come from behind," said Quincy coach John Franceschini. "If we can match baskets we have a chance, but when Stevenson got hot, we were all done."

Dan Biagini had 21 points, including three three-pointers, for the Presidents, and Scott Logan had 14 points.

North followed up with a 58-48 win over Waltham as Sylva had 19 points, 12 in the second half. Stevenson had 14 points and seven assists as the Raiders led, 33-28, at the half and 43-38 going into the fourth quarter. Kip Caldwell had 10 points and 15 rebounds.

Quincy made a good showing against Newton North, one of the Suburban League's top teams, but lost, 65-53, after being behind by only 43-37 after three quarters.

Frank Calabro had 12 points and Nick Dragone, Logan and Mike Perkins 11 each for the Presidents. Calabro and Logan fouled out and Chris Noble went out with an injured ankle in the last quarter as Newton pulled away.

North Quincy was scheduled to play Brookline Tuesday night, will play at Brockton Friday night at 7:30 and will host Newton North Tuesday night at 7.

Quincy was idle Tuesday, will be home to Waltham Friday night at 7:30 and will play at Brookline next Tuesday at 5 p.m.

Quincy Wrestlers On Roller Coaster

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Quincy wrestling team has been on an emotional roller coaster this season.

After an opening day victory at Malden (42-34), Quincy saw its record slip to 2-5-1 going into the new year.

A big 42-27 victory over Brookline was wiped out due to an eligibility problem with a varsity wrestler. All of the wins were wiped out, so the official record stood at 0-9.

"That was a tough blow to the kids," said coach Lou Venturelli. "They had worked awfully hard to earn the victories and suddenly were 0-9. Since that time, the team has been super."

Quincy pulled off two big upsets in a tri-meet, defeating Cohasset, a Division 2 power, 39-33, and Hingham, a Division 1 opponent, 34-33.

Last week the Presidents lost to a powerful Braintree team and last Saturday defeated cross-town rival North Quincy, 42-22.

"The North Quincy win should pick up a kids' spirits," said Venturelli. "The biggest wins came from some unlikely sources. Our heavyweights have been working hard all year and it finally paid off in the win column."

Quincy is looking forward to the rest of the year with teams like Waltham, Brockton and Lowell on the schedule. The real test will come Feb. 19 and 20 at Randolph High where the South Sectional championships will be held.

Venturelli and assistant coaches Joe Souza and Tony Akoury, all former Quincy grapplers themselves, feel the team has tons of potential.

At 103 pounds first year junior Tim Schultz has come up with some big pins. "He has a lot of spark and should improve in each meet," said Venturelli. Backing him up is a future star, Matt Fratolillo.

At 112 pounds Jim Fidler has done well and is being challenged by Tom Fratolillo and Brian Gannon.

Quincy has big hopes for sophomore Al Souza at 119. He has a 12-0-1 record and, according to the coaches, is at the top of his game. He placed second to a Chelmsford senior in the Chelmsford tournament.

Bob Lingoes has done well at 125 pounds, while the 130, 135 and 140-pound classes have been handled by a number of boys.

Czarek Nalaskowski has been excellent, Robert Connolly has been a big surprise at 4-0-1 and Scott O'Brien has sacrificed his body and personal record to help the team. Capable backups include Ennio Eleuteri, sophomore Matt Gallahue, sophomore Hugh Crawford and freshman Bob Stanton.

At 145 Todd Kimmell is 13-0 and placed third in the Chelmsford tournament. "Todd has been incredible," said Venturelli. "He always seems to come out ahead and I'm sure that will be true in more than just wrestling. He's a bright kid who is learning rapidly." Backing up is Les Lehage, who is currently injured.

The 152-pound class has been handled by John Downing and Sean Holmes. "Both are working hard and with that the wins will come," said the coach.

Brian Burgess at 160 was 0-8 a year ago and few expected his 9-4 start this year. "Brian is a tough kid and only a sophomore and I'm expecting even bigger things from him," said Venturelli.

Jim Orio has been backing up Burgess.

Freshman Tom Burton pulled off a big win at 171 in the North Quincy meet and was named the outstanding wrestler. Rob Grant and Steve Novick are making sure Tom continues to work hard.

At 189 Quincy found a gem in football captain-elect Brian Norris. "He has pure physical talent and only needs technique," Venturelli said.

In the heavyweight class Tony Madde has done well and has a deceiving 5-4 record, coming up with some big wins. Sean Cannon has been a key to Madden's development as the backup.

"This team has only one senior starter," said the Quincy coach. "The future potential is outstanding. We had a 6-7-1 record but because of the ineligibility, we are now officially 3-10. I'm not worried about the records, because the 'Men at Work' tradition will continue on."

Bitetti In Boston Park League Hall Of Fame

John J. Bitetti of Quincy, a former resident of Neponset, was recently inducted into the Boston Park League Baseball Hall-of-Fame.

He played from 1952 to 1965 and was a perennial league all-star on two championship teams, the 1952 Crosby Club and the 1956 McCormack Club.

Bitetti, who now coaches in the St. John's League in Quincy and is a member of a Sunday morning association called the Sunday Crew at Fore River Field, lives with his wife Paula, daughter Kathleen and son John Michael in Quincy Point.

Bitetti was an all-scholastic outfielder at Boston English High and was a Boston Public School all-star in 1952 and 1953.

He was voted Most Valuable Player for St. Ann's Intermediate CYO team on Neponset in the N.E. championship series in Connecticut. He also was a Hearst All-Star in the 1950s.

While at UMass Amherst from 1954 to 1957 he was all-Yankee Conference all-Western Mass. and voted the Most Valuable Player in 1957. In 1955 he played in the Yankee organization in Stellarton, Nova Scotia.

Croke, Smith In Key Roles For UMass/Boston

Dennis Croke of North Quincy and Keith Smith of Quincy have been playing key roles for the UMass Boston hockey team, which has a 13-4 record.

Croke scored two goals and Smith one last Saturday to lead UMB to a 6-4 victory over New England College.

Croke had a goal in a recent loss to Bowdoin and Smith had one in a 4-3 win over Colby.

Dennis DeCoste of Quincy is having a good season for the UMB wrestling team and helped pace the Beacons to wins over Amherst and Trinity. UMB has a 6-4 mark.

Squantum Sailors Presented Champion Awards

Boston College quarterback Mike Power was the guest speaker at the Quincy Youth Football League champion Squantum Sailors' recent banquet at the Quincy Elks hall.

The Sailors won the league championship for the first time in the club's history in a frigid overtime win over the Quincy Point Panthers. The Sailors finished 8-1 and outscored the opposition, 106-34.

White and blue flower arrangements designed by the Flower Loft decorated the hall.

Head table guests were franchise owner Paul Contor, league commissioner Marc Nantel, head coach Bill Doherty, assistant coaches Bob Devoe, Rich Thurston and Al DiBella, North Quincy coach Ken McPhee, Boston College defensive coach Kurt Blitzer, Power and Father Robert Boyle of Star of the Sea Parish, who delivered the invocation.

Power stressed the importance of education along with football. He gave a brief description of his own life. Following the banquet he mingled with the more than 200 in attendance for pictures and autographs.

The award for the Most Valuable Player in the championship game went to quarterback Bill Lydon. Picariello and Lydon were also selected the best offensive and defensive backs and were named to the league all-star team. Best offensive and defensive lineman awards went to Wayne Bradley and Marc Nantel.

Also named to the league-all-star team were Nantel, Savage, John McAdams and Mike Lally.

All 57 players and cheerleaders received individual awards as 89 trophies were awarded.

Mite A's Edged

Quincy's Mite A team lost a 4-3 squeaker to Greater Boston League-leading Dorchester, despite an outstanding performance.

Quincy outplayed Dorchester throughout the game and goalie Brian Walsh was outstanding in goal with several saves, including three that were labeled for sure goals.

Stevenson Leads North To Wins Over Quincy, Waltham

Ted Stevenson, the leading scorer in the Suburban League and one of the area's top three-point shooters, who missed three games for the North Quincy boys' basketball team (all lost by the Raiders), returned last week and led North to wins over Quincy and Waltham, improving its record to 7-5.

Stevenson had a big night in a 75-55 victory over Quincy (1-11) as he scored 20 points, including three straight three-point shots. B.J. Sylva, another of the league's top scorers, appreciated Stevenson's return as he was able to play his inside-outside game and scored 14 points.

North raced out to a big 26-9 lead in the opening quarter and was never in danger. The Raiders led, 39-19, at halftime and 56-33 after three quarters.

"There's no doubt we missed Ted," said Ted Stevenson, his dad and head coach. "We missed his three-point shooting, which opens up a lot of things for us underneath.

"I still think we have a chance to make the tournament if we stay healthy the rest of the way."

"We don't have the shooters to come from behind," said Quincy coach John Franceschini. "If we can match baskets we have a chance, but when Stevenson got hot, we were all done."

Dan Biagini had 21 points, including three three-pointers, for the Presidents, and Scott Logan had 14 points.

North followed up with a 58-48 win over Waltham as Sylva had 19 points, 12 in the second half. Stevenson had 14 points and seven assists as the Raiders led, 33-28, at the half and 43-38 going into the fourth quarter. Kip Caldwell had 10 points and 15 rebounds.

Quincy made a good showing against Newton North, one of the Suburban League's top teams, but lost, 65-53, after being behind by only 43-37 after three quarters.

Frank Calabro had 12 points and Nick Dragone, Logan and Mike Perkins 11 each for the Presidents. Calabro and Logan fouled out and Chris Noble went out with an injured ankle in the last quarter as Newton pulled away.

North Quincy was scheduled to play Brookline Tuesday night, will play at Brockton Friday night at 7:30 and will host Newton North Tuesday night at 7.

Quincy was idle Tuesday, will be home to Waltham Friday night at 7:30 and will play at Brookline next Tuesday at 5 p.m.

Quincy Wrestlers On Roller Coaster

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Quincy wrestling team has been on an emotional roller coaster this season.

After an opening day victory at Malden (42-34), Quincy saw its record slip to 2-5-1 going into the new year.

A big 42-27 victory over Brookline was wiped out due to an eligibility problem with a varsity wrestler. All of the wins were wiped out, so the official record stood at 0-9.

"That was a tough blow to the kids," said coach Lou Venturelli. "They had worked awfully hard to earn the victories and suddenly were 0-9. Since that time, the team has been super."

Quincy pulled off two big upsets in a tri-meet, defeating Cohasset, a Division 2 power, 39-33, and Hingham, a Division 1 opponent, 34-33.

Last week the Presidents lost to a powerful Braintree team and last Saturday defeated cross-town rival North Quincy, 42-22.

"The North Quincy win should pick up a kids' spirits," said Venturelli. "The biggest wins came from some unlikely sources. Our heavyweights have been working hard all year and it finally paid off in the win column."

Quincy is looking forward to the rest of the year with teams like Waltham, Brockton and Lowell on the schedule. The real test will come Feb. 19 and 20 at Randolph High where the South Sectional championships will be held.

Venturelli and assistant coaches Joe Souza and Tony Akoury, all former Quincy grapplers themselves, feel the team has tons of potential.

At 103 pounds first year junior Tim Schultz has come up with some big pins. "He has a lot of spark and should improve in each meet," said Venturelli. Backing him up is a future star, Matt Fratolillo.

At 112 pounds Jim Fidler has done well and is being challenged by Tom Fratolillo and Brian Gannon.

Quincy has big hopes for sophomore Al Souza at 119. He has a 12-0-1 record and, according to the coaches, is at the top of his game. He placed second to a Chelmsford senior in the Chelmsford tournament.

Bob Lingoes has done well at 125 pounds, while the 130, 135 and 140-pound classes have been handled by a number of boys.

Czarek Nalaskowski has been excellent, Robert Connolly has been a big surprise at 4-0-1 and Scott O'Brien has sacrificed his body and personal record to help the team. Capable backups include Ennio Eleuteri, sophomore Matt Gallahue, sophomore Hugh Crawford and freshman Bob Stanton.

"He always seems to come out ahead and I'm sure that will be true in more than just wrestling. He's a bright kid who is learning rapidly." Backing up is Les Lehage, who is currently injured.

The 152-pound class has been handled by John Downing and Sean Holmes. "Both are working hard and with that the wins will come," said the coach.

Brian Burgess at 160 was 0-8 a year ago and few expected his 9-4 start this year. "Brian is a tough kid and only a sophomore and I'm expecting even bigger things from him," said Venturelli.

Jim Orio has been backing up Burgess.

Quincy Takes Cambridge, Loses To Brookline

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Quincy hockey team, after an impressive win over Cambridge Rindge and Latin, met the class of the Suburban League, Brookline, last Saturday night and lost, 7-2, making the Presidents' record 7-6.

Bob Sylvia's Presidents were idle last night (Wednesday), will play Waltham Saturday at 5:30 at the Watertown rink and will be home to Newton North next Wednesday night at 6:40 at the Quincy Youth Arena.

Quincy had little chance against a powerful Brookline team, which roared to a 5-0 first period lead and coasted home after that.

"Brookline is definitely the best team we have faced," said assistant coach George Peachey. "They don't have any one superstar, but have great balance and teamwork.

"We need nine points to make the tournament and it is going to be a tough job. I hope that, after a big win over Cambridge and then losing like this, we can keep the morale up and have the boys ready for Waltham."

Quincy has six games remaining and must collect nine of a possible 12 points to qualify for the tournament, not an enviable job for the Presidents.

Quincy was scoreless until the third period against Brookline, whose goalie thwarted a number of good scoring chances for the Presidents.

Tony Scola opened the scoring for Quincy in the first period with Abboud assisting. Ken Staskiewicz scored the first of his two goals with Shawn O'Neil assisting and Jim Mann scored with assists for Scola and O'Neil to give the Presidents a 3-0 lead after one.

Defensemen scored all three goals in the second period as Quincy took a 6-2 lead into the final session. Abboud scored with Scola and Mann assisting. Jon Bertoni scored with O'Neil getting the assist and Davis scored with Bertoni assisting.

In the third period Chuck Quigley scored an unassisted goal and Staskiewicz scored his second goal with Hank Miller and Brian Taylor assisting.

Greg Chambers played a strong game in goal for the Presidents.

Mite B's Bow In Tourney Finals

Quincy's Mite B hockey team, sponsored by Quincy Firefighters Association and coached by Kevin Mock, was the only Quincy team to make it to the finals in the recent K of C tournament at the Youth Arena.

Quincy opened with an 11-0 romp over S-W-S with six goals coming in the first period. Robbie Winters had a hat trick, Eric Wood two goals and Tommy Sullivan, John Manning, Betsy Stone, Joe Bracken and Eric Joyce one each. John Barron, Billy Barron, Matt Langille, Joyce and Stone had assists. Defensemen Tim Wood, Chris DiMattia, Joyce and Langille worked hard and killed seven penalties.

Quincy next blasted Pembroke, 9-0, with goalie Jim Sheehan posting his second straight shutout. Joe Bracken, Sullivan and Winters had two goals apiece and DiMattia, Billy Barron and Eric Wood one each. DiMattia and Stone had two assists each and Coleman, Bracken, Jimmy Casinelli, John Barron, Eric Wood and Langille one apiece.

In the semifinals Quincy edged the Seahawks, 2-0, with Sheehan again outstanding in goal. Manning scored first unassisted and with a minute left in the game, DiMattia scored the second goal.

any election. I've tried hard to lead as good a life I could. Not a perfect life, by any means, not a life without error or mistake. But as good a life as I could."

As for illegal campaign financing, Hart responded, "I can't respond to ghosts," referring to unnamed sources in news reports.

Simon was questioned about his idea of supplying telephones to seven million poor people and where the money to fund the program would come from.

The senator from Illinois said those phones could be installed with revenue raised from a two percent tax imposed on all long distance phone calls. He said the program for the poor would include phones without long distance accessibility.

Babbitt again called for truth and honesty in dealing with the issues, especially the federal budget deficit. Babbitt has proposed a five percent progressive consumption sales tax that would raise revenue and help slash the deficit. Babbitt insists the poor would be exempt from it.

Gore criticized Babbitt's idea, saying it is "regressive" and "Republican." "If you put a national sales tax on the American people, you are adopting a Republican, regressive idea."

Babbitt fired back, "That's over the line," and began talking about his work as an anti-poverty lawyer and civil rights worker.

"I just think you're questioning my credibility as a Democrat," the former governor said. Babbitt further remarked his tax would cost a family of four making $26,000 a year about $365 per year.

Regarding whether or not the Cold War is over, Gore said "no."

"The fact is we are winning the battle of ideas. The adoption of a new approach (by the Soviet Union) is acknowledgement that the Soviet system cannot provide."

Babbitt said the Cold War is "winding down" and "Marxism is dead."

"We're winning and our values are sweeping the world," he added.

In their closing statements, the candidates remarked:

Hart: "I re-entered this race because the United States needs new ideas, new realities. This campaign is a test of courage. The Washington Post wrote that Hart can't win. They are not right in saying such. Let the people decide."

Simon: "This country is richer for the dreams of Martin Luther King Jr. and Hubert Humphrey. Before Humphrey died, he said the earth is an experiment of peace and can we have it. We need leadership that dreams, cares and leads. If you want it, I stand ready to serve you."

Gore: "Politics is about change, our future. Can we understand how high the stakes are? Politics is about invigorating the economy, feeling compassion for AIDS cases, the homeless, about children and social justice. The Republicans don't understand this. How is a unique time: Is this the end of an American era?"

Babbitt: "I believe in the character of the American people. America has a tremendous future. We have to talk honestly about the deficit, the economy. I've lived my life by the principle, if you really believe in the people you lead, anything is possible."

Jackson: "I have more leadership experience in social justice. I've been told I can't win. Well, I'm not going to surrender. Together we can win."

Gephardt: "Can we gain control of our economic destiny? The years before Franklin Delano Roosevelt was elected were eight gray years. What is the answer? Your vote is the most powerful vote in the land.

Dukakis: "I want to bring the American dream to every single citizen. The dream is real in some places. I want to be a president that helps shape American foreign policy that ends the fiasco in Central America and end the nuclear arms race."

Rec. Department N.H. Ski Trip Feb. 21

Recreation Director Barry J. Welch announces the Quincy Recreation Department will sponsor a one-day ski trip to King Ridge Ski Area in New London, N.H.

The trip will be Sunday, Feb. 21 and is open to all Quincy residents age 10 through adult. Those under age 10 may attend if accompanied by an adult. Family groups are encouraged to attend.

The fee for a round trip coach bus and an all day lift ticket is $31 for those through age 17, and $33 for those 18 and over. Reduced rates for rental equipment and optional lessons can also be arranged. The trip will be supervised by Recreation Department Staff.

Registration will be held in the Recreation Office at 100 Southern Artery beginning immediately and will continue weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. as long as openings exist.

King Ridge Ski Area has 20 trails and slopes, seven lifts including three chair lifts. There is a variety of skiing terrain and skiiing on two separate peaks.

The Summit Village offers a ski-shop, cafeteria, nurseries and ski-school. The area is patrolled by a trained ski patrol.

Dependents Need Social Security Numbers

Children five years of age or older, to be claimed as a dependent, must now have a Social Security number.

The Internal Revenue Service says, that starting with your 1987 tax return, you must include this number on your return for any child who's five years old by Dec. 31, 1987.

"Most dependents who lack a number will be young children," said District Director Gerard R. Esposito. "The requirement is for all dependents, however. Elderly parents or nonresident aliens whom you plan to claim as dependents also must have Social Security numbers."

To apply for a number, file a Form SS-5 with the Social Security Administration as soon as possible.

But don't delay filing if you have applied for a Social Security number for your dependent and it hasn't arrived by the time you're ready to file your return. Write "Applied for" in the appropriate space on your return and send it in.

For more information, get the free IRS Publication 501, "Exemptions and Standard Deduction." To order, call 1-800-424-FORM.

Mayors Hear Wright, Jackson At Conference

House speaker James Wright and presidential candidate Rev. Jesse Jackson were among the speakers at the Mayor's Mid Winter Conference attended by Mayor Francis McCauley last week.

"They were both good speakers," said McCauley, who made the trip with Planning Director Richard Meade, City Solicitor Joseph (Jay) MacRitchie, and Peter Kenney, the mayor's executive secretary.

During the three-day conference, topics included the fight to save the Community Development Block Grant program, according to McCauley.

"Plans are being made for a nationwide week to highlight the CDBG program April 2 to 9," said McCauley.

"The organizers plan to have people who benefit from the program contact their congressmen and senators to urge that no cuts be made," he said.

Affordable housing was also a major topic, according to McCauley.

"Cong. Joe Kennedy said that he will file a bill to appropriate $500 million for affordable housing," said McCauley.

"It would go directly to the cities, not through the state," he said.

Kennedy was a speaker before the Community Development, Housing and Economic Development Committee of which McCauley is a member.

McCauley said he is also a member of a task force on city and state interrelations.

A total of 150 mayors preregistered for the conference, according to McCauley.

License Board Briefs

The City's License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting at City Hall:

- Granted a request from McDonald's Corp. for Bill Machon of Carver to manage McDonald's at 473 Southern Artery, Quincy and Keith Nickerson of Quincy to manage McDonald's at 275 Hancock St., Quincy.
- Withdrew without prejudice a request from Gregg W. Condon of Randolph for a license to operate a recreational center in Quincy Center with 10 billiard tables, coin operated juke box and arcade games, and snack bar.
- Placed on file a request from South Shore Marine Generator, 138A Washington St., for a repair shop license. Both applicants, Jack Meriot and Scott Owens Corning, asked that this action be taken.
- Continued to Feb. 9 a hearing on Sagamore Inc. regarding a police report filed June 27, 1987 case No. 873999-MAA.
- Granted a request from North Quincy High School Girl's Basketball Boosters for canning dates Jan. 29, from 5 p.m. to 10 p.m.; Jan. 30, from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Jan. 31, from noon to 6 p.m.
- Granted a request from D.W. Tarbox & Sons for a permanent Junk Wagon license. D.W. Tarbox II & Sons have been operating with a trial six month license since August 1987.
- Granted a request from The Chantey, 333 Victory Rd. Marina Bay for a common victualer license and a wine and malt license.

Rose Drohan:

She's 102 Years Young

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

"Try to stay healthy, be friendly to everyone, pray a lot, and then God will take good care of you."

That's the advice of Rose Drohan who recently celebrated her 102nd birthday at the Presidential Convalescent Home, Old Colony Ave., Wollaston.

She observed the occasion with family and friends who enjoyed a special birthday cake.

Born in Boston Jan. 28, 1886, she was educated in Boston parochial schools and Notre Dame Academy.

The former Rose Wipperman, she was married June 22, 1910 to Joseph F. Drohan and they moved to Quincy around 1913.

Mrs. Drohan worked in Boston as a secretary.

Active in several organizations, she was a long-time member of the Daughters of Isabella, Ladies Auxiliary of Moose, and Granite City Grange.

In 1944, Mr. Drohan died.

Mrs. Drohan lived for a number of years with her daughter, Lillian Hancock, and son-in-law, William Hancock, of Quincy.

She became a resident of Presidential Convalescent Home March 15, 1979.

Mrs. Drohan has been involved in a number of activities, and was president of the resident council for two years in a row.

According to the staff, she is a lover of people and music.

Budget Requests Up $16.7 Million From Last Year

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Budget requests from city department heads for fiscal 1989 amount to $112,795,004, up $16,736,744 from the 1988 budget of $96,058,260 approved by the City Council last May.

But Mayor Francis McCauley expects that requested amount to be reduced when budget sessions with department heads begin Friday at 8 a.m.

"The budget will still go up from fiscal 1988 because of salary increases and fixed charges," said McCauley.

"But there will be some cuts in department requests," he said.

Additional and proposed appropriations from fiscal 1988 revenues amount to $3,903,324, or a total spending package for fiscal 1988 to date of $99,961,584, according to McCauley.

An additional $7,897,440 has been expended on capital outlay, landfill and refuse disposal from the free cash account he said.

Some of the major increases in the fiscal 1989 budget are:

- Health Insurance, up $1,800,000
- Pensions, up $470,758
- MWRA assessment, up $1,596,658
- Debt Service, up $636,658
- School Budget, up $4,271,000
- Salary Increase, General Government, up $3,090,359
- Refuse Disposal, up $2,765,428
- Worker's Compensation, up $250,000.

The largest increase, a school budget up $4,271,000, represents some $3.2 million in salary increases as well as special needs education and transportation, according to the mayor.

McCauley said that the MWRA (Massachusetts Water Reosurces Authority

City Treasury Gets $2 Million-Plus Bonus

The city treasury is more than $2 million richer thanks to the repayment by Three Heritage Drive Associates of an outstanding UDAG loan provided in March, 1983, according to Mayor Francis McCauley.

The loan was for the construction of the office building and garage known as Monarch III at Three Heritage Drive, North Quincy, McCauley said.,

A total of $2,023,842.14 was repaid by Three Heritage Drive Associates (O'Connell Associates, General Partner), the mayor explained.

McCauley said the repayment will go into a separate account and invested. It will be available for spending in a broad area, he said.

The mayor explained that when a UDAG grant for 200 Newport Ave. was repaid, some of the money was used for the Ross Parking Deck in Quincy Sq., and some was given to City Councillors for use in their wards.

He said he has nothing in mind for the money right now.

Funds for the loan came to the city from the Federal Urban Development Action Grant Program, McCauley said. He explained that the federal program was established to encourage development in urban areas which would increase tax revenues and provide permanent job opportunities for city residents. Currently, there are approximately 750 jobs at Three Heritage Drive, according to the mayor. Additionally, the property generated $618,582.23 in real estate taxes to the city in Fiscal Year 1987, he said.

In addition to the one time repayment of $2,023,842.14 the city previously received $330,595.97 in periodic interest payments. The city continues to retain an interest in the property until July 31, 1994, said the mayor. In the event of a sale of property prior to that date, the city is entitled to a 20 percent share of the net proceeds, McCauley said.

"I am pleased to not only be receiving these funds at this time but also to have assisted in the development of this project which has created permanent job opportunities and tax revenues for the city," he said.

The repayment of the loan was negotiated by Kevin Shea, principal planner of the Department of Planning and Community Development and Atty. Robert Quinn of the Solicitor's Office.

What Was That Mysterious Noise?

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

A loud, mysterious noise heard by some residents throughout Quincy early Tuesday morning remains a mystery.

The noise which was heard about 12:30 a.m. Tuesday, was described as a possible thunderclap or supersonic activity.

However, spokesmen from Quincy Civil Defense and the National Weather Service said those possibilities are unlikely.

A National Weather Service spokesman in Boston said "conditions weren't favorable for a thunderstorm."

"The front that would have caused a thunderstorm was too far west and there wasn't enough heat to supply a thunderclap," he said.

The spokesman said the weather service "heard nothing about it all and no one called us at all" concerning the mysterious noise.

The Quincy Police Department received numerous phone calls from residents who heard the noise. A Police Department spokesman said residents from North, South and West Quincy reported hearing the noise.

Dale Solander, communications supervisor for Quincy Civil Defense said he heard the noise, which he described as a very loud thunderclap.

Solander said he contacted Pease Air Force Base near Portsmouth, N.H. and said a sergeant stationed there checked with other military and air force bases in the area and the FAA. All reports said there was no supersonic activity listed at the time the noise was heard.

"It's a mystery to us and them," said Solander.

Tony Siciliano, deputy director of Quincy Civil Defense, said he was awakened by the noise.

"It was enough to wake people up and bring them out of their homes and into the streets.

"It sounded like a plane crash," he said

Cost Estimates Sought For Health Center Heating Problems

The city is waiting for cost estimates to remedy the heating problems at the Kennedy Health Center, according to Mayor Francis McCauley.

The mayor said that he spoke to Herbert Blake of the Public Buildings Department about the problem which has resulted in lack of heat in the basement of the building at 1120 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The problem has been the source of several complaints.

Heating firms looked at the building recently to determine the problem, according to the mayor.

The basement of the building houses such offices as the Council on Aging, Consumer Affairs and Rent Grievance Board.

$100,000 North Quincy Lounge Fire Believed Set

A two-alarm fire early Tuesday which officials believe was set caused an estimated $100,000 damage to Lefty's Lounge, 160 Hancock St., North Quincy.

There were no reported injuries, according to Fire Chief Carl Valenti who said that the fire apparently began in the cellar of the one story, wood frame building which was gutted.

The lounge is owned by Joseph Rushford, according to police.

"All cellar fires are difficult to fight," noted Valenti.

"After the fire was extinguished, we found evidence of four separate fires in the cellar area," he said.

"It's definitely of a suspicious nature."

Valenti said the lounge had been reported open the night before the fire broke out.

The matter is being investigated by the State Fire Marshal's Office, Quincy Fire Prevention Bureau and Quincy Police, he said.

The first alarm came in at 3:34 a.m., the second at 3:41 a.m., and the all-out at 5:20 a.m., according to Valenti.

Quincy Awarded $33,000 Gateway Cities Grant

A $33,000 grant has been awarded to the city of Quincy by the Executive Office of Communities and Development through the Gateway Cities Grant Program, State Senator Paul D. Harold announces.

Harold noted that the Gateway Cities Program is designed to assist new arrivals in various cities throughout the Commonwealth. Of the total grant, $6,000 has been awarded to the Quincy Police Department, $7,000 to the Manet Community Health Center, and $20,000 to Urbanistics.

Urbanistics will use its portion of the grant to continue an English Speaking Lessons Program conducted at the Wollaston Lutheran Church, said Harold.

Council To Hold Hearing On Hauling, Storing Explosives

The City Council adopted a resolve Monday night that its Public Safety Committee conduct a hearing regarding hauling and-or storing of explosives within the limits of the city.

The resolve, introduced by Ward 4 Councillor James A. Sheets and Ward 5 Councillor Charles J. Phelan, noted the recent incident involving a trailer containing firework explosives which overturned at Copeland and Willard Sts.

The intersection is in Sheets' ward.

"The city had not been notified that this truck carrying explosives would be using Quincy roadways," stated the resolve.

"There may be a need to revise or to create new ordinances governing the conduct of explosives using city streets."

It also noted that "explosives are stored, with appropriate permits, in the area of Ricciuti Drive."

"Each of those issues needs to be examined to ensure public safety," stated the resolve.

No date has been set yet for the hearing.

Ward 3 Democrats To Caucus

Registered Democrats in Ward 3 will hold a caucus Saturday, Feb. 27, at 2 p.m. at Granite Place, 125 Granite St., to elect delegates to the 1988 Massachusetts Democratic Convention.

Ward 3 will elect delegates and two alternates equally divided between men and women, to send to the convention.

Chairperson John J. Lydon, Jr., will call the caucus.

The caucus is open to all registered Democrats; persons ineligible to register and media representatives.

The only persons eligible to participate in any portion of the caucus are those who are registered Democrats in the ward or town as of Dec. 30, 1987.

Point Parents Protest Consolidation With Sterling

The School Committee was scheduled to vote last night (Wednesday) on Supt. Dr. Robert Ricci's recommendation that Quincy Point and Sterling Middle Schools be consolidated at Sterling next year to equalize middle school offerings.

The vote was expected to be close, and Quincy Point parents were hoping that the recommendation would be voted down.

"We're in favor of keeping our neighborhood school right here in Quincy Point," said Marie Gallagher, vice president of the Point Middle School PTO.

"The School Committee would like to close it, consolidate it.

"We want to keep our children in our neighborhood school."

One of the concerns of the parents is the distance they fear some students will have to walk over busy streets from Quincy Point to Sterling in South Quincy.

To illustrate their point, two dozen parents made the one and a quarter mile walk Sunday morning.

Ward Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro was among the group.

"I'm working with the parents of Point Middle School in hopes that we can right up until the last possible minute do all that is possible to stop this particular vote.

"...We will work until the end to stop something that as far as I'm concerned is absolutely unreasonable.

"There's no possible reason for it, they're just disrupting a wonderful, wonderful school."

Dr. Ricci said later that the vast majority of students would be shuttle-bused to Sterling.

"The issue of walking isn't an issue at this time," he said.

According to the school superintendent, the middle school system in Quincy is in disarray.

"At this point, it really doesn't hang together," he said.

"I do understand the problems and the concerns of the parents, so I'll do everything in my power to make it a smooth transition and much more beneficial to the schools than they can imagine at this point," said Ricci.

Point Middle School is part of a complex which also houses the Daniel Webster Elementary School.

The elementary school would remain open if the consolidation of the two middle schools were approved.

Council Cuts Trash Collection Money In Half

The City Council voted Monday night to appropriate $1,140,000 from the free cash account for waste collection, half the amount the mayor had requested.

At the Finance Committee meeting which preceded the regular council meeting, Chairman Stephen McGrath proposed that the requested $2,280,000 be cut in half.

"The amount has increased dramatically from what we had thought it would be," said McGrath.

Public Works Commr. Paul Anderson said that amounts mentioned earlier were estimates of what it would cost the city to pay Browning Ferris Industries to truck its rubbish out of town for six months.

The city's landfill was closed by the DEQE last spring.

Anderson said the city had been paying $69 a ton, but was now paying $85.83 a ton.

He also said that when DEQE requirements for the landfill are met, the dump should reopen for six to nine months. That could be as early as June 1, or more likely, July 1, Anderson said.

In response to a question by Councillor Charles Phelan, Anderson said that the landfill would have enough space to remain open into the 1990s if it were used only for municipal waste such as sand, brush, etc.

Anderson also noted that the city has agreed to close the dump by late 1994 or early 1995.

Phelan also suggested composting, and Councillor Patricia Toland recommended that recycling be investigated.

Councillor James Sheets said the city was going to have to look to regional incineration.

Councillor Michael Cheney requested a copy of the city's contract with BFI, and figures from other communities the size of Quincy, which deal with trash hauling.

After the meeting, Mayor Francis McCauley said he will have to go back to the council some time in April when the money is exhausted.

"You have to pay for what you do," he said.

Hasn't Quincy Point Had Enough?

Editor, The Quincy Sun.

Hasn't Quincy Point had enough? When is enough, enough?

Who is it that makes this decision? Should it be Mayor McCauley of Quincy? Should it be Superintendent Dr. Robert Ricci? Should it be the members of the School Committee, (all seven of them)? Or, should it be the right of every child and parent in the Quincy Middle School District - after all it is their future being decided.

The issue here is the closing of Point Middle School. To close down this school, which has stood for many years, to have our children merge with the Sterling School in West Quincy. Should that school be completely filled, these children would be expected to go wherever a seat is available.

The reason for this? Well supposedly to offer more in the line of better education. Offering more in variety such as theatrical arts and foreign language. But, in order to qualify for this type of program, better education, the two schools must merge. And what happens to the children that they do not have room for, what do they do? What kind of education do they get? Second best? Where is the money coming from to fund this program? Considering there is no money left in the school budget. Where does Dr. Ricci plan to get this money? Just how involved is Dr. Ricci in our community? At the end of his three year term, after he has totally uprooted us, will he go back to his family in Rhode Island and forget that we ever existed?

Also, it seems that transportation is not guaranteed. It's been said that any child traveling over 13 miles should be transported, but this is not in writing, just more words. This program may not be implemented for two or three more years. Why close the school this year? Why must the decision be made by February 3, 1988? What is the rush? There are much too many questions left unanswered.

We, the parents and the children of the Quincy Point Area are faced with our children being forced to attend whatever school has a seat available. Our children are being treated undeservingly. Quincy Point continually suffers; isn't it enough they closed the Pollard School, isn't it enough that the Shipyard closed and so did many families lose their livelihood; Quincy Square is just dwindling away; and if that is not enough, now we are faced with a sludge plant in our backyard. Is this type of treatment only good for the people of Quincy Point?

Is this their opinion of the people of Quincy Point? The threat of the sludge plant, if this becomes a reality (both the sludge plant and the school closing) this will mean the crossing of three main streets that will have 200 trucks per day traveling the same three main streets as the children are walking. Not to mention the number of strange people they might meet along the way. And we, as parents, will have to be worried and concerned if they have made their way to school, or did someone pick them up along the way and they will never be seen at any school again? Doesn't anybody care? The people of Quincy Point do.

Our children, and many parents, are fighting to keep their school open - this is their school. The children have been petitioning in our shopping malls, supermarkets, churches and on the streets. Fighting to keep what is theirs. Fighting, not just to save Point Middle, but the closings of any school in the future, because it will not stop here. I must add that there has been tremendous support from other communities, for each child has a right to attend school in the community in which they live.

How much can they take away from us? Are we going to let them? We are saying now that enough is enough. We have our rights and the right to live decently, and with good educations within our own community. We plan to exercise each and every one of those rights. Quincy Point has had enough done to our community and to our lives and to our children's lives.

American Heart Assn. Week

Mayor Francis McCauley has proclaimed the week of Feb 7 to Feb. 13, American Heart Association Week in Quincy.

"Diseases of the heart, including stroke and heart attack, continue to be the primary cause of death in the United States," said McCauley.

"Forty-three percent of Quincy deaths have been caused by some form of heart disease," he said.

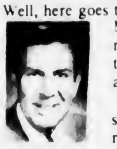
There Goes The Resolution

One of my New Year resolutions was to not write a column about City Clerk John Gillis being urged to run for mayor.

GILLIS



I figured it would be an easy one to keep.

Easy because, I thought, no one would be urging him to run. That they had given up.

As far as running for mayor is concerned, Gillis has been -- well -- a sort of political virgin. He keeps saying "no."

He has said "no" so many times in the past few years to those wanting him to run for mayor, I was sure they were tired of hearing it. And that they would take the hint and move on to someone else.

Well, here goes that New Year's resolution.

McCAULEY

Mayor Francis McCauley is only a month and four days into his fourth term and already Gillis has been approached to run in 1989.

His apparent never-give-up suitors seem convinced he can be the next mayor.

They think McCauley will finish out his term and bid farewell to the political scene. The local political scene, anyway.

McCauley has said he won't decide on whether to seek an historic fifth term or step down until a year from now. But some observers are pretty sure he will call it a career in 1989.

His slim victory over Joseph LaRaia last November is, they say, a sign that a mayor can stay too long in office. Like a prizefighter can stay too long in the ring. If you stay long enough, there's someone bound to come along and deck you.

Being mayor is no soft touch. The more you say "no," the more enemies and anti-votes pile up. You get blamed for the problems but not necessarily the credit for solutions to the problems.

After a while you even lose ground because someone doesn't like the color of your sox or tie.

You've got dozens of Monday morning quarterbacks and grandstand managers who can do the job better than you. If you don't believe so, just ask them.

Certainly, if Gillis were to run for mayor he would be a formidable candidate. He's one of the most popular and compassionate figures ever in City Hall. He would be a "People's Candidate."

But Gillis doesn't want to be mayor of Quincy.

It's too bad that those who keep asking him to run don't realize that and let him alone.

Personally, I hope he remains a political mayoral candidate virgin and keeps saying "no."

Even if they plead, "Please, pretty please."

IN CASE YOU didn't get the word and are wondering, the Massachusetts Presidential Primary is March 8 and the ballots lineups have been set.

This is the order in which the names will appear:

Democrats: Michael Dukakis, Albert Gore, Florencio Didonato, Paul Simon, Bruce Babbitt, Richard Gephardt, Jesse Jackson, Gary Hart, Lyndon LaRouche.

Republicans: Pierre duPont, Marion (Pat) Robertson, George Bush, Alexander Haig, Jack Kemp and Robert Dole.

THE ONCE all-male Quincy Kiwanis Club now has its first two female members: Kathy Roberts of the M & M Plumbing and Heating Company who is also state Republican Committeewoman, and Bevery Reinhardt, manager of the Quincy Youth Arena.

Bevvy is no stranger to the Kiwanis Club. She has run their International Youth Hockey Tournaments for a number of years.

AND, ANOTHER EQUALITY note: The once-all female Quincy League of Women Voters not only has a male member but Jack Harrington, Quincy High School social studies teacher, is also the secretary.

Ah, progress.

McGRATH

IF YOU HEAR that City Councillor Steve McGrath is next in line for a black robe, don't believe it.

At Monday night's City Council meeting City Solicitor Jay MacRitchie, responding to a question from McGrath, addressed him as "Your honor."

But, then again, Your Honor also fits the title of mayor. So ...

Well, Mayor Francis McCauley, after a busy week recently spent a relaxing weekend watching John Wayne movies on cable TV. Six of them!

All right, Pilgrim!

assessment increase was expected.

A 40 percent increase is anticipated for the next fiscal year, he noted.

But McCauley said he was surprised at the increases in a number of fixed charges such as pensions and worker's compensation.

During the first budget session Friday, heads of 14 departments will meet with the mayor, City Auditor Robert E. Foy, and Executive Secretary Peter Kenney.

A second budget session will be held Tuesday, Feb. 16, starting at 8:30 a.m. when eight department budgets as well as debt service and unclassified accounts will be reviewed.

The mayor said that April 4 is his target date for submitting his proposed budget to the council.

City Wants To Preserve Historic Tide Mill Building

Planning Director Richard Meade has written to the owner of Quincy Lumber Co. on Southern Artery to express the city's continued interest in preservation of the Souther-Tide Mill building which dates back to the 1800s.

The closed lumber company was the site of a two-alarm fire last week which caused an estimated $200,000 damage, but the mill was not harmed. It was the second fire at the property in the past two and a half years, according to Meade.

In the letter to Mrs. Edgar W. Cottle of Harvard, Meade wrote, "This historical landmark, which played a significant role in the industrial history of the City of Quincy should be preserved for future generations.

"In addition, I believe that the entire Quincy Lumber site should be developed as a passive waterfront park area. With this area as a permanently dedicated open space, recreational and historic site, the general public will be able to not only further understand the historic significance of the parcel but also enjoy the panoramic view of the Town River area.

"Mayor McCauley is presently investigating funding through the recently approved $500 million bond issue which will provide funds for "an environmental enhancement and protection program for the Commonwealth." The mayor believes that we should protect and preserve valuable land for open space in order to guarantee that we can meet the ever-increasing recreational demands of future generations.

"The purpose of this letter is just to keep you up to date on what the city is doing in the interest of protecting this valuable property. I would like to sit down with you, at your convenience, and further discuss the overall plan and elaborate on some of the concerns that we have in light of the recent fire that occurred."

4-Year Terms, Sewer Fee Before Council Feb. 9

The City Council's Ordinance Committee is scheduled to discuss Mayor Francis McCauley's proposals for a sewer user fee and four year terms for the mayor, city councillors and School Committee members Tuesday, Feb. 9.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. in the Council Chambers at City Hall, according to committee chairman Michael Cheney.

McCauley has said that the time has come for establishment of a sewer user fee for the small commercial and residential property owner.

He said that in the past, small residential commercial owners have paid their sewer fees as part of their property taxes.

However, the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority assessments have been increasing rapidly, he said, and the city must now try to recover some of the charges.

The home rule petition for four year terms was originally submitted by McCauley two years ago and voted down by the City Council.

The mayor said that the increased terms of office is prevalent across the country.

If approved by the City Council and adopted by the legislature, the proposal would be put to a referendum and the voters would decide in the presidential election, he said.

McCauley said that he recently updated the city councillors on the city's finances and need for a sewer user fee.

He said he did not receive feedback on the councillors on the proposal.

In a different interview, Councillor Cheney said that he and other councillors have a number of questions about the fee.

He also said that he is opposed to the four year terms.

"Two year elections make you more accountable to the people," said Cheney. "I understand the mayor's concern and I agree that it's difficult to accomplish anything significant in a two year period. But there is a tremendous danger in electing people to four year terms."

$16,194,947 Plan E City Budget Submitted

City Manager Edward T. Lewis submitted to the City Council a $16,194,947 budget, an increase of $1,940,000 over the previous year.

Lewis' budget contained no general salary increases for city employees but City Councillor Charles L. Shea was leading a movement to provide a general 10 percent wage hike with a ceiling of $500.

Feb. 2-9, 1957
31 Years Ago

Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa estimated that the budget would mean a $4.40 increase in the $60.00 tax rate without pay raises and $7.77 with them.

Lewis said the bulk of the budget increase was due to an $882,000 rise in school costs.

GRUTCHFIELD PACES NORTH

Doug Grutchfield threw in 25 points to lead North Quincy to a 60-44 victory over Arlington without the services of Dick Mann, the second member of the Raiders' dynamic duo who was out with a virus.

The North lineup included Grutchfield, Jim Baldwin, Pete Frederickson, Fran Scanlon and Eddie Deane, who replaced Mann in the starting five.

Quincy guards Eddie Dunham and Tommy Connors scored 34 points between them, but the Presidents bowed to Malden, 71-62, in a Greater Boston League game.

Lentil Soup

In Large Bowl With Hard Rolls

When we were in Germany last summer we visited the famous Rose Garden in Bamberg. And secluded in this splendid array of roses was a beautiful hotel more than 200 years old. The menus were all written in German and although our daughter Sue translated them to us at other times, this particular day, we asked her not to. We decided to pick anything from the menu and be "surprised."

Well we were surprised. Especially at our daughter Nancy's selection. Hers turned out to be guess ... lentil soup served in a large bowl with a hard roll. Just like my mother used to make and like I do now. Of course my husband was jealous because lentil soup is one of his favorites. His surprise turned out to be a veal sandwich which he liked ... but would have loved the lentils even more! Don't worry though, Nancy shared some of her soup with her daddy. Here is a recipe for lentil soup as we prepare it, but there are several other ways to do it.

LENTIL SOUP

1 sixteen oz bag of lentils
8 cups of water
1 medium onion cut up
1 stalk of celery cut up
1 carrot cut up (optional)
salt and pepper to taste
2 cloves of garlic cut in halves (for easy removal)
1 Tbsp olive oil

Rinse the lentils and drain. In a large pan, add the water, lentils, onion, celery, carrots and garlic. Bring to a boil, cover and reduce heat. Simmer for about an hour or until lentils and vegetables are tender. Add the oil for additional flavor. Serve hot over crusty Italian bread and grated cheese. Or plain as a soup. Sometimes I add a couple of tablespoons of leftover tomato sauce. Goes great on a cold dreary day.

Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian-And Then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at That's Italian, Franklin St., South Quincy; Previte's Market, Sumner St., Quincy Point; Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount and Winfield Gift Emporium, Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Four Residents Aid Don Bosco 'Chocolate Drive'

Douglas F. Ward, 275 Belmont St., James M. Collins, 90 Bromfield St., Anthony J. Viapiano, 66 Edwards St. and Christopher C. McDermontt, 146 Taylor St., took part in the fundraiser.

Proceeds of the drive will be used to help pay for the cost of the school's computer-electronics center.

Ward received a Don Bosco jacket and sweater, and Collins, Viapiano and McDermontt received sweaters for their efforts.

The drive was under the direction of Fr. Richard Crager, a member of the faculty.

OFC Awards School-Age Child Care Grants

Massachusetts Office for Children (OFC) Commr. Mary Kay Leonard recently awarded grants totaling $50,000 to 11 organizations statewide, including $5,000 to Quincy.

During a ceremony at the Quincy After School Day Care Program at the Montclair School, North Quincy, Leonard congratulated the 1988 recipients and praised programs that received similar grants in 1987.

"Massachusetts families need safe, affordable child care programs for school children," said Leonard. "In the commonwealth today, 64 per cent of children between six and 13 years of age have mothers who work. Of that number, about half need care between the time school starts or lets out, and the time their parents leave for, or come, home from work. By 1995, that number will climb by more than one-third.

The planning and development grants will be used to open or expand child care programs for Massachusetts school children.

"Last year, as part of our effort to promote school-age child care, the office awarded $40,000 to nine agencies to help them start new school-age child care programs," continued Leonard. "That seed money has resulted in 175 new placements for children at eight new or expanded programs across the state. This year 11 organizations are being funded." The Quincy program is the only one to receive funding for a second year, according to OFC.

Quincy Hospital Auxiliary Plans Heart Tag Day

The Quincy City Hospital Auxiliary will sponsor its annual Heart Tag Day at the hospital Friday, Feb. 12 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Traditionally, the goal of the fund raiser is to help underwrite the cost of cardiac care equipment.

A non-invasive temporary external pacemaker has been chosen for use primarily in the Intensive Care Unit.

The device is used for temporary treatment of cardiac patients with slow heart rates. It increases survival time by avoiding long delays and complications, according to the auxiliary.

Donations for "tags" will be solicited throughout the hospital.

Outside the cafeteria, homemade fudge and candy, as well as coffee and donuts will be sold.

Drawing chances will be available for six items including a large "Valentine type" stuffed animal, floral display, "cheer" and dinner for two.

Emblem Club To Elect Nominating Committee

The Quincy Emblem Club will meet Wednesday, Feb. 10, at the Quincy Lodge of Elks to elect a nominating committee.

President Marilyn Alcott will preside at the meeting.

Installation of officers will be held in April with supreme past president Pearl Garcia as installing officer.

After the business meeting, there will be a Valentine party with Lucy Venezia as chairman, assisted by Patty McIntyre and Marge Romasco.

Ellen Zane Associate Director For Patient Services At Quincy Hospital

Quincy City Hospital Director Mark J. Mundy announces the appointment of Ellen M. Zane as the hospital's associate director, responsible for Patient Services.

Mrs. Zane was most recently vice president for professional services at the Morton Hospital and Medical Center, Inc. in Taunton.

In her eight years of service at the Morton Hospital, Mrs. Zane also served as vice president for rehabilitation services, director of rehabilitation services and director of the Speech, Hearing and Language Center. Prior to that, she was a speech-language pathologist for four years at the Lawrence General Hospital.

ELLEN ZANE

Mrs. Zane received her B.A. degree from the George Washington University in Washington, D.C., and her master of arts degree from the Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C. in audiology and speech-language pathology. She is a former president of the Massachusetts Speech-Language-Hearing Association, as well as a former chairperson of the association's governmental affairs committee.

A member of the executive committee of the Health Care Management Association of Massachusetts, Mrs. Zane also is a member of the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association. She was awarded the Distinguished Service Award for outstanding professional contribution to the Massachusetts Speech-Language-Hearing Association in 1983.

Mrs. Zane's husband, Peter, is an attorney, and is president of the Kryptonite Corporation of Dorchester. Residents of South Easton, they plan to relocate to Hingham in the near future.

Carla Calligan Vo-Tech Student Of Month

Carla Calligan, an 11th grade student at Quincy Vocational Technical School has been named student of the month, and has received a U.S. Savings Bond in recognition of her achievement.

Majoring in culinary arts, the 17 year old student is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Calligan of Taffrail St., Quincy. She plans to be a chef and is interested in art.

Calligan said in an interview that she was not surprised to be chosen Student of the Month. "I work hard, I am a good student."

After school, she works in a day care center at Quincy Hospital and enjoys working with students.

The Student of the Month Program is an important incentive for young people according to Director Joseph A. Mazzarella. "It recognizes achievement and rewards hard work and commitment to learning," he said.

Protect Your Credit Cards

Credit card frauds cost us millions of dollars each year. Here are some tips that you can use to prevent yourself from becoming the next victim.

Always:

- Sign all new cards immediately and cut up expired ones.
- Examine monthly statements carefully. Keep all receipts from credit card transactions and check them against your bill.
- Safeguard your credit cards as well as you do your cash. Don't leave them in pockets, sitting around the house or a hotel room, in the car's glove compartment or in a purse left open in a shopping cart.
- Make a list of all credit cards with their numbers and issuers, names and telephone numbers. Keep it in a secure place.
- Notify issuers immediately if your card is lost, stolen, or misused.

Use your cards safely:

- Try to watch the card during the transaction to make sure it's used to print only one slip.
- Make sure the card is returned and that it's your own.
- Tear up carbons the store ordinarily discards. An individual can take a carbon from trash, copy the number and use it for a mail order purchase.

Beware of callers seeking your account number.

Don't ever give information about your credit cards over the phone, even if a caller says he is from the bank or credit card company or insists the number is needed to verify your prize in a contest.

Money machine cards:

If you can select your own Personal Identification Number (PIN) to access an automated teller machine, stay away from your birthdate, social security number or address. If you lost your wallet with your card in it, these are the first ones a criminal would try. Use something personal, like an old address or a friend's birthday, that you can remember easily and doesn't appear on any cards you carry. Don't write your PIN on the bank card or on a slip of paper in your wallet.

CITY COUNCIL PRESIDENT Patricia Toland delivered some choice one-liners during a roast for former City Councillor Jack Lydon, right.

It Was 3 Jeers And A Lot Of Cheers For Jack

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

They "roasted" former City Councillor John J. Lydon, Jr., with jokes about his size, his parties, his pink jacuzzi and his funeral business.

They praised him for his caring and his humor during his 14 year tenure on the council.

But the truest words of all probably came from City Councillor James Sheets who recited a poem with the refrain, "we all know, he'll be back, our friend, Jack."

The occasion was a roast, called "Three Jeers for Jack," held at the Quincy Neighborhood Club by his friends.

It was attended by some 230 past and present city and local officials, city hall employees, friends and family members of Lydon.

Lydon, who did not seek reelection to the council last year, is rumored to be contemplating a run for the Second Norfolk District State Representative seat or Norfolk County Commissioner.

Master of ceremonies at the roast was James Lydon, Jack's cousin, who finally had his chance to get even after being "roasted" himself a year ago when he resigned as the city's planning director to take a job in private industry.

"This is three Jeers for Jack" began Lydon. "And if he thinks he's only getting three jeers, he's mistaken."

"One guy has been hanging around for some 20 odd years waiting for this," said Lydon. "His son, David."

"It pleases me no end to be roasting my father," said David. "It's about time the tables were turned, so Dad sit down, relax and squirm."

Mayor Francis McCauley billed himself as the "token Republican in city and state government."

He recounted the time the Patriot Ledger wrote a story on Lydon's elaborate bathroom with a pink jacuzzi, much to the chagrin of the city councillor.

City Council administrative assistant Louise Brabazon read a resolve which would create a "social events committee chaired by Lydon to ensure the future of St. Patrick's Day in Quincy and any and all social events."

It was also signed by City Clerk John Gillis and Clerk of Committees Jeanne Reardon.

"We're here tonight to reminisce about Jack Lydon," said newly elected Council President Patricia Toland, one of the funnier speakers during the evening.

"He's Quincy's oldest juvenile delinquent," she said.

Atty. Dennis Harrington, a former city councillor, joked, "I'm shocked by the audience. I didn't think more than 50 people would show up.

"...He may be retiring, but I think you'll see him as a force in the city of Quincy," added Harrington.

"I'm here to pay tribute to the only owner of a waterfall in Norfolk County-Jack Lydon," said Sen. Paul Harold, who presented him an Order of Paul Revere Patriot.

Other speakers were former city councillor Leo Kelly, councillor at large Stephen McGrath, and Herb Fontaine from WJDA Radio.

McGrath later joined Councillor Michael Cheney in a rendition of "Wild Colonial Boy."

"This was very, very heartwarming," said Lydon, after he had his chance to retort to some of the jabs.

"I'd like to thank you very, very much."

Student Financial Aid Hotline In Operation

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) announces that the Massachusetts Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators has set up a financial aid hotline.

The hotline is for all Bay State students and parents who need information on how to apply for college financial assistance.

The free service will be offered until Feb. 12, weekdays from 5 p.m. until 9 p.m. The hotline service ensures that students and parents receive accurate, up-to-date information, according to Rep. Morrissey.

He said he encourages all prospective students to use the service to guarantee maximum assistance.

"As education costs continue to rise, I think it's important that students and parents understand what type of financial aid is available to them and how they can obtain it," Morrissey said.

The toll free number is 1-800-422-4725.

K Of C Membership Drive In Honor Of Bishop Daily

Grand Knight Vincent P Collins of North Quincy Council announces the Massachusetts Knights of Columbus has launched its membership drive in honor of the new Supreme Chaplain Bishop Thomas V Daily, former curate at St Ann's, Wollaston

Grand Knight Collins said, "From his early years in the priesthood in Boston and later the Auxiliary Bishop of Boston, to his missionary work in Peru, to his service as Bishop of Palm Beach, Fla., Bishop Daily has tirelessly shared his giving spirit with the church and his fellowman"

Bishop Daily succeeded Bishop Charles P Greco of Alexandria, La who died at age 92 in January 1987, after serving as supreme chaplain for 26 years Bishop Daily is the second member of the episcopacy to become spiritual leader of the international Catholic family fraternal society comprised of 1.5 million members

A native of Belmont, Bishop Daily graduated from Belmont High School and finished his theological studies at St John's Seminary in Brighton

On Jan 10, 1952, he was ordained a priest of the archdiocese of Boston at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross by Archbishop Richard J Cushing He was then assigned to St Ann's Church in Wollaston where he was a curate from 1952 to 1960

Bshp. THOMAS V. DAILY

In 1960, Bishop Daily joined the Missionary Society of St James the Apostle for a pastoral assignment It was during that time that the bishop developed and nurtured a deep love and commitment for the people of South America

Bishop Daily returned to St Ann's as a curate in 1969 for another six years to 1971

Later in his career, this is the inspiration provided by His Holiness Pope John Paul II, he co-founded the "Christo" organization with his good friend brother Knight, Dr Mario Dunn of Milton, to help poor in Ecuador, Bolivia, Peru with medical assistance equipment, and training medical personnel

State Deputy Walter Almond launched the membership drive at the recent mid-year meeting of the 50 district deputies at Lara Dunfey-Hyannis Hotel on Cape Cod

Other speakers on the program were former Boston Mayor John F Collins who spoke on the "Catholic Lobby for Religious and Civil Rights" and Wesley Egmont of Boston Food Bank who discussed "Operation Care and Share"

Lumber Co. Building Fire Believed Caused By Homeless

A fire lit by the homeless to keep warm is being listed as the probable cause of a two-alarm fire which destroyed the vacant Quincy Lumber Co. building, 610 Southern Artery.

Quincy Fire Chief Carl Valenti estimated the damage at $200,000.

He said that homeless people had been asked to leave the premises on several previous occasions.

"I don't think it was deliberately set," said Valenti of the fire which broke out early Thursday. The first alarm came in at 3:37 a.m., the second at 3:41 a.m., and all out at 10:22 a.m.

The fire apparently started in the cellar of the two and a half story wood-frame building, according to Deputy Chief Thomas Gorman.

The building was fully involved in flames upon arrival by the fire department, Gorman said.

Four firefighters were injured, apparently not seriously, fighting the fire, said Valenti.

They were Capt. Bernard McCauley, who slipped on ice and hurt his back; Firefighter Thomas Molloy, who slipped on ice and hurt his elbow; Lt. Richard Sullivan, who received foreign matter in his eye; and Firefighter William Baron who hurt his back.

Eight pieces of apparatus were at the scene.

The fire is being investigated by the State Fire Marshal's Office, Quincy Fire Prevention Bureau and Quincy Police, according to Valenti.

Board Denies Diner Wine-Beer License

By KRISTINE STRENGE

Ward 2 Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro and residents of Quincy Point told the City's License Board they are opposed to any new alcoholic licenses granted in their neighborhood.

Tuesday at the License Board meeting, David E. Tetzel, president, manager and clerk of the 50-Fifty Diner, 618-622 Washington St., Quincy Point was forced to withdraw without prejudice his request for a wine and malt license.

Currently the diner is operating with a common victualer license which was granted May 1987.

The board members would not grant Tetzel a license due to the objections of DeCristofaro and residents of Quincy Point.

DeCristofaro who has been serving Ward 2 since 1982 appeared before the board to express his concerns. He said Quincy Point has improved by keeping liquor establishments out of the area. He also stated, that as long as he is representing Ward 2 he would oppose any liquor license in that ward.

A letter was sent to the board from Robert J. LaFleur, life long resident of Quincy Point who wanted to go on record as being against the granting of a beer and malt license to the diner.

LaFleur said "I feel another beer and malt license will add nothing to benefit this area and in fact would be more of detriment to the general area and the population thereof."

He also noted that there are three restaurants, two bar rooms and one liquor store between Washington St., and Washington Court, (the location of 50-Fifty Diner) and Washington Street and Lebanon St.

The board also received from the officers of the Ward Two Civic Association and 55 residents of Quincy Point a petition which disapproves the granting of the license to the diner.

Tretel said that he was unaware that DeCristofaro and residents of Quincy Point were so much against the license and he plans to talk with residents to see what could be done.

Chretien To Head City Recycling Committee

Mayor Francis McCauley has appointed Ward 3 City Councillor Lawrence Chretien to head the newly established City Recycling Committee.

McCauley said that he set up the committee to look at recycling and to report back to him by June 1.

"Refuse disposal is, and will continue, to be a major problem in the years ahead," said McCauley.

"The City of Quincy has not yet taken a hard look at recycling as a possible solution to part of our refuse disposal problems."

Also appointed to the committee were Ward 4 Councillor James Sheets, Health Commissioner M. Jane Gallahue, Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson, Assistant City Solicitor Robert Quinn, Jane Sullivan, League of Women Voters; and Peter Kelson, president, Adams Shore Community Association.

License Board Briefs

By KRISTINE STRENGE

The City's License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting at City Hall.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Sometimes it seems that the greatest fear men have is not of death or poverty or disaster but of something new. Recently a story was told to us about a man who said to his young relative (who was bewailing the fact that when he went back to his college after five years, he found it all strange) ... "That chapter in your life was fine while it lasted. But that chapter is over. Don't be afraid to close it." How true this is! How often we bewail the closing of a chapter. Too often we waste precious time on what is past. We are afraid to close the chapter! ... Isn't it true that each period in our life - personal as well as national - is a chapter in the WHOLE book? We should not be afraid to go on to the next chapter ... Why should we assume it will be worse than the last? Why not expect it to be better, because by the reading or living of the previous one we are more ready, better prepared to make the most of the new chapter?

What is true of the individual is true of the nation. Remember our early settlers who looked ahead to the new chapter in their lives. They carried the good of their pasts with them and faced the challenge of the new bravely and boldly. They looked ahead ... not back ...

We, too, can be pioneers in thought ... Let us face the challenge of tomorrow ... and close the chapter on yesterday! ...

Self Serv Gas Stations Before Ordinance Committee

The City Council's Ordinance Committee will hold public hearings Monday evening, Feb. 29, on Mayor Francis McCauley's proposed changes regarding self serve gas stations and restricting smoking in eating establishments.

The hearing on allowing self service gas stations in Quincy will begin at 7:15 p.m.

At 7:30 p.m., a public hearing will be held on the smoking restrictions which would require air cleaning systems in Quincy eating establishments and the restriction of 25 percent of the seats for non-smokers in businesses with over 40 seats.

The council will also hold a public hearing at 7 p.m. on rezoning six parcels of land in Houghs Neck to open space.

The public is invited to attend.

The Ordinance Committee had its first opportunity to discuss the self serve gas station and smoking regulations at the City Council meeting Monday night.

Members also discussed two other proposals by the mayor on replacing five-cent per hour parking meters with 10-cent per hour meters, and placing responsibility on property owners for cleaning streets and sidewalks.

After little discussion, the committee moved to give a favorable recommendation for the parking meter replacement. The matter will be taken up again at a later meeting by the council.

However, the committee agreed to leave in committee the clean streets proposal which would include a fine of up to $100 for violations.

"The idea is fine," said City Councillor Stephen McGrath. "But I don't know who is going to enforce it.

"I'd love to be there the first time a $100 fine is given to a homeowner. I don't think it is going to happen.

"The question is why should we bother to pass an ordinance like this when I'm sure it's never going to be enforced."

"Enforcing this is going to be very difficult," said Council President Patricia Toland. "I'm very much in favor, but we have to think this through.

"We need an enforcement officer just concerned with litter."

"We have an obligation to maintain standard cleanliness," noted Councillor James Sheets. "We should go after those who really contribute to an unclean city."

Committee members generally favored the smoking restrictions, but expressed some concerns about the cost of an air cleaning system, particularly to small businesses, and the time establishments would be allowed to purchase such equipment.

Health Commr. M. Jane Gallahue, who drafted the ordinance with Mayor Francis McCauley, estimated that such equipment would cost $1,000.

However, Councillor Timothy Cahill, owner of Handshakes Cafe in Quincy Sq., said they may cost $2,000.

Cahill proposed that establishments which ban smoking altogether be exempted from the requirement of air cleaning devices.

McGrath said the cause was worthwhile but that he was concerned that the price of the air cleaning devices might be prohibitive to businesses with 20 to 25 seats.

Councillor Charles Phelan agreed.

Fire Chief Carl Valenti told committee members that he had been opposed to self serve gas stations until about a year ago.

But according to a study by the National Fire Protection Association, based in Quincy, such stations are no more dangerous than full serve stations because of a fire suppression system.

"My feeling is that they are safe," said Valenti. "I don't think there is reason anymore to prohibit them."

Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro said he has also changed his opinion, and is no longer opposed to self serve stations in the city.

Councillor Thomas Nutley said he was concerned that self serve stations would not provide services to motorists who were senior citizens, handicapped, couldn't or wouldn't pump their own gas.

Committee chairman Michael Cheney proposed that licenses for such stations be limited to 25 percent of stations in the city.

"I think there is room for both kinds of stations in the city," said Councillor Toland.

"I don't see a problem."

Jump-Rope Jumpathon Feb. 9

Students from 10 Quincy elementary and middle schools will participate in a jump-rope jumpathon to benefit the American Heart Association Tuesday, Feb. 9 from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the Broad Meadows Middle School, 50 Calvin Rd., Quincy.

Last year students raised more than $5,000 for the American Heart Association by jumping rope. They were awarded a plaque for the highest contributing school system in 1986-87 by the Heart Association.

Prizes are awarded according to the pledges earned and routines will be performed throughout the jumpathon.

Participating schools are Broad Meadows, Point Webster, Central, Atlantic, Wollaston, Parker, Atherton Hough, Squantum, Merrymount, Furnace Brook and special needs students.

Mike's Corner

By Representative Michael W. Morrissey

This is the 75th in a series of articles written by Rep. Michael W. Morrissey, 1988 Legislative Session

I am pleased to announce that Governor Michael Dukakis has recommended $4.25 billion in fiscal assistance to local governments ensuring continued property tax relief for all Massachusetts citizens. Quincy's share will be $32,329,591, an increase of $826,300 from last year.

The state's local aid program has been a pivotal factor in guaranteeing the fiscal health of local governments. From fiscal year 1983 to fiscal year 1989, direct local aid has grown from $1.70 billion to $3.06 billion, a 79 percent increase. Even after adjusting for inflation, this represents a real increase of over $1 billion in direct assistance for localities. In the past, Massachusetts support of local government had been well below average, today, it stands a full four percentage points above the national average.

Beginning in the early 1980's, in response to the enactment of Proposition 2½, Massachusetts state government has devoted a major share of its new resources to local aid. State government has met the challenge posed by local property tax limits and has enabled local government to maintain and even expand local services. Local governments spent $7.33 billion in fiscal year 1981, prior to the implementation of Prop 2½. By FY 83, this had fallen to $6.91 billion. But the latest U.S. Census figures show that by FY 86, local spending had risen to $7.96 billion - a real dollar increase of $360 million or 5 percent since the year before Prop 2½ took effect.

The success of the local aid program is reflected by the dramatic decrease in property tax burdens across Massachusetts. While nationally, local tax burdens continue to increase, our burden is the lowest among the Northeastern states. While once 38 percent above the U.S. average, the local tax burden in Massachusetts is now 14 percent below the rest of the nation.

Citizens of Quincy should realize that the improvements undertaken by the city are in large part due to the state's local aid support and over the years. Local governments are responsible for many of the daily concerns of our cities. Localities educate our children, police the streets, fight fires, collect rubbish and perform a wide variety of highly visible services. In fact, the 351 cities and towns are the Commonwealth's primary partners in providing basic public services, developing local and regional economics and spreading opportunity to all of our citizens. Virtually all of the operations of government throughout the Commonwealth involve cooperation between the state and its local partners.

WEEK OF: February 4

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
You're a strong believer in justice, and fight for the needs of the underdog. You're intelligent and individualistic. This year sees a softening of your independent streak. Partnerships can pay off ... especially around early spring. Unusual travel opportunities are sprinkled through the coming 12 months.

AQUARIUS – January 21 - February 19
You're in a generally upbeat mood, but decisions should not be made flippantly. Some work-related pressures may be eased. Prepare to adjust through the week to changing conditions.

PISCES – February 20 - March 20
Week has an international flavor as you mingle with individuals from various corners of the globe. Educational interests are expanded. Watch tendency of dressing inappropriately for the season.

ARIES – March 21 - April 20
Week sees you raising your already high standards, be careful, however, not to intimidate your colleagues. On the domestic front, life seems to run on a steadier course.

TAURUS – April 21 - May 22
The pace may be more leisurely in your work environment, but it's important to stay on top of all assignments. Week may be favorable for a spontaneous mini-vacation.

GEMINI – May 23 - June 21
Travel is indicated, but costs may be surprisingly high. Catch up on outstanding correspondence before the month is too far under way. Your witty remarks win a key admirer.

CANCER – June 22 - July 22
Your mood probably suits small gatherings rather than large-scale parties. Scientific pursuits may appeal at this time. Reports crossing your desk require meticulous review.

LEO – July 23 - August 22

North Edged By Brockton 69-68 In Overtime Squeaker

The North Quincy boys' basketball team won't lose a tougher game than last Friday when it bowed in a 69-68 overtime squeaker to Brockton, dropping its record to 7-7.

Brockton improved to 10-3.

Ted Stevenson's Raiders were scheduled to play Newton North Tuesday night and will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin Friday at 5 p.m.

North held a 63-60 lead over Brockton with only seconds to play in regulation but the Boxers made the big plays to tie the score and send the game into overtime.

Ortez Vandross (18 points) hit a three-pointer for Brockton with three seconds left and Craig Fairfield blocked a shot by Mike Ainsley, who was back in the lineup after an ankle injury, which could have won it for North at the buzzer.

Ted Stevenson led all scorers with 24 points and had 11 assists for the Raiders and scored 11 points in the fourth quarter and hit four straight free throws to give North its 63-60 lead.

B.J. Sylva had 15 points and 12 rebounds and Ainsley, who was sorely missed for several games, had 10 points, including a last second hoop in overtime which brought the final score to 69-68 after Curtis Bostic had given Brockton a 69-66 lead. Eric DeBoer added nine points for the Raiders.

"I thought we played very well," said Stevenson. "They are a tough team and anytime you go into their gym and take the game into overtime, you have to hold your head high. I thought if we kept the ball away from Vandross we could beat them. But as it turned out he hit the three-pointer to tie the game."

Earlier in the week North led Brookline, 32-25, at the half, but fell victim to Brookline's defensive pressure and lost, 69-57.

Stevenson scored 11 of his game-high 20 points, including his only three-pointer, in the first half as North looked good in handling Brookline's trap. Billy MacDougall scored all nine of his points in the first half.

With North leading, 38-29, Brookline roared into high gear and outscored North, 25-10, in the third quarter to take a 50-42 lead into the final session.

In the second half North went to the free throw line only five times and Brookline took 20 free throws.

"We just didn't do much right in the second half," said a disappointed Stevenson. "We went completely out of our offense and played helter-skelter. They outhustled us on the boards and their press and trap obviously gave us trouble."

Frustration Follows Quincy

After playing its best half of the season, frustration continued for the Quincy boys' basketball team as it went cold in the second half and lost to Waltham, 68-66, last Friday, dropping its record to 1-12.

John Franceschini's Presidents were scheduled to play at Brookline Tuesday night, will host Brockton Friday night at 7:30 and will play at Cambridge Rindge and Latin Tuesday at 5 p.m.

Displaying its best shooting of the year, Quincy rolled to a 51-35 lead over Waltham at halftime.

The Presidents still led by 14 when a clock malfunction held up the game for 15 minutes. When play resumed Quincy went cold and Waltham gradually got back into the game. Quincy still led by three, 57-54, going into the final quarter.

"We were really clicking in the first half, shooting about 68 percent," said Franceschini. "We were still in good shape until we went cold after the game was held up. But I can't use this as an excuse, give Waltham for making a great comeback. We are just having trouble putting everything together against bigger and stronger teams."

The Presidents' Frank Calabro just missed a desperation shot at the buzzer as the ball went in and out.

Mike Perkins had a big night for Quincy with 17 points and 18 rebounds and Dan Biagini contributed 10 points.

North Swimmers Defeat Newton South

North Quincy's swim team improved to 8-4 with a 93-60 victory over Newton South last Thursday.

North's Tom Ellis qualified for the South Sectional championships as he won the one-meter diving with 152.25 points.

Bradley Waltermire was a double winner, copping the 200 freestyle (2:10.9) and the 100 freestyle (57.8).

Other Raider winners were Derek Borek in the 500 freestyle (6:05.5), Harry Towle, 100 backstroke (1:17.5) and the 200 medley relay team of Towle, Donald Howie, Fred Cawthorne and George Gavros (2:01.1).

Placing second were Towle, 200 individual medley; Cawthorne, 50 freestyle and 100 butterfly; Paul Nitschke, 100 freestyle; Brian Ramos, 500 freestyle; David MacKay, 100 backstroke, and Howie, 100 breaststroke.

Taking third places were Ramos, 200 freestyle; MacKay, 200 individual medley; Nitschke, 50 freestyle; Kevin Heffernan, diving; Ralph Willard, 100 butterfly; and Pat Dwyer, 100 breaststroke.

Earlier in the week North Quincy topped Waltham, 100-68, with Borek winning the 200 freestyle and Cawthorne the 100 butterfly, both with their personal best times.

Borek won the 200 freestyle in 2:08.8 and Cawthorne took the 100 butterfly in 1:09.1.

Also winning for the Raiders were Howie in the 100 breaststroke (1:18); Ellis, diving (136.2 points); Towle, 200 individual medley (2:43.5) and the 400 freestyle relay team of Nitschke, Ramos, Waltermire and Borek (3:58.5).

Placing second were Cawthorne, 50 freestyle; Waltermire, 100 freestyle and 200 freestyle; Borek, 500 freestyle; Towle, 100 backstroke, and Heffernan, diving.

Taking thirds were Nitschke, 100 freestyle; MacKay, 100 backstroke and 200 individual medley, and Chris Shionis, 100 breaststroke.

Dolan Standout In Cyclocross Championships

Bill Dolan, 16, of North Quincy, who was among a select group of cyclists ages 15-17 to attend a junior elite beginning season training camp at the Miller High Life-sponsored U.S. Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs, recently competed in the U.S. National Cyclocross championships in Seattle.

Dolan finished sixth overall and was named the best young rider and the most aggressive rider.

Based on his performance, he was selected as a member of the U.S. Junior Olympic National cycling team and is currently competing in the world championships in Zurich, Switzerland.

He is coming off his first season of competitive cycling. He took part in the 1987 national championships for both time trial and road race in Colorado and is a member of the Squaw Valley Athletic Association. He began cycling with the Massachusetts Bay Road Club.

Quincy Girls Face Alumni Feb. 13

The girls' freshman team will play the junior varsity at 4 p.m. and the varsity will meet the alumni at 7:30.

All former girls' basketball players are invited to take part in the game. Anyone wishing to play is asked to call coach Doug MacFarlane at 786-8753 between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m.

The public is invited.

North Football Boosters Banquet Sunday

The North Quincy High Football Boosters Club will hold its annual banquet Sunday at 4 p.m. at the Sons of Italy Hall.

Club president Bill Dolan and his committee, headed by Brian Mahoney, have worked hard to make it another successful event.

The entire football squad will be honored along with the cheerleaders, Mr. and Mrs. Yakoo, the football queen and the coaches.

Bill Curran, former ball carrying great at North Quincy and Northeastern, will be the principal speaker. He is a member of the North Football Hall-of-Fame.

A highlight of the program will be the presentation of the Coach Jack Donahue award, a gold watch, to the outstanding North player in the Quincy game.

Several other individual awards will be given and the 1988 captains will be introduced.

The committee includes Wayne McCulley, Linda Tobin, Steve and Mary Lou Kemp, Rosemary Early, Paul McCormack, Mike Shields, Margie Ainsley, Betty Mullen, Dan and Donna Gilmartin and Brian Mahoney.

Squirt B's Defeat R.I. For Title

Quincy's Squirt B hockey team defeated Rhode Island champion Burrillville, 7-4, to capture the championship of the annual Coca-Cola tournament at Gallo Arena in Bourne.

The team, which had a win and a tie in its first two games, needed a strong effort against the South Shore Seahawks to move into the championship round, then a superior showing against Burrillville and got both.

Quincy blanked the Seahawks, 4-0, scoring all four goals in the first period. Goalies Mike Manganaro and Joe MacLennan and defensemen Eric Griffin and Dan Boylen were outstanding. Timmy Kunz, Ron McGann, A.J. Carthas and Dan Mann had the goals and Mann, Kunz, McGann and Jason Fennelly had assists.

In the championship game Burrillville shocked Quincy with a goal just 15 seconds into the game but Steve Barrett tied the score 20 seconds later with assists for Mann and McGann.

Kunz scored two power play goals with Mann assisting on both and, after a Burrillville score, Mann scored with Barrett assisting. Both teams scored twice in the second period with McGann scoring unassisted.

The third period was a defensive struggle with defensemen Jim Keegan, R.J. DiMattia and Carl Dobbins doing outstanding work in front of MacLennan, and Chris Geary clinching the game with a late shorthanded goal off an assist for McGann.

In Greater Boston League action Quincy blanked Wellesley, 4-0, behind another outstanding effort by the goalies. Robbie Callow scored twice and Geary and Jimmy Gallagher once each. Callow, Fennelly, and Jamie Murphy had assists.

The Squirt B's will play Tri-Valley in the state tournament Saturday in Franklin.

Squirt A's Win 3

The Quincy Squirt A hockey team, sponsored by South Boston Savings, won three games last week to improve its record to 24-5-2.

Quincy thrashed Westwood, 11-1, in Greater Boston League action as Eric Zimmerman and Paul King had hat tricks. David Cooper scored two goals and Doug Nolan, Lee Hughes and Pat Connolly one each. Hughes had three assists and Cooper, Danny Beaton, King, Zimmerman, Connolly, Billy Coughlin, Nolan, Steve Provost and Andrew Vermette one each.

In state playdown action Quincy advanced to the second round with an 8-3 win over Tri-Valley. Cooper had four goals and Hughes, Zimmerman, Nolan and Connolly one apiece. Brendan O'Brien, Danny Donahue, Nolan and Zimmerman had assists.

In non-league play Quincy topped Braintree, 6-1, as Cooper again had four goals and Provost scored two. O'Brien had two assists and Beaton, Provost and Cooper one each.

David Pacino, Jay Evans, Brian Bartkus, Donahue, Beaton and Vermette have played outstanding defense all season and goalies Mark Smith and Brad Watkins have played well.

Raiders Upset Brookline, Lose To Brockton

North Quincy's hockey team met the two top teams in the Suburban League last week and broke even, improving its chances of making the state tournament for the fourth time in five years.

Kevin Jago's Raiders won their biggest game of the year, upsetting Brookline, 5-3, to temporarily move into first place, but lost for the second time to Brockton, 4-1, Saturday to drop back into second place. North improved its record to 8-4-2.

With five games left, the Raiders need five of a possible 10 points to make the tournament. They were scheduled to meet Cambridge Rindge and Latin last night (Wednesday), will face Quincy Saturday night at 7:50 at the Youth Arena and will host Newton North next Wednesday night at 6:40 at the Youth Arena.

North turned in one of its finest efforts to upset Brookline and Matt Furtado and Bill Dineen each had two goals and two assists. Brian Zimmerman scored the game winner and Jay Rodrigues had four assists.

Goalie Brian Mahoney, who has been outstanding all season, had another big game as he turned away 23 shots.

After the first six minutes Saturday North played Brockton on even terms as Brockton moved into first place in the league.

The Boxers scored three goals in those first six minutes and after that it was a duel between Mahoney and Brockton freshman goalie Ken Schwabe.

Furtado, the league's number two scorer, tallied the lone Raider goal to give him 40 points on the season.

Kevin Burke, the league's leading scorer, had two goals and an assist for the Boxers. Dana Valley and Billy Santos had the other goals.

Mahoney was especially effective in the second period as he came up with some excellent saves, including two as Eric Peterson and Burke shot from point-blank range.

Quincy Tourney Hopes Just A Flicker

The Quincy hockey team saw its chances of making the state tournament dimmed to a flicker when it lost to Waltham, 5-4, last Saturday despite a furious last period rally.

The loss dropped the Presidents' record to 7-7 and they must win its remaining five games or win four and tie one to qualify for the tournament.

Bob Sylvia's Quincy team was scheduled to face Newton North last night (Wednesday), will meet North Quincy Saturday night at 7:50 at the Youth Arena and will play at Brockton next Wednesday at 6 p.m.

The first two periods were all Waltham last week as the Hawks took a 3-1 lead in the opening period and stretched the lead to 5-1 after two.

Tony Scola scored Quincy's first goal in the opening period with Tim Mann assisting.

The Presidents came to life and dominated the final period as it scored three goals.

Mann scored the first with Ken Staskiewitz assisting, Shawn O'Neil scored the second with assists for Scola and Erik Abboud and Scola scored his second goal unassisted.

"Bob pulled the goalie but we were unable to get a decent shot off with time running out," said assistant coach George Peachey. "Greg Chambers was immense in goal in the last period and also played well in the first two. He didn't have a chance on a couple of goals."

North Boys Defeat Quincy

The North Quincy boys' track team recently defeated Quincy, 51-26, as the Presidents were greatly undermanned.

Interest in winter track has been declining at both schools, but North coach Peter Chrisom had 21 members this year and hopes to have 30 next season.

Interest was at such a low peak that Quincy was forced to drop the sport for a few seasons. Coach John Sullivan had only eight boys this season, but even that was an improvement over past years. He started this season with five.

"We have trouble getting kids to come out," he said. "They are working and there are other sports. It's as if they don't know track exists."

Taking third places were Chi Chin Yung, 600 and Jim Rayne, 300.

Dave Zupkofska had a big day for Quincy, winning the 50, taking second in the 300 and third in the shot put. He also ran on the winning relay team.

Dan Piccini won the 300 and the relay team of Bill Toepfer, Zupkofska, Dean Aiguer and Piccini also won.

Taking a second place was Aiguer in the 600 and placing third were Toepfer, hurdles, and Mark McLennon, 1000.

Feltrup's Team Leads St. John's League

Tom Feltrup's team moved into first place in St. John's Holy Name Bowling League with a 53-37 record, followed by John Grande's team at 51-39.

The rest of the standings: Ben Williams, 44-46; Joe Matarazzo, 42-48; Bob Saluti, 40-50; Don Gilliland, 40-50.

Grande rolled the weekly high single of 118 and Feltrup bowled 112. Grande also had the high three of 296 and Lew MacLennon had 294.

Matarazzo's team rolled the high team single of 384 and Feltrup's team had a season's high three of 1115.

Raiderettes' Record Takes Tumble

The North Quincy girls' basketball team saw its record tumble to 7-6 (2-5 in the Suburban League) when it dropped a 43-41 squeaker to Brookline and lost to Brockton, 70-52.

Paul Bregoli's Raiderettes were scheduled to face league-leading Newton North Tuesday and will be home to Cambridge Rindge and Latin Friday at 5 p.m.

North played Brookline without starting center Rita Rooney, who was ill. Melissa Miles replaced her and did well. The Raiderettes had a 14-4 lead in the first quarter as Nancy Flukes, en route to a career high 28 points, hit for 12 in her best quarter ever. North's pressure defense, led by Miles, Kellene Duffy and Patty Feeney, gave Brookline fits.

North maintained its 10-point advantage throughout most of the second quarter as Feeney hit two jumpers and Flukes hit six free throws. But a three-point play by Brookline's Melanie Reardon with two seconds left cut the lead to 26-19 at halftime.

North's offense sputtered in the third quarter, managing only a Flukes layup in the last four minutes. After losing the lead, Feeney and Paula Folson hit long jumpers to give the Raiderettes a 32-31 edge going into the fourth quarter.

Flukes and Folson hit jumpers in the first two minutes of the quarter as North held its slim lead. Brookline then ran off five straight points to take a 40-36 lead. Flukes again brought North back hitting a post-up jumper and a baseline three-point play as North took a 41-40 lead with 1:20 left. North had the ball on four possessions during the last 1:20 but couldn't score. Brookline made a free throw and a steal for the winning basket with 10 seconds left.

Flukes had 28 points, seven rebounds, three assists and five steals. Folson had six points and six rebounds and Deirdre Murphy had eight rebounds.

North stayed with Brockton until midway in the second quarter and trailed by only 17-16 at one point. However, the Boxers outscored North, 24-8, as the Raiderettes turned the ball over and missed 11 layups in the first half.

Brockton led by as many as 29 points before North's reserves cut into the lead. Debbie Panaro, Stacey Welch had baskets and Flukes hit two three-pointers. Kerri McDonald and Karin Reister also played well off the bench.

Flukes led all scorers with 20 points and had six rebounds. Feeney added 10 points and five assists. North turned the ball over 28 times.

Quincy Girls Lose To Waltham

The Quincy girls' basketball team saw its record fall to 4-8 when it lost to Waltham, 53-46, last Thursday.

Doug MacFarlane's First Ladies were scheduled to play Brookline Tuesday night, will play at Brockton Friday night at 7:30 and will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin Tuesday at 5 p.m.

The Morrell twins, Gayle and Patti, sparked Quincy as usual against Waltham with Patti scoring 16 points and Gayle adding 13.

Quincy bounced back from a 14-3 first quarter deficit to cut the margin to three (32-29) going into the fourth quarter.

North Frosh Girls Edge Brookline

The North Quincy girls' freshman basketball team edged Brookline, 34-32, to improve its record to 6-4.

Led by Kara Sullivan's 16 points, eight steals and overall leadership, North was able to hold on and Kara's two free throws with 47 seconds left put the young Raiderettes ahead to s

Brookline had a chance to win at the buzzer with a three-point shot but Sullivan blocked it to secure the victory.

Tara Miles had 10 points, including two three-pointers, and six steals and Kelly LeBlanc had a long three-pointer. Bonnie Rugnetta had 16 rebounds and Laurie Hoyt helped on the boards with three rebounds. Erin Lydon, Erin O'Neil and Soyan Park all played excellent games.

LeBlanc leads the team in three-pointers with six and Sullivan and Miles each have five.

Mike's Wins Olindy's Junior First Half

Mike's Auto Body took all six points from Finian's to finish in first place in the first half of Olindy's Junior All-Star Bowling League.

The final first half standings: Mike's Auto Body, 54-30; Marchionne, 54-30; Finian's, 52-32; Dom's, 49-35; Tony's, 48-36; President Pharmacy, 47-37; Patriot Glass, 46-38; Eco Muffler, 42-42; Sweeney Brothers, 42-42; Scarry Realty, 40-44; Olindy's 1, 36-48; Patriot Service, 36-48; Patriot Service, 34-50; Adams Cleaners, 34-50; Hancock Tire, 33-51; Goodhue's, 27-57; Olindy's 2, 26-58.

Mike's had the high team total for the week and had the high team three for the first half, 1126. Mike D'Amico rolled 293, Joe Carr 288, Shannon Hanly 244 and Chris McDonough 301.

Goodhue's had the high team single of 392 as Tom Urich had 110, Mike Crisafulli 134, Kristin DiRocco 78 and Kevin Kelly 70.

Michael Campbell leads the boys with a 101 average, followed by Robbie Manupelli, 94, Mike D'Amico, 89, Jamie Webber, 88, and Joey Inferrera, 84.

North Girls Defeat Quincy

Winter track has seen a steady decline in interest at Quincy and North Quincy High Schools, but a dedicated group of athletes and coaches are refusing to let the sport die.

The sport is surviving, thanks to them.

The North girls recently defeated Quincy, 40-27, to finish 3-2 in the Greater Boston League.

Small numbers and the lack of a practice facility are the two big problems as athletes can be seen working in hallways or out of doors.

North girls' coach Kevin Kelly has 17 girls and thinks the absence of organized sports in the middle schools is the major factor in the lack of interest.

"We lose the borderline athletes," he said. "The natural athletes will come out, but the borderline kids, who need coaching at an earlier age, wind up working, watching TV or finding something else to do. You have to get kids in the seventh grade and introduce them to sports."

Quincy coach Charles McLaughlin has 16 girls to work with. Four years ago coach John Franceschini had only two or three girls but he kept the program alive.

Robin Guilfoy was a double winner for North against Quincy, taking the 50-yard dash in 6.6 and the shot put at 20-7½.

Other North winners were Joanne Moriarty in the mile (6:11.2); Claire Walsh, 1000; Annmarie Montgomery, 600 (1:49.5); Betsy Zadig, 300 (43.9), and Bridget Toland, two-mile (13:14.3).

Placing second was Jennifer Lynn, 600, and taking third places were Trista Mastrogiacomo, hurdles, and Holly Rendle, 50.

Quincy's leaders were Jessica Rutan, who won the hurdles; Beth Weixler, who took second in hurdles, and Karen Picarski, who took second in the 50 and third in the shot put.

Placing second for Quincy were Stacy Freel, mile; Sara Goodman, 1000, and Dawn Manton, 300. Taking third places were Maureen Clooman, 1000, and Michelle Fenneley, 600.

6 From Quincy In 'Hoop Shoot' Contest

The six champions are MaryBeth Feeney, girls 8-9; Amanda Corbin, girls 10-11; Kara Feeney, girls 12-13; Billy Manning, boys 8-9; Jeff Russell, boys 10-11; and Kevin Murphy, boys 12-13.

The Elks National Contest is open to boys and girls ages eight through 13 who are awarded points for successful free throws out of 25 attempts. The Quincy champions represent winners from 11 local competitions supervised by leaders of the Quincy Recreation Department. The center winners then faced each other in the All Cits Championship held at the Atlantic Middle School.

Chairman of the Quincy Lodge Hoop Shoot is Ed Miller, head basketball coach at Marshfield High School and a member of the host lodge. Barry Welch, director of recreation, coordinated the event for the Recreation Department. The Quincy Lodge provided trophies to the top three finishers in each age group. Each center champion received a certificate of achievement.

Runners-up were Krysty Cheney, girls 8-9; Josie Sawin, girls 10-11; Jennifer Santry, girls 12-13; Chris Colon, boys 8-9; Erik Zimmerman, boys 10-11, and Walter Spadorcia, boys 12-13.

Third place winners are Leah Harrington, girls 8-9; Tracey Miller, girls 10-11; Todd Sullivan, boys 8-9; Bob Verney, boys 10-11, and Scott LaBador, boys 12-13.

Center Champions are Cheryl Potter, girls 8-9 at Squantum; Mary Kelly, girls 10-11 at Snug Harbor; Jennifer Doherty, girls 10-11 at Wollaston; Karen Manna, girls 10-11 at Montclair; Dave Keddy, boys 8-9 at Merrymount; Ray Sartre, boys 8-9 at Squantum; John Richards, boys 10-11 at Snug Harbor; Kevin Nichols boys 10-11 at Atherton Hough; Kevin Fitzgerald, boys 10-11 at Lincoln Hancock; Andrew Joyce, boys 10-11 at Beechwood Knoll; Corey Chaggaris, boys 10-11 at Montclair; Jason Downey, boys 10-11 at Merrymount; Mike Lenane, boys 12-13 at Atlantic; John McNeil, boys 12-13 at Merrymount; Liam Higgins, boys 12-13 at Montclair; Paul Kerr, boys 12-13 at Wollaston; A.J. Kabilian, boys 12-13 at Sterling; and Joey Dorsey, boys 12-13 at Atherton Hough.

In making the presentation, Welch praised the volunteer involvement of the Quincy Elks who have provided the funding for the program for over 10 years.

Point Panthers Receive Awards At Banquet

The Quincy Point Panthers held their annual awards night banquet recently at the Fore River Clubhouse with all team members and cheerleaders receiving runnerup trophies.

The team, which advanced to the Quincy Youth Football League city championship against the Squantum Sailors, celebrated an outstanding season with families. The Panthers and Sailors finished tied for first place with 6-1 records, defeating each other, and the Sailors won the championship game, 14-12, in a thrilling overtime game.

Matt McLarnon and Derek Tardanico were the top award winners with McLarnon being named Panther of the Year and receiving the Barrett Memorial Trophy for the player who best exemplifies the Panther organization on and off the field.

Tardanico, the league's leading scorer, was voted Most Valuable Player. He and McLarnon were named to the league all-star squad.

Other individual awards were presented to both varsity and junior varsity players by franchise owner Bill Myers.

Coaches Tom Donovan and Mike Dunlea awarded Joe Crespi with the Coaches Trophy and Joey Foye received the Most Improved Trophy and Jason Simon was given the 12th Player Award.

Junior varsity coaches Tom Corliss, John Caporale and Jack Kilrain presented Noel DiBona with the Players Award, voted by his teammates. The Coaches Trophy went to Brian Jennette, while Tommy Foley and Kenny Downey received the junior varsity Most Improved Award. Billy Foley was given the 12th Player Trophy.

Other all-star selections were Crespi, John Slack, Brian Paige and Aly Sleiman.

The Panther cheerleaders voted Lynne Feeley as the Most Spirited Cheerleader, while Colleen Skehan received a savings bond as the Most Dedicated member. Jennifer Walsh received a game ball, autographed by the players.

Graduating cheerleaders were presented plaques. Along with Skehan the graduates are Capt. Janet DiTullio, Co-Captain Jenn Bonvie, Co-Capt. Eileen Kelley and four-year member Sheila Cronin.

The cheerleaders also received their first-place awards for winning the Eastern Mass. championship at Brockton High School. They will take part in the eastern Massachusetts spring competition and state championships, hoping for a berth in the Northern championship in Toronto.

Other cheerleaders were Maureen Wood, Michelle Minichello, Maureen Mancuso, Debbie Russell, Amy Murphy, Jennifer Kelley, Katie McCarthy, Vicky Comeau, Kelly Dyer, Marie Parkki, Christine Marrone and Cindy Cedrone.

Cheerleader mascots were Ashley Peterson, Sara Kiley and Elizabeth Dunlea.

The players presented the coaches with gifts and cheerleader coaches Patti and Kathy Myers received flowers and gifts from their cheerleaders.

Costa Selected To Play For U.S. Soccer Team

Jake Costa of 25 Dunbarton Rd., Wollaston, has been selected to play on the U.S. under 14 select traveling soccer team, the Diamond Express.

He will be competing in local tournaments in preparation for a trip to Denmark in August to play in the Dana Cup. There are close to 200 teams from 20 nations scheduled to compete for the cup.

Following the Dana Cup will be a trip to England for a week of heavy international competition before returning for the start of fall practice.

Jake is a product of the Quincy Youth Soccer program, having played since he was five years old. He has been on the A Division traveling team for the past three years and has played for the district select team for two years. He also attended the John Smith soccer school.

He is looking for sponsors to help defray the expenses involved. Anyone interested in sponsoring him is asked to call his father, Russ, or his mother, Ann at 472-3780. Any amount will help make this more of a reality for him.

Gloucester Hornpipe At Beechwood Coffeehouse Saturday

The Beechwood Coffeehouse will present the Gloucester Hornpipe & Clog Society along with Bob Wey and Pamela Roberts Saturday, Feb. 6 at 8 p.m. at the Beechwood Community Life Center, 225 Fenno St., Quincy.

Roberts is a former Quincy public schools media specialist and currently lives in Braintree. She has been playing the autoharp professionally for eight years and has just released an album with Bob Wey titled Far-Relevance.

The autoharp is also a member of the zither family [illegible] large number of sing[illegible] strings which are "chorded" by means of padded bars which are pressed onto them. The bars are such that all notes except those desired for the chord selected are damped, allowing the desired notes to sound.

In the past 10 years, Roberts has expanded her playing by experimenting with diverse strums and licks, adding melody and finger-pricking, and by working with modified instruments and different tunings.

Wey, a leader of the hammered dulcimer revival, is one of the foremost exponents of the instrument in the Boston area.

The hammered dulcimer is a large trapezoidal box crossed by many courses (sets) of strings, and is played by rapid striking with small, hand-held mallets.

Bob has been perfecting his skills for 14 years, and is well-known through his appearances at numerous folk festivals, coffeehouses and dulcimer conventions.

The Gloucester Hornpipe & Clog Society plays a variety of European American Folk music. They were well-received at a Beechwood Coffeehouse last year.

Harborlight Mall's Sidewalk Sale A Success

Business was bright as a beacon during the first annual January Sidewalk Sale at the Harborlight Mall, Route 3A, North Weymouth, held last Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The three-day event, attended by hundreds of shoppers and browsers, featured gigantic sales, special events and appearances by Rick Cobban "The One Man Band" and crowd-favorite Ronald McDonald.

Mall merchants agreed the sale was successful.

"It worked very well," said Charles Roobian, president of the Harborlight Mall Merchants Association (H M M A) and owner of The Train Store, which recently moved to the mall from Quincy.

"Most of the merchants were pleased. We moved a lot of things and we had people here, that's what counts," Roobian said.

"Yes, it was a success. The sale brought new people into the mall," said Mark Foreman, vice president of the H M M A and owner of Hingham Music at Harborlight Mall.

In addition to the many bargains offered by mall merchants, the Sidewalk Sale featured other special events.

On Thursday evening, the Weymouth South High School Cheerleading Team performed in preparation for the National High School Cheerleading Competition in Orlando, Fla.

Judith Klier of the Harborlight Mall presented 17 baskets of coins representing an estimated $400 to $500 to the cheerleaders and their coach, Christine Fitzgerald. The coins were taken from the mall's wishing well to help defray expenses for the trip.

A silver engraved bowl was also presented to the cheerleading team.

To brighten the colorful event Papa Gino's handed out balloons to the first 500 children to visit the sidewalk sale.

Friday's features included a performance by Rick Cobban, "The One Man Band," and demonstrations by Coca Cola and Purity Supreme throughout the mall.

A large scale train layout was admired by shoppers and train enthusiasts.

All events were well-attended, Roobian said.

CHEERLEADERS from Weymouth South High School pose with baskets of coins presented to them during the first annual January Sidewalk Sale held recently at the Harborlight Mall, Weymouth.

And the fun, excitement and bargains have just begun. According to Roobian and Forman, the H M M A is planning future sales and events, including a health week activity during the second week in March.

That event will feature health monitoring stations including tests for blood, eyes, teeth and cholesterol, said Roobian.

Forman said the mall will conduct another sidewalk sale in the future.

Both Roobian and Forman agreed the mall's business will be boosted when a planned multi-screen cinema opens later this year.

Twenty-three businesses are located at Harborlight Mall. They are:

The Train Store, Hingham Music, Stuarts, Best Buy, Radio Shack, Papa Gino's, The Toy Loft, Koffee Kup, Inc., Lynn's Card and Gift, Lynn's Furniture and Clock, Bob's Exclusive Car Care, Rockland Federal Credit Union, Harborlight Family Dental Care, Olin Mills, Health Stop, Opticians 3, Purity Supreme, BayBanks, Shady's Salon, The Jewelry Box, CVS, Jack Gerbrand's and Mass Tire.

More are expected, Roobian said.

Intercultural Workshop Held For City Employees

An intercultural workshop on "Race, Ethnicity and Gender in the Workplace" was sponsored recently by the Mayor's Office of Equal Opportunity. Administration for city employees and held at City Hall.

The workshop was attended by 30 city employees and was presented by the Multicultural Project for Communication and Education, Inc. of Cambridge. Facilitators were Nefretiti Burton and Fred Dow.

They executed a three hour training session focusing on helping the group to develop a better understanding of practices which counteract prejudice based on race, gender and ethnicity in the workplace.

ORDER NO. 20
ORDERED January 19, 1988

Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Quincy, that the Revised Ordinances of the City of Quincy, 1976, are further amended in Chapter 13 Offenses-Miscellaneous, by adding the following new section:

Section 54 - Residency for City Supported Construction Projects

1. On any construction project funded in whole or in part by City funds, or funds which in accordance with a federal grant or otherwise, or City-approved PUD or City-approved MIFA Applications, the sale of City property or projects the City Administers the construction contract or grants or special conditions, residents of Quincy, who are qualified to perform the work to which the employment relates shall be given preference in hiring on a 2 to 1 ratio, after the employer's foreman or supervisor and two key employees have been employed for a one-week payroll period.

2. Companies receiving public assistance through these financing agencies should be in concurrence with the prevailing wages in the area, including wages in the Davis-Bacon Act. No revenue bond applications are to be approved unless the applicant agrees to all of the aforementioned conditions.

3. Prior to entering into a construction agreement involving more than $10,000.00, the owner, developer or contractor shall place a reasonable size advertisement, at least 3" x 5" in size, at least twice, in at least one newspaper having a local distribution, on a craft by craft basis, indicating that bids are being sought and the qualified residents of Quincy shall be given preference consideration in hiring on a 2 to 1 ratio.

4. Minorities and women shall additionally be accorded preference for their hiring, as provided for in the federal, state or municipal laws, shall either be included, or the same will be deemed included in all such construction agreements.

5. The Quincy Equal Opportunity Administrator will be furnished copies of names and home addresses of employees, upon request, and will be furnished such other proof compliance as said Director may request, upon written request for the same, within seven days of such request.

6. In the event of violation of this Ordinance, upon three days written notice to the violator and opportunity to be heard by the City Council, the following action may be taken by the City Council:

(a) Deduction from the contractor's contract of the sum of $500.00 for every violation and adjustment of the contract price accordingly,

(b) Assessment of a fine of $500.00 each day of violation against the owner or developer who violates this Ordinance, to be paid within thirty days of such assessment;

(c) Violation of this Ordinance shall also be a violation of Chapter 1-6 of the Revised Ordinances of 1976, and as amended in the future,

(d) Debarring of violating Contractor, Owner or Developer from bidding on any future projects for three years after the date of the decision of the City Council that a second violation has occurred by the same firm.

7. In the event that any section of this ordinance is deemed illegal, unenforceable, or unconstitutional, then the remaining sections shall remain in full force and effect.

City Council Split On 4-Year Terms

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Eight city councillors polled before Tuesday night's Ordinance Committee appeared split on the proposal for a four-year term for mayor and city council.

City Council President Patricia Toland was not available for comment.

The proposal, made by Mayor Francis McCauley, was scheduled to be discussed at Tuesday's meeting. A vote will come later.

McCauley has said there is a trend in Massachusetts towards four year terms for mayor, and his proposal for a home rule petition would put the question on the ballot for the presidential election.

He submitted a similar proposal two years ago, but it was defeated by the council.

Ordinance Committee chairman Michael Cheney said he would like to have the issue resolved quickly, and has scheduled a second ordinance committee meeting prior to the next council meeting, Feb. 16.

"Unless the mayor or his representative can convince me otherwise, I feel strongly that the present form of government has worked to the best interest of the people of the city of Quincy," Cheney said, regarding the four year term.

"...The City Council and mayor should be held accountable every two years."

City Councillors who said they leaned towards voting to put the four year term proposal on the ballot for voters to decide were Stephen McGrath, James Sheets and Lawrence Chretien.

"This is the second time that this has been proposed," said Sheets. "I think it's important for people to have the opportunity to express themselves - it's their city.

"Personally, I prefer two year terms for city councillors, but there is a good case for four year terms for mayor," he said.

Chretien said, "Changes in the way government operates should be decided by the voters. To vote against this would be unfair to the voters."

Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro, who voted for the proposal two years ago, said he was now personally opposed to it, but would go along with the majority if other councillors wanted to put the question on the ballot.

Those who said they would probably vote against the proposal were Councillors Charles Phelan, Thomas Nutley, Michael Cheney and Timothy Cahill.

"The system we work under has worked fairly well for years," said Phelan. "With four year terms, you would start to lose accountability."

"Complacency and arrogance tends to set in with four year terms," said Nutley.

"If you work hard, you'll be re-elected. If you are not doing the job, you should be ousted."

Cahill said, "Two year (terms) make for better representation.

"I don't feel a groundswell of support for this."

Council Undecided On Mayor's Sewer Use Tax

"I anticipate that the sewer user tax will be one of the more difficult issues the council will have to deal with," said Ordinance Committee Chairman Michael Cheney before Tuesday night's meeting.

"As most people might know, it's not an easy decision to pass on additional taxes," he said.

Prior to the meeting, more than half of the eight city councillors polled, including Cheney, said they were undecided on the proposal by Mayor Francis McCauley.

Council president Patricia Toland was not available for comment.

A vote on the matter will come at a later meeting.

McCauley said he made the proposal reluctantly after rising assessments by the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority to pay for the cleanup of Boston Harbor and Quincy Bay.

Up until now, small commercial and residential property owners have paid their sewer fees as part of their property taxes.

A typical Quincy family of four could receive a sewer fee of $64.34 this year if the proposal is passed, according to information from McCauley.

"If we are going to support a sewer user fee, people should know about it as soon as possible," said Cheney, who has scheduled another Ordinance Committee meeting prior to the Feb. 16 council meeting.

"We need to tell people to put aside money for an extra tax bill if it is going to pass," he said.

Cheney said he was concerned about the elderly and those on fixed incomes as well as others who are least able to pay the additional tax.

He also noted that residents will no longer be able to deduct from their income taxes the sewer fee if it is separated from the property tax.

"The mayor outlined what the financial situation is for the City of Quincy for the remainder of this year, and that forecast is not all that bright," said Cheney.

DeCristofaro, Anselmo Call Merger 'An Injustice'

FRANK ANSELMO

By RICK RYAN

Ward 2 Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro and School Committeeman Frank Anselmo call the School Committee vote to consolidate Point and Sterling Middle Schools "an injustice."

DeCristofaro, steaming at the action, carried his bitter criticism further, labeling the vote a "betrayal" on the part of Mayor Francis McCauley and School Committee members.

Only School Committeeman Frank Santoro voted against the plan at last week's meeting. Anselmo, who could not attend because of illness, says he also would have voted against it.

The plan will become effective in September.

DeCristofaro vowed to work against those voting for the merger when they come up for re-election.

DeCristofaro, in a letter to School Supt. Dr. Robert Ricci, said he was "conveying the feelings of shock and disbelief his constituents feel about the injustice and betrayal they have received by the Mayor and School Committee who have been elected to represent them.

"I do not know who these officials are representing--but it certainly is not the Quincy Point community," he said.

He said he and Quincy Point parents believe the merger "is an unnecessary disruption to the Quincy Point students."

DeCristofaro also asked Ricci to furnish him with all particulars regarding proposed programs to be offered the students and the bus schedules so that he can inform the parents and students affected by the merger.

Ricci, who proposed the consolidation, said he and officials from both schools will meet with parents to discuss the plan. The meetings will include dry runs for the new bus schedules and routes.

Ricci said about $800,000 is earmarked for renovations to the Sterling School, including painting, repairing the loose cornerstone, window replacement and new shades.

Staffing to help administer new course offerings such as industrial arts and foreign languages also will be restructured.

The plan will combine the estimated 162 students attending Quincy Point Middle School on Edwards Street with the 201 attending the Sterling School on Granite. Students will be bused from the Quincy Point area, officials said.

DeCristofaro said Monday that legal authorities told him "it doesn't look like there's anything we can do at this point."

"This is a case of discrimination, but if we were to take it to court, the School Committee would have a handle on things and we would not have a chance," said DeCristofaro.

The councillor last week warned committee members that he'll "work to see the defeat" of those who supported the Point closing" minutes before the 5 to 1 vote was cast.

Numerous residents opposed the plan during open testimony. Marie Gallagher of Glenwood Way charged that the consolidation places the neighborhood's "emotional security in jeopardy."

Recycling Committee To Meet Today

The newly appointed City Recycling Committee will hold its first meeting this morning (Thursday), 8 to 9:30 a.m. in the second floor conference room at City Hall, announces City Councillor Lawrence Chretien, committee chairman.

"We'll get acquainted with one another, and set an agenda," said Chretien of the committee which he plans to have meet every week after February school vacation.

"We don't have to waste too much time on whether recycling is feasible and a good idea. I know it is," he said.

"We'll spend most of our time designing a program, determining the best kind of program possible, which would be most convenient.

"Recycling and a composting program can work in Quincy," said Chretien.

The committee is scheduled to give its report to the mayor June 1.

Ward 5 Democrats To Caucus

Registered Democrats in Ward 5 will hold a caucus Saturday, Feb. 27, at 2 p.m. at the Beechwood Community Life Center, Fenno St., Wollaston, to elect delegates to the 1988 Massachusetts Democratic Convention.

The location was changed from the Wollaston Methodist Church where the caucus has been held for a number of years.

Ward 5 will elect nine delegates, as well as some alternates.

Vice chairperson Stephen McGrath will call the caucus.

$8,615,738 In Construction

The Building Department issued 64 permits during January for work estimated to cost $8,615,738 according to Building Inspector Mathias Mulvey.

Mulvey said that $558,535 was received in permit fees, and $170 for public safety inspections.

One dwelling unit was added through new construction, and 144 units were added through alterations.

Permits were issued for one, one-family dwelling estimated to cost $90,000, and one medical office building at 500 Congress St. estimated to cost $3,265,000.

There was one permit issued for a storage structure at an estimated cost of $60,000; 29 residential alterations, $359,446; 19 other alterations at $1,023,095; one removal at $7,800, seven signs at $6,300.

There were also five miscellaneous permits for conversion of a mill building to 144 residential condominium units at 32-50 Linden St. at an estimated cost of $3,804,097.

In January, 1987, 70 permits had been issued for work estimated to cost $13,523,833.

Asian Community Cautioned About Non-Purified Clams

The city's health commissioner and other local officials met recently to develop posters, pamphlets and newspaper articles to prevent digging and eating of non-purified-contaminated clams.

The effort is aimed at informing the Asian community of the potential for developing illness by digging, transporting and eating clams from Quincy Bay which have not been purified.

"This appears to be a common practice among some members of the Asian community who are not probably aware of the health threats associated," said Health Commr. M. Jane Gallahue.

Attending the meeting along with Gallahue were Leo Kelly, chairman of the PEA's Citizen's Advisory Committee Studying the Pollution in Quincy Bay, Andy Ayer, the Shellfish Warden; and John Chen, liaison ombudsman to the city.

"The content of all materials developed will state that a commercial permit is required to dig clams in the city," said Gallahue.

"This permit requires an individual to dig for a master digger, who in turn makes sure all such clams dug from restricted and-or prohibited areas are sent to a plant in Newburyport for purification before being sold or consumed.

"The consumption of non-purified clams can cause illness as can the consumption of contaminated periwinkles," said the health commissioner.

"A fine will be imposed for an individual seen digging clams or collecting periwinkles, without a commercial permit offering the ability to monitor the clams dug and the purification of such clams," she said.

The signs, pamphlets and newspaper articles will be translated into Chinese by John Chen, and distributed in the city and to the South Cove Health Center, Boston, and the Chinese newspaper in Boston.

Gallahue added that additional informational articles will be developed, when necessary, to address the practice of "netting for small marine life."

Tax Rate To Be Set In March

Mayor Francis McCauley said he hopes to set the 1988 property tax rate by the first part of March.

McCauley said the figures must be approved by the state and then he will present his plan of classification to the City Council.

The mayor said he hopes to have the tax bills in the mail April 1.

Estimated bills were sent out last fall.

Sagamore Grill License Suspended Three Days

By KRISTINE STRENGE

The city's License Board suspended Sagamore Grill's liquor license for a violation.

According to a police report filed by Sgt. Angus McEachern, Sagamore Grille was operating after hours on June 27, 1987.

McEachern reported people in the bar shortly after 2 a.m. When McEachern accompanied by officers Henry Bradley and John Sullivan entered the establishment several people fled out the back door leaving their drinks behind, they said.

The bartender that evening, Michael A. Dormandy told police, "these people were remnants of a benefit held this evening and that he had lost track of the time."

The benefit was for the Sea St. fire victims which had happened last June.

Fire Chief Carl Valenti said, "The benefit was terrific but there are rules you have to abide by."

City Clerk John Gillis said, "This is not the first time that Sagamore Grille has been before the board with liquor violations."

In 1985, the board suspended Sagamore Grille's liquor license. However, due to the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission the board's letter was deemed insufficient.

Gillis, said a full and complete statement of reasons was submitted to the ABC. "So it is clear on our records that the board is unsure why the suspension was not served," he said.

Valenti pointed out that during both incidents Dormandy was the bartender on duty.

David Trainor representing Sagamore Grille said that Dormandy is currently working days from 12 p.m. to 6 p.m. and Friday evenings when there is another bartender on duty.

Police Chief Francis Finn asked the police officers at the hearing, if there had been any other problems since June. McEachern and Sullivan both said they have not had any problems.

Sagamore Grille has the right to appeal but after the hearing Trainor told Gillis he would like the suspension to start Feb. 22.

Vo-Tech Schools Stress 'The Competitive Edge'

During National Vocational Week, scheduled from Feb. 7-13, vocational technical schools across the nation will be utilizing "the competitive edge," in the promotion of this educational alternative.

Joseph A. Mazzarella, director of Quincy Vocational Technical School, said: "It is important that we engaged in promotion and marketing efforts, because as we move further and further into a rapidly changing technological society, the need for highly skilled personnel will escalate as never before."

Mazzarella believes, as do his colleagues across the state, that students graduating from a vocational school definitely have the competitive edge.

"They have a skill, they are well rounded in the practical aspects of an occupation and they have been trained to have a healthy respect for the world of work. At the same time," Mazzarella added, "they are well rounded in academics, and many continue to higher education," he said.

At Quincy Vo-Tech, 25 percent of the graduating class last year continued on to higher education. A total of 70 percent entered the work force, and 1.9 percent entered the military.

"It is interesting to note that in a 1986 Gallup poll of the public's attitudes toward public schools, the primary reason parents said they wanted an education for their children was job opportunities, and better jobs," stated Mazzarella.

"Another very important aspect of vocational education is that students see the relevancy of what they learn and are less at risk as school dropouts," he said.

County Agricultural Tour Feb. 24

Local junior high school students and their parents are invited to attend a morning tour of Norfolk County Agricultural High School, 460 Main St., Walpole, Wednesday, Feb. 24.

The tour will begin at the school cafeteria at 9 a.m. and should be completed by about noon.

Comfortable shoes and clothing are recommended.

Call director of admissions Michael Kelley or Nancy McDonald to register for the tour at 668-0268 or 762-2031.

There will also be an all day admissions program for students who have already applied to the school March 9.

This week's guest is Attorney Neil Kerstein who has his law office at 1354 Hancock St., Quincy.

Q. If a person injures himself on my property, what are my responsibilities?

C.K., Quincy

A. Under the Massachusetts law, an owner or occupier of land has a duty to use reasonable care to all lawful visitors upon it's premises. Furthermore landowners have the duty to warn all lawful visitors on it's premises of any non-obvious dangers of which they are or, in the exercise of due diligence should be aware

Q. What are my rights as a consumer if a company advertises something at a lower price than is accurate Can I hold them to that lower price?

E.S., Quincy

A. The courts have generally held that ads for the sale of goods at a specified price are not offers; instead they are treated as invitations to negotiate an offer. It causes problems for would-be buyers however, who may believe they have legal right to the goods they attempt to buy. In reality such a buyer is making an offer to purchase the goods which the seller is free to accept or reject. This is so because the buyer has indicated a present intent to contract on definite terms (the advertised goods and price), and there is no offer for him or her to accept.

Cheney Opposes 4-Year Terms

City Councillor Michael Cheney isn't sure how his colleagues will vote on it, but he is flatly opposed to four year terms for mayor and the city council.

"I don't know how the others feel about it," he says, "but I am against it."

CHENEY

He thinks the mayor and councillors should be willing to give an accounting to their constituents every two years as is the case now.

"Four year terms just don't make city officials as responsive," he says.

And, he says, an alternative such as a four-year term for mayor and two-year term for the City Council would be worse.

"Under our present charter," he says, "we have a strong mayor. Give the mayor a four-year term and the council a two-year term and the strong mayor would become the supreme mayor.

McCAULEY

Mayor Francis McCauley is making his second attempt to create four-year terms for the mayor and council. The council shot the first down two years ago.

Now McCauley has a proposed home rule petition before the City Council which if passed would go to state legislature for approval.

And, if approved, would go on the ballot as a referendum question for Quincy voters.

McCauley stresses that the voters would have the final say.

But Cheney says the people haven't asked for it to go on the ballot. The proposal was born in an incumbent mayor's office.

"I don't hear any great outcry for it," he says. "If petitions with the names of 4,000 or 5,000 voters were submitted to the City Council I might think differently. But this was originated in the mayor's office, not by the people.

Cheney thinks that if a councillor votes for the proposal it could be interpreted that he or she is actually in favor of the four-year terms rather than just voting to put the question on the ballot.

"We are elected to make decisions," he says. "We are not elected to push them off onto the people. And we should be accountable to the people for those decisions.

"If a mayor can't make tough decisions and be accountable to the people every two years, then we might as well go back to Plan E where the city manager runs the city and the mayor cuts the ribbons.

Cheney says he feels there are too many important issues facing the city that must be addressed by the elected officials. Doubling the present mayoral and council terms, he says, also doubles the length of time the people would have to wait to let those officials know whether they approve or disapprove of their actions.

"Two year terms have worked well so far and I really can see no reason to change them," Cheney says.

He notes that four years with the wrong mayor or wrong councillor would be a long time for voters to endure.

GILLIS

City Clerk John Gillis notes there is no provision in the present charter nor in McCauley's home rule petition for a recall.

"And even if there were," Gillis says, "it's almost impossible to oust a mayor on a recall unless you caught him with his hand in the till. And even then it wouldn't be easy."

There appears to be a little more support in the present council for the four-year terms than when they were proposed by McCauley in 1986. But whether there is enough support remains to be seen.

It would seem that if the city wound up with a wrong mayor, the city would be stuck with him (her) for four long years.

McCauley says a big problem with a two year term is that a mayor gets elected and a year later has to start running for re-election again.

A four year term would allow a mayor two years to work at the job before having to think of running for re-election.

Cheney counters, a mayor's term should not be one of convenience for the mayor.

It is the people who should be considered, he says.

"Right now," he says, "the people have the opportunity every two years to let their elected officials know what kind of a job they think they are doing. I believe it should remain that way."

Cheney says if the question ever did get on the ballot he thinks four-year terms would be soundly rejected by the people.

And, he adds.

"If by some chance four year terms were voted in, I would predict within 10 years there would be a move to repeal them and return to the two-year terms."

Thank You! From Quincy Point

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

To all of the School Committee who voted for the consolidation of Point-Middle, and to Mayor McCauley, who also voted in favor of this - I'd like to thank you.

Let me thank you for taking away my child's right to attend the school of his choice, Point Middle. This is the school in his district, the sdame school I pay taxes for. Thank you for telling me what is best for my child, I never would of known.

Thank you for putting a 2½ mile distance between my house and Sterling. This is the distance you feel he must travel to get a "good education."

Thank you for one more pressure - wondering how long I must watch my child try to adjust.

Thank you so much for this program that you feel is in his best interest.

Thank you for not listening to him or to me for that matter, after all, what do we know. And don't worry about how we feel - we may be over-reacting. Even though we were standing up for our rights, what right did we have?

Last night when all of you voted to close our school, we were told many people have had to face school closings at you think we know that? After all this is the third school in our area to close. First was the Washington School, then Pollard, now Point. Please don't tell me my child will adjust. Yes he will, this isn't the first time you've put him in that position. Don't you ever wonder where the breaking point lies? For all of this - I thank you.

One question was asked last night about if our children should get sick during school and we can't get to the school, as we all don't drive, and considering we have no choice but to call a cab, who did you say we should send the bill to for cab fare? Mayor McCauley or Superintendent Ricci?

And I sincerely would like to thank you Mr. DeCristofaro, and Mr. Santoro (School Committee member) for listening to us and caring enough about the people you represent. Thank you for voting against the closing of Point-Middle. Thank you for doing your best.

Mr. McCauley, being "man enough" as you called it is not changing your vote at the last minute. After you led us to believe you were going to help us. Being "man enough" is being the strong people that Councillor DeCristofaro and Mr. Santoro are. They aren't afraid of pressure.

And to all the teachers of Point-Middle. Thank you for your dedication and commitment to our children. For caring enough about them to give your best and in return they gave you theirs. For making Point Middle a school to be proud of. Many parents of the children you now teach, have gone to Point. To all of you I wish you the best.

And last of all, again to all who voted in favor of Poin• closing, today you may have the final word, but when the time comes for you to run for re-election - your words will not mean a thing. I will not listen to one word you say, for it too will not matter. I will not vote for any one of you either. As a matter of factw I will give you back exactly what you have given me - nothing!

$208,777 Cut From City Budget Requests

A total of $208,777 was cut from the proposed budgets of 14 city departments during the first budget session last Friday, according to Mayor Francis McCauley.

The departments had requested a total of $4,587,235, McCauley said, but that amount was reduced to $4,378,458.

Budget sessions will continue Tuesday, Feb. 16, with eight more departments.

The third session with four more departments will be held Friday, Feb. 19.

The Public Works Departments, one of the largest, and the City Council will be reviewed the week of Feb. 22, according to McCauley.

By the end of the month, he expects to complete his original review of the budgets.

Then the mayor will wait for the so-called Cherry Sheets which list state aid and assessments.

McCauley said his aim is to submit his budget to the City Council by April 4. By law, it is due the first Monday in May, he said.

The mayor said last week that he expected to reduce the budget requests from city department heads for fiscal 1989 which totaled $112,795,-004, up $16,736,744 from the 1988 budget of $96,058,260 approved by the City Council last May.

McCauley said he would concentrate on reducing the areas of capital outlay for buildings and equipment and hiring new employees.

"There won't be any layoffs," said McCauley. "But we intend to watch carefully the addition of any new positions."

The departments reviewed at the first budget session were Auditor, Assessor, Treasurer-Collector; Purchasing and Parking, Law and Workmen's Compensation, Personnel, Rent Grievance, Board of Appeals, Planning, Harbormaster, Health, Veteran's Services, Park, Forestry and Cemetery; and Mayor.

The 14 departments requested a total of $4,491,347 n general funds and $95,888 in capital outlay.

Cuts were $61,637, personal services; $55,640, expenses such as office supplies; $10,000, contractual services; and $81,500, capital outlay.

The net amount approved was $4,364,070 in general funds and $14,388 in capital outlay, for a total of $4,378,458.

"There is not a lot of leeway in budgets for small departments," said McCauley.

"We've had good sessions so far."

Ward 6 Democrats To Caucus Feb. 27

Registered Democrats in Ward 6 will hold a caucus Saturday, Feb. 27 at 2 p.m. to elect delegates to the 1988 Massachusetts Democratic Convention.

Ward 6 will elect nine delegates and two alternates divided between men and women to send to the convention. The apportioned number of delegates has been allotted on the basis of a formula giving equal weight to the Democratic Party registration and the average vote for Democratic candidates in the last general elections for Governor and President for which figures were available at the time delegate tabulations were prepared.

Joseph Lydon, chairman, will call the caucus at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, 12 Hunt St. The caucus is open to all registered Democrats, persons ineligible to register and media representatives. The only persons eligible to participate in any portion of the caucus are those who are registered Democrats in ward 6 as of Dec. 30, 1987. There will be no absentee or proxy voting.

Candidates for delegate and alternate must also be present, voting and give his or her written consent to be nominated and that nomination must be seconded by two persons present at the local caucus.

A 'Thank You' From The Garrigan Family

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

We were burnt out of our home on Dec. 22nd. The love and support from family and friends the night of the fire right through Christmas has been overwhelming.

The Quincy firefighters were so wonderful. They did a great job on saving some of the Christmas presents, they also brought out of the house my son's piggybank.

The Red Cross was right there for us. They helped supply us with cots, diapers, food and clothing the night of the fire.

There are just so many people that we would like to thank. Everyone was so good to us through our ordeal. They helped us through the holidays with clothing, furniture, Christmas presents and donations.

All these people have given love, support and the strength to pick up the pieces and to start a new home.

We would like to thank some of these people and companies from the bottom of our hearts for the donations: North Quincy High School (students, staff and ROTC), Quincy firefighters, Armstrong employees, Quincy City Hospital staff, Vantage Supply customers and employees, Boston Edison employees, Wollaston School staff, Wollaston PTO, VFW, Bingo, First Church Weymouth, Prudential Braintree employees, Blackwood Pharmacy employees and customers, Walsh's Restaurant employees and customers and Trans National Travel employees.

A very special thanks to all the people for the donations made to the fund and benefit. And to all our family and friends for all they did to run a wonderful benefit for our family.

Thanks to all!

Opposes Litter Fines As Grossly Unfair

(Editor's note: The writer of the following letter submitted a copy to The Quincy Sun for publication.)

Councilor Stephan McGrath
c/o Quincy City Hall

Dear Councilor McGrath:

I read (Quincy Sun, Feb. 4) with some satisfaction of your objections to an Ordinance proposed that would levy fines upon property owners leaving litter adjacent to their property.

To support your reasonable attitude I suggest that Public Works Commisioner Anderson check the litter left by BFI trucks as their operators carelessly (and sometimes wantonly) dump the trash barrels in the general direction of the dump truck tailgates!

Lest you assume that trash barrels are collected adjacent to my property and that is the reason for my concern...it is not so. However I DO place my barrel adjacent to the city street for collection and invariably pick up at least part of the spillage every collection day.

It is grossly unfair to my neighbor whose property many of us place our trash for rubbish collection if a fine were levied against that property. This situation must be common throughout the city.

In the same edition of The Quincy Sun Commisioner Anerson is recorded as saying that earlier estimates for the costs for collection by BFI were based on six months. This statement, evidently to account for the increase from $69.00 to $85.83 a ton.

I suggest that Mr. Anderson see to it that ALL of what BFI is being paid for to haul out of the city is deposited in their trucks. The need for the ordinance being considered would mostly be unnecessary if BFI were doing the job they are paid to do.

The annual report of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. for 1907 showe cash receipts of $5.3 million and a work force that averaged 3,340 men.

Under construction at the yard in Quincy Point were the battleship North Dakota, the scout cruisers Birmingham and Salem and seven submarines.

Francis T. Bowles was re-elected president and Frederic C. Dumaine vice president by company Stockholders.

Meanwhile, cracks noted in the ground at the shipyard near the new blacksmith shop were associated by some with recent earth tremors that struck New England.

But Prof. Jagger of MIT discounted the theory.

"These cracks in the ground are to be expected at this time of year after a cold snap," he said. "They are due to frost and are like what occurs when a pond cracks and thunders when freezing"

Stuffed Fish
In Tomato Sauce

Here is a recipe for stuffed fish that every once in a while I prepare and something that can be made the day before. I used flounder fillets (because that's what the market had in stock), but you can sue any fish that can be rolled easily. It is made in a tomato sauce and can be served over pasta or rice.

EASY STUFFED FISH WITH TOMATO

1 half small onion chopped fine
1 Lb fish fillets (about 4 or 5 slices)
1 Cup seasoned breadcrumbs
2 Tbsps grated parmesan cheese
salt and pepper to taste
a little fresh parsley (finely cut) a couple of Tbsps melted unsalted margerine (or butter for you brave guys)
2 or 3 cups tomato sauce (already made??)

Mix the breadcrumbs, grated cheese, chopped onion and parsley and enough of the melted margerine to stick the mixture together. Spread over the fish slices. Roll them and when you place them in the already cooking tomato sauce, try to keep the rolled side on the bottom. Baste them carefully through the cooking time (about 20 to 25 minutes) depending on the thickness of your fillets. Serve over linguine or rice or plain.

Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian-And Then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at That's Italian, Franklin St., South Quincy; Previte's Market, Sumner St., Quincy Point , Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount and Winfield Gift Emporium, Hancock St., Quincy Center.

St. Coletta Day School To Honor James Stearns

Braintree St. Coletta Day School will honor James F. Stearns, Jr., president of I. Antonelli Iron Works, Inc., Quincy at the 19th annual Valentine Party to be held Tuesday, March 1, at the school.

Stearns has been a longtime supporter of the special needs program.

Following his most recent visit to the school, Stearns said, "I am repeatedly impressed by the dedication of each staff member working with the students, all of whom seem very happy. Just seeing the children touches you and reaffirms that the school is a most worthwhile cause."

The school educates students with mild to severe developmental disabilities in preparation for meaningful and fulfilling lives within the community.

For information or reservations for the party, contact Paul Murphy at 826-6371.

Hearts And Secret Friends At United First Parish Church

The congregation at United First Parish Church, "Church of the Presidents," will celebrate Valentine's Sunday, Feb. 14, with hearts and secret friends.

The children of the Church School have been assigned adult members as "secret friends." For the past four weeks, the children have been sending their secret friend notes, drawings, poems, and riddles. This Sunday the adults will discover the identity of their secret friend at the social hour following the morning service. People will also write a phrase about love on red paper hearts and hang them on a tree in the parish hall.

Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett, minister, will deliver the sermon "Then Face to Face." The church choir will sing "Ave Verum Corpus" by Mozart and other works under the direction of John Dowd, the chairman of the Music Committee, and with Jeffrey Hoffman as guest organist. Matt Malloy and Mark Schnegg will serve as ushers. Louise Hall and Ethel Fen will host the social hour. The service begins at 10:30 a.m. Visitors are welcome and are invited to join in the coffee hour following the service. Church school and child care are provided.

Guest Speaker At Covenant Congregational

Rev. Ralph Youngman will be the guest speaker at the 10:45 a.m. worship service of Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Sts.

Rev. Fred Lawson will be attending the Covenant Ministers Midwinter Conference in Dallas, Tex.

During the church service, a nursery for all children age 5 and under is available. The attendant will be Lynne Facella. For children up to age 12 there is junior church, led by Lori-Ann Facella.

Sunday School, with classes for nursery through adult, will begin at 9:30 a.m.

Feb. 14 the Sunday School will start an attendance contest entitled "Star Chase 88," based on a theme suggested by Psalm 8:3-4. Children will earn points for attendance, being on time, bringing a Bible, and bringing visitors.

Three teams have been chosen and assigned model space ships. The total points earned by each team will be reflected by the distance the space ship travels each Sunday. The contest will continue through April.

New members are invited to take part. Prizes for first, second and third place will be announced. The contest is the idea of the Sunday School Superintendent, Robert Dano.

At the morning worship service, the choir, directed and accompanied on the organ by Richard Smith, minister of music, will sing "He Watching Over Israel" by Mendelssohn. The duet, "Love Divine" by Stainer, will be sung by Luisa Dano and Robert Dano. The organ prelude, offertory, "My Song is Love Unknown" by Vaughn-Williams, and postlude will be played by Mr. Smith.

The Ash Wednesday service on Feb. 17 will be held in Person Hall at 7 p.m. and will include Communion. Members of the congregation will read the scripture at the morning worship services during Lent.

A series of midweek "Inspirational Hours" will be held each Thursday beginning on Feb. 25 at 10 a.m. during the Lenten season.

For more information about any of the church's activities, call the church office at 479-5728.

8 Masses At St. John's On Ash Wednesday

There will be eight Masses on Ash Wednesday, Feb. 17 at St. John's the Baptist Church, 44 School St., Quincy Center.

They will be at 7 a.m., 8 a.m., 9 a.m., 12:10 p.m. (upper and lower church), 4 p.m., 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. Ashes will be distributed during the celebration of Mass.

It is a common practice for Catholics to attend daily Mass throughout the Lenten season. Daily Masses at St. John's will be held Monday through Friday, 8 a.m., 12:10 p.m., and 5:30 p.m. Masses Saturdays are at 8 a.m. and 12:10 p.m.

Lent begins with the observance of Ash Wednesday, when Christians received blessed ashes on their foreheads as a sign of their willingness to begin the solemn observance of Lenten renewal.

Laity Sunday At Bethany

Laity Sunday will be observed Sunday, Feb. 14, at the 10 a.m. service in Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center. The usual 9 a.m. chapel service will not be held.

Lay members of the congregation will conduct the entire worship service in keeping with the theological concept of "the priesthood of all believers."

While upholding the need for a specially trained and educated clergy set apart by ordination to provide leadership for the churches, the Protestant movement made clear that every person was called by God to be engaged in ministry by their style of life and by service to others.

The sermons will be prepared and delivered by Jean Ann MacLean Phinney on the theme "The Prayers of Good People" based on James 5:13-16, and by George F. Nicholson on "Humor and Religion" based on the Gospel of John 2:1-11.

Edmund Aluisy will conduct the opening call to worship and invocational prayer. Richard Briggs will read the epistle lesson and Tammy Vozzella will read the gospel. The welcome, comments on church life and work, and the offering will be conducted by Harry F. Massey, Jr.

The pastoral prayer will be offered by Sandra Jones, and the closing prayer and benediction will be given by Diane DelVecho.

The Chancel Choir under the direction of Peter J. Krasinski, organist, will sing two selections, "God of Our Fathers" by Warren and "Ye Watchers and Ye Holy Ones" a German chorale from 1623.

The service will be broadcast "live" direct from Bethany's sanctuary at 10 a.m. over radio station WJDA, 1300 kc.

Sunday School will be in session from 10 to 11 a.m. with classes for pre-school through eighth grade. Nursery care for babies and toddlers will be provided during the worship service, under the supervision of Pamela Ford Curran, Bethany's professional early child hood coordinator.

At 11 a.m. there will be a fellowship hour in the Allen Parlor. Families and individuals from the community are welcome to come and share in the worship and fellowship, and to enroll children in the Sunday School.

From 11:30 to 12:30, an open adult discussion group will meet in the upstairs Ladies' Parlor, and a light lunch and child care are provided. The topic is "Koinonia: Christian Community" and the group is led by Jerry and Lisa Birr.

On Ash Wednesday, Feb. 17, there will be a Lenten devotional service at 7 a.m. in the Bethany Chapel. Theme will be "The Twelve Christ Chose" examining the lives of the Apostles and the meaning of discipleship. Following the 30-minute service, a light continental breakfast will be served in the Parish House. Both the worship service and the breakfast are open to the public and people can leave for school or work by 7:45 a.m.

For information concerning Bethany's ministries and programs, contact the church office, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., at 479-7300.

Citizens For Life Baby Shower Feb. 16

A baby shower will follow the regular meeting of the South Shore Chapter of Massachusetts Citizens for Life Feb. 16 at 7:30 p.m. at the Cardinal Cushing School, in Hanover.

All gifts received will be distributed in the South Shore area to groups helping needy mothers and needier newborns. The public is invited to attend.

For more information, call Paul Moran at 878-4155.

Joseph E. Brett, 80

Former City Councillor, State Representative

JOSEPH B. BRETT

A funeral Mass for Joseph E. Brett, 80, of Quincy, a former state representative and Quincy city councillor was celebrated Wednesday at Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy.

Mr. Brett died Feb. 6 in Holbrook after a brief illness.

Born in Washington, he lived in Quincy 50 years.

Mr. Brett attended school in Boston and Quincy, and was a graduate of Dean Academy, Franklin.

He was characterized as a man who loved Quincy.

He was past president of the Massachusetts Elks Association and the Quincy Elks Association and a member of the Quincy Lions and North Quincy Knights of Columbus.

He was honored by Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore in 1981, and received the Laurence J. Curtin Citizen of the Year Award in 1977 for his years of service as a state representative and efforts with youth groups on the South Shore.

Mr. Brett supported the extension of the MBTA to Quincy in the early 1960s.

He never missed a Morrisette Legion baseball game and annually was an invited guest at the post's baseball dinners. He was known as Morrisette's "Outside Commander."

Husband of the late Ruth (Fowler) Brett, he is survived by a daughter, Barbara Richardson of Holbrook, four grandchildren and a great-grandson.

Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Many have wondered about American society during the last decade. They wonder what happened to the confidence, the entrepreneurial energy that had animated our country over the last two centuries ... We differ with this consensus. We feel the problems of the past decade have NOT been a denial of the American Spirit. In fact, they've been a splendid vindication of it. Over two hundred years of clamor and dissensions haven't impaired the vigor of the idea that Americans - more than any other country on earth - with an idea - big or small - have the chance of putting it into practice. The American marketplace still operates - not only in things, but in ideas. Products and philosophies still compete. Courage and energy and conscience still count. Choices still exist.

We like Thomas Wolfe's assertion of the American dream: "I think the true discovery of America is before us. I think the true fulfillment of our spirit, of our people, of our mighty and immortal land, is yet to come. I think the true discovery of our own democracy is still before us. And I think that all these things are certain as the morning - as inevitable as noon."

"KIDS IN SAFETY SEATS," or K.I.S.S., a car seat loan program in the community, is being promoted by the South Shore Region of the American Red Cross during National Passenger Safety Month. from left, are Rob Hibbard, Director of Community Volunteer Services for the American Red Cross; Nicole Schmidt, her mother, Christine Schmidt; and Robert Guarnieri, senior vice president of Colonial Federal Savings Bank and Quincy Rotary Club secretary. Red Cross Promotes Child Passenger Safety

The South Shore Region of the American Red Cross of Massachusetts Bay is promoting two programs in support of National Passenger Safety Month.

Gov. Michael S. Dukakis recently proclaimed February Passenger Safety month. During this week, deemed National Child Passenger Week, Red Cross promoted seat belt education in Quincy elementary schools, and "Kids in Safety Seats," or K.I.S.S., a car seat loan program in the community.

Using curricular developed by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and provided by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, Red Cross has brought the safety belt message to children in schools throughout the South Shore area.

Objectives of the automobile safety initiative are to promote the proper use and importance of wearing safety belts. Given that hundreds of children are injured or killed in Massachusetts each year in accidents where no restraints were used, Red Cross feels there is an urgent need for child safety education.

Initiated in 1985 in response to a Commonwealth law requiring children under the age of five to be securely restrained in cars, the Red Cross K.I.S.S. service enables families to borrow infant car seats for up to eight months for a nominal charge.

The service, made possible by a grant from the Quincy Rotary Club, is available to residents of Quincy and the entire South Shore area.

In commenting about the success of the "Kids in Safety Seats" program, Robert J. Quinn, regional chairman of the South Shore Red Cross and senior vice-president at South Shore Bank, stated that "it's wonderful when local civic groups like the Rotary can team-up with the Red Cross in supporting needed community programs." Quinn added, "the big winners are our community's children."

For more information on the K.I.S.S. program or the Passenger Safety Initiative, contact Rob Hibbard or Jackie Gardner at 471-5440.

'Loss Of A Loved One' Wollaston Congregational Topic

The Rev. Elden D.J. Zuern will preach the sermon Sunday, Feb. 14, at Wollaston Congregational Church titled "Facing The Loss Of A Loved One."

Lay scripture reader will be Marion Channon and the acolyte, Tavey Leigh Towle. Greeters will be Hester Johnson and June Miller; ushers, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kelsay.

Nursery care for infants and toddlers is provided.

Church school for grades 1-12 is held from 10-11 a.m.

A fellowship hour follows the service.

A Sweet Heart Dinner will be held Sunday, Feb. 14, by the Youth Fellowship. A free dinner will be delivered from 4-6 p.m. to any senior or shut-in from the church who would like one, along with a valentine. After delivering the dinners, the fellowship group will eat dinner with a "Sweetheart" in the social hall from 7-8:30 p.m.

The Singles and Doubles will have a Pot Luck Supper Saturday, Feb. 20, at 5 p.m. Following the supper a recent contemporary film will be viewed. Ben Thomason, a clinical social worker with the Protestant Social Service Bureau, will lead a discussion on the issues in the film.

Free Blood Sugar Screenings At Quincy Hospital

Between the hours of 9:30 a.m. and noon, the hospital's diabetic teaching nurse will be available at Clement O'Brien Towers, 73 Bicknell St., Germantown.

The screening consists of a blood test by simple fingerstick. Fasting is not required prior to the test; results are available in two minutes.

According to QCH, recent blood sugar screenings throughout the community have been successful in identifying persons with elevations in blood sugar, so that they might be referred to their physicians for treatment. For those individuals who do not have a private physician, and need to, or would like to see a physician, the diabetic teaching nurse is able to provide referral.

The program is under the direction of Arleen Feretti, R.N., C.D.E., Certified Diabetes Educator, who is available to perform the testing, and to answer questions. For additional information on this, or on any of the Diabetes Education Programs at Quincy City Hospital, call 773-6100 ext. 3029.

The staff will provide information on physicians and their specialties, to guide residents in choosing a physician to meet their individual needs.

Mary Hayes Promoted To First Lieutenant

Mary Regina Hayes, daughter of Mrs. John Stephen Hayes, 365 Highland Ave., Wollaston, has been promoted to the rank of first lieutenant in the Army Medical Specialist Corps.

Hayes, who is also the granddaughter of Mrs. Rose M. Hayes, North Farms Rd., Northampton, is an occupational therapist at the medical center.

A 1977 graduate of Fontbonne Academy, Milton, Hayes received a bachelor's degree from St. Anselm's College, Manchester, N.H., in 1982, and she was awarded a master's degree in occupational therapy from Boston University last year. She has been in the Army for a year and a half.

North Math Team Trip To National Competition Approved

The School Committee has approved the trip. However, Pat Murphy, a co-captain, urged the committee to also appropriate an estimated $6,000 for eight members to make the journey, including two advisors. The final calculation includes airline tickets, hotel accommodations and a registration fee of $125 per person.

Murphy asked the committee to make a decision soon to avoid the team's being bumped from a competitor's list.

The week-long contest which is sponsored by Texaco, will begin June 7 and will be televised during the final rounds.

Students from the nation's top high schools answer multiple choice questions by teams. Questions cover chemistry, history, biology and mathematics, and are delivered via computer.

Mayor Francis McCauley congratulated the team and said the funding possibility will be reviewed.

"You got approval for the trip, now all you need is the money, so you're half way home," said McCauley.

Summit View Before Planning Board

The Quincy Planning Board was scheduled to meet last night (Wednesday) at 7 p.m. in the second floor conference room of City Hall Annex.

Among the agenda items will be a comprehensive permit for Summit View on Quarry St. and establishment of a public hearing for subdivision of Yankee Heights on Ricciuti Drive.

Both projects are being developed by the Ricciardi Co.

The agenda also includes consideration of a proposed definitive subdivision for Merrymount Condominiums, 31-45 Merrymount Rd., by Ronald McDougald and planned unit development on Quarry St. by Daniel Cronin.

Jeff Johnston On State Vocational Assn.

Jeff Johnston was recently named as the Quincy representative on the Massachusetts Vocational Association.

A Career Coordinator at Quincy Vocational Technical, Johnston says he is looking forward to an exchange of ideas and to have input into the growth and expansion of voc-ed in Massachusetts.

A 1977 graduate of Quincy Voc-Tech, he majored as a machinist, and worked in his field for several years before being certified as a teacher.

"He is an outstanding young educator," commented Joseph A. Mazzarella, director of the vocational-technical school. "He's an excellent example of the caliber of individual produced by schools like ours," he said.

Johnston also serves as faculty advisor to the city's Vocational Industrial Clubs of America.

New System For Overdue Library Materials

A new system of charges for overdue materials will become effective Feb. 16 at the Thomas Crane Public Library.

The system is being adopted as part of Quincy's participation in an automated network of libraries known as the Old Colony Library Network.

The charges are five cents per day for each item overdue. The maximum charge for adult materials is $3 per item. For children's materials it is $2 per item. Charges will be computed for the first day an item is overdue. Senior citizens will continue to be exempt from overdue charges.

Extended use of library materials prevents their use by other library patrons. It is hoped that overdue charges will motivate both adults and children to return borrowed materials on time.

DeCristofaro, Anselmo Call Point-Sterling Merger 'Injustice'

"Numbers alone should not be the only factor in your decision," said Gallagher, who is also president of the Point Middle School P.T.O.

Parents also cited the poor conditions at the Sterling Middle School building and grounds and threatened not to send their children there until conditions are improved.

Transportation questions also were raised, both at last week's committee meeting and during a protest walk in which about 25 parents trekked the 1.25 miles last Sunday.

"They can't guarantee a bus will come down my street," said Robert Perry of Baxter Ave.

While calling it a "tough decision," McCauley said the consolidation is an educationally sound move and, in the long run is the best action to help the city's declining middle school enrollment.

"This is a case where we have two schools and just don't plain have enough people in them," said McCauley.

Ricci called the consolidation plan a systemwide measure to "equalize" course offerings in the middle schools. The plan will create new athletic, foreign language, shop and home economics classes. Classes that are "needlessly duplicated" will be be consolidated, officials said.

However, some parents charged that the decision to close their school is based on economics.

"We're not going to forget it," said Carl Soderstrom of Germain Ave. After the consolidation vote Soderstrom told The Sun that he'll work to prevent key committee members to win re-election. Soderstrom, who has two children in the Point school, argued that Central Middle School should be closed instead of the Point, but officials won't because of "economic backgrounds."

"They pit us against each other. It's a con job," said Soderstrom.

Committee member Stephen Durkin denied the suggestions that the consolidation is the result of economic considerations.

"We have low enrollment, and we've been concerned we may have been shortchanging kids in these schools," said Durkin, urging parents to measure the consolidation's success by its effect on middle school education in Quincy, not by the effect on children attending the Point school.

"The consolidation is not as traumatic as we think," said Durkin.

Anselmo, in a statement to The Sun said:

"In my estimation, I feel it is an injustice to the neighborhood. There are hundreds of families whose children will be bused. The cost of the busing will not make up for the loss of community spirit.

"It creates a burden and anexity on the parents and the only excuse is so they can enhance some programs such as Dramatic Arts and Music programs. The same programs could have been incorporated at Quincy Point with the money they are spending on busing. Money wise they are getting nothing."

"Politically it is an injustice to this ward because it is the only school we have in Ward 2.

"The reason they are going to bus these children is the enrollment is down. If that is the case a year or two from now they will close Sterling."

"The city is floating in money. As of last July we had a surplus of 10 million dollars.

"In all this maneuvering some teachers are going to lose their jobs and if that is the fact we are going to get less education for the money spent."

Council Undecided On Mayor's Sewer Use Tax

(Cont'd from Page 1)

"The general public has on its mind that Quincy had a $10 million surplus and just received another $2 million.

"Most people fail to realize that most of that money is gone," he said.

Those who said they were leaning towards voting for the sewer user fee were Councillors Charles Phelan, Lawrence Chretien and Timothy Cahill.

"The sewer user fee is something we will eventually have to have," said Phelan. "I don't know if it can continue to be absorbed in the property tax."

Chretien said, "At this point, it looks like we are going to need the money the sewer fee will generate."

He said he would offer an amendment to divert some of the sewer fees to a water conservation fund to reduce bills for senior citizens and others.

"The MWRA is not bound by the limits of Proposition 2½," noted Cahill.

He said that if the MWRA assessment stays in the property tax, it will "eat up all the budget and that will not be fair to other departments in the city."

The remainder of the councillors were undecided on the sewer user fee.

"I really want to see what else is said," said Councillor Stephen McGrath

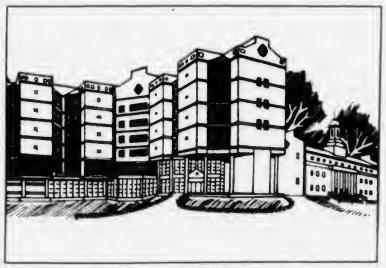
Q: What's up and coming in health care?



A: The New QCH!

Quincy City Hospital has begun an impressive $57 million renovation. Almost two-thirds of the buildings and other facilities will be replaced—all part of a dramatic plan to better serve the growing and changing health care needs of the South Shore.

The focal point of the new hospital complex will be a brand new six story building that will contain 234 patient beds as well as all of the necessary patient care support services.

Since its founding in 1890, Quincy City Hospital has been in the forefront of health care on the South Shore. With our new facilities we'll continue to deliver the highest quality health care services with warm, personal attention.

At QCH—we're building for the future on a proud past.

Raiders Upset Cambridge Keep Tourney Hopes Alive

The North Quincy boys' basketball team kept its slim tournament hopes alive when it upset Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 57-54, in overtime last Friday to even its record at 8-8.

Ted Stevenson's Raiders will host Quincy Friday night at 7:30, will play at Taunton Monday night at 7:30 and will be at Waltham Tuesday, also at 7:30.

North led, 49-47, when Cambridge's Colin Lawson hit two free throws with one second left to send the game into overtime.

Kip Calswell hit a jumper, then stole the ball and fed B.J. Sylva for a layup to put North ahead by four. Cambridge closed to within a point before Cronin's clinching foul shots.

Cambridge held a 30-22 halftime lead but North's zone trap in the third quarter, led by Mark Kennedy, who had five steals, pulled the Raiders at 38.

In the fourth quarter North hung tough as it hit eight of 10 free throws.

Sylva sparked North Quincy with 19 points and 10 rebounds and Ted Stevenson had 15 points and nine assists.

Earlier in the week the Raiders lost to Newton North, 76-66, despite a fine comeback in the fourth quarter.

North was unable to overcome an early 22-8 deficit despite a career-high 29 points by Sylva, who was 13-for-13 from the foul line. He scored 10 points in the finale and also had 10 rebounds.

Stevenson and Mike Ainsley each had 11 points for North and Cronin played outstanding defense as he held Newton's top scorer, Bob Dixon, to seven points.

Brockton Too Much For Quincy

The Quincy boys' basketball team ran into the same old problems, size and experience, last Friday and lost a 64-46 decision to much bigger Brockton, dropping its record to 1-14.

John Franceschini's embattled Presidents were scheduled to face Cambridge Rindge and Latin Tuesday, will play at North Quincy Friday night at 7:30 and will host Newton North Tuesday at 5 p.m.

The Presidents again gave its all against Brockton but, with its tallest player 6-3 facing Brockton's 6-9 Craig Fairfield, 6-8 Curtis Bostic and 6-5 Ed Osgood, they had to foul underneath in an attempt to stop the Boxers. As a result Brockton, which had just one more field goal, scored 28 points to Quincy's eight from the free throw line.

"We slowed the game down a bit," said Franceschini. "We wanted to take about a minute and a half off the clock before each of our shots so the game wouldn't develop into a track meet. Brockton would run away and hide on us if we let them break."

Scott Logan led the Presidents, who trailed, 36-20, at the half, with 15 points and Nick Dragone scored 10.

The Presidents cut the lead to 11 early in the third quarter on Joe Russell's three-point shot, but that was as close as they would come.

The Boxers continually went to the foul line in the final quarter and scored 14 of their 20 points from there.

Earlier in the week Quincy ran into the usual problems and lost to Brookline, 77-39.

Scott Logan led the Presidents with 11 points.

Miller In Successful Season At Marshfield

Eddie Miller, who coached the North Quincy boys' basketball teams for the last 11 years, is enjoying a successful first season as Marshfield's coach.

As of last week Miller's Rams had an 11-5 record (10-3 in the Old Colony League) and have all but clinched a berth in the Eastern Mass. Tournament.

North Moves Closer To Tourney Bid

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy hockey team moved to within one point of making the state tournament with a 4-3 victory over Quincy last Saturday night at a packed Quincy Youth Arena.

The game was one of the finest of the season.

North, needing only a tie in three remaining games, faced Newton North last night (Wednesday) and if it failed to get a tie or win, will have two more chances to qualify for tournament play. The Raiders (10-5-2) will play at Waltham next Tuesday at 6 p.m. and will play Brookline next Thursday at 4 p.m. at the Watertown rink.

Quincy, which has played some outstanding hockey despite a losing record, fell to 7-9. The Presidents were scheduled to play at Brockton last night (Wednesday), will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin Saturday night at 7:50 at the Youth Arena and will finish up next Tuesday night against Brookline at Watertown at 8 p.m.

Last Saturday's second North-Quincy game was a classic schoolboy game. There has been much talk about violence in schoolboy hockey that even prompted the MIAA to consider the banning of the sport, but last Saturday's game was hard-fought throughout with no fights or other violence.

"This was high school hockey at its best," said North coach Kevin Jago. "There were 15 penalties, but they were only for tripping and that sort of thing. Both teams played outstanding hockey and we were fortunate to come from two goals down and get the win."

"This was as fine a game as I've seen and both teams deserve a lot of credit for the way they played," said Quincy assistant coach George Peachey. "I frankly thought we had the game sewed up with a 3-1 lead going into the final period, but North showed it deserves to be in the tournament the way they came back.

"We held Matt Furtado (the number two scorer in the Suburban League), very well, but Jay Rodrigues (two goals and two assists) played a tremendous game. Both goalies (North's Brian Mahoney and Quincy's Greg Chambers) did an excellent job and had many spectacular saves."

North took the lead in the first period when Furtado scored with assists for Rodrigues and Joe Keegan). It was Furtado's 43rd point of the year.

In the second period Quincy moved ahead, 2-1, when Erik Abboud scored off an assist for Paul Scola and Tim Mann scored with Scola again assisting.

The Presidents widened their lead to 3-1 early in the third period when Ken Staskiewicz scored with assists for Abboud and Chuck Quigley.

The Raiders roared back as Rodrigues scored twice, both with assists for Paul McGrath, to tie the count.

Earlier in the week North Quincy defeated Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 5-1, with Mahoney outstanding in goal.

Furtado scored two goals and Dineen, Bob Thomas and Rich Connolly had one each. McGrath had three assists.

Quincy bowed to Newton North, 7-3, ending any hopes of making the tournament.

Munroe Accepts 4-Year Scholarship To B.U.

Quincy's Sean Munroe, one of the best pass receivers in the state last fall, has accepted a full four-year scholarship to Boston University.

Munroe, who won three awards last week at the Quincy Parents' Club annual banquet, was expected to be one of the Presidents' standouts in 1986 but broke his foot on the first day of practice and saw only limited service in the final few games of the season.

Last fall the wide receiver caught 50 passes for 10 touchdowns and also scored a touchdown rushing.

In the 14-14 tie with North Quincy on Thanksgiving he had five receptions for 119 yards and scored both Quincy touchdowns. His second TD reception came with one second left on the clock to give Quincy its cherished tie.

Sadowski, Players Honored By Boosters

By TOM SULLIVAN

The presentation of a watch to Ted Sadowski, who is stepping down after 29 years as a North Quincy assistant football coach, highlighted the annual North Quincy Football Bosters Club banquet at the Sons of Italy Hall.

The watch was presented by President Bill Dolan of the Boosters Club.

"It is tough stepping down after so many happy years at North Quincy, but my legs aren't what they used to be and I think it is time to call it quits," Sadowski said. "I have worked under every one of North's head coaches (the late Jack Donahue, Carl Leone, Ralph Frazier, Dave Burke and Ken McPhee) and they were very happy years."

Sadowski, who coached the sophomores for many years and was North's chief scout, came to North Quincy in 1958 after three previous teaching and coaching jobs. He graduated from Boston English High where he was a defensive and offensive tackle and went to MIT where they had only junior varsity football. He went on to play semi-pro ball for the South Boston Chippewas.

"Ted did a tremendous job for us and he is going to leave a gaping hole to fill," said Raider coach Ken McPhee.

Matt McNamara was named the Most Valuable Player and received the Coaches Award from McPhee.

Dave Lawless was the team's best all-around player and was presented the Ted Sadowski Award from Sadowski.

Paul McCormack was selected the MVP in the Quincy game and received the 28th Jack Donahue Award from Pete Zoia.

Other individual awards:

The Fr Cornelius Heery Sportsmanship Award, B.J. Sylva, presented by Fr Heery, pastor of Sacred Heart Parish, who gave the invocation.

William J. Schaetzl Unsung Hero Award, Paul Nimerskern, presented by Fr. Robert Boyle of Star of the Sea Parish.

Firefighters 12th Player Award, Jack Mullen, presented by Jim DeVarennes.

Robert F.X. Schaetzl Award, Mike Curtin and Joe D'Angelo, presented by McPhee.

Peter J. Zoia Best Offensive Player Award, Joe Mulvey and McCormack, presented by assistant coach Peter Chrisom.

Dr. Allan Yacubian Best Defensive Player Award, Paul Hogan, presented by Dr. Yacubian.

Freshman MVP Award, Mike Oliva and Evan Kiley, presented by assistant coach Dean Merlin in the absence of freshman coach Tom Carter, who is recovering from back surgery.

Nancy Flukes, the football queen, was unable to be present as she was at Stonehill College, from which she received a full scholarship.

McPhee presented Suburban League first team all-star certificates to McNamara, Hogan, Mike Ainsley, Ryan Craig and McCormack.

Receiving second team all-star certificates were Mullen, Lawless, Nimerskern, Bill MacDougall and Mulvey.

Hogan, McNamara and Craig also received Patriot Ledger all-scholastic awards.

The 1987 captains, McCormack, Hogan and McNamara, received gifts from the Boosters Club and the 1988 captains, MacDougall, Dave Joyce, Ainsley and Craig, were introduced.

The guest speaker was Bill Curran, one of North's all-time best running backs who captained Northeastern University and was named an ECAC All-American. He holds all Northeastern rushing records.

Curran told the players he hoped they all could go on to college but to remember that academics come first before football.

"I enjoyed my four years at Northeastern and playing football, but the biggest thing was receiving my degree, which has helped me in the business world," he said. Curran was drafted by the Miami Dolphins.

Principal Peter Chrisom spoke briefly, congratulating the players and coaches, and he said North's Scholastic Aptitude Testing (SAT) scores were the best in the last 10 years.

Athletic Coordinator Marty Finnegan told the gathering Supt of Schools Robert Ricci is looking toward reviving all sports in the middle schools as well as having North and Quincy leave the Suburban League for another league.

The Team Pride Award was presented to Mike Malloy and managers Joe Ruscio and Bob O'Keefe also received gifts.

Among the invited guests were President Jerry Perfetuo of the Quincy Parents Club and Quincy coach Jack Raymer.

Jackets and other awards went to the following players:

Raiderettes Break Even With Newton N., Cambridge

The North Quincy girls' basketball team broke even in two games last week, losing to Suburban League-leader Newton North, 69-51, and rebounding to wallop Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 78-49. With an 8-7 record (3-6 in the league), the Raiderettes still have hopes of making the Eastern Mass. Tournament.

Paul Bregoli's North girls will play at Quincy Friday night at 7:30 and will be home to Waltham Tuesday at 5 p.m.

Nancy Flukes, North's do-everything player, broke the school record with 32 points in last Friday's easy win over Cambridge. The previous record of 31 was set by Karen Bridges in 1983.

However, it was Deirdre Murphy, Rita Rooney, Patty Feeney and Paula Tolson who got the Raiderettes off to a fast start in the first quarter. After league-leading scorer Tammy Jones hit a layup to make it 6-4, North scored on six of its next seven possessions to take an 18-6 lead. Patty Feeney had six points, Flukes four and Rooney two.

Flukes took the game over early in the second quarter, hitting seven free throws and a long jumper, while Tolson and Stacey Welch hit from the outside as North took a commanding 34-11 lead with 2:55 left in the half.

North led, 36-17, at halftime as Jones converted an offensive rebound with two minutes to go for Cambridge's first basket since early in the game.

Feeney hit a baseline jumper and then stole the ball and fed Murphy for a layup. Karin Reister converted an offensive rebound and a short jumpshot. Flukes added nine more third quarter points to give the Raiderettes a huge 61-31 lead after three quarters.

As Flukes neared the scoring mark, her teammates began giving her the ball. She converted nice passes from Kerri McDonald and Debbie Panaro to close within one point of tying the mark. After Tarra Meyer converted an offensive rebound and McDonald hit two free throws, Karrie Pistorino, returning after re-injuring her knee, found Flukes on the left side where she hit nothing but net for the record-breaking basket. Tricia Mitton hit a long jumper for her first varsity basket and Kerry Tolson hit a free throw to close out the scoring.

Besides her record-breaking 32 points, Flukes also tied her school record for assists in a game with nine, added eight rebounds and three steals. Feeney had career-high 12 points, while Tolson, Reister and Murphy each had six. Murphy also had 11 rebounds and three assists.

Earlier in the week Murphy scored first at Newton but that was the last time North led in the game. Newton, unbeaten in league play, raced out to a 23-12 first quarter lead as six points from Flukes and two long jumpers by Tolson were all North could muster.

Reister, a surprise starter for North in place of Melissa Miles, who was ill, looked good in the second quarter as she hit a baseline turnaround, converted an offensive rebound and hit a short jumper. North trailed, 38-24, at the half.

Flukes and Cambridge's Lil Johnson exchanged baskets early in the third quarter as North remained within striking distance. Murphy scored six points in a row and Kellene Duffy made a steal for a layup to keep North within 14.

A Flukes jump shot and a free throw cut into the lead early in the final quarter, but the Tigers ran off six in a row to put the game out of reach.

Flukes had 27 points, six rebounds and four assists. Murphy had eight points and six rebounds and Reister had eight points, seven rebounds, four steals and two blocked shots.

"We seem to have found our shooting touch again," said Bregoli. "Flukes, as she has been all year, has been superb. The kids were pulling for her to break the record and it was a nice touch that Pistorino returned to give her the pass for the record. They are good friends outside of school. Despite losing a couple before the Cambridge game, we are playing good basketball. We hope to continue that in our last five games."

Morrell Twins Top Quincy Scorers

Twins Patti and Gayle Morrell have been the top scorers throughout the season for the Quincy girls' basketball team.

Patti had a record 41 points and 19 rebounds last Friday, but the First Ladies, who were snake-bitten last week with two heartbreaking losses, dropped a 70-68 squeaker to Brockton, dropping their record 4-9.

Doug MacFarlane's Quincy girls were scheduled to play Cambridge Rindge and Latin Tuesday, will host North Quincy Friday night at 7:30 and will be home to newton North Tuesday at 5 p.m.

"That was the greatest game by a girl I've ever seen," said MacFarlane of Patti Morrell's fantastic performance.

The First Ladies led, 32-25, at half time but the lady Boxers outscored Quincy, 28-12 in the third quarter to take a 53-44 lead into the final session.

Quincy trailed by as many as 11 in the last quarter but made a run at the 10-3 lady Boxers as Patty Morrell paced the comeback with 16 points, including a layup with 10 seconds to play to cut the final margin to two points.

Gayle Morrell contributed 11 points for Quincy.

Earlier in the week Quincy dropped another heartbreaker, 51-49, in overtime to Brookline.

The First Ladies had a five-point lead with a minute to go in overtime, but Brookline's Dianna McClure hit a three-pointer and Molly Furlong sank two free throws. Melanie Reardon scored the winning basket.

Patti Morrell had 20 pints and 14 rebounds and Gayle had 14 points.

• Jaehnig League

3-Way Tie For Top

With four weeks completed in the winter season of the Jaehnig Chiropractic Basketball League a real dogfight is shaping up with a three-way tie for first place.

Joe's Pub, the Mount and Quincy Nets are tied with 3-1 records.

Kyle Morton sparked the revitalized Nets with 25 points to bring his team back from an early 14-point defeat to defeat the Jaehnig Club (2-2), 69-67. Joe Dean and Peter Johnson had 17 and 15 points respectively for the Nets and Paul Leonard and Rick Maguire had 25 and 19 for Jaehnig.

The Nets also handed Joe's Pub its first loss, 67-52, behind Al Wolfe's 18 points. Dean Coletti had a game-high 22 for Joe's.

Joe's rebounded with a 76-62 win over J.B. Heating (1-3) as Coletti again scored 22, Paul Forbes had 19 and P.J. Fay 16. John Byers had 22 for Heating.

The Mount picked up two wins, one a hard-fought 71-66 decision over Timmins Contracting (2-2) in a rematch of last fall's championship game. Tony DePina had 25 and Mark Millane 16 for the Mount and Steve Millane had 22 for Timmins.

The Mount romped over Cahill's Produce (0-4), 86-44, with Mark Millane scoring 26, Kurt O'Sullivan 15 and Mike Quinn 15. John Phelan scored 12 for Cahill's.

Clean Machine (2-2) held off an upset-minded Cahill Club to win an exciting 68-61 matchup. Bob O'Shea had 26 points, mostly on long jumpers, and Mike Granahan had 13 for Clean Machine. Mike O'Hare had 19 for Cahill's.

Jaehnig, which has been in three straight two-point games, pulled out a 71-69 win over Clean Machine. Leonard had 28 and Maguire 22 for Jaehnig, with O'Shea scoring 17, Granahan 16, Dennis Hopkins 14 and Bob Geraghty 12 for the losers.

The most exciting game saw Timmins and Heating endure eight lead changes down the stretch before Timmins won, 58-56. Steve Millane had 17 points and Bill Murphy 13 for Timmins, while Peter Carty and Dave Murphy combined for 27 points for Heating.

In earlier action Joe's defeated Timmins, 65-54, with Paul Forbes scoring 26 points and Coletti 18. Billy Murphy led Timmins with 15.

Joe's also was awarded a forfeit victory over defending champion Mount, which was unable to field a team.

The Mount then defeated Clean Machine, 81-58 as two-time league MVP scoring champ Mark Millane scored 28 points and Tony DePina 22. Mike Granahan had 18 for Clean Machine.

Clean Machine defeated Cahill's Produce, 44-28, with Granahan having 12 points. Peter McGillicuddy had eight for Cahill.

Timmins edged the Quincy Nets, 60-59, on John Timmons' last second foul shot. Billy Murphy scored 22 for Timmins and Jim Conboy 17 for the Nets.

The Nets topped Cahill's, 58-45, withstanding a furious Cahill comeback.

Rick Stoltz had 16 points, Joe Dean 16 and Brian Cox 14 for the Nets, while Jimmy Kelly had 15 and Rick Radsik nine for Cahill.

The Jaehnig Club, behind Rich Maguire's 24 points and Paul Leonard's 20, defeated the Maroons, 78-62. Marty Connolly had 17 for Jaehnig and Paul Berlo had 24 for the Maroons.

In the most exciting game of the week J.B. Heating edged Jaehnig, 62-60, in overtime as Jaehnig was plagued by cold first-half shooting. Jaehnig trailed by as many as 14 points before turning on the jets. Brian Levit's two foul shots provided Heating with its win. Peter Carty was high with 19 points. Connolly was outstanding for Jaehnig with 25 points and Leonard added 15.

North Frosh Girls Take 2 From Marshfield

The North Quincy girls' freshman basketball team swept two games from Marshfield last week, improving its record to 8-5.

North rolled to a 36-12 victory with team defense and excellent shooting contributing to the win. The young Raiderettes held Marshfield scoreless for two quarters.

Capt. Tara Miles had 15 points and 10 steals, Kelly LeBlanc 11 points, Joanna Rugnetta 18 rebounds and Erin O'Neill had a fine defensive game. Stephanie Mead, Erin Twoomey, Michelle Donovan, Maria Kalantsis and Laurie Hoyt played well in the second half.

North then crushed the Rams, 44-8, as Rugnetta had 14 points, 13 rebounds and nine blocked shots. Miles had 14 points and seven steals. LeBlanc was strong on defense and had nine points and Soyon Park, Erin Lydon and Karine Kabilian played solid games.

The North girls will host Quincy Friday at 3:30.

Kara Sullivan recently moved up from the freshmen to the junior varsity and led the team in scoring in a big win over Newton North.

Grande's Team Takes St. John's Second Half Lead

St. John's Holy Name Bowling League opened the second half last week with John Grande's team sweeping six points to take the lead.

Tom Feltrup's team and Ben Williams' team are 4-2, Bob Saluti's team and Joe Matarazzo's team 2-4 and Don Gilliland's team 0-6.

Grande rolled the weekly high single of 118 and Williams had 117. Grande also had the high three of 329 and Williams rolled 310.

Williams' team had the high team single of 387 and Grande's team had 384. Grande's team rolled the season-high team three of 1120 and Feltrup's team had 1096.

The Top Ten: Grande, 101.9; Saluti, 100.6; Matarazzo, 93.5; Feltrup, 93.4; Lew MacLennon, 92.0; Duey DiCesare, 91.9; Art DiTullio, 91.0; Gilliland, 90.8; Pat Kelly, 89.9, and Bill Duval, 89.8.

Mite B's Take Second Spot In Tourney

The Quincy Mite B hockey team, sponsored by the Quincy Firefighter's Association, took home the second place trophy in the third annual Coca-Cola Tournament at the Gallo Arena in Bourne.

In the first round Quincy blanked Burrillville, R.I., 2-0. Jeff Coleman scored the first goal with assists for Eric Wood and Tommy Sullivan and the same line clicked for the second goal with Wood and Coleman setting up Sullivan. Tim Sheehan was outstanding in goal. Defensemen Tim Wood, Matt Langille, Eric Joyce and Chris DiMattia played a physical game, stopping Burrillville's offense at mid-ice.

Quincy then lost to the Scituate Seahawks, 4-1, with Joe Bracken scoring unassisted in the second period. John Manning, John Barron, Billy Barron and Betsy Stone were strong on the boards.

Quincy rebounded to edge Plymouth, 5-4, to move into the tourney finals. Eric Wood scored first with Jim Casinelli assisting and Sullivan made it 2-0. Plymouth came back to take a 3-2 lead but Sullivan scored again to tie it.

With Quincy shorthanded, Robbie Winter picked up a bullet pass from Sullivan and drove it past the Plymouth goalie. Plymouth tied it up again but Winter worked the puck behind the Plymouth goal, shifted by the defense and came around the net to score the winning goal. John Dobbins, DiMattia, Tim Wood, Joyce and Langille played tight defense to preserve the win.

In Greater Boston League action Quincy won four in a row with wins over All-Bright, Wellesley, Somerville and Brookline.

Against Brookline Sheehan added another shutout to his long list in a 7-0 romp. Winter had two goals and Sullivan, Eric Wood, Manning, John Barron and Stone one each. Bracken had three assists and Tim Wood, Eric Wood and Coleman one each.

Quincy topped All-Bright, 5-1, with Sullivan scoring twice and Bracken, Billy Barron and Coleman one each. Dobbins, Eric Wood, Coleman, Bracken and Manning had assists.

Quincy defeated Wellesley, 7-2, led by Eric Wood's hat trick. Sullivan, Coleman, Manning and Joyce had a goal each and Eric Wood had three assists, Sullivan three, Bracken two and Manning, Billy Barron, Langille and Coleman one apiece.

Quincy toppled Somerville, 8-4, in the battle for second place in the open division. Quincy scored four times in the first period. Eric Wood and Winter each had a hat trick and Sullivan and Stone a goal each. Bracken had three assists, Eric Wood, Timmy Wood and Stone two apiece and Joyce and Coleman one each.

Mite A's Win, 3-1

Quincy's Mite A hockey team, sponsored by the Quincy chapter of the DAV, defeated Medfield, 3-1, in a Greater Boston League game.

The game for Quincy became a textbook display of passing and playmaking as Paul Princiotto, Robbie Pinelli and Danny Stone kept the play in the Medfield end for the first goal by Mike O'Brien on a super shot from 15 feet.

The passing of David Rowell and Scot Cooper set up the next goal by Mark Regan. The defense was outstanding as Matt Jarnis, Brian Beaton, Danny Hughes, John Ryan and Stone kept Medfield from setting up any plays. Goalie Brian Walsh again was outstanding.

Matt Watkins set up Mike Ryan, who skated down ice with good speed, coming close on three shots. He is the youngest player and is getting stronger every game.

The final goal came as O'Brien converted a pass from Princiotto and shot over the extended glove of the goalie.

"This win means a lot to the kids and it puts us right back on track," said coach John Ryan. "Quincy played an outstanding game as a team."

• Pee Wee House

UCT, Colonial Win

UCT defeated Keohane's, 3-1, to cut Keohane's lead in the Pee Wee House League to one point.

Kevin Boylen, Brian Sullivan and Scott Wysocki scored the goals and Wysocki, Brian Fitzgerald, Matt O'Toole and Lou Bertucci had assists. Kevin Flaherty scored for Keohane's with a rare assist for goalie John Gladu.

Colonial Federal blanked Bersani Brothers, 6-0, with goalie Tim Wassiege recording the shutout. Jeff Craig and Aidan O'Donoghue had two goals apiece and Eric Kreuz and Nelson Gee one each. Mike Moody and Kreuz had two assists apiece and Gee, Mark Zych, Mike Morrison, O'Donoghue and Joe Carinci one each.

The standings: Keohane's, 8-5-2; UCT, 7-5-3; Bersani, 5-7-3; Colonial Federal, 4-7-4.

• Mite House

Balducci, Lydon Win

Balducci's widened its Mite House League lead to four points with a 6-3 victory over the Paul Harold Club.

Mike Gallagher had two goals and John Barron, Matt Flynn, Pat McGann and Bill Barron one each. Chris Geary, Danny Stock, Gallagher, Joe Bracken and Kevin Regan had assists. Mike Sullivan, Brad Macauley and Tommy Sullivan scored for Harold and Danny Murphy, Brian Degan and John Manning had assists.

Lydon-Russell defeated Newcomb Farms, 6-1, as Eric Wood and Tim Wood scored two goals apiece and Tim Lewis and Matt Langille one each. Eric Wood had three assists, Langille two and Jason Snaith, Tim Wood and Eric Joyce one each.

The standings: Balducci's, 9-4-2; Newcomb Farms, 7-6-2; Lydon-Russell, 6-8-1; Harold, 5-9-1.

Steven Denelsbeck Completes Training

Pvt. 1st Class Steven C. Denelsbeck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Belford C. Denelsbeck of Quincy recently completed one station unit training at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

Denelsbeck's training was a 12-week period which combined basic training and advanced individual training.

He is a 1983 graduate of North Quincy High School.

Squirt B's Clinch Tournament Berth

Quincy's Squirt B hockey team clinched a spot in the state championship tournament last week by crushing Tri-Valley, 15-1, in a qualifying game at Franklin.

The team, sponsored by Quincy Cable Systems, is one of 16 statewide who will contend for the title in March.

Quincy scored five goals in each period against Tri-Valley as goalies Mike Manganaro and Joe MacLennan turned in outstanding efforts.

Jimmy Gallagher had four goals, Timmy Kunz and Ron McGann a hat trick each and Chris Geary, Dan Mann, Robbie Callow, Jamie Murphy and Steve Barrett one goal each. Barrett, Kunz and Mann had three assists apiece, McGann two and Geary, Callow, Murphy, A.J. Carthas, Gallagher, Jason Fennelly and Carl Dobbins one each.

In Greater Boston League action Quincy walloped South Boston, 10-1, with Geary having a hat trick, Carthas and Kunz two goals apiece and Callow, Mann and Gallagher one each. Kunz and Murphy had two assists each and Callow, Geary, Carthas, Jim Keegan, Eric Griffin, R.J. DiMattia and Dan Boylen one each.

• St. Ann's Hockey

Karlberg's Hat Trick Paces Ideal, 6-3

Ideal Elevator defeated Colonial Federal, 6-3, in the Pee Wee Division of St. Ann's Youth Hockey League.

Kevin Karlberg had a hat trick and three assists, Peter Sommers two goals and an assist and Tim Hunter a goal. Sean Dean had two goals and an assist and Bo Smith a goal and assist for Colonial Federal.

Keohane's topped Goodhue's, 6-3, with Derick Moody having a hat trick, Dan Campbell two goals and Joe Schlicte a goal. Sean Dean, Jamie Macomber and Josh Macomber each had a goal and assist for Goodhue's.

In Bantam Division action M & I and the Bruins tied, 1-1, with Joe Puliafico scoring for M & I and Joe Tosoni for the Bruins.

Lydon-Russell and Plaza Olds also played to a 1-1 tie with Mike Noonan scoring for Lydon and Mike Pederson for Plaza.

'Not Now Darling' First For New Quincy Dinner Theater

The first production of the new Quincy Center Dinner Theatre will be Not Now Darling, a frothy British comedy, on Feb. 20, 21, 26 and 27 with a matinee Feb. 28 at the Masonic Temple on Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Evening performances start at 8:45 p.m., preceded by a social hour at 6:30 p.m. and dinner, with a choice of two entrees, at 7:30 p.m. Tickets, which include dinner and the show, are $22.50.

Sunday, Feb. 28 matinees start at 3 p.m. with dinner at 1:30 p.m. Those tickets are $17.50.

MADELON FINNEGAN

To make reservations call 843-5862. The theater seats 300 people for dinner and there is free parking.

"We've been doing this show off and on for 12 years and it still cracks even us up," commented producer George Stevens.

Over the years, Darling Productions has employed hundreds of actors and stage technicians from South Shore towns and Boston.

The cast for Not Now Darling, all theatrical veterans, includes Stevens and his wife Tommie of Braintree, Molly Hochkeppel of Cohasset, Skip Maloney and Pam Rich of South Weymouth and Madelon Finnegan of North Andover.

Also featured are Jim Leonard of Hingham, Rose Martinez of Marshfield, Tom Maloney of Taunton and Greg Bazaz of Stoughton.

The play takes place in an elegant London fur salon. It is a nicely naughty mix of champagne, shenanigans, mistaken identities and mink.

It is the producer's philosophy to keep things light after dinner. The company's repertoire includes British and American farce, Neil Simon and other mainstream comedies plus an occasional musical.

The opening season will also include Neil Simon's Last of the Red Hot Lovers March 19, 20, 25, 26 with a Sunday matinee March 27.

The final show will be D.L. Coburn's Pulitzer Prize-winning Gin Game April 23, 24, 29, 30 and Sunday matinee May 1.

The company will begin a new year-long season in the fall which will include longer runs of each production.

Reservations for all shows are available at 843-5862. Visa and Mastercard are accepted, and tickets may be picked up at Darling Productions, 654 Rear Washington St., Braintree.

Former Quincy Girl Questioner In UNH Presidential Debate

Rachel Horn, of Plymouth, formerly of Quincy and a freshman at the University of New Hampshire, was one of seven students who asked the Democratic presidential candidates questions during a televised debate at the university Jan. 24.

Rachel, who attended Lincoln Hancock School and Central Middle School in Quincy before receiving a four-year scholarship to Notre Dame Academy in Hingham, asked Missouri Rep. Richard Gephardt about the trade deficit. She was one of seven U.N.H. students to ask various questions to the Democratic presidential hopefuls.

The debate, the first time the seven candidates had appeared together in New Hampshire, was televised nationally on PBS.

Rachel is on the Dean's List at U.N.H. with a 4.0 average in the Honors Program.

Clare Annswell's Starscope

WEEK OF: February 11

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
You're a humanitarian, and originality is your middle name. Some original ideas can lead to a financial bonanza over the next six months. In romance, however, a more traditional view point may be accented. Education and travel are highlighted over the coming 12 months.

AQUARIUS – January 21 - February 19
Professional roadblock can be removed, provided you focus attention on the problem. Balance is essential in relationships. You may take on a new role in the community.

PISCES – February 20 - March 20
Mystery person becomes less mysterious. Boring assignment becomes more challenging. A sound financial review is important. Support for your plans comes from an unexpected source.

ARIES – March 21 - April 20
Your ideas meet with an interesting – although unexpected – response. This is not the week for being shy about promoting your own talents. Children can prove good friends at this time.

TAURUS – April 21 - May 22
Schedules are rearranged frequently during a hectic, although productive, week. Make a point of issuing reminders about outstanding debts. Information exchanged now can be beneficial to both parties.

GEMINI – May 23 - June 21
A relationship with a member of the opposite sex improves gradually, thanks to a mutual willingness to see the other's viewpoint. Arriving guest may stay longer than you realized.

CANCER – June 22 - July 22
Household matters require prompt attention. Partner may be under unexpected pressure; you may be wisest to keep a low profile. A minor financial difficulty should be dealt with without delay.

LEO – July 23 - August 22
Self-confidence soars, leading you to say what's on your mind. Competition heats up at the workplace. Health improvement schemes should be put into practice.

VIRGO – August 23 - September 22
Series of coincidences occurs through the week. Promises made at this time are binding ones. Older friend counts on you to help out, but may be a little shy about asking.

LIBRA – September 23 - October 22
Good week for planning social or business functions; your organizational skills are especially noteworthy. You may be joining a club at this time. Check guarantees when making purchases.

SCORPIO – October 23 - November 21
Your success rate on the job may be higher than usual. Family functions require some diplomatic skills. You may find yourself experimenting with various creative media.

SAGITTARIUS – November 22 - December 22
A quiet newcomer to the workplace or neighborhood may gradually win you over. You have a knack for motivating others. Moody friend becomes more sociable.

CAPRICORN – December 23 - January 20
Week may include a possibility for earning some extra cash. In domestic areas, you realize a small but important personal victory. Early spring cleaning may lead to discoveries.

BORN THIS WEEK

PRAYER OF APPLICATION TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit you who solve all problems, who light all roads so that I can attain my goal, you who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and who in all instances of my life are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you and even in spite of all material illusion I wish to be with you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy towards me and mine. Repeat this prayer 3 consecutive days. After 3 days the favor will be granted even though it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after favor is granted without mentioning the favor.

Sewer Fee Family Cost About $95

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

A typical Quincy family of four could expect a bill of about $95 this year if a sewer user fee proposed by the mayor is passed by the City Council, according to David Colton, Deputy DPW Commissioner.

Earlier estimates had been $64.34 for such a family, but that amount was increased Tuesday after the city received the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority's estimated assessments for fiscal 1989.

The total sewer assessment for the city is estimated to be $3,949,217, up 48.13 percent from last year, and the water assessment $1,824,967, up 36.6 percent from last year.

The increases are less than the system average of 49.5 percent for sewer assessments and 39.85 percent for water assessments. They are attributed to the cost of cleaning up Boston Harbor and Quincy Bay.

"I'm not really surprised at the increase," said Mayor Francis McCauley. "They (the MWRA) had warned us that the rates were going up."

However, McCauley did say that the increase was some $200,000 more than he had expected.

"We needed the sewer user fee before, this makes a better argument for it," he said.

In his inaugural address last month, McCauley had said that he was proposing the sewer user fee reluctantly.

For many years, the small residential commercial owner paid sewer fees as part of the property tax, he said.

But the rising MWRA assessments are too much for the city to absorb during Prop. 2½ budgets, he said.

Up until now, only major industrial users have paid separate sewer bills.

If approved by the council, the fee would go into effect July 1.

The amounts would be divided into two charges sent out with water bills to residents twice a year.

Other typical bills using the MWRA's estimated assessments are: senior citizen, $30; single person, $42; one adult and two children, $70; 30-unit apartment building, $1,849; and a large office building, $10,655, according to David Colton, deputy DPW commissioner.

The actual MWRA assessment is expected to be very close to the estimate.

"Last year, it was within a couple hundred dollars," said Coltin.

McCauley noted that he submitted legislation last December to have the state pick up half of the MWRA's assessment.

"The 43 communities (served by the MWRA) just can't take this kind of thing," said McCauley.

"The state should step in as it did with the MBTA.

"The MWRA assessments are really going to escalate," said McCauley. "They say this is going to happen again next year, that's what scares me.

"A clean harbor will benefit everyone, but the financial responsibility is falling on the cities.

"Maybe the bill I submitted won't pass this year, but I'll keep filing it."

Snow Fighting Cost $460,333

It has cost Quincy a total of $460,333 so far this winter to fight the season's six snow storms, $160,333 over what the city had budgeted.

And some bills are still coming in.

"But there's not much you can do about it," said Mayor Francis McCauley.

"You have to plow the streets.

"The ice and snow storms are particularly bad because you also have to sand and salt the roads.

"But we've done pretty well, so far."

The city had budgeted $300,000 for snow removal.

Last Friday's storm, which started out as snow and turned to rain, resulted in the closing of school and a number of businesses.

McCauley said the difference between the snow removal budget and costs will either be charged to next year's tax rate or taken from any year end surplus.

In recent years, the city has not had to add it to the tax rate, he said.

A total of $536,172.17 was spent for snow removal in 1987, according to City Auditor Robert Foy.

In fiscal 1986, only $197,456.74 was spent, he said, and in 1985, $337,819.95.

McCauley Cuts $237,957 More

The mayor continued trimming the proposed budgets of city departments Tuesday as he cut a total of $237,957 during the second session number.

A total of $20,898,611 had been requested by seven departments as well as debt service and unclassified accounts, according to Mayor Francis McCauley.

The departments were Clerk, Election and License Board; Data Processing, Plumbing and Gas; Weights and Measures; Wire, Library, Recreation.

The requests broke down to $20,794,841 in general funds and $103,770 in capital outlay, he said.

Cuts were made in personal services, $134,617; expense, $31,540; and capital outlay, $71,800, according to McCauley.

A total of $20,660,654 was approved. That includes $20,628,684 in general funds and $31,970 in capital outlay, he said.

At the first budget session, a total of $208,777 was cut from the proposed budgets of

Cheney Sees No Vote On Sewer Fee Until Mid-March

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Ordinance Committee chairman Michael Cheney said he does not think a vote will be taken until mid-March on the mayor's proposal for a sewer user fee which was to be again discussed at Tuesday night's meeting.

"I had hoped a vote could be taken in February," said Cheney, "but the councillors had more questions and already requested more information on the fee."

"I understand fully why the mayor proposed it, and it may very well be needed this year.

"But we won't know until all the information is in."

Mayor Francis McCauley proposed the sewer user fee last month to pay for the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority's rising assessments due to the cleanup of Boston Harbor and Quincy Bay.

"We have requested a number of things from the city auditor," said Cheney, who represents Ward 1.

He also said he would like from the commissioner of public works a set of rules governing the sewer user fee.

"The concerns I have are that it is not specified who can abate, or whether there will be abatements," said Cheney.

"Since we are looking at sewer fees as high as $1,000 in the next 10 years, that's too much power for a DPW commissioner to abate someone's sewer bill without setting up any form of process that can be scrutinized by public officials and the general public.

"If someone has a water leak at their house, and they use several hundred cubic feet of water, currently the DPW commissioner can abate that individual's water bill," he explained.

Cheney also brought up the possibility of hardship cases.

"From projections I've seen, everyone will be a hardship case," he said.

Cheney said he thinks the state should assist communities.

"They subsidized the MBTA," he said, "they should be subsidizing the MWRA."

Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley said he thinks the city has the financial resources to delay the sewer user fee for a year.

"I'm against removing the sewer fee from the tax rate at this point," said Nutley. "We're moving too fast.

"It's too expensive a proposition to rush through, too devastating for people, and not just homeowners.

"Landlords will pass on the fee to renters," he said.

Nutley noted that when the sewer fee is removed from the property tax, it is no longer deductible on income taxes.

Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan said he would like to see every other avenue exhausted before he votes on a sewer fee.

"I wouldn't want to see the city end up with a surplus, then place another tax on homeowners," he said.

"In the long run, we will probably have to vote for this, but I'd like to see every avenue exhausted first."

Others such as Ward 2 Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro and Councillor at Large Timothy Cahill said they would like more information on the sewer user fee before they cast a vote.

George Riley Named QCBPA Executive Director

George R. Riley has been named executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

Announcement was made by Association President Robert J. Quinn following a meeting of the Board of Directors.

Riley succeeds Kenneth P. Fallon, Jr. who retired in January.

Riley has been a member of the QCBPA and a member of its board of directors for several years.

He has had 27 years experience in the insurance business as founder and president of the Riley and Rielly Insurance Agency of Quincy.

Riley has relinquished his management responsibilities at Riley and Rielly following the implementation of an agency perpetuation plan creating a change of ownership in the agency.

The Riley and Rielly Agency was started 27 years ago in Riley's former home on Moffat Rd., Quincy and has grown to be ranked in 1987 by the Insurance Times as the 40th largest insurance agency in New England.

GEORGE R. RILEY

Riley was city purchasing agent from 1968 to 1971 during Mayor James R McIntyre's administration and executive secretary to Mayor Arthur Tobin from 1978 to 1980.

He was chairman of the Mayor's Cable Television Selection Committee in 1981 and founding chairman of the Quincy Community Television from 1982 to 1984.

"I guess I am an individual who gets restless every few years looking for a change and new challenges," Riley said. "I have always enjoyed being involved with the city of Quincy and look to serving in this position with the QCBPA with excitement because of all the new development plans in downtown Quincy."

Riley is a graduate of North Quincy High School and Boston College. He is past president of the Quincy Lions Club and past president of the Braintree-Quincy Independent Insurance Agents Association. He is a member of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce and has served as its annual outing event chairman for the past 20 years.

Riley is married to the former Mary P. Callahan. They have four grown sons, Mark, Scott, Kirk and Paul, and live in Quincy.

Ward 1 Democrats To Caucus

Registered Democrats in Ward 1 will hold a caucus Saturday, Feb. 27 at 2 p.m. at the Houghs Neck Community Center, 1193 Sea St., to elect delegates to the 1988 Massachusetts Democratic Convention.

Ward 1 Acting Chairman is Leo Kelly.

Ward 1 will elect 10 delegates and two alternates divided between men and women to send to the convention. The apportioned number of delegates has been allotted on the basis of a formula giving equal weight to the Democratic Party registration and the average vote for democratic candidates in the last general elections for governor and president for which figures were available at the time delegate tabulations were prepared.

The caucus is open to all registered Democrats, persons ineligible to register and media representatives.

The only persons eligible to participate in any portion of the caucus are those who are registered Democrats in Ward 1 as of Dec. 30, 1987. There will be no absentee or proxy voting.

Candidates for delegate and alternate must be present voting and give his or her written consent to be nominated and that nomination must be seconded by two persons present at the local caucus.

McCauley Calls City-MWRA Sludge Plant Agreement 'Very Fair'

"I think it's a very fair agreement," said Mayor Francis McCauley of the terms agreed upon by the city and the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority which will site an interim sludge treatment plant at the Fore River Shipyard.

Under terms of the agreement, signed in January but only announced last week, Quincy will receive some $1.6 million annually when treatment of interim sludge begins at the yard, according to McCauley.

That could be in 1989, but more likely it will be 1990, he said.

The MWRA purchased the yard last summer for $49 million.

The $1.6 million figure includes:

- Not less than $1 million annually for the duration of the interim processing at the FRSA.
- $260,000 annually from 1989 to 1995 for costs in monitoring and managing motor vehicle traffic associated with, or affected by, the authority's programs.
- $250,000 annually as compensation for fire protection services for the FRSA.
- $100,000 annually for engineering, consulting and legal advice concerning MWRA projects.

Noting that the availability of the FRSA for interim sludge processing has already saved the MWRA $2 million from the original cost estimate, the authority agreed to annually grant to the city one-third of the amount saved in excess of $2 million.

"That could be a real bonanza for the city," McCauley said.

"It could mean substantial money once the operation gets going."

The sludge material will be barged to the General Dynamics Shipyard, treated, and then taken out by rail or barge, not trucked through the streets, McCauley noted.

There will also be a staging area at the yard for the Deer Island Sewage Treatment Facility and some of that material may have to be trucked over the city's streets, he said.

In response to a question, McCauley said the agreement does not provide for the MWRA to reduce its sewer assessment to the city.

"They don't feel that is legally proper," explained McCauley.

"They might have to do that for other places as well," he said.

McCauley has proposed a separate sewer user fee because of rising assessments by the MWRA to pay for the cleanup of Boston Harbor and Quincy Bay.

The proposal is under consideration by the City Council.

The mayor said that no deal has been made with the MWRA for permanent siting of the sludge facility in Quincy.

"The MWRA has invited communities to make bids and has said it will give substantial mitigation.

"Our consultants are looking into it.

"We are strongly opposed to incineration.

"But we could make a presentation in eight to 10 weeks to see what kind of a deal Quincy could make for a permanent sludge treatment plant," McCauley said.

Could the city afford the loss of revenue if it does not bid for the permanent sludge plant?

"It's not a major amount," the mayor answered.

"A lot of the shipyard will be phased into private use,'-' be phased into private use," said McCauley. "We can pick up (tax) money from there."

Also under terms of the agreement, the sludge will be processed by Bio Gro Systems and Enviro-Gro Technologies inside buildings, not in the open. There will be no incineration.

In addition, the MWRA plans to establish a comprehensive job training program for both students and adults for jobs available or anticipated at the shipyard or other MWRA facilities.

The authority intends to advertise all employment opportunities at the facility in a local newspaper and will hold periodic job fairs in the city.

Redevelopment of the portions of the shipyard which the MWRA does not need is also planned, with emphasis on water-dependent activities and replacement of job opportunities.

Volunteers Needed For Boston Harbor Monitoring Program

The Boston Harbor Monitoring Program, which has been testing Boston Harbor for one year and recently expanded into Quincy Bay, needs volunteers to test the harbor in the Quincy-Houghs Neck area on shore or by boat.

This 10-year study is compiling data on Boston Harbor in an effort to ensure an effective harbor cleanup.

Training in the use of water monitoring equipment is provided. Scheduling is flexible and the time commitment is only two hours per month.

In addition, volunteers are needed to help keep track of the fish in Boston Harbor. Recreational fishermen are asked to fill out a fish survey when they go fishing, recording the healthy or sick fish caught.

By doing so, scientists hope to get a better understanding of fish populations in the harbor. This survey, co-sponsored by the New England Aquarium, will not be used to restrict fishing activity.

For more information on working for a clean Boston Harbor, call the Massachusetts Audubon Society in Boston at 367-1026.

Future Plans For Blue Hills Meeting Topic

The public was invited by the Metropolitan District Commission to participate in the future plans of the Blue Hills Reservation at a meeting scheduled at the Trailside Museum for Wednesday, Feb. 17 at 7 p.m.

The Blue Hills Planning Team has begun the Master Planning process for the reservation. This process is necessary in order to properly manage an area as large and diverse as the Blue Hills Reservation, and to strike a balance between protecting the natural resources and providing passive recreational opportunities.

A Citizen's Advisory Committee, formed by the MDC and made up of citizens who act as advisors to the agency, has been working with the Planning Team to decide which issues should be addressed in the plan. The public meeting on Feb. 17 was designed to seek community review of these issues and to gather input regarding other topics which may not have been considered in the planning process.

MDC Commissioner William J. Geary opened the meeting with an introduction to the MetroParks system.

Some of the issues included in the Master Plan are trail use, signage, wildlife habitat, water resources and historic sites.

The Trailside Museum is located at 1904 Canton Ave. (Route 138), Milton and is handicapped accessible. For more information, call the MDC's Blue Hills Reservation at 698-1802.

Durkin And . . . ?

Politician watchers are beginning to wonder about the lack of action in the race for the vacant Second Norfolk District state representative seat.

The race, at this writing, isn't even a walk.

No official candidates yet for the seat left by Thomas Brownell to accept appointment by Gov. Michael Dukakis as an associate justice at Plymouth District Court.

DURKIN

Political observers thought that by now there would at least be a hat or bonnet in the ring. Since there are several potential candidates.

But, the first official announcement may be coming shortly from School Committeeman Steve Durkin.

Durkin, whose name has popped up and popped down in the Second Norfolk District picture, like a toaster, reportedly has decided to make the run.

He has been mentioned as a candidate and then as not a candidate a number of times since before and after Brownell's appointment.

But now, the word is that he definitely will be a candidate regardless of who else decides to run.

Durkin has lived in Ward 3 the past five years and before that was a resident of Ward 5 for 25 or so years.

He lives in Precinct 2 in Ward 3 which was the old precinct line and is the new one.

Durkin is in his second term on the School Committee.

KELLY

Former Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly long ago said he was going to run for the seat but has made no official announcement as yet.

City Council President Patricia Toland has said she will run. But no official announcement yet.

Steve Tobin, son of former Mayor-Senator Arthur Tobin has indicated he will run. But no announcement there yet, either.

TOLAND

Former Ward 3 Councillor John Lydon has hinted he might make the run but it would be no big surprise if he didn't.

Durkin would affect Toland who lives in Ward 5 where Durkin grew up. He would also affect Lydon if Lydon decided to run.

Young Tobin who lives in Ward 1 would affect Kelly in the vote department there.

Durkin reportedly feels the seat is wide open and plans to make an all-out run for it. He would have to be considered as a threat to anyone else in the race.

The primary election, of course, isn't until September so there is ample time for candidates to prepare official statements. But then, spring is only 31 days away and before you know it will be the Fourth of July and bang - Labor Day.

The consensus is that the primary election will be the main event and the final election in November hardly more than an exercise.

Observers feel the winner of the Democratic primary will be the winner of the final election. They see little chance of a Republican winning the seat.

Denis Fardo, president of the Quincy Tenant Organization, is one Republican, however, who disagrees. He is thinking of making the run.

McCAULEY

And, if you really want to hear a wild one, there's speculation that another Republican might get in — Francis X. McCauley.

Now, that's pretty wild. Absurd. Ridiculous. You gotta be kidding, etc. etc.

But, you can never be sure in love, war or politics. Especially politics.

McCauley is now in his fourth and what many think will be his last term as Mayor.

So, if he ran for state representative and won he wouldn't take his seat until January, 1989 which would leave him only one year left as mayor.

He probably could serve out the year and step down. Or resign.

As a Republican, McCauley has been elected school committeeman, city councillor, and mayor in a Democratic controlled city. But city elections are non-partisan.

Could he run as a Republican for state representative and win? He'd be a strong candidate.

McCauley has indicated in the past that he would like to serve in state government but he was probably thinking more of something like lieutenant governor.

Okay, so it's ridiculous to even think he might run for the Brownell seat.

But it has some people thinking otherwise.

Ah, politics. Never a dull moment.

Irate Over Closing Of Point Middle School

(The writer of the following letter submitted a copy to The Quincy Sun for publication.)

Dear Mayor McAuley,

I am an irate and upset citizen and taxpayer of Quincy Point.

My family has lived here practically all of our lives. When we returned you to office as mayor we had hoped that something good would be done for Quincy Point, evidently we were wrong.

First the Condo's were allowed to be built at the end of our street, which we fought against, then after trying to save our shipyard, a sludge plant is going in there, and now the closing of Point Middle School.

A great injustice has been done to the children and parents of Quincy Point. How can we explain to our children as to why you lied to them in telling them that their schools would not be closed? How can they trust anyone in public office even Dr. Ricci or the School Committee?

I hope none of you will ever have to hear the muffled sobs or see the tears in your children's eyes as their principal tells them that after June their school will no longer exist.

Dr. Ricci claims that they will be offered a better education and a variety of subjects. Why couldn't that be done while still at Point? Why are all the schools in Quincy Point getting the axe? Is Daniel Webster next?

For many of these children this is the fourth move, not to their choice. Compassion for your fellow-man I suppose flies out the window once you are elected to a public office.

Supports Proposed QJC-Massasoit Merger

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

In regard to the proposed merger of Quincy Junior College with Massasoit Community College, I am writing as a taxpayer, parent of college age young people and as a former Blue Hills Technical Institute employee now employed at Massasoit Community College, Canton campus.

Ideally for the City of Quincy a 14th community college would be wonderful, but I think the legislature has made it clear that this will not happen. It is time for city officials of Quincy to speak up about Quincy Junior College. President Johnson states that Quincy Junior College is a self supporting institution, but I have seen evidence to the contrary. If it is self-supporting, why are the custodians, maintenance and various other employees paid by Quincy Public Schools?

I have been directly involved with a college where tuition was skyrocketing, threatening enrollment. The school was unable to provide many services to students that they deserved because of the cost factor. At this point a proposed merger between the Blue Hills Technical Institute and Massasoit Community College came to fruition. The merger made it possible for many students to be able to afford to go to college, many paying their own tuition at the substantially lower rate, or receiving financial aid.

The State of Massachusetts, with its commitment to education, is able to provide a vast amount of services and resources to students that they may not receive at Quincy Junior College. Counseling, clubs, financial aid, Fine Arts, second language programs, child care and free tuition to Senior Citizens are just a few.

From what I have read and heard, the Quincy School Committee would never agree to a merger if the college were to be taken out of the City. The City of Quincy should have a college within its boundaries.

It is time for the politicians of this city to move together in a positive direction to attain long term affordable education for all its citizens in an atmosphere that will allow for growth, stability and educational excellence.

McCauley Cuts $237,957 More From Budget Requests

14 city departments.

The third budget session is scheduled for Friday, Feb. 19, when the Retirement, Fire, Building Inspector, Police and related budgets will be reviewed.

One of the largest departments, Public Works, as well as the City Council will be reviewed the week of Feb. 22, according to McCauley.

He said he expected to complete his original review of department budgets by the end of the month.

Department heads had requested a total of $112,795,004 for fiscal 1989, up $16,736,744 from the 1988 budget of $96,058,260 approved by the City Council last May.

After receiving the so-called Cherry Sheets which list state aid and assessments, the mayor said he will aim to submit his budget to the City Council by April 4.

By law, it is due the first Monday in May, he said.

Future For Recycling Bright, Says Chretien

"The future for recycling in Quincy is bright," said Lawrence Chretien, chairman of the newly appointed City Recycling Committee which recently held its first meeting at City Hall.

The next meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, Feb. 24, at 8 a.m. in the second floor conference room.

"Everything went super," said Chretien, also a newly elected city councillor.

"I'm very enthusiastic about our prospects.

"We have a broad representation and expertise among members who are very enthusiastic."

Mayor Francis McCauley addressed the seven-member group.

Also attending the meeting was Barbara Cropf of the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering (DEQE).

Composting of organic materials such as leaves and yard clippings, was among the main topics discussed, he said.

The material would be collected and put into a certain area, probably Quincy's landfill, where it would eventually turn into soil conditioner which could be sold, according to Chretien.

The landfill was closed by the DEQE last spring, but Quincy officials hope to reopen it.

The state can provide some money for composting start-up costs, he said, and the committee would like to see the program in place for next fall.

Method for picking up the leaves and other debris at the curb is still to be worked out, according to Chretien.

He noted that such materials are among the heavier portions of trash which Quincy now pays to have hauled out of the city, so composting would save part of that expense.

Recycling of paper and then other items of solid waste was also discussed, according to Chretien.

An intensive education program about recycling will also be planned, he said.

"We want to let people know what the problems are, and what the solutions are," Chretien said.

Council On Aging To Honor 3 Residents

The Quincy Council on Aging will honor three Quincy residents for their longtime service to the senior citizens of Quincy Thursday, Feb. 25.

Those to be honored are Mrs. Theresa Whitaker, Mrs. Mary MacLean, and Kendall Kiely.

The citations will be presented at the annual meeting of the Council on Aging to be held at 2 p.m. in the City Hall Council Chambers.

Proceedings of the meeting will be televised live for the first time on Quincy Community Television's government Ch. 53.

The agenda will also include the presentation of the council's annual report by Brian Buckley who has served as Council Coordinator for the past seven years. Buckley has recently been promoted to the position of assistant director of the Quincy Parks, Forestry and Cemetery Department.

Thomas Koch, newly appointed full-time executive director of the council, will be introduced to the 15 members of the Council on Aging Board.

There will be remarks by city and state officials followed by the election of officers for 1988. The public is invited to attend the meeting.

13,000 Shipyard Workers On Strike

Feb. 17-23, 1960

28 Years Ago

A strike of some 13,000 workers at the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s Fore River Shipyard entered its third week with Quincy and the South Shore beginning to feel the pinch of the loss of a $2 million weekly payroll.

Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa asked the state to reimburse Quincy for its share of money paid to veterans during the strike, payments which amounted to $15,696 between Feb. 5 and Feb. 17.

The Shipbuilding Workers Union informed the U.S. Navy it would not permit its members to do any work whatsoever on the $35 million cruiser Springfield, which was 95 percent completed at the Yard.

The Navy had asked the union for its help in moving the missile cruiser from Fore River to the Boston Navy Yard for completion.

Anchovy Sauce

A Different Way To Serve Pasta

Looking for a different way to serve pasta? How about an anchovy sauce? So quick you can have the spaghetti on the table within 20 minutes. While the water is boiling, the sauce is simmering. Here is my easy tried and true recipe.

ANCHOVY SAUCE

2 two-ounce cans anchovy fillets
1 cup olive oil
2 garlic cloves, minced
2 Tbsps butter
1/2 cup finely chopped fresh parsley
1 tsp of basil (optional)
black pepper to taste

Combine the oil and butter and saute the garlic for about five minutes. Add the anchovies with their oil, the parsley, basil and pepper. Simmer for about 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. This recipe makes about 3 cups of sauce enough for a pound of any kind of pasta from linguine to spaghetti.

Leanlines Program Intro At Quincy Hospital Feb. 24

Quincy City Hospital will offer a free introductory session on the Leanlines Program Wednesday, Feb. 24, at 7 p.m. in the Gordon House conference room, on the hospital grounds, 120 Whitwell St.

The Leanlines Program is designed to teach individuals how to conquer a weight problem, and maintain a healthy weight through proper eating and activity.

As part of the program, individuals learn to identify their own problem-eating behavior. Working with Jane Becker, Registered Dietician, and director of the Leanlines Program, participants will develop a personalized weight loss plan.

In group sessions, individuals learn how to approach restaurant dining, how to modify behavior in the face of stressful situations, how to shop and cook for a healthy diet, and how to incorporate exercise into their daily routine.

Individual fitness evaluations and counseling, as well as a two-month fitness membership, are provided to candidates at a reduced rate.

"What is exceptional about the Leanlines Program," according to Miss Becker, is "its incorporation of the expertise of a registered dietician for nutrition counseling, and a certified exercise physiologist for fitness evaluation. Thus the participants are provided with a program which controls calorie intake, burns calories, and enhances fat loss while preserving lean muscle."

For additional information about the Leanlines Program at Quincy City Hospital, contact Jane Becker, 773-6100, ext. 4027.

South Shore Red Cross Region Presents Recognition Awards

The American Red Cross South Shore Region recently held its annual volunteer recognition ceremony at the Neighborhood Club, 27 Glendale Rd., Quincy.

Awards and special citations were awarded to numerous volunteers honoring their many years of dedicated service. Media awards and fundraising awards were also presented.

Ron Sanders, of WNEV Channel 7, was a special guest.

Mildred Ambrosia received the Clara Barton Honor Award. Given for meritorious volunteer leadership, Ambrosia was honored for her 47 years of volunteering, which began during World War II when she knitted for servicemen. A former member of the Greater Quincy Chapter of Board of Directors, she is now a member of the South Shore Region Board.

Ambrosia is also blood chairman for bloodmobiles conducted in Quincy, Braintree and Weymouth. During bloodmobiles, she schedules all volunteers for every visit and spends the entire day at each bloodmobile.

Mary Heffernan and Faith Bowker were recipients of special citations for exceptional volunteer service.

Heffernan was honored for serving as chairman of the transportation program and for her many years of volunteer service.

Bowker was honored for serving as disaster chairman for the Scituate-Norwell chapter and for her 15 years of volunteer service.

Carol Graf, Norma Kelley, Irene Mall and Pauline Sullivan received volunteer staff awards for their many contributions in time of need.

Media awards were presented to Maurice Reardon of the Patriot Ledger, Herb Fontaine of WJDA radio and Henry Bosworth, editor and publisher of The Quincy Sun.

Jerry Dacey and Dorothy Dignan were presented fundraising awards for their performances as co-chairmen of the 1986 and 1987 dinner dances.

Grey Ladies awards were presented to Emily Askland (25 years, 7500 hours of service), Bernice Cutler, (25 years, 6500 hours) and Pearl Quint, (30 hours, 5500 hours).

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK
If Abraham Lincoln were alive today, the Government would include him statistically - (because he had less than six years of formal education) - among the "functional illiterates." This is one measure of the difference between our age and his. His now has a storybook aura; the log cabin is almost as exotic as a pagoda ...
Abraham Lincoln's name will be on the lips of many this week. They will speak of his victory over poverty and ignorance ... of saving the Union and freeing the slaves ... of honest, humble and courageous deeds ... All treasures of history.
But the striving, even more than the obstacles overcome, which makes Lincoln's life relevant today, guided as our own age is by a world extension of his dream of national unity and peace.
The Lincoln of the log cabin and even the Lincoln of the White House are beautiful, stirring pictures in history; but Lincoln the man is, as ever, a bountiful spirit for our present age and for the ages to come ...

Lenten Retreat At St. John's Tuesdays

A special Lenten retreat for all youths and adults will be conducted on four Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m. during Lent at St. John's Church, Quincy Center, by Brother Joseph LaGressa, O.F.M.

Dates and themes for the Masses:

Feb. 23, "Loosen-up Being all that we should be!"

March 1, "Stress: taking time to look at ourselves and our lives."

March 8, "Open your eyes recognizing God's prescience in ourselves and others."

March 15, "Take a look at me now, am I all that I'm called to be?"

A Penance Service, "Reconciliation: How do you spell relief," will be held Wednesday, March 23 at 7:30 p.m.

The cleric, who is popular with youth groups and is noted for the types of retreats he conducts, is presently director of youth ministry and religious education at St. Ann's Parish in Neponset.

He is conversant with many of the problems confronting today's youth based on his experiences on the streets of New York City, the Covenant House, high school teaching, religious education, CYO, and youth ministry.

He was born and raised in Brooklyn, N.Y. He graduated from Bishop Ford High school in 1964 and began his studies for the Franciscan life by entering St. Francis Seminary in August of that year.

He entered the novitiate in 1967 and took his first vows Aug. 16, 1968. He went on to continue his studies and received a bachelor of arts in philosophy degree from Immaculate Conception Seminary, Troy, N.H. He also received a B.A. degree in religious education from Siena College, Londville, N.Y.

In 1971 he made his solemn profession of vows as a Franciscan brother.

'The Anatomy Of Temptation' Lenten Sermon At Bethany

On the first Sunday in Lent, Feb. 21, there will be two worship services at Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center.

The chapel service is held at 9 a.m. and the sanctuary service at 10 a.m.

The Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will preach the sermon entitled "The Anatomy of Temptation" at both hours. The sermon is based on the temptation of Jesus in the wilderness as recorded in the Gospel of Matthew 3:13 - 4:11.

Lay scripture readers will be Linda Massey at the early service and Lena Foster at the late service. The Rev. Joel F. Huntington, associate minister, will be the liturgist at both services.

At the 10 a.m. service the Chancel Choir will sing as the offertory anthem Bach's "O Lamb of God, Most Stainless." Bethany's organist, Peter F. Krasinski, will play as a special presentation the unusual composition by Olivier Messiaen, "Apparition de l'Eglise Eternelle," a vision of the eternal Church.

The worship service is broadcast "live" direct from Bethany's sanctuary at 10 a.m. over radio station WJDA, 1300 kc. In addition, a cassette tape of the service can be obtained at cost for $2 by contacting the church office.

Sunday School will be in session from 10 to 11 a.m. with classes for children from pre-school through eighth grade. Nursery care for babies is also provided as well as a toddler class for young children. Bethany's professional early childhood coordinator, Pamela Ford Curran, will supervise the care of infants through first graders.

At 11 a.m., there will be a fellowship hour in the Allen Parlor. Individuals and families from the community are welcome to attend and share in the worship and fellowship, and to enroll children in the Sunday School.

From 11:30 to 12:30, an open adult discussion group will meet in the upstairs Ladies' Parlor, and a light lunch and child care is provided. The topic is "Koinonia Christian Community" and the group is led by Jerry and Lisa Birr.

There will be a Lenten Devotional Service Wednesday, Feb. 24, at 7 a.m. in Bethany Chapel. The topic is "The Twelve Christ Chose," examining the lives and ministry of the Apostles and the meaning of discipleship today. Following the 30-minute service a light continental breakfast will be served in the Parish Hall. Both the worship service and breakfast are open to the public and people can stop for school or work by 7:45 a.m.

For information concerning Bethany's ministries and programs, contact the church office, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at 479-7300.

'God's Covenant' Sermon Topic At Wollaston Congregational

Rev. Elden D.J. Zuern will preach on the theme "God's Covenant: The Rainbow" at Wollaston Congregational Church.

This will be the lay scripture reader will be Mrs. Fran Martin and the acolyte David Maurielo. Greeters will be Mr. and Mrs. Christian Holler and ushers Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pinel.

Prior to the service a hymn sing will be held at 9:45 a.m. in the sanctuary led by organist-choir director, Donald Reade. The Handchime Choir will play two hymn arrangements during the worship service. The music has been provided by a memorial donation to the Special Music Fund in memory of Mrs. Dorothy Dunbrack, who at the time of her death was co-chairman of the music committee.

Nursery care for infants and toddlers is provided by experienced teachers. Church school classes are held for grades 1-12.

Members and friends are minvited to enjoy a fellowship hour in the social hall immediately following the service.

The Youth Fellowship will sponsor a family hymn sing and supper Sunday in the social hall.

Donald Reade, church organist will accompany the group.

The Singles and Doubles will hold their first gathering in 1988 Saturday, Feb. 20 in the social hall. Following a pot luck supper at 5 p.m. a contemporary film will be viewed. Ben Thompson a clinical social worker with the Protestant Social Service Bureau, will lead a discussion on the issues featured in the film.

World Service Sunday At United First Parish Church

Members of the congregation of United First Parish Church, "Church of the Presidents," will lead the service Sunday on the theme of World Service.

The service will highlight the work of the Unitarian Universalist Service Committee. Since 1939, the Unitarian Universalist Service Committee, with headquarters in Boston, has worked in countries all over the world to promote human rights and self-determination, provide energy relief, and educate and mobilize people to work for peace and justice.

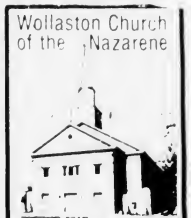
The service is being planned by Brenda Powers and other members of the Church Social Concerns Committee, including Ruth Keating, Mark Sullivan, and Barbara Wiggin. Ruth Keating will open the service and Brenda Powers will lead the congregation in a responsive reading.

Members of the youth group - Zoe Bohl, Lauren Davidson, Alanna Keto, and Stephanie Post - will do readings. Adult participants include David Brice, John Dowd, Bill Fenick and Walter Wrigley, who will read selections from William Ellery Channing, Mohandas K. Gandhi, and Albert Schweitzer.

Mark Sullivan will deliver a sermon, "Mending Broken Windows," written by Rev. John Dewolf Hurt, Jacksonville, Florida. Sheldon W. Berman, minister, will make welcoming remarks, speak to parish concerns, and lead the morning prayer. S. Woollard will end the service with closing words. The service is one of several during the year in which congregation plans and lead the worship.

Norman Corey, choir director, will play two works by Ropartz and Franck. The service begins at 11 a.m. Visitors are welcome and are invited to join in fellowship hour following the service. Church school and child care are provided.

Lent Worship Services At Bethany Church



Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center, will hold a brief worship service in the chapel each Wednesday at 7 a.m. during the season of Lent.

The series of six Lenten services began Ash Wednesday, Feb. 17, and will continue through the Wednesday before Palm Sunday, March 23. Each service will focus around the Lenten theme which this year is that of "The Twelve Christ Chose." Each Wednesday morning a lay member of the congregation will read the Scripture lesson and offer prayer while one of the pastors (or guest clergy) will give the meditation. Following the 30 minute service, there will be a light breakfast provided for by Jean Ann Phinney, Clara MacLean, and William F. Greene.

Topics of the weekly meditations and who will give them are as follows: Feb. 17 - "Peter and Andrew" by Rev. Joel F. Huntington, associate minister of Bethany; Feb. 24 - "James and John" by Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister of Bethany; March 2 - "Philip and Nathanael" by Rev. Linda H. Roberts, formerly minister of the First Congregational Church of Billerica; March 9 - "Matthew and Thomas" by Rev. Elden D.J. Zuern, interim minister of the Wollaston Congregational Church; March 16 - "James and Simon" by Rev. J. William Arnold, and March 23 - "Jude and Judas" by Rev. Joel F. Huntington.

Persons are able to leave for school, work or home by 7:45, or they can linger longer if they like. Persons from both the community at large and from the church are welcome to attend.

Catholic Charities Workshop Feb. 21 at St. John's

Catholic Charities will offer a convening of all Catholic parishes in Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree, Milton, Cohasset, Randolph, Canton, Hingham and Hull on Sunday, Feb. 21 from 2-4:30 p.m. in the downstairs of St. John's Church, Quincy Center.

This workshop is titled "Developing the Parish as a Community of Compassion" and is aimed at pastors, staff and parishioners involved in or interested in becoming involved in parish-based Christian Service, Parish Outreach, Social Ministry, etc.

One of the objectives of the meeting is to affirm and support those parish ministries already happening. They include: volunteers and-or meals to Pine Street Inn, Long Island or Quincy Interfaith Shelter, outreach of homebound or institutionalized elderly, parish-based food pantries, outreach to single parents, outreach to grieving families and many more.

Another objective is to challenge all participants with Bernard Cardinal Law's vision of parish as a "Community of Compassion."

A third objective will be to form a partnership between Catholic Charities and the parishes of the Quincy Vicariate.

Catholic Charities can support those parishes already involved in social ministry as well as those parishes just beginning.

Sheila McIntyre To Speak At Houghs Neck Congregational

Sheila McIntyre will speak on "Quincy's Ministry to the Homeless" at the first of a series of Lenten services in the Houghs Neck Congregational Church, Tuesday Feb. 23 at 7:30 p.m.

McIntyre, second vice-president of the Interfaith Sheltering Coalition has been active in community charitable endeavors.

The Rev. M. Alicia Corea will lead the worship service. Deacon Harold B. Sparks will read the scripture. Ruth Gordon and Edwina Robinson will usher.

Tuesday, March 1, at 7:30 p.m., Dr. Sheldon Bennett, minister of the United First Parish Church will speak on "The History of Religion in Quincy."

Assisting Rev. Corea with the worship service will be Ruth Gordon, Rod Hicks and Norman Straughn.

A fellowship hour with refreshments follows each service. The Diaconate invites all interested people to attend.

Valentine's Day Observed At Squantum First Church

There was no doubt that it was Valentine's Day at the First Church of Squantum Sunday.

To begin with, members met for breakfast in Fellowship Hall, which had been colorfully decorated for the occasion.

Then, after an exchange of valentines, the members all went upstairs to worship together.

All of the hymns had to do with love. These were all accompanied by pianist Janet Williamson and organist Mary Ruth Scott.

Principal scripture passage for the morning was I Corinthians 13. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, preached on the topic, "Wanted: A Love Transfusion."

Greeters for the morning were Sally Johnson and Kate MacRitchie. Ushers were Stewart Scott and Tore Wallin. The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Evelyn Ahearn and Ruth Swenson. A red and white bouquet of flowers on the worship center was given in memory of Ward and Earle Crossman by Katie Crossman.

Wednesday was Ash Wednesday, the beginning of Lent. This year the boards of Deacons and Christian Education are offering a choice of two Lenten programs. On Tuesday nights, beginning Feb. 16, at 7:30 p.m., there will be a discussion of "Contemporary Films and the Christian Faith." The first film to be discussed will be "Stand by Me." The film to be discussed Feb. 23 will be "East of Eden" with James Dean.

On Wednesday nights, beginning Feb. 17, there will be a church supper at 6:30 p.m. followed by a program on "Big Stories in the Old Testament." These programs will be illustrated with videotapes. The programs begin at 7:15 p.m. Interested persons can come to whichever program they choose or both.

Teen-agers thinking about joining the church will meet for the Covenant of Discipleship Sunday at 6:30 p.m. The group is led by the pastor.

This Sunday, Jan. 10, there will be one worship service for all at 10:30 a.m. Sunday School meets during the service and a nursery is provided. The sermon topic this Sunday is "Being Strong When We Are Weak." Visitors are welcome.

Concert Fundraisers To Benefit Catholic Youth Center Renovation

In an effort to raise funds for the renovation of the Catholic Youth Center in West Quincy, the Catholic Youth Apostolate will sponsor two concerts at the E. Paul Robsham Jr. Theatre, Boston College, March 5 and 6 at 8 p.m.

The March 5th concert will feature Dana, a gifted young singer from Derry, Ireland. The March 6th concert will feature Tony Melendez, a young guitarist born without arms, who lives in California.

The Catholic Youth Center, 139 Crescent St., West Quincy, is the central office for youth programs and activities serving thousands of youth in the 408 parishes of the Archdiocese of Boston annually.

Tickets are $20 per person per concert.

Dana is an internationally known recording star who has given Christian concerts all over the world. Tony Melendez played his guitar for Pope John Paul II in Los Angeles in an unforgettable performance during the Pope's trip of the United States last year.

Tickets are available at St. Paul Bookstore in Dedham, the Catholic Youth Center, and Jovenes Catolicos en Action in Boston. Tickets will not be sold at the door.

Church Of Religious Science Holding Services Here

The Church of Religious Science was founded by Dr. Ernest Holmes in 1939. The basic philosophy of Ernest Holmes was that people could transform their lives by mastering their thoughts, and this would in turn lead one to a very real and fulfilling experience of God.

Services are held Sundays at 11 a.m. and are led by the Rev. Maureen Christopher. In addition to the Sunday services, the church sponsors other events. On Feb. 21 Rev. Christopher will conduct a workshop titled "Forgiveness and Release." This workshop will focus on specific techniques and processes that lead to forgiveness and freedom. The workshop will run from 2 to 4 p.m. There is no fee, but a donation is requested.

For more information on the workshop, or any other church events, contact Rev. Christopher at 479-4145.

Grade 1 Registration At St. Ann's School

Registrations for Grade 1 for the school year 1988-89 are scheduled for March 1 and 2 between 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. at St. Ann School, Wollaston.

Parents are asked to present proof of birth date, baptismal record, and medical records at time of registration.

Our admission policy is to give priority to children whose parents are active members of Saint Ann's Parish.

Women's Aglow Retreat

The Women's Aglow Fellowship will sponsor a retreat Feb. 26 and 27 at the Sheraton Tara Hotel in Braintree.

Minister and former missionary Iris Pelly will be the speaker. Praise and worship will be led by the accomplished and anointed music of Sherry Wanner.

For more information call Dorothy Gonsalves at 226-8471. All women are invited to attend.

If It's Irish, You'll Find It At Emerald Isle Express

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

If you're looking for that special Irish craft or gift item, you don't have to go to Ireland to find it.

Just travel to Emerald Isle Express, an Irish crafts and gift shop located at 50 Billings Rd., North Quincy. This neatly decorated shop carries just about everything the Irish, and the Irish-at-heart, would treasure.

The shop, owned and managed by Charles "Bud" Flaherty and his wife Pat, is full of Irish products ranging from Belleek China to the popular, hand-made white woolen sweaters.

Bud and Pat, both of Irish descent and very proud of it, opened Emerald Isle Express two years ago with the intent of selling the very best Irish crafts and gifts. They have certainly stayed on course.

"We want to make this store better than the average Irish store," Pat said. "Since we opened we've come from selling small crafts to having a much wider selection," Bud added.

The shop carries a wide range of hand-made Irish merchandise. Some samples of Irish clothing include woolen sweaters, sweatshirts, tee shirts, ties, socks and baby tee shirts.

Also in stock are music boxes, small ceramic cottages, coffee mugs, aprons, flags, wooden spoons, even ice cube trays that make shamrock-shaped ice.

Of course no Irish store would be complete without a collection of jewelry and Emerald Isle Express has a fine assortment of gold and silver cladder rings and earrings.

Other items include a collection of Belleek china made in Fermanagh, Ireland, and Galway Irish crystal which is similar to Waterford crystal but is less expensive. Bud noted. Bud and Pat also carry a rare Wild Goose Collection of Celtic sculptures made from bronze.

Some of the more popular items are the woolen sweaters hand-made in Irish cottages, embroidered v-neck sweaters and woolen Irish curragh caps.

Those looking for a handsome family coat-of-arms plaque can be helped here, too. These orders are sent to Dublin and returned four to six weeks later.

About 85 percent of the shop's merchandise is imported from Ireland, Bud pointed out.

Both Bud and Pat are very proud of their Irish heritage and their store displays their pride. Pat's mother was born in Cunnemara, Galway and Bud's grandfather was born in Cork City, County Cork. Because of their ancestry, both Bud and Pat applied and were granted citizenship to Ireland.

One of the benefits of having dual citizenship is freer travel abroad, Bud said. He noted that it will be easier for him and Pat to visit Ireland and travel throughout Europe now that they are Irish, as well as, American citizens.

That will certainly come in handy when they go to Ireland later this year. Once there, they will tour the country shopping for new items to bring back to their North Quincy shop. "We hope to see and purchase things you can't find anywhere else," Bud said, adding these "shopping trips" will be taken twice a year.

The prominent Irish population in North Quincy and surrounding areas created the market for Emerald Isle Express," Bud explained. "We always wanted to open an Irish store in North Quincy. There's a large population of Irish people and Irish natives in this area, especially North Quincy," he said.

Shoppers also come from Dorchester, Weymouth, Randolph, Braintree, Milton, and as far away as Sudbury and Cape Cod.

"The name is getting around. A lot of regular customers come in all the time. Every week they come in," Pat said.

Bud added, "We've been very encouraged by the great response since we opened."

Besides co-owning and co-managing Emerald Isle Express with Pat, Bud is a special education teacher at Dorchester High School where he has been the last 12 years.

Bud and Pat got further assistance from their four children who come in occasionally and help out. They are Maureen, 19; Kevin, 18; Danny, 15 and Susan, 13. "It's a real family-run operation," Bud said. The Flahertys make their home in North Quincy.

The store is open Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Emerald Isle Express honors personal checks, Master Card, Visa, American Express, Discover and has a lay-a-way plan.

Stop in and browse, your eyes will soon be "smiling."

Purdy's Success Formula: Courtesy, Consistency, Cleanliness And Delicious Homemade Ice Cream

Opportunity for the Boston University business administration graduate knocked when jher father, Joe Buccini, owner of Mister Sub sandwich shop in North Quincy, decided to open an ice cream parlor.

Thus Purdy's Homemade Gourmet Ice Cream Parlor, 68A Billings Rd., North Quincy, was born and Lynn's urge to manage her own business was satisfied.

Since that timely beginning, Purdy's and Lynne have prospered. Lynne said her success comes from concentrating on the three Cs of food service: courtesy, consistency and cleanliness.

"I was trained by my father. He taught me to serve quality food with prompt, courteous service," she said.

In addition to this smart business philosophy, another cornerstone of Purdy's prosperity is the homemade ice cream it serves.

All the ice cream that Purdy's "dishes out" is made by Lynne on the premises.

"I make fresh ice cream daily, all day long," she says with a smile.

Her recipes range from traditional vanilla and chocolate to the recent flavor of the month, almond peach made from peach ice cream flavored with almond liqueur and chunks of almonds.

Many of her creations sell very well and because of their popularity become permanent menu flavors. Another popular flavor that Lynne created is ambrosia, made from pieces of orange, pineapple and coconut.

The most popular flavor Lynne sells is vanilla.

"I make twice as much vanilla than any other flavor," she says. Other frequently purchased flavors are chocolate, chocolate chip, heath bar crunch and oreo.

Lynne said she spends about eight hours a day making ice cream.

"It takes about 30 minutes to make two and a half gallons but then it must be deep-freezed for another eight hours," she explained. During the summer, her busiest time of year, Lynne makes about 20 two and a half gallon containers every day.

Purdy's is much more than just serving cones and dishes. In terms of sundaes, toppings are hot fudge, butterscotch, strawberry, pineapple and for those more adventurous, there are peanut butter, and blueberry toppings.

To top off these delicious sundaes, there is Purdy's homemade whipped cream, made daily with fresh cream.

Even the ice cream cones at Purdy's are "dressed up." Lynne sells "dipped cones" which come in three varieties: chocolate, chocolate with nuts and chocolate with jimmies.

Finishing the ice cream menu are frappes, milk shakes, ice cream sodas, Italian ices and the destined-to-fill-you-up banana split.

But Purdy's doesn't stop at ice cream. Lynne also sells a wide assortment of chocolates and candies. Some samples are Purdy's jumbo chocolates which include jumbo rocky road clusters made from chocolate, marshmallow and pecans.

And if you're looking to satisfy more than yourself or a friend, Purdy's carries ice cream pies and ice cream cakes appropriate for any family or group dessert.

And recently, Purdy's began selling pre-packed quarts and half gallons along with hand-packed for easy take home ice cream.

Lynne said Purdy's North Quincy location is beneficial because "the people here have a loyalty to the shops in North Quincy. It's a friendly atmosphere."

Set in Victorian era decor with brass chairs, marble tables and ceiling fans, Lynne would like people to think of Purdy's as a good quality ice cream and candy shop. "When people hear the name Purdy's, people should think they will always receive personal attention and quick service."

Purdy's (named after Lynne's mother's maiden name) is opened seven days a week 11 a.m. to 9 p.m.

As for Lynne's biggest challenge, she said, "Trying to convince people to buy ice cream during the cold weather."

NQHS Students Compete In National Knowledge Master Open

A team of 29 students at North Quincy High School recently competed in the National Knowledge Master Open, an academic competition involving hundreds of schools across the nation.

The North Quincy team scored 1345 of 2,000 possible points. This was the highest score achieved by the nine Massachusetts high schools which entered the contest, making the team from North state champions.

The contest was run on Apple II computers at secondary schools in all 50 states and Canada. The computers tallied the students' scores based on speed and accuracy.

This is the second time that North Quincy High School has entered the Knowledge Master competition. Academic coach, Dolores J. Tormey, described the event as "an exciting and fun-filled learning experience in which good students are challenged in a test of their knowledge of information drawn from all areas of the secondary school curriculum."

The Knowledge Master Open was developed to provide all schools the opportunity to compete in a national academic contest without the expense of traveling to a central site and to stimulate interest and recognition for academic accomplishment.

Results of the contest are tabulated into national, state, and enrollment-size rankings by Academic Hallmarks, the software publisher which produces the event.

Raiders Subdue Stubborn Quincy For City Crown

The North Quincy boys' basketball team claimed the city title last week as it defeated a stubborn Quincy team, 66-54, improving its record to 9-8. The frustrated Presidents fell to 1-16.

Ted Stevenson's Raiders were scheduled to face Waltham Tuesday night and will host Brookline Friday night at 7:30.

Quincy was slated to play Newton North Tuesday and last night (Wednesday) met Silver Lake in the Presidents' Invitational Tournament. Friday night Quincy will play either the winner of last night's Stoughton-Cathedral game in the championship game at 8 or the Stoughton-Cathedral loser in the consolation game at 6.

John Franceschini's undermanned Quincy team played one of its best quarters of the year against North, taking a 14-8 lead, but North came back to lead, 15-15, after one. The Raiders extended their lead to 33-23 at halftime and put the game out of reach in the third quarter, taking a 54-33 lead into the final session.

Teddy Stevenson paced North's balanced attack with 12 points. Mike Ainsley and B.J. Sylva had eight each. For Quincy Mike Perkins had 14, Nick Dragone 12 and Joe Russell 11.

North Girls Defeat Quincy For City Title

The North Quincy girls' basketball team kept its Eastern Mass. Tournament hopes alive and won the city championship with a hard-fought 49-43 victory over Quincy last Friday night.

Paul Bregoli's Raiderettes improved to 9-7 and must win three of four remaining games to qualify again for the tournament. Doug MacFarlane's First Ladies fell to 5-12.

The North girls faced Waltham Tuesday night and will complete their Suburban League season at home Friday night at 6 p.m. against Brookline, playing before the boys' game. The Raiderettes will host an invitational tournament Feb. 23 and 25, playing with Reading, Silver Lake and Newton South. Games will be played at 4 and 6 p.m. both days. Quincy finished its season Tuesday at Newton South.

Gayle Morrell got Quincy off to a fast start, scoring on a layup off the opening tap. Paula Tolson's twisting flip in the lane evened the score and North took a 4-2 lead on Deirdre Murphy's basket. Gayle Morrell hit for two more baskets while Murphy converted an offensive rebound and Tolson made two free throws. Kristen McGhee hit a corner jumper for Quincy. Kristen Curtin hit one of two free throws, Gayle Morrell hit four straight free throws and sister Patti scored to give Quincy a 15-11 lead after one quarter.

North answered quickly in the second quarter with Nancy Flukes and Karrie Pistorino hitting from the outside to tie the score. After a Karen Craig jump shot gave Quincy a two-point lead, Karin Reister scored from underneath, Tolson hit a jumper and Flukes hit a three-pointer to put North ahead, 22-17. Quincy answered with Patti Morrell scoring twice and Craig hit two free throws for a 23-22 lead. Tolson and Flukes gave North a 27-23 edge before Curtin's driving layup pulled Quincy to within two at halftime.

Quincy looked like it might take control early in the third quarter as Gayle Morrell hit for eight points, including a three-point play, while sister Patti added a hoop. Trailing, 35-29, North ran off eight points in a row. Rita Rooney hit a turnaround in the lane, Flukes made a steal for a layup, was fouled and converted the free throw, Murphy hit a free throw and Rita Rooney converted an offensive rebound. But again, Quincy responded with both Morrells scoring and McGhee hitting a runner in the lane.

Trailing, 41-39, to start the fourth quarter, North's defense completely shut down Quincy as the First Ladies didn't score a basket and had only two free throws in the quarter.

Flukes tied it at 41 with a long jumper and, after Murphy's basket, Curtin tied it at 43 with two free throws. That was all for Quincy and North put it away by scoring the final six points.

Gayle Morrell led all scorers with 20 points and Patti added 10. Curtin had five. For North Flukes had 19 points and 14 rebounds, Murphy had 11 points and seven rebounds, Tolson eight points and Rooney five points, eight rebounds, four assists and three steals.

"Although we had been off a week, I thought we played an excellent game," said Bregoli. "And we had to because Quincy played very well. The Morrell twins played their usual outstanding games and I thought Curtin, McGhee and Craig all played well.

"On our side, everyone who played contributed something to the win. Stacey Welch, Melissa Miles, Tarra Meyer, Kerri McDonald, Kellene Duffy and Reister all did the job off the bench. Special praise must go to Pistorino, who not only played a sound floor game but also was superb defensively. Her charge along with Feeney's steal sealed the win for us. Those are things which don't show up on the stat sheet but are the difference between winning and losing."

Earlier in the week the Quincy girls defeated Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 61-50, with the Morrell sisters again leading the way.

Gayle scored 17 points and pulled down 12 rebounds and Patti scored 16 and took down 10 rebounds.

Quincy started fast and built up an 18-6 lead after a quarter and had a 32-14 edge at the half. The First Ladies built up an insurmountable 26-point lead early in the fourth quarter.

4-Year Football Scholarship

Munroe Signs Terriers Letter Of Intent

Sean Munroe, Quincy High's outstanding wide receiver, who has accepted a full four-year football scholarship to Boston University, recently signed his letter of intent to join the Terriers.

Munroe signed the letter as his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Munroe, coach Jack Raymer, principal Lloyd Hill, School Committeeman Frank Santoro and Quincy's 1988 captains, looked on.

"I consider this a wonderful opportunity and am looking forward to entering Boston University," he said. "I will be trying hard to keep my grades up and I intend to seek a liberal arts degree and to teach English on the high school level."

Sean explained he played no freshman sports and as a sophomore played football and baseball and took part in track. In 1986 he was to have been Quincy's leading pass receiver, but broke his foot on the first day of practice and saw only limited action in the last few games.

Last fall he was one of the top pass receivers in the state and caught 50 passes for 10 touchdowns, including both scores in the 14-14 tie with North Quincy on Thanksgiving.

When asked what his biggest thrill was playing football at Quincy, he didn't hesitate. "By all means the Thanksgiving game," he said.

Munroe said he chose Boston University over other schools recruiting him because of the fine tradition there.

"I know I'll receive a fine education there and will be playing for a fine football program," he said. "I was invited to the Beanpot Hockey Tournament and was very impressed with the enthusiasm of the B.U. fans."

"We are very impressed with Sean and expect him to be an outstanding player for us," said Boston University assistant coach Mike Kelleher, who recruited him. "Our new head coach, Chris Palmer, and I see big things for him."

"This is a real honor for Sean and we expect him to do very well at B.U.," said his high school coach, Raymer. "Sean is a fine student as well as an excellent player and the two go together. I know he will be a credit to his family, his school and the city of Quincy.

"He will have the advantage of having a single coach concentrating on him and the other wide receivers, whereas in high school it is impossible for a coach to work with a particular boy.

"He will be working hard on weights and put on some needed weight. He has the speed but he will be working in track this spring to get off the mark just a bit quicker. He is our best track man and did well last spring. He runs the 440 and on the 440 relay team as well as taking part in the long jump and triple jump.

"Sean proves a boy doesn't have to go to school outside of Quincy to make the grade and go on to college. Several other players will also be going next fall. About 75 percent of our players have gone on to college.

"We are working hard to bring our program back to where it was a few years ago and it is heartening to hear the superintendent say he will be reviving sports in the middle schools. We sorely need sports in the middle schools and our program has gone down steadily since junior high sports were dropped due to Prop. 2½."

Principal Lloyd Hill, himself a former college standout at Brown, echoed Raymer's sentiments. "Sean will do an excellent job and our program will benefit from his getting this scholarship. We definitely do need the return of sports in the middle schools," he said.

Bad Week For Quincy From Top To Bottom

Quincy's hockey team fell on hard times last week as it lost to Brockton, the first place team in the Suburban League, and Cambridge Rindge and Latin, the league's last-place team.

Bob Sylvia's Presidents (7-11) finished a frustrating season Tuesday night against Newton North and Sylvia, completing his 24th season as coach, doesn't look forward to next season with any great hopes.

"The future is very dim as we graduate 17 seniors and don't have many players coming up from the jayvees," he said. "We had no freshman team this year, with only one freshman reporting, and unless something is done, our program is in jeopardy."

Saturday night the Presidents had to face Cambridge without three of their top players, Rod Davis, Tim Mann and Ken Staskiewicz, and things went bad right from the start.

Cambridge scored a goal in the opening period and three in each of the next two to romp, 7-0. It was Cambridge's first win in the league and only its second overall.

"It was a nightmare from the start," said assistant coach George Peachey. "We beat them easily the first time but, without three top players, it was just a night to forget."

Earlier in the week Quincy lost to first place Brockton, 9-2, with Shawn O'Neil and Jon Bertoni scoring the goals.

Brockton's Kevin Burke, the league's top scorer, had two goals, Dana Valley had a hat trick and Eric Peterson set a school record with six assists.

North Bows To Newton N.

The North Quincy hockey team, needing only one point to qualify for the state tournament, saw its chances dim a bit when it lost a 7-3 decision to Newton North last week, dropping its record to 10-5-2.

Kevin Jago's Raiders, needing only a tie, faced Waltham Tuesday night and will finish the regular season against Brookline today (Thursday) at 4 p.m. at the Watertown rink.

North turned in one of its rare poor performances against Newton North as the Tigers exploded for five goals in the third period after holding only a 2-1 edge after two.

Newton scored twice within a minute and 21 seconds early in the final session to clinch the win and Chuck Goldman, who had 24 saves, was outstanding down the stretch.

"We played a stinker tonight," said Jago. "We are not going to hit the panic button, but we hoped to clinch a tournament berth in this game. Newton obviously wanted the game more than we did."

After a scoreless first period Newton took the lead only 29 seconds into the second period. North Quincy tied it three minutes later when Sal Manganaro converted passes from Billy Doreen and Jay Rodrigues.

Newton regained the lead at 13:07 on Dave O'Connor's goal.

The Tigers pulled away with their two quick goals in the finale. Matt Furtado, the number two scorer in the Suburban League, scored for North off a pass from Rodrigues to cut the gap to 4-2 and, following a goal by Newton's O'Connor, sophomore Joey Fasano scored North's last goal with Manganaro and Brian Zimmerman assisting.

North goalie Brian Mahoney had another busy night and turned away 28 Newton shots.

• Squirt House

Sun Holds Lead, D & H Downs Burgin

The Quincy Sun holds a three-point lead in the Squirt House League after edging Johnson Motor Parts, 4-3.

Scott MacPherson had two goals and Robbie Callow and Tommy Meade one each for the Sun and Brendan Mulcahy and MacPherson had assists. Ron McGann, John Holler and Joe McPhee scored for Johnson and Jamie Murphy had two assists and McGann, Jenna Nolan and Carlos Suchan one each.

Doran & Horrigan defeated Burgin Platner, 7-1, with John Healy and Danny Mann scoring two goals apiece and Jamie Boire, Chris Geary and Pat Donovan one each. Boire had three assists, Chris Grant two and Healy, Marc Glennon, Dan Boylen and John Wettergreen one each. Timmy Kunz scored for Burgin.

The Sun defeated Doran & Horrigan, 4-1, on goals by Mulcahy, Shawn Erler, A.J. Carthas and MacPherson. Callow had two assists and MacPherson, Sean Lewis and Dennis Pateras one each. Jason Healy scored for Doran and Wettergreen assisted.

Johnson edged Burgin Platner, 2-1, as Jenna Nolan, normally a defenseman playing center, scored the winning goal. Jamie Murphy had the other. McPhee had two assists and McGann and Murphy one each. Jay Borden scored for Burgin with Kunz assisting.

The standings: Quincy Sun, 11-3-2; Johnson, 10-5-1; Doran & Horrigan, 6-8-2; Burgin Platner, 1-12-3.

• Mite House

Lydon Upsets Balducci's, Newcomb Defeats Harold

Newcomb Farms cut Balducci's Mite House League lead to two points by defeating the Paul Harold Club, 9-1, while Balducci's was upset by Lydon-Russell, 5-2.

Robbie Winter, Jason Ivas, Jesse Winter and Bruce Stenberg had two goals each and Matt Hill one for Newcomb. Ivas and Winter had two assists apiece and Chris Carthas, and John Bertucci one each. Derek McTomney scored for Harold with an assist for Steve Ford.

Eric Wood had a hat trick for Lydon and Tim Wood and Jason Smith a goal each. Matt Langille and Eric Joyce had two assists apiece and Tim Wood and Brian Nolan one each. Danny Stock, who was brought up a short time ago from the instructional group, scored his first goal for Balducci's and Pat McGann had the other. McGann and Mike Gallagher had assists.

The standings: Balducci's, 9-5-2; Newcomb Farms, 8-6-2; Lydon-Russell, 7-8-1; Harold, 5-10-1.

Mite A's Tied, 3-3

The Quincy Mite A hockey team and South Boston battled to a 3-3 tie in Greater Boston League action.

Goalie Brian Walsh again was outstanding as he robbed Southie of several sure goals, one of which was kicked out with the pad, another on a rebound that got as far as the goal line but was frozen by his glove. His most outstanding save came on a breakaway on which he took the puck off the stick 20 feet out.

Mark Regan scored the first goal with David Rowell assisting. Regan also scored the second goal, firing a low shot that beat the goalie, and Paul Princiotto had the final goal.

Toland Standout

Nancy Toland of Quincy, a senior defenseman, is playing excellent hockey for the Dartmouth College women's team and recently scored the winning goal and had two assists in an 8-2 win over Bowdoin.

Toland is the team's captain and last year was an honorable mention All-Ivy League selection and the team's most valuable defensive player.

Dartmouth, with a 12-5-3 record as of last week, is a contender for the league championship.

Toland, a graduate of Fontbonne Academy, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Toland.

• Pee Wee House

UCT Takes Top Spot

UCT moved into first place in the Pee Wee House League by defeating Bersani Brothers, 8-2, while Keohane's lost to Colonial Federal, 3-1.

Lou Bertucci had two goals for UCT and Brian Connolly, Brian Sullivan, Scott Wysocki, Mike Flaherty, Matt O'Toole and Jamie Schatzl one each. Bertucci and Connolly had three assists each and Steve Miller, O'Toole, Schatzl, Sullivan and Kevin Boylen one apiece. Kevin Mantville and Mike DesRoche scored for Bersani and Steve DesRoche and Mantville had assists.

Joe Carinci, Aidan O'Donoghue and Nelson Gee scored for Colonial Federal and Mark Zych, O'Donoghue, Mike Morrison, Jeff Craig and Eric Kreuz had assists. Jim Ford scored for Keohane's and Jason Keith assisted.

The standings: UCT, 8-5-3; Keohane's, 8-6-2; Colonial Federal, 5-7-4; Bersani, 5-8-3.

Squirt B's Win 20th

Quincy's Squirt B hockey team defeated Charlestown, 7-1, in the Greater Boston League for its 20th win of the season. The team is 6-2-1 in the open league and is closing in on first place Wellesley A team.

Quincy is 20-5-2 overall including a 6-2 mark against Squirt B teams, a 6-2-1 record in the open league, a 6-1-1 mark in tournament play and a 2-0 record so far in the state tournament.

Against Charlestown goalies Mike Manganaro and Joe MacLennan put together another outstanding effort as Quincy broke open a 2-1 contest with five goals in the last nine minutes of the game.

Timmy Kunz had a hat trick and Ron McGann, Chris Geary, Robbie Callow and Steve Barrett a goal each. Dan Mann had two assists and McGann, Geary and Jim Keegan one apiece.

The Squirt B's this week are playing in the annual Valentine's Tournament at the Randolph Ice Arena.

Action Continues Through Sunday

Quincy Start Slow In Kiwanis Tourney

The 15th annual International Youth Hockey Tournament sponsored by the Quincy Kiwanis Club, got off to a flying start Monday with seven games being played at the Youth Arena.

Games will continue all this week with the four championship games set for Sunday.

The Mite title game will be played at 3:30, the Squirts at 1 p.m., Pee Wees at 2:15 and Bantams at 11:45 a.m.

In Mite games Monday Quincy lost to Woburn, 4-1, with Mark Regan scoring the only Quincy goal and Mike Ryan getting the assist.

Westwood defeated Brockton, 7-2, and Framingham topped Dorchester, 5-2.

Pembroke topped Brockton, 7-4, in the Pee Wee Division and Melrose defeated Brockton, 7-1, and the South Shore Seahawks tied Needham, 3-3.

Forty-four teams from all sections of the U.S. and Canada are competing in the tournament, one of the finest youth tournaments in New England. Every team is guaranteed of playing at least three games.

North Girls Frosh Edge Brookline, 35-33

The North Quincy girls' freshman basketball team edged Brookline, 35-33, to improve its record to 9-5, led by Capt Tara Miles' 17 points.

North led, 16-13, at halftime behind the play of Erin O'Neill, who finished with five points and 12 rebounds, but the young Raiderettes fell behind by five late in the third quarter.

Miles hit two long jumpers and also scored on two exciting drives as she took the game into her own hands and showed her leadership skills late in the final quarter.

With North down, 33-30, Kelly LeBlanc hit an off-balance 18-foot jumper and Miles took over with a steal and a hoop to put North ahead, 34-33. Kara Sullivan hit a foul shot and finished with 10 points and gave North a two-point lead with 29 seconds left.

Since she was intentionally fouled, North maintained possession and Sullivan ran out the final 29 seconds.

Joanna Rugnetta, Michelle Donovan, Erin Lydon and Soyon Park also turned in fine performances.

The game with Quincy last week was postponed by the snow and a makeup date has not been set. The North girls played at Westwood and Marshfield this week.

Rugnetta leads the team in rebounds with an average of 13.1 a game, O'Neill is averaging 7.2 and Park 6.3.

President Basketball Tourney March 3-13

The second annual Presidents Youth Basketball Tournament will be held March 3 - 13 at the Quincy Vo-Tech gym.

There will be three divisions, boys sixth grade, boys seventh grade and boys eighth grade.

Each team is guaranteed five games, with the two top teams in each division playing in a champ onship game March 13. Entry fee is $50 per team.

Anyone interested in entering a team should call coordinator Bob Cochrane at 471-2746 after 7 p.m.

The tournament was started last season by Quincy coach John Franceschini and produced many close and interesting games. Quincy was represented in each division and did well.

McNamara On Shriners' Classic South Squad

Matt McNamara, 275-pound all-scholastic two-way lineman for the North Quincy football team, has been selected to play for the South squad in the 10th annual Shriners' Classic June 17 at 7 p.m. at Boston College's Alumni Stadium.

McNamara, described as "one of the finest linemen I've ever coached" by North coach Ken McPhee, was named the Raiders Most Valuable Player last fall and was selected a Suburban League first-team all-star.

He won the state shot put championship this winter.

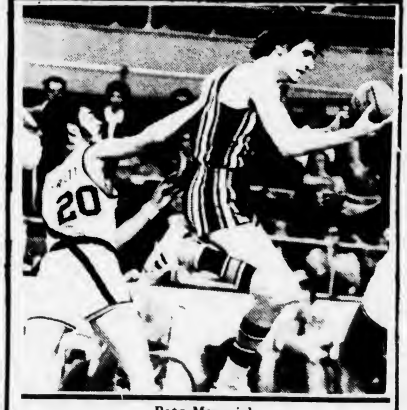
Suburban Girls All-Star Game Saturday At N. Quincy

The Suburban League girls' all-star basketball game will be played Saturday night at 7:30 at the North Quincy gym, preceded by the league junior varsity championship game between either North Quincy or Waltham and undefeated Brockton.

Nancy Flukes, Patty Feeney and Paula Tolson will represent North Quincy, while Quincy's outstanding twins, Patti and Gayle Morrell, will also play.



Flukes, who has received a full four-year scholarship to Stonehill College, was selected as the league's co-MVP with Cambridge Rindge and Latin's Tammy Jones. Flukes, averaging 20 points a game, was the top vote getter for the MVP.

Bowman Tells Players 'Put Education First'

By TOM SULLIVAN

Jim Bowman, defensive back of the New England Patriots, was the guest speaker at the recent Quincy High Football Parents Club banquet at the Sons of Italy Social Center.

"I played for a small high school in northern Michigan and never played on a losing team," he said. "We were 36-0 during my high school career. I was a running back and was recruited by Michigan and Michigan State. But I knew I wouldn't be a running back at either so I attended Central Michigan University.

"I was drafted by the Patriots and was made a defensive back. I never regretted the move and I have had four happy years with them. I always dreamed of playing pro ball and playing in the Super Bowl and that dream came true, although I wish the Super Bowl result could have been much different.

"I hope all you boys get a chance to go to college and just remember to keep your marks up and put your education first and maybe your dreams will come true as mine did."

Club president Jerry Perfetuo was toastmaster and introduced the head table guests, who included School Supt. Robert Ricci, who said he is working to get the leagues realigned and get Quincy and North Quincy out of the Suburban League. He also said he is striving to revive sports in the middle schools.

Athletic Coordinator Marty Finnegan spoke briefly, congratulating the Presidents for their showing on Thanksgiving, and Principal Lloyd Hill also was a head table guest but had to leave early.

Rev. James Kimmell delivered the invocation.

The big award winner was Sean Munroe, who had an outstanding season as a wide receiver last fall. Munroe, who has accepted a full four-year scholarship to Boston University, received the Most Valuable Player Award, was co-winner of the Jack Granville Memorial Award as the best Quincy player in the North Quincy game, and was the only Quincy player named a Suburban League first team all-star.

He and Sean Thompson, the other Granville winner, were presented their trophies by Bowman.

Other individual award winners were:

Best offensive lineman, Kerry Byrne, presented by Coach Jack Raymer.

Best defensive back, Jim Kimmell, presented by assistant coach Steve Spencer.

Coaches Award, Tom Biork, presented by Raymer.

Quincy Firefighters' 12th Player Award, Scott Logan, presented by Deputy Chief Joe Walsh, a former Quincy player.

Paul Grasso Unsung Hero Award, donated by Bill Osborne, Dave Spencer, presented by Frank Osborne.

A special award went to George Page, Park Dept. foreman, for his work in keeping Veterans Stadium in excellent condition. It was accepted by Page's brother, Buddy.

Raymer presented Suburban League second team all-star certificates to Calabro, Thompson, Brian Norris and Chris Noble.

Quincy manager Bill Mahoney was named the league's Manager of the Year and received a certificate.

The Queen's Trophy was presented to Jennifer Fay.

Captains Munroe, Biork, Light and Calabro presented a plaque to Raymer and the 1988 captains, Norris, Noble, Scott O'Brien and Todd Kimmell, were introduced.

Among the special guests was president Bill Dolan of the North Quincy Football Boosters Club.

Raymer introduced his assistants, Taglieri, Noble, Spencer, Sean Burke, Scott Anson, Ken Gustin and Kevin Winters. John Sullivan was unable to attend.

Awards went to the following players:

Crime Watch

Crime Prevention Officer
Quincy Police Department

Crime Prevention Tips For Senior Citizens

Help make your community a safer place to live and don't let fear of crime restrict your activities. Being alert to your surroundings, installing good locks on doors and windows, and taking common-sense precautions while inside and outside your home can reduce opportunities for crime. To give yourself that extra margin of security.

- Use Direct Deposit for pensions and Social Security checks
- Don't display large amounts of cash in public.
- Be wary of talkative strangers when the conversation turns to money. Read every newspaper report on con games and be ready to say no if someone comes to you with a get-rich quick scheme.
- Travel with friends when you leave home to go shopping, to the bank, or doctor.
- Get to know your neighbors and keep their phone numbers handy for emergencies.
- Work out a "buddy" system with a friend to check on each other's welfare daily.
- If you're alone, don't advertise it. Use only your first initial in phone books, directories, and apartment lobbies.
- If you must carry a purse, hold it close to your body. Don't leave your wallet or purse on a counter or in a shopping cart unattended.
- If you are threatened by physical force, don't resist. Remain calm and observe the assailant so you can give an accurate description to the police.
- Join to help make your neighborhood thrive. You could be a foster grandparent or a block parent for children in an emergency. Join a Window Watch to keep an eye out for unusual activity in your neighborhood or help a neighbor who's been a recent victim of crime. A neighborhood where people are active and involved is always a safer, better place to be.

Quincy Sun Car Care Guide

Anti-Lock Brakes Could Save Your Life, Says AAA

It's happened to us all - while driving along, something unexpected happens and we respond by slamming on the brakes. But instead of coming to a smooth, safe stop, the wheels lock, sending the car into a skid.

Thanks to the anti-lock braking system (ABS), that nightmare may one day be a thing of the past, according to AAA Massachusetts.

The way ABS works is simple: When the driver jams on the brakes, a computer reduces the operating pressure of each brake that has locked until the wheel begins rotating again. The computer then reapplies the brake. This release-and-apply cycle can occur up to 15 times per second, allowing the driver to maintain steering control with maximum braking capability. Without ABS, drivers need a lot of skill and experience to accomplish this.

Should the system fail, a warning light on the dashboard alerts the driver, and the brakes operate like ordinary ones until repaired.

"Prospective car buyers would do well to consider ABS when selecting their next new car," says John F. Paul, AAA Massachusetts' Manager of Technical Services, and in charge of the AAA automotive diagnostic center in Rockland. "ABS can save lives and money, and make driving easier," the AAA official adds.

A car with anti-lock brakes can still go into a skid if the wheels on one side are on a more slippery surface than those on the other side and the driver does not make steering corrections. As is true of any car, an ABS-equipped vehicle will not stop as quickly on ice, snow and wet roads as it will on dry pavement.

Although manufacturers offer cars or pickup trucks with two-wheel (rear) anti-lock systems, true ABS must cover all four wheels to give steering control with full brake application. Four-wheel ABS as an option ranges from about $900 to about $1575, depending on make and model.

YOUNG PERFORMERS participate in an Academy of the Company Theatre session.

'Every Kid A Winner' Program At Snug Harbor

"Every Kid Is A Winner" is the theme of a new program at Snug Harbor School in Germantown.

The program is a non-competitive gymnasium program designed to help boys and girls develop self-confidence, meet new and challenging situations, learn the value of communication and develop group problem solving skills.

The Snug Harbor School, the South Shore Y.M.C.A., in conjunction with the Germantown Neighborhood Center, sponsors of the program, said their philosophy is that "each child can experience success through physical activity, environment in which each child can feel good about himself and learn the satisfaction of striving for excellence regardless of the outcome of the event."

The instructor, Andrew Levin, has had training and experience in the areas of activity groups, coaching, teaching and recreation. He is the director of Community Youth Services at the South Shore Y.M.C.A.

Senator Paul Harold, the Community Services Division of the South Shore Y.M.C.A. both have made donations toward the program.

The program is in its fourth year of development. It originally started in March of 1983 in Albany, Calif. Over a period of a year the program was offered throughout two communities in Northern Calif. Program workshop presentations have included The Y.M.C.A. Centennial Anniversary in Northern Calif., Boston Park Plaza Hotel; Special Needs Conference; City of Cambridge Afterschool System; and The Bay Cove Day Center for Children at the New England Medical Center.

Academy Company Theatre Opens Spring Session Feb. 22

The Academy of the Company Theater (A.C.T.) will open its spring season after school on Monday, Feb. 22, at the Christ Church, in Quincy Center.

The Academy is a non-profit organization for young people ages 8 to 18, which provides training in the performing arts at varying levels. The program is designed for those who wish to build creativity and self confidence, and for the serious student who wishes to pursue a career in the arts.

This semester's dance courses include beginning tap, for dancers with little or no tap experience, beginning and advanced jazz, and ballet.

Through the support of the Quincy Arts Council, the academy has been able to install mirrors in their dance studio.

Courses in dramatics will include an introduction to the fun of Shakespeare, and an intermediate drama class, geared for the younger student, and focusing on major acting techniques.

Music courses include sightsinging, music reading, and a showtune workshop which will teach the student how to present and perform musical pieces for an audience. Among the Academy's professional staff are dance instructors Sally Forrest and David Connolly, drama instructors Zoe Bradford, Jordie Saucerman, and Peter Carey, and music instructor Michael Joseph.

The Academy's eight-week session will culminate with an Arts Festival in which the students will demonstrate and perform what they have learned and experienced during the session.

Registration for the spring session remains open, and partial scholarships are still available. For further information, call 773-0473 or 335-4104.

Tax Information For Spanish Speaking Residents On Cable TV

Spanish-speaking taxpayers can have their tax questions answered during a one-hour TV special to be aired by the Univision Spanish International Network Saturday, Feb. 20, according to the Boston District of the IRS.

The show will air from 5:50 to 6:30 p.m. locally on cable Channel 53 in Quincy.

Rafael Pineda, anchorman for Univision's New York affiliate, will host the program - "Llego La Hora" - Now is the Time. The program is aimed at helping Spanish-speaking taxpayers better understand how the new tax law will affect their federal tax returns.

Pineda and a panel of IRS personnel and professional preparers will also discuss tax matters affecting single and married taxpayers, older Americans and the kinds of free IRS assistance available.

During the program, viewers will be able to use a special toll-free telephone number to ask Spanish-speaking IRS assisters their tax questions. The number is 1-800-424-4672.

WEEK OF: February 18

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
Relationships generally prosper over the coming 12 months, and a leadership role can be assumed by mid '88. Those born under the sign of Aquarius are independent — sometimes too independent, when it comes to relationships. Those born under the sign of Pisces would do well to assume a more independent stance.

AQUARIUS — January 21 - February 19
You have a better appreciation of where a colleague stands on a controversial matter. Hunches are generally strong, but mix intuition with logic. Financial planning is most important.

PISCES — February 20 - March 20
Gains appear on the professional horizon. Good week for preparing reports. Real estate transactions especially require careful attention to the fine print. Romance is on the upswing.

ARIES — March 21 - April 20
Week accents specialization, focus on a few areas of interest rather than spreading yourself too thin. Partner may tend to overreact to even the most trivial concerns.

TAURUS — April 21 - May 22
Good week for making some phone calls or visits that you've been dreading. Hobbies may prove surprisingly profitable. Fellow Taurus may enter the friendship picture.

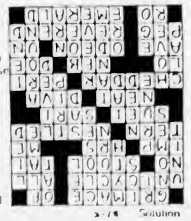
GEMINI — May 23 - June 21
Changes in scenery are featured at this time. Research is important if you're entering into negotiations. Romantic news brightener may arrive after the weekend.

CANCER — June 22 - July 22
Relationships demand patience and sensitivity. Older relative offers guidance on a family related dilemma. Hard-to-reach individual is much more accessible. Travel related research may pay off.

LEO — July 23 - August 22
Optimistic streak surfaces, and positive thinking goes a long way in helping you resolve pressing problems. Offbeat ideas may actually be more practical than you realize.

VIRGO — August 23 - September 22
Discussions this week prove unexpectedly rewarding - in large part owing to your contribution. Friend's disposition improves, once again, your positive attitude is a key factor.

LIBRA — September 23 - October 22
Career or education is spotlighted as you embark on an interesting program. Politics figure in the week's agenda. Partner is thinking in a more positive way.



SCORPIO — October 23 - November 21
The week may include some sunny romance-related news. Upcoming event requires extra sensitivity in the planning. Be sure to give credit to the appropriate individuals.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22 - December 22
With a touch of imagination, a personality conflict can be avoided. Significant career move is indicated after the weekend. Discussions with partner lead to mutual understanding.

CAPRICORN — December 23 - January 20
Sorting out priorities is a major priority itself. Relationships seem to be headed in the right direction, but your guidance is needed. Interesting correspondence arrives after the weekend.

BORN THIS WEEK
February 18th, actress Kim Novak; 19th, director John Frankenheimer, 20th, actor Sidney Poitier; 21st, singer Nina Simone; 22nd, actor John Mills; 23rd, actor Peter Fonda; 24th, singer Renata Scotto.

City Receives $5,000 Grant For Summit View Consultant

The city of Quincy has received a grant of $5,000 from the Executive Office of Communities and Development for the consultant hired to review the proposed Summit View Development on Quarry St., State Senator Paul D. Harold announces.

Harold said the award is a technical assistance grant under the Municipal Advance Program of E.O.C.D. The consultant is reviewing the project to identify issues of concern for city and to make proposals to mitigate the impacts of the development.

Harold said:

"The Summit View Development requires special review as the developer has applied for a comprehensive permit under the state's anti-snob zoning law, which supersedes local zoning by-laws to encourage the construction of low and moderate income housing.

"The site is also unique in that the Department of Environmental Engineering is overseeing a plan for closure of the quarries there and reviewing tests of the soils."

Reikard Says:

Much Talk No Action On Affordable Housing

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

"Affordable housing is the subject of much discussion, but not enough action," said Jane Reikard, executive secretary of the Rent Grievance Board, at a meeting of the City Council's Human Services Committee.

"The effect of condominiums on the housing market has been devastating," she told the committee during an hour and a half meeting Monday night.

"The builder's profits are unequaled, and it's about time some of the profits were put back," said Mrs. Reikard, who suggested that units be donated.

Those and other suggestions were made during the meeting by Councillor Larry Chretien, committee chairman, to discuss possible actions by the city to alleviate the shortage of affordable housing in Quincy.

Chretien said he intends to submit a proposal for a linkage-inclusionary zoning ordinance to set aside a certain amount of affordable housing.

"People getting something out of the community ought to put something back in," said Chretien.

Councillor Thomas Nutley "strongly urged" the committee, comprised of all the city councillors, to hold off on any action until a six-month, $20,000 report by Connery Associates is completed.

Nutley said the report will explain "what we can do with linkage and inclusionary zoning."

The final report is due in mid-June, a preliminary report is expected in a month and a half, according to Robert Catineau of Connery Associates.

Catineau said meetings will be held throughout the city on the report.

Rosemary Wahlberg, Quincy Community Action executive director, said, "Problems of housing in Quincy have been with us since 1973.

"We haven't built family housing since 1949," she said.

"Part of the problem is the 'not in my backyard' attitude."

"Well, pretty soon it's going to be our children, and grandparents.

"Most of us in this room are about a month away from being poor," said Mrs. Wahlberg, "unless we are condo owners."

She said that last year, 88 elderly homeless were served by the South West Community Center.

"You would be stunned at who they are related to, and where we found them," she said.

Mrs. Wahlberg decried the loss of 44 rooms for men at the South Shore Y.M.C.A. in Quincy Sq.

"It's a tragedy," she said. "It was a good location."

According to Mrs. Wahlberg, city officials would be hard pressed to deal with those in need of affordable housing and other services if housing advocates went on strike.

"We can only keep our fingers in the dike so long," she warned.

"We have to have the will to do it (provide more affordable housing), and we have to have the money.

DeCristofaro Says:

Quincy Point Should Get Tax Abatements Because Of Sludge Facility

Ward 2 Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro has written to Mayor Francis McCauley charging that "the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority does not provide sufficient protection and concern for the citizens of Quincy Point."

DeCristofaro said the agreement between the city and the MWRA for an interim sludge treatment facility at the Quincy shipyard will adversely affect the area with possible pollution and truck traffic.

"With the inherent problems as I understand them, property values in the area are certain to depreciate and residents should be reimbursed for possible losses. Therefore, I am suggesting that residents of Quincy Point seek abatements on their real estate taxes," stated DeCristofaro.

DeCristofaro further recommended that the MWRA be required to assist the City of Quincy financially with regard to the proposed increases of sewer and water fees. He said that this proposal would be beneficial to the entire city.

"The staging area at the shipyard, as proposed, will undoubtedly create serious traffic problems due to trucks entering and exiting the shipyard. I would suggest that an 18-wheeler run along the proposed route in Quincy would convince reasonable people that said agreement is not in the best interest of the City of Quincy," stated DeCristofaro.

"I am very concerned about the quality of life and the safety of the people of Quincy Point and feel that these recommendations should be given heedful consideration," he said.

Council Considers Power To Increase School Budget

The City Council's Education Committee discussed for about an hour Monday night whether or not it should accept Chapter 329 which gives it the power to increase the School Department budget.

But the question, which has not yet come to a vote, could be moot even if the council decides by a majority vote to accept the local action law, because it must initially be approved as well by the mayor, known as a fiscal conservative.

"It has not reached my desk, so I haven't made a public comment," said Mayor Francis McCauley.

But McCauley did say that he was "unsure why the council would want to put itself in the position of choosing one department over another."

According to McCauley, if the council increased the school department budget, a mayor might have to cut public safety or public works department budgets to make up the difference.

Representatives of those departments who felt they might be disadvantaged if the law were adopted by the council showed their force at Monday night's meeting, but did not speak.

Councillors like Charles Phelan said they would have to look at all the ramifications of the "pro-education bill" before voting on it.

"The intent is good, but we have to be careful of the nuts and bolts of how it would be implemented," said Councillor Stephen McGrath.

Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro said, "We should hear from a lot of people before we act."

"Education is of great concern," said Councillor James Sheets, a professor of government at Quincy Junior College.

"But it is important to look at this very carefully. I won't support any act which could disadvantage public safety."

Rep. Michael Morrissey said it would not be necessary to cut public safety or other budgets.

"To say we would have to make cuts in other budgets is wrong," said Morrissey.

School Committee vice chairman Mary Collins attended the meeting, as did School Committee member Stephen Durkin.

School System Inadequate In Some Areas, Says Durkin

At a recent luncheon meeting of the Quincy Lion's Club, at the Neighborhood Club, Quincy School Committeeman Stephen Durkin discussed the challenges facing Quincy's school system and public education in general.

Durkin said: "The school system is doing a good job in many areas - for example in helping to assimilate our rapidly expanding Asian population into the community, and in responding to the changing needs of many of our students."

He also said, however, that "despite our successes, the school system is inadequate in many areas including instruction in health-related issues, in our physical education program, and in preparing many of our students for high school."

Durkin suggested that "if we are really to make a difference in our schools, the city needs to make a greater commitment, financially and otherwise, to the school system - to look upon education not as an obligation, but as an opportunity, not as an expense but as a wise investment in the city's future."

Durkin spoke in favor of "an important piece of legislation," Chapter 329 of the Acts of 1987 which would give the City Council a greater role in setting the budget for our schools.

He stated that "under the present situation, the City Council may either reduce or accept budget proposals submitted by the Mayor, but the council may not increase the amount requested for appropriation. Chapter 329, which is a local option law, would allow the City Council, by the vote of a 2/3 majority, to increase the amount allocated in the budget for support of the schools. The Council could take this action upon the recommendation of a majority of the School Committee."

"I feel that Chapter 329 is an important bill in that it allows for a more democratic process in setting the budget for our schools. Our children and our schools are too important to leave it up to one individual to determine the amount of the school budget."

Durkin also noted that "Chapter 329 is a responsible bill in that it would not allow the City Council to increase the total city budget beyond the tax levy limit imposed by Proposition 2½."

For the city to take advantage of Chapter 329, and to exercise the local option, would require a majority vote by the City Council and approval by the Mayor. Mr. Durkin urged the City Council and the Mayor to adopt the local option law.

SIX STUDENTS were honored by the Quincy Jewish War Veterans Post at its annual "Classmates Today - Neighbors Tomorrow" breakfast at Beth Israel Synagogue, Quincy Point. McCauley Makes More Budget Cuts

Mayor Francis McCauley said Tuesday that he has completed the first round of his budget review of city departments.

"Now we will put all the numbers together, and wait for the Cherry Sheets," said McCauley.

The so-called Cherry Sheets, which list the city's state aid and assessments, are due soon.

"Then we will get a better idea of our revenues," said McCauley.

The final departments, including one of the largest, Public Works, were reviewed Tuesday morning but figures were not yet available, he said.

However, McCauley explained that cuts were made in such areas as capital outlay.

Prior to Tuesday's budget review, a net amount of $54,791,768 had been approved for 29 departments as well as debt service and unclassified.

That breaks down to $54,609,803 in general funds and $181,965 in capital outlay.

A total of $56,658,578 had been requested.

Cuts included $594,277 for personal services, $147,580, expenses; $135,944, contractual; and $989,009, capital outlay.

McCauley said that the budgets will likely be reviewed again, before all the figures are compiled and a municipal budget submitted to the City Council for its approval in early April.

Much Talk, No Action On Affordable Housing Reikard Says

"It looks like we have the will, now we have to go after the money."

John Kane, acting executive director of the Quincy Housing Authority, suggested that letters be written to senators and representatives asking that more money be appropriated for affordable housing.

Kane recommended scattered site housing of 30 to 40 units throughout the city.

He said that the city has a total of 1,568 housing units, roughly 620 family units and 940 units for the elderly.

The waiting list currently has 528 names for family housing and 423 for elderly housing, he said.

The average wait for elderly, with local preference, is two years, according to Kane.

Dennis Fardo, president of the Quincy Tenants Association, talked about rent control.

Councillor James Sheets said that some apartment landlords who have realized large profits "have not paid their dues."

Sheets suggested that landlords let some of their apartments "fall to affordable housing rates."

Planning Director Richard Meade said that the city has had some success with commitments from developers for affordable housing.

"Quincy has probably done more than any other community on the South Shore, but it still is not enough," said Councillor Michael Cheney.

City Awarded Funds From Housing Partnership

Quincy has been awarded up to $5,000 in Municipal Advance Program funds from the Massachusetts Housing Partnership (MHP).

The award was made to implement activities outlined in the city's recent application for funds, according to Amy S. Anthony, secretary, Executive Office of Communities and Development.

"I wish to congratulate you on your demonstrated commitment to increasing the range of affordable housing opportunities in your community," said Anthony in a letter.

"We are all aware of the difficulties faced by many families in Massachusetts in securing decent, safe and affordable housing, and you should be commended for your efforts with this important initiative," she said.

Faxon Park Field House Vandalized

The field house at Faxon Park was recently vandalized reports Raymond C. Cattaneo, executive director, Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments.

The Park Department plans to restore the building in time for the summer months at an estimated cost of $3,000.

The field house, which is used as restroom facilities for family picnics, was discovered in a routine check by Park Department personnel.

A two foot hole was cut through the roof to gain entry. Upon entry vandals destroyed windows, ceilings, toilet and sink fixtures with a hammer that was found in the building along with other tools. Walls were spray painted and a piece of brass pipe was stolen from the ceiling. Shingles from a third of the roof were also removed.

The field house was built in the 1930's as a part of the W.P.A. project and was used as a maintenance facility to house a custodian to maintain the park.

License Board Briefs

The city's License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting at City Hall.

- Granted a request from North Quincy High School Drama Club for canning dates March 25, 26, and June 10 and 11.
- Continued for one week a hearing regarding liquor violations at the Hat Rack, 7-9 Copeland St., Quincy. Letters to appear before the board will be hand delivered to the owner, Donna M. Hatfield and her lawyer.
- Granted a request from St. Joseph's Parent Teacher Organization for a one day all alcoholic license for March 5 from 7:30 p.m. to midnight.
- Voted to permanently revoke Robert McManus's lodging house license in three weeks if McManus does not show the board a Certificate of Occupancy and Inspection by the Building Dept., if he does not show the board approval by the Health Dept. and if he does not show signed contract with waste disposal form for weekly removal of dumpster or the installation of two dumpsters.

Council Considers Power To Increase School Budget

(Cont'd from Page 1)

City Solicitor Joseph (Jay) MacRitchie said there were several flaws with the law.

"The City Council would not know how much, if anything, the School Department budget could be raised to stay within Proposition 2½," said MacRitchie.

"If this was accepted by the city, it could greatly change the way money is spent."

"It's clear there are questions to be resolved," said committee chairman Larry Chretien, who added that more meetings will be held on the topic.

Remodeling Work Progresses At Shelter For Homeless

Remodeling work at the site of the city's first permanent shelter for the homeless, Fr. Bill's Place, scheduled to open in mid-April, is progressing, according to an Interfaith Sheltering Coalition official.

But funds are still needed for reconstruction work at the former site of the Registry of Motor Vehicles on Broad St., Quincy Center, said Nancy Powers, sheltering coalition executive director.

The registry moved to Quincy Sq. recently.

A 45-bed shelter is planned at the Broad St. site, replacing temporary shelters at two local churches.

It is to be named in honor of Fr. William McCarthy, pastor of St. John's Church, Quincy, a long-time advocate for the homeless.

"We've raised $136,000, but we need at least $70,000 to $100,000 more," said Mrs. Powers.

"We've received $14,000 in various state grants.

"But the problem now is emphasis on families. Very few places are funding individual shelters."

The coalition is in the middle of a capital fund raising campaign which has former Atty. Gen. Frank Bellotti as general chairman, according to Mrs. Powers.

Mrs. Powers said the coalition is grateful for all who have helped so far.

"Matt Mulvey (the city's building inspector) has been very constructive and helpful as we look forward," she said. "He has really been an asset to us.

"Architect Arnold Jacobson is donating 100 percent of his time, and the Quincy Building and Trade Union is donating 100 percent of the labor.

"Kirt Fordyce is coordinating the Quincy Building and Trade Union.

"Vern Norman Associates are donating the electrical drawing, and Richard Kimball Co. is donating the mechanical engineering.

"Frank Terranova is volunteering his time to oversee everything," she said. Terranova was formerly Quincy Housing Authority commissioner.

But, said Mrs. Powers, that still leaves numerous expenses such as supplies.

"We need a new roof, new heating system and a lot of plumbing," she explained.

Donations may be sent to the coalition at P.O. Box 2512, Quincy, Ma., 02169.

Self-Service Gas Stations, Smoking Hearings Feb. 29

The City Council will hold public hearings on self-service gas stations and restricting smoking in eating establishments Monday night in the Council Chambers at City Hall.

The hearing on self-service stations will begin at 7:15 p.m., and the hearing on smoking restrictions at 7:30 p.m.

A public hearing on rezoning six parcels of land in Houghs Neck to open space will precede those two hearings at 7 p.m.

Remove Christmas Decorations From Cemeteries

The Cemetery Board of Managers requests the removal of all Christmas decorations from the city cemeteries on or before Sunday, March 6.

Auto Service Firm, Neighbors To Work Out Parking Problems

By KRISTINE STRENGE

A South Quincy business owner was told by the License Board Tuesday to work out parking problems with area residents.

John Omar, owner of Omar's Auto Electrical Service, Inc., 153 Brook Rd., appeared before the board to request a Motor H (used car) license for 10 cars.

Omar said he needs to sell used cars to subsidize for his loss of employees.

Due to opposing residents the board continued the request for one week. Police Chief Francis Finn suggested Omar and area residents have a meeting "to come to some sort of agreement."

Ernest Aristide of 156 Brook Rd., and Jackie Quirk, administrative assistant to Councillor James Sheets told board members they, along with other residents, are opposed to Omar's request. They said that Brook Rd. is already crowded with cars, and Omar's request would only add to the problem.

Omar agreed that Brook Rd. is overly crowded but he said he keeps his cars in his lot and tries to tell all his customers not to park in front of residents' homes.

Quirk told the board she would set up a meeting with area residents and Omar, so that an agreement could be made before next Tuesday.

McCauley At Mayor's Seminar

Mayor Francis McCauley was scheduled to attend a Seminar for Massachusetts Mayors Wednesday through Friday at the Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University, Cambridge.

The seminar will include speakers and workshops, McCauley said.

Some program topics will be "The Problem of Affordable Housing," "Managing the Police," "The Municipal Budget and State Aid" and "Motivating Your Executive Team."

He Doesn't Understand It

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Here's one Quincy resident who doesn't understand it.

Mayor McCauley announces a deal with MWRA officials recently but it doesn't include capping sewage clean-up assessments to the city? What happened to the mayor's vaulted executive skills? Perhaps, next time he should get the City Council and our state House legislative delegation involved in discussions with the Massachusetts Water Resource Authority.

This latest revenue enhancement scheme coming out of the Mayor's Office and, apparently, supported by the three newest City Councillors is nothing more than double taxation.

I oppose a separate Sewer Use "Tax" and believe it is nothing less than an end run around the taxpayer-supported limits of Prop. 2.5 and urge the Quincy City Council to vote it down when it comes up for consideration in council chambers.

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

On behalf of Mary Sweeney, Director of Planning and Marketing at Quincy City Hospital, who coordinated our KID SAFE Program, we would like to thank those who made the day a success.

Special thanks go to the Quincy Police and Fire Departments, the Norfolk County Sheriff's Department, Bob Gohl of Quincy Cable TV and the many dedicated staff of the hospital who did such a great job.

We would also like to thank the hundreds of children and parents who participated in KID SAFE, a first of its kind in our community.

She's In The 6th Grade And Sad

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I am in the 6th grade and really sad. A couple of weeks ago I left school crying. This Christmas I received a green and yellow coat saying "Quincy Point" on the back. Now I have to go to Sterling or Broad Meadows with it.

It doesn't bother me because I'll always have PRIDE in my school. What bothers me is that I have to move out of my school, and the Mayor said he would not vote for consolidating our school. Well, I guess he was wrong because he voted for it!

(P.S.) If I were old enough to vote, Mr. McCauley, I would not vote for you.

Giant Game Of Red Rover

City Council President Patricia Toland got a chance to see the Iowa Presidential caucuses in action and came away wondering why the big fuss over them.

TOLAND

She found them fascinating but hardly a true barometer of political strength or popularity.

Presidential primaries like those in New Hampshire and the blockbuster (including Massachusetts) coming up Super Tuesday, March 8 give a more reliable and meaningful reading, she thinks.

Toland spent nearly a week in Cedar Rapids in a phone bank for Gov. Michael Dukakis along with Mario Traficante and Dale Musgrave of Quincy; Jim Franch, formerly of Houghs Neck now of Cohasset, who is Dukakis' appointment secretary and Weymouth Selectman Brian McDonald.

Toland and the others had the opportunity to attend one of the caucuses.

"It's like a giant game of Red Rover," she says.

The person running the caucus tells the Gephardt supporters, for example, to stand in one area, the Simon supporters in another, Dukakis, Hart, Gore, Jackson, Babbitt, etc. supporters to stand segregated in other areas.

"Then," says Toland, "the Gephardt supporters yell to the Simon supporters to 'come on over.' And this goes on among the other groups trying to tug one another over to their group.

"The problem with this system," Toland says, "is there is no secret ballot. Everyone is on public display and everyone knows who everyone else is with or supposed to be with.

"Ordinary people can be easily manipulated or intimidated."

For example, she says, there were a lot of union people supporting Gephardt. If a union member preferred one of the other candidates, he wouldn't dare to show it.

"His feet would be with the Gephardt group but his heart with someone else," she says.

She says there are even cases where sons and daughters disagree with their parents on a candidate but to avoid a family row, stand with their parents.

Standing alone in a voting booth casting a secret ballot allows for a truer indicator than standing in a political fishbowl. Especially if for one reason or another, you are publicly standing with one group but privately wish you were with another.

Although Gephardt and Simon talk like most of the people in Iowa and appear to be "one of them," the people were hospitable to the Yankee from Massachusetts, Toland says.

A problem for Dukakis out there was that the people are anti-abortion and Dukakis is pro-choice.

This helped Pat Robertson among the Republicans.

Toland found the Dukakis campaign well organized but she thinks he will have a tough road to travel through the South.

Toland, French, Traficante, Musgrave, McDonald, City Councillor Larry Chretien, Alicia Coletti, Ann Kane and Bob Gibbons were in New Hampshire for the primaries there. All agreed they would take that system over Iowa's caucuses.

THIS WILL BE an unusual election year in Massachusetts. The state primary will be on a Thursday instead of the traditional Tuesday. The date: Thursday, Sept. 15.

The primary has been shifted because of the Jewish holy days.

The final election, Nov. 8 will be back to Tuesday.

Women In A ~~Man's~~ World

Dr. Ekbal Elkadry Finds Dentistry A Good Field For Women

(This is the first in a series of articles about women in professional and business fields that were once considered strictly a male's domain).

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

In her native Egypt, it wasn't unusual for a woman to be a dentist, according to Dr. Ekbal Elkadry.

But when she came to this country 12 years ago, she found that it wasn't quite as commonplace.

"In the beginning, I saw the surprise in the faces of patients," said Dr. Elkadry, a bright, attractive woman with a gentle manner.

"They didn't expect to see a woman," she said, noting that her name gave no hint of whether she was a man or woman.

"Usually the surprise was from a man," explained Dr. Elkadry, who has an office at 1354 Hancock St., Quincy Sq., for the past eight years.

"At first, he would look at you carefully and examine every move.

"One man asked if I could pull a tooth.

"I said that you don't have to have muscles to pull a tooth.

"It takes a while," said Dr. Elkadry, whose practice now has many loyal patients.

She also teaches one day a week at Tufts University, Boston.

"I don't always want to be in an office," Dr. Elkadry said. "I teach and I learn at Tufts.

"I enjoy working with students and discussing cases."

Her topic is Oral Health Service and How to Deal with Dental Emergencies.

Dr. Elkadry is no stranger to universities.

Always a good student, she attended Cairo University for five years and received a DDS degree, and also a diploma in gum treatment.

Dr. Elkadry practiced for 10 years in Egypt before gathering her courage and coming to this country with her children. "I felt I needed more," explained Dr. Elkadry who noted that she had already learned how to speak English.

As a foreign dentist, she was required to complete more studies and earned a DMD degree after 18 months at Tufts.

"The United States is the best country in the world in which to practice dentistry," said Dr. Elkadry.

"Now this is my home," she said.

She pointed to the variety of dental services which can be offered.

In Egypt, patients often went to the dentist to alleviate pain or because of lack of function, she said.

In the United States, patients are more interested in preventing pain as well as improving their smile, according to Dr. Elkadry.

"Dentistry is very challenging," she said. "Every year there is something new.

"It's not static or stationary.

"There are always new techniques or improvements.

"I take classes if the subject is of interest.

"I don't feel bored."

Her patients have been as young as three years old.

"She needed a filling," explained Dr. Elkadry about that patient. "She sat in the chair and acted very nicely. She was an example for every child."

If a child is not comfortable, she prefers to postpone the visit, rather than force the issue, said Dr. Elkadry.

Her oldest patient is an 89 year old woman.

"She comes every six months and doesn't have any cavities," said Dr. Elkadry.

Some patients are apprehensive about coming to the dentist, she acknowledged, and it doesn't matter if they are a man or woman, weak or strong.

"Usually that is because they had a traumatic experience," she said.

"I take more time when patients are scared," explained Dr. Elkadry.

"I tell them it won't be painful, and I don't lie to patients," I try to be considerate.

"Gradually, they lose their fear."

She prefers novacaine over gas to numb patient's mouths.

"There are some hazards with gas and I don't feel it is necessary. That's why I don't use it," said Dr. Elkadry.

Her patients tell her that dentistry needs more women because of their special kindness and patience.

"The number of women dentists is growing," she said.

"It's a good field for women. There is the opportunity to care about people, to develop social relationships and to help people."

One of her daughters, Noha, 19, is following in her footsteps and is in a predental program.

Her other daughter, Iman, 21, is pursuing a medical career.

Dr. Elkadry finds dentistry very rewarding, especially when she sees positive results and happier patients.

There are also some lighter moments.

One patient brought her flowers to make doubly sure there wouldn't be any pain.

"It worked," she said with a smile.

Service Cut On Old Colony Line

Feb. 24-March 2, 1949
39 Years Ago

The New Haven Railroad dropped 114 trains, reducing service on its Old Colony line to 87 trains, despite frenzied attempts to prevent it in the State House and in the courts.

The Massachusetts DPU first decided that the railroad did not need state permission to cut service, then changed its mind at the urging of Atty. Gen. Francis A. Kelly.

The New Haven, however, obtained an injunction in U.S. District Court in New Haven, Conn., that blocked the DPU's move only hours before the midnight deadline to drop the trains.

Meanwhile Gov. Paul A. Dever and New Haven President Laurance F. Wittemore met to discuss the future of the Old Colony Line and the effect of recent layoffs of workers in the railroad's Readville repair shop.

5,000 Expected At Former Quincy Woman's Wedding In Hanover

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

When Quincy native Judi Sherman gets married March 5 at 3 p.m. she shouldn't have any trouble finding someone to catch her bouquet.

An estimated 5,000 onlookers are expected to watch her marry Bill Foley of Pembroke during all all expense paid "live wedding" at the Hanover Mall.

They were selected from among 25 couples who responded to the mall's invitation for such a wedding.

The ceremony will take place at the center of the mall where the fountain is located.

Justice of the Peace Bernie Reisberg, a Quincy businessman, will conduct the ceremony which will be followed with a blessing by a priest.

"We thought this would be something we would remember all of our lives," said Judi, 21, who now lives with her parents in Halifax.

The wedding, called "Wedding Fantasy," not only includes an all expense paid wedding, but also a seven day, six night honeymoon at the Breakers Resort in Palm Beach, Fla. with airfare courtesy of American Airlines.

Other special highlights include a 10-foot balloon gazebo designed and built by Balloons and Stuff of Quincy under which the couple will take their vows and a large wedding cake from Montilio's of Quincy that will be decorated on the mall the morning of the wedding.

Hanover Mall merchants will provide many wedding gifts.

Items ranging from a $1,200 designer wedding gown and headpiece to invitations as well as photographs and video packages will be provided by other businesses.

JUDI SHERMAN and BILL FOLEY — Studio One

Judi and Bill met at a friends apartment 15 months ago, and became engaged just before Christmas.

Before being selected by the Hanover mall, they had planned a simple wedding and were going to take their families out to dinner after the ceremony.

The couple had been thinking of an August date so they could save the money they needed.

Judi is working two jobs part time and earning a degree in special education at Bridgewater State College.

Bill, 23, is working as a paper handler at The Boston Herald and hopes to become an apprentice to a pressman.

"The idea of being married on the mall intrigued us," said Judi. "We both like different things.

"We were excited that we wouldn't have to wait until August, or later maybe."

The wedding is the first of its kind in the area.

Sexual Assault

Reducing The Risk

True or False

1. Rape is motivated by sexual desire.

FALSE. Rape is an act of violence, not sexual passion. It is an attempt to hurt and humiliate, using sex as the weapon.

2. Most women are raped by strangers in high-risk situations - hitchiking, walking alone at night, going to a bar.

FALSE. Rapes can happen in these situations, but approximately one-third of all victims are attacked in their homes and in over half the reported rapes, women know their attackers.

3. Women invite rape by dressing seductively.

FALSE. Victims do not cause rape. It can happen to anyone - children, grandmothers, students, working women, mothers, wives, the rich and the poor. In fact, police believe that in the stranger-rape situation, rapists tend to prey on women who look frightened, easily intimidated, or seem to be daydreaming. In other words, rape victims often are in the wrong place at the wrong time.

4. The majority of rapists continue until caught.

TRUE. And rape is one of the under reported crimes.

Reducing the risk of becoming a rape victim at home

- Make sure all windows and doors in your home can be locked securely, particularly sliding glass doors. Use the locks. Keep entrances well-lighted.
- Install a peephole in the door and use it.
- Check the identification of any sales or service person before letting him in.

While walking:

- Be alert to your surroundings and the people around you.
- Stay in well-lighted areas as much as possible.
- Walk close to the curb. Avoid doorways, bushes and alleys.
- If you are in trouble, attract help any way you can. Scream, yell for help, or yell "Fire!"
- If you feel you're being followed, walk into a store or knock on a house door.

While driving:

- Keep your car in good working order and the gas tank at least half full.
- When returning to your car, have the key ready, and check the front and back seats and floor before getting in.
- If your car breaks down, put up the hood, lock the doors, and put on the flashers. Use flares if you have them and tie a white cloth to the antenna. If someone stops to help, don't get out of the car. Roll down the window slightly and ask the person to call the police for you.
- If you are being followed, don't drive home. Get to the nearest police or fire station and honk your horn. Or drive to an open gas station or other business where you can safely call the police. Don't leave your car unless you are certain you can get inside a building safely. Try to obtain the license plate number and description of the car following you.

Next Week: Coping with an attack.

Quincy Hospital Offers Community Health Screenings

In conjunction with its physician referral service, Quincy City Hospital is now offering community health screenings Wednesday afternoons.

The screening consists of a comprehensive blood chemistry analysis, which will evaluate blood glucose, cholesterol, BUN, creatinine, calcium, hemoglobin, and several other parameters. A urine specimen will also be taken for analysis.

A registered nurse will review the results of the screening test with the patient. Copies of the test results will be given to the patient, and copies will be sent to the patient's personal physician. If the individual does not have a personal physician, the nurse will assist the patient to select one, through the Quincy City Hospital Doctor Directory (Physician Referral Service).

Community Health Screening will be offered weekly Wednesdays from 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., in the out-patient department. Patients will register for the testing through the Out-Patient Registration area in the Admitting Department. The fee for the screening is $10, and is due at the time of service. Cash, check or bank card are accepted for payment.

For additional information on the Community Health Screenings, the hospital's Diabetes Clinic or the free blood pressure screening clinics, please contact the Ambulatory Care Department at the hospital at 773-6100, ext. 3009, between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. weekdays.

Contact with the Physicians Referral Service, the "Doctor Directory," may be made between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. weekdays.

Vision Foundation Sponsors Self Help Group

Vision Foundation, Inc., a support organization for people coping with sight loss, sponsors a self-help group which meets in the Quincy area.

The Quincy group is one of 20 such groups which meet across the state. The group encourages visually impaired people of all ages and backgrounds to share information, provide emotional support and suggest solutions to common, every-day problems.

"The impact of sudden sight loss can be staggering," says Marshall Weimann, manager of self-help groups, who has been blind for nearly 9 years. "People ask if anyone can understand how they really feel, whether anyone else has gone through this experience, and how they cope? We try to answer these questions at our group meetings."

Each self-help group is led by a visually impaired group coordinator. Transportation is provided to and from each meeting within the general geographic area. The coordinator also serves as a role model to group members.

To attend a self-help group meeting, call Marshall Weimann at Vision Foundation, (617) 926-4232 or toll free, 1-800-852-3029.

Easter Seal Volleyball Marathon Registration

Registration is being taken for the Century 21-Easter Seal Volleyball Marathon to be held in the Quincy area Saturday and Sunday, March 12 and 13.

The event is open to any team ready to play volleyball for the benefit of local people with disabilities.

Each team entering the marathon receives a game trophy and a chance to win prizes ranging from T-shirts to Red Sox tickets.

Proceeds from the marathon help bring Easter Seal services to disabled children and adults throughout Massachusetts.

Services include swim programs, summer camp, equipment loan, stroke support groups, physical and occupational therapy, speech therapy, home health care and information and referral service.

Any business or group can register a team for the volleyball marathon.

For more information, call 1-800-922-8290 or 482-3370.

Quincy Sons Of Italy Donate $1,000 To CP

The Quincy Sons of Italy, with a $1,000 donation, helped the Massachusetts Order Sons of Italy donate more than $30,000 to the United Cerebral Palsy Association during the recent "Weekend with the Stars" telethon.

The donation was raised through the combined efforts of various lodge pancake breakfasts, phon-a-thons, canister drives, and the personal and filial lodge pledges of Sons of Italy members and neighbors.

State First Vice President Angelo Furnari presented a check of $1,000 in behalf of the Massachusetts Grand Lodge and expressed his enthusiasm for this fundraiser. Besides Quincy, other area lodges donating included Lawrence ($4,000) and Watertown ($6,000).

Through the Greater Boston phon-a-thon, $17,000 was realized with another $5,000 from North Shore calls.

United Cerebral Palsy co-chairmen are Rose Perri, scholarship chairman, and Joseph Guiffrida, state financial secretary.

Once again, the Massachusetts Order Sons of Italy in America has successfully contributed to a most worthwhile charity, thanks to the hard work and generosity of its members and friends.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

"Ho Hum, Just don't have a thing to do!" ... A silly remark? Perhaps ...

We're all surrounded by things that are crying for attention. And isn't it true that as soon as we hear its cry, the thing becomes a duty? Perhaps this is why we sometimes try not to hear the cries. We don't really want something to do ...

Once we hear the cry, though, and recognize it as a call to a duty, we can take one of two courses ... Do it or neglect it.

Taking on a duty can be taking on a lot of work and trouble, and it means exposing ourselves to the criticism of those who think we're not doing it right. Someone once said that if you want to avoid criticism, do nothing, say nothing, be nothing. If you don't want to be criticized, neglect a duty. Nobody'll pick at you for neglecting it!

BUT remember this: if you do neglect it, there is one critic you can't get away from. Who? Your conscience, of course!

So, can you truly say, "There isn't anything to do?" We can't! ...

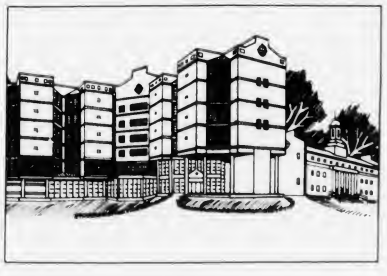
Q: What's up and coming in health care?



A: The New QCH!

Quincy City Hospital has begun an impressive $57 million renovation. Almost two-thirds of the buildings and other facilities will be replaced—all part of a dramatic plan to better serve the growing and changing health care needs of the South Shore.

The focal point of the new hospital complex will be a brand new six story building that will contain 234 patient beds as well as all of the necessary patient care support services.

Since its founding in 1890, Quincy City Hospital has been in the forefront of health care on the South Shore. With our new facilities we'll continue to deliver the highest quality health care services with warm, personal attention.

At QCH--we're building for the future on a proud past.

Reception For Fr. Denis O'Driscoll At Houghs Neck Congregational

Rev. Denis O'Driscoll, recently installed pastor of Most Blessed Sacrament Church in Houghs Neck, will be welcomed into the community by members and friends of the Houghs Neck Congregational Church Sunday at a 2 p.m. reception at the church hall.

Dr. Peter V. Corea and the Rev. M. Alicia Corea associate pastors, and the church diaconate are planning an informal ecumenical reception with light refreshments to which all are invited.

Fr. O'Driscoll is the 11th pastor of the 72-year-old Most Blessed Sacrament Church. He succeeds Rev. James P. Hart, pastor for 19 years, longest in the church history. Fr. Hart is now at St. Columbkille in Brighton.

Fr. O'Driscoll spent his first seven years as a priest in West Africa in missionary work. He was then for 14 years a teacher of metaphysics at Dutton Manor Seminary in England. For the past 10 years, he has been an associate pastor in the Archdiocese of Boston.

Fr. William McCarthy To Receive Red Cross 'Good Neighbor Award'

The South Shore Chapter of the American Red Cross will present its "Good Neighbor of the Year Award" to Rev. William McCarthy at its 10th annual ball Thursday, April 14 at the Lantana in Randolph.

Fr. McCarthy, pastor of St. John's Church in Quincy Center, will be honored for his many accomplishments throughout the area. The event will also raise needed funds for the Red Cross.

Fr. WILLIAM McCARTHY

"Father McCarthy and the Red Cross believe and work for the same goals, to serve and educate people while always being available in times of need," said Robert J. Quinn, chairman of the South Shore Chapter of the American Red Cross.

The evening will begin with a social hour from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m., followed by the award presentation, dinner and dancing. As a first time added feature, "Soft Touch," a 20-piece orchestra, will perform big band dance music.

Fair Housing Committee Ecumenical Conference March 1

The Quincy Fair Housing Committee will sponsor an ecumenical conference Tuesday, March 1, bringing together clergy from Quincy and the Greater Boston area to discuss issues of multi-cultural awareness, integration and racism.

It will be an opportunity for clergy to share and discuss their insights and experiences.

The Quincy Fair Housing Committee is sponsoring the event as one of its outreach efforts to make the city accessible and welcoming to diverse cultures.

The following topics will be discussed at the conference:

- How to achieve cultural exchange in the churches of Quincy?
- How to encourage fair housing practices?
- How to encourage inter-cultural worship?
- How to encourage minorities to live and work in Quincy?
- How to encourage interaction among people from different backgrounds?

Organizers hope that the conference will encourage continued dialogue between clergy and the community on these issues.

The conference will take place Tuesday, March 1, at the Quincy City Hall conference room from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

For more information, contact Alison Feighan 479-8181, or Cindy Silvera 770-2227.

10:30 A.M. Worship Service At First Squantum Church

"Being Strong When We Are Weak" was the sermon topic Sunday of Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor at the First Church of Squantum.

Cynthia Stanton read the New Testament lesson.

Hymns were accompanied by pianist Janet Williamson and organist Mary Ruth Scott.

Greeters for the morning were Drusilla Warnes and Mae Lewis. Ushers were Tore Wallin and Stewart Scott. The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Joan Hansen and Mary Scott.

Sunday night the pastor met with young people interested in becoming a part of the Covenant of Discipleship which leads to membership in the church. Wednesday night he met with adults interested in joining the church.

The church is offering two different Lenten programs this year. On Tuesday nights, in a series entitled, "Contemporary Films and the Christian Faith," participants discussed spiritual aspects of the film "East of Eden" starring James Dean. This group will meet on Monday, Feb. 29 at 7:30 p.m. to discuss "Mosquito Coast." It will meet on Monday that week to avoid meeting on the same night as Womens' Evening Friendship, which will meet on Tuesday, March 1, at 7:30 p.m. Dr. Langevin will bring a Lenten message to the womens' meeting.

Ladies' Aid, another women's group in the church, will meet for lunch Wednesday, March 2, at 12:30 p.m. Dr. Langevin will speak to that group after the luncheon.

The Wednesday night Lenten program is entitled, "Big Stories in the Old Testament." The subjects this week were Cain and Abel, and the story of Noah and the ark. On March 2, the subject will be the tower of Babel. That group meets for supper at 6:30 p.m. and moves upstairs for discussion at 7:15 p.m. The entree for supper this week was meatloaf.

The Chancel Choir is now rehearsing at 8:45 a.m. each Sunday morning to sing at the 10:30 a.m. service.

The Youth Choir continues to rehearse at 11:45 a.m. after church.

This Sunday, there will be one worship service for all at 10:30 a.m. Sunday school meets during the service and a nursery is provided. The sermon topic this Sunday is "Is Not This The Christ?" Visitors are welcome.

'Diabetes And Health' QCH Program

"Diabetes and Health," a program focusing on the ability of people to control their diabetes, and not allow it to control them, will begin Monday, March 7 at Quincy City Hospital.

The program, which will be conducted on two consecutive Wednesday evenings, will emphasize the four cornerstones of diabetes management. What Is Diabetes?, Living With Diabetes, Medications and Eating For Health.

This month's program will meet in the evening, and will be incorporated into two, three-hour sessions. The first session, which will include What Is Diabetes? and Living With Diabetes, will meet Monday, March 7, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

The second session, including the topics of Medications and Eating For Health, will meet Monday, March 14.

Pre-registration is required for the sessions. A registration fee is charged.

To register, or for additional information on any of the Diabetes Education Programs offered by Quincy City Hospital, contact Arlene Ferretti, R.N., C.D.E., Certified Diabetes Educator, at 773-6100 ext. 3029.

Toland To Discuss Working Women At Free QJC Program

City Council President Patricia Toland will discuss "Working Women: Balancing Multiple Roles" Thursday, March 10, 7 to 9 p.m. at the Coddington Building, Room 4, Quincy Junior College.

The free program is sponsored by Bay State Centers for Displaced Homemakers and the Boston YMCA.

For information or registration, call 536-7940, ext. 136.

According to the Quincy Regional Advisory Council, over 65 percent of the clients are from Quincy, Braintree and Weymouth, are 35 years old or older, have high school diplomas or GED.

Most are divorced or widowed and have had some work experience, usually in clerical or health aide fields.

Good Scout Benefit Party March 10 At Granite Place

The annual Good Scout Party to benefit the continued renovation and improvement of Boy Scout Camp Massasoit will be held Thursday March 10 from 7 to 9 p.m. at Granite Place, 125 Granite St., Quincy Center.

The highlight of the evening will be the awarding of the James R McIntyre Good Scout Award to a public-spirited individual who has demonstrated through their good deeds a commitment to the principles of Scouting. The late Mayor and Senator James R McIntyre, who attended Camp Massasoit as a Boy Scout, initiated a series of Good Scout parties which have made it possible to continue the development of Camp Massasoit into one of the finest year-round Boy Scout camps in New England. Generations of Quincy Boy Scouts attended Camp Massasoit during the over 40 years that it operated as a summer camp. During the past 20 years it has operated as a year-round camp accommodating more than 3000 Scouts and leaders annually.

Serving as honorary chairman of the event is Sheila McIntyre. Serving as co-chairmen of the planning committee for this year's party are O. Donald Gohland Harold S. Crowley Jr., both long-time boosters of the scout program in Quincy.

Committee members include:

William Barrett, Robert Barry, Henry Bertolon, Henry Bosworth, Francis Boudreau, Glendon Buscher, Daniel Byrne, Richard Coleman, Joseph Donovan, John Fuller, John Gillis, Adele Gormley, Senator Paul Harold, Steve Hern, Joseph Hurney, Dominic Ilacqua, Leo Kelly, Mayor Francis X. McCauley, Howard Nelles, Mardie Petrosius, Charles Phelan, John Randall, William Schmitt, William Shaw, David Smith, Francis Sullivan, and George Wardle.

Tickets for the party are $30 per couple and are tax-deductible contributions. They may be obtained from any of the committee members. Checks should be made payable to the Camp Massasoit Development Fund.

Early Pregnancy Program At Quincy Hospital

Quincy City Hospital will sponsor a two-session program, "Early Pregnancy - For Healthy Mom and Healthy Baby," for expectant women in their early stages of pregnancy, beginning Thursday, March 3.

The program, which is for women only, will cover the emotional and physical changes of pregnancy, fetal development, nutrition, exercises, and other information that will guide mothers-to-be in making decisions for themselves and their baby.

Classes will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. on two consecutive Thursdays, March 3 and 10, in the Childbirth Education Classroom of the Family-Centered Maternity Unit. Expectant women, regardless of their hospital affiliation, are invited to attend. The program is free to all participants. For additional information on the program, contact the Family-Centered Maternity Department at 773-6100, ext. 3017, or call 659-4644. A brochure will be sent upon request.

Quincy City Hospital also offers classes in sibling orientation and breastfeeding, as well as the program in early pregnancy education.

Information on any of the maternity programs at the hospital may be obtained by calling 773-6100, and asking for the Family-Centered Maternity Unit.

• George Bulger, Guidance Counselor:

'If You Try To Snow Children, They Know It'

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

George Bulger is a licensed social worker who traded an administrative job to work with children in the Quincy public schools.

"When things are not going well, that's when I get involved," said Bulger, a guidance counselor at the Lincoln Hancock School who works with children ages 5 to 11.

He sees 5 to 10 percent of the student population.

"My job is improving children's ability to function in school," he said.

"Some children just never learned how to get along with one another," said Bulger of one of the problems he encounters.

Other children have to learn to deal with minor anxiety attacks, he said.

"We teach them relaxation techniques and tell them that they can manage, that they are not out of control," Bulger explained.

Other students exhibit hyperactive behavior, or have poor social skills.

His approach is to be as honest with children as he is with adults.

"If you try to snow children, they know it," he said.

"I usually start out by saying something like, 'the reason we are getting together is that you seem to be having some trouble with school,'" Bulger said. "'Is that true?'"

The vast majority of the children he sees, who are usually referred by teachers, have a poor self-image, said Bulger.

He tries to emphasize what the students can do, rather than what they can't do.

For example, Bulger said he might tell a student, "Maybe you are not a terrific student, that's ok, we'll help you.

"You've got a nice personality, you're good at phys-ed, and you're terrific at kickball."

Bulger began his career with the Family and Children's Services Department of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. He served in such positions as day care coordinator, assistant director, South Shore Community Service Center, Quincy, staff development specialist and community organizer and social worker.

He also helped organize South Shore Day Care Services and is a past president.

While serving on a number of boards promoting children in Quincy, he met people working in the Quincy Public Schools and made his career change in 1971. He has worked at seven different schools in Quincy.

"The schools were quite a shock from the welfare department," remembered Bulger. "But I've never regretted it.

"Schools are a wonderful place to work. There is always a new crop of faces.

"Kids are very easy to be kind to."

His role also includes presenting programs on such topics as drug and alcohol abuse.

Bulger has organized activities around such other themes as divorce. He had second graders write a play on the subject and present it with puppets.

Puppetry works well with children as a way to express their feelings, according to Bulger.

"Other children love to be entertained by their peers," he added.

"The themes that came out were fascinating," he said.

"Second graders were worried about things like, who is going to look after me?"

About 40 percent of the parents of children in the school are divorced, noted Bulger.

"When children are involved, I don't think there is any such thing as an amicable divorce," he said.

"They take on guilt and think it is their fault that their parents are divorced."

Bulger said he is able to help most of the children he sees in an average of three months.

"But every year, there are one or two kids who really worry me," he said.

His administrative background comes in handy when about one third of the children he sees need outside help, he said.

"I know how the bureaucracy works," said Bulger.

"You have to keep at it, work at it, and it can work well."

Born and educated in Boston, Bulger was in the seminary for a number of years.

Though he decided against life within the church, he chose a life of service, which turned out to be social work.

"It's the way I was raised," he explained, "with emphasis on service to the community and others."

He has bachelor's and master's degrees from Boston University.

Bulger's interests outside of work include cooking and singing in the Weymouth Fine Arts Chorale.

He is also vice chairperson of the Hingham Democratic Committee, and served as a 1987 delegate to the state convention.

Bulger loves to travel and visited Austria and Switzerland in April.

Back at school, his satisfaction comes from seeing his efforts pay off and children achieve their goals.

"Once in a while, you even get a thank you note," he said with a smile. "Or a youngster says 'I really like to see you, Mr. Bulger.'

"Young children are very enjoyable."

Free Movies On 'Family Life' At Point Congregational

Quincy Point Congregational Church and the Protestant Social Service Bureau will co-sponsor "Saturday Nights At The Movies" at the church to focus on "Family Life."

The series will start Saturday at 7 p.m.

The Christian Education Board of the church and leaders of PSSB which provides social services for 10 communities on the South Shore will show five popular movies followed by conversations on the theme of each movie.

There will be no charge for the movies. Members of the Senior High Pilgrim Fellowship group will sell popcorn and soda to help finance a group trip next spring.

The movie and discussion schedule:

• Saturday, Feb. 27, 7 p.m. - "Ordinary People" followed by discussion on "Overcoming Family Conflicts".

• Saturday, March 5, 7 p.m. - "Terms of Endearment" with discussion on the "Mother-Daughter Relationship".

• Saturday, March 12, 7 p.m. - "The Great Santini" with discussion about the "Father-Son Relationship".

• Saturday, March 19, 7 p.m. - "Kramer vs. Kramer" with discussion on "Divorce and Custody Issues".

• Saturday, March 26, at 7 p.m. - "On Golden Pond" with discussion on "Growing Older Gracefully."

The program and discussions will be led by a combination of leaders, including the Reverends Fred and Carol Atwood-Lyon, pastors of Point Congregational Church; Ben Thompson, a licensed social worker with the Protestant Social Service Bureau; Sarabeth Harris, a registered nurse and family counsellor on the PSSB staff, and Sharon Thompson, a PSSB social work intern.

Invitations have been mailed to all area churches and synagogues encouraging adults to attend and participate in the series of five films.

All residents of the South Shore are invited.

Quincy Point Congregational Church is located at Southern Artery and Washington St. There is offstreet parking.

For more information, call the church office at 773-6424.

QHS - Vo-Tech Students Recognized For Athletics, Academics

Quincy High School and Quincy Vocational-Technical School for the second year have expanded the spirit rally idea to include recognition of students achieving excellence in academics as well as introducing students involved in athletic programs.

Students at both schools assembled in the MacLean Gymnasium to cheer both students receiving high grades and students involved in winter sports. The Presidents' Marching Band directed by Robert Coviello played the traditional school song and the anthem and the cheerleaders directed by Deborah DeCristofaro performed many of their cheering routines.

Teachers and administrators presented certificates and pins to high achievers in all departments and programs.

Bantam A's Edged By N.Y. In Final, 2-1

Quincy's Bantam A team made an outstanding showing in the Kiwanis Tournament, going to the championship game before being edged by Suffolk, N.Y., 2-1, in one of the tournament's most exciting games.

Quincy started by rolling over Bridgetown-Lawrencetown, Hawks, 9-0.

Sal Manganaro had a hat trick. Jimmy McCarthy two goals and Kevin Daly, Brian Zimmerman, Richard McDonald and Greg Hohmann one each. Zimmerman had four assists, Jeff Freeman two and Steve Carroll, Kevin Daly, Armando Mancini, Ron Last, Joe Fasano, Hohmann and Manganaro one each.

Quincy exploded again in its next game, walloping Adirondack, N.Y., 9-1.

McDonald led the way with four goals. Freeman, Manganaro, Fasano, Ken Staskywicz and Zimmerman had one each. Mancini had three assists, Daly two and Carroll, Hohmann, Staskywicz, Fasano, Freeman and Mike Baylis one each.

Quincy edged Suffolk, N.Y., 3-2, with Fasano, Zimmerman and Manganaro scoring the goals and Manganaro having two assists as did Fasano and Hohmann one.

Quincy continued its outstanding play as it defeated Troy, N.Y., 4-1, with Manganaro having two goals and Freeman and Hohmann one each. Fasano had two assists and Zimmerman, Hohmann, Duane Keegan and Staskywicz one each.

Quincy and Suffolk met again in the championship game and Suffolk squeezed out a 2-1 win. Manganaro scored the only Quincy goal.

Also playing were Scott Mann and Freddy Regan. Bob Carroll and Jim Daly were the coaches.

Quincy outshot Suffolk by a 3-1 margin but was continually foiled by the outstanding play of the Suffolk goalie.

"We played a higher level of competition in the tournament and I'm happy with the way the kids played," said Carroll. "Unfortunately for us, they had a very hot goalie. We didn't play one local team in the whole tournament."

Quincy Squirts Had The Spirit But Not The Power

Quincy's Squirt team lost all three of its games in the Kiwanis Tournament, but turned in spirited efforts in each game.

Following a 4-0 loss to Arlington on opening day, Quincy was edged by Milton, 3-2.

Lee Hughes and Doug Nolan scored the Quincy goals and Paul King had two assists and Eric Zimmerman one.

Quincy was eliminated by Troy, N.Y., 4-2 with Hughes and Billy Coughlin scoring the goals. King, Zimmerman, Brian Bartkus and Andrew Vermette had assists.

Also playing were Steve Provost, Brendan O'Brien, Danny Donahue, Patrick Connolly, Jay Evans, David Cooper, David Pacino and Mark Smith. Ernie Zimmerman and Brian Connolly were the coaches.

Framingham won the Squirt championship, defeating Troy, N.Y., 2-0.

Pee Wee's Lose To Ontario In Semi-Finals

Quincy's Pee Wee team advanced the semifinals of the Kiwanis Tournament before being eliminated by Aurora, Ontario, 4-2.

Quincy tied Sackville, Nova Scotia, 2-2, in its opening game.

Joe Zona and Bob Fitzpatrick scored the goals and Fitzpatrick, Zona, Mike Christopherson and Steve Bartkus had assists.

Quincy also tied Team Colorado, 1-1, Christopherson scoring the goal unassisted.

Quincy defeated Troy, N.Y., 4-1, sparked by Bartkus' hat trick. Brian Wood had the other goal and Zona had three assists and Fitzpatrick and Sean Vermette one each.

Quincy was eliminated by Aurora, Nova Scotia, 4-2, in the semifinals.

Christopherson and Bartkus scored the goals and Zona, Steve O'Brien and Sean McArdle had assists.

Also playing were Sean Connolly, Mark Gilmore, Shane Abboud, Scott McClory, Robbie Guarnieri, Matt Riley, Chris McCallum, David Manning and Dennis Ruggere. Coaches were Jim Gilmore and Tom Connelly.

Team Colorado won the Pee Wee championship with a 3-1 victory over Aurora after tying Quincy and defeating Sackville, Nova Scotia, Troy, N.Y., and St. John's, Newfoundland.

Quincy Mites 1-2

Quincy's Mite team won one game and lost two in the Kiwanis Tournament and won one of the highest scoring games in the tourney, coasting by Hyde Park, 12-0.

Following an opening day 4-1 loss to Woburn, Quincy blasted Hyde Park, 13-0, as Mike O'Brien, Paul Princiotto, Scott Cooper and Timmy Hunter scored two goals apiece and Robbie Pirelli, Danny Hughes, Mark Regan and Matt Watkins one each. Danny Stone, Pirelli, Watkins and Regan had two assists each and O'Brien and Mike Ryan one apiece.

Quincy was eliminated by Suffolk, N.Y., 6-1, with Cooper scoring the only goal unassisted.

Souza Remains Undefeated, Takes 119 Pound Title

Junior Co-Captain Todd Kimmell took second place at 145 pounds and he and Souza will complete in the state championships this weekend at Brockton.

Souza became the first sophomore to win a sectional crown for Quincy and it improved his record to 21-0-2. He defeated [illegible] Carver's Mike Magner in the finals.

Kimmell, with a 16-4-1 record, lost only to undefeated Sean O'Connor of Weymouth North in the 145-pound finals.

Earlier Quincy took part in the Suburban League tournament and placed third, finishing behind powerhouses Brockton and Brookline.

Placing second at 189 was junior Brian Norris, a first-year wrestler. Senior Rob Lingoes took third and placing fourth were junior Co-Capt. Scott O'Brien at 130, junior Robert Connolly at 135 and freshman Tom Burton at 171.

"We have a young team, graduating only three seniors, so my hopes are that we can return the program to its previous high level," said first-year coach Lou Venturelli, himself a former Quincy wrestler.

Kiwanians Get A 'Well Done'

Forty-four teams from all sections of the U.S. and Canada converged on Quincy last week for the 15th annual Kiwanis International Youth Hockey Tournament.

And everyone praised Beverly Reinhardt, manager of the Youth Arena, and all others connected with the event, for the outstanding treatment they received.

Hugh Townsend, columnist for the Sackville, Nova Scotia, Mail-Star, devoted an entire column to Sackville sending two teams to the Quincy tournament.

Sackville sent Squirt and Pee Wee teams to Quincy, the fifth visit for the Pee Wees and the first for the Squirts.

"Co-Coach Jim Clark said the idea of taking teams to Quincy evolves around a conversation he had a few years with veteran coach Clary Mullane," Townsend wrote.

"Clary told me about taking teams to Boston and how they always had such a good time," Clark said. "So we decided to give it a try. We went the first year and it was just fantastic. We were treated really well so we have been going back ever since."

Suburban Boys All-Star Game Saturday At North

The Suburban League boys' basketball all-star game will be held Saturday night at 7:30 at the North Quincy High gym.

The league junior varsity championship game between Cambridge Rindge and Latin and Brookline will be played at 6 p.m.

The league all-stars will face champion Newton North. The all-star squad will include Ted Stevenson, the league's high scorer, and B.J. Sylva of North Quincy, and Quincy captain Dan Biagini.

Freshmen, Varsity Girls QHS Alumni Game Winners

The freshman team defeated the junior varsity and the varsity team topped the graduates.

YMCA Swimmers In Maine Championships

The United States-New England 8 and under swim championships will be held this weekend at Cape Elizabeth, Me. Representing the South Shore YMCA Strypers will be Paul Zukauskas, James M. Keyes, Robert Blakie, Karl Ehrens and Marianna Blakie.

The Strypers will take part in the YMCA Eastern District Championships next week at Massasoit Community College in Brockton.

In their first year of Division I competition, the E team (8 and under) B team (13-14) boys went undefeated. The E girls were 7-1, the C girls (11-12) 6-2, B girls (4-4) and the A girls (15-18) 4-3 with one tie.

Sixty-five of the team's 75 swimmers have qualified for the championship meet.

East All-Stars Win

The East defeated the West, 78-55, last Saturday in the Suburban League girls' all-star basketball game at North Quincy.

North's Nancy Flukes had 12 points and six rebounds and Quincy's Patti Morrell had 10 points for the East. North's Paula Tolson also played well.

For the West North's Patty Feeney had seven points and Quincy's Gayle Morrell four.

Quincy Hospital Approved For On-Site MRI Services

VICKER DiGRAVIO III

Vicker DiGravio Named Philip Goldberg Intern

Vicker V DiGravio III, son of Mr and Mrs Vicker DiGravio Jr., of Janet Rd., Quincy, and a senior at Connecticut College, was recently named a Philip Goldberg Intern.

The Philip Goldberg Internship is a one-semester paid internship designed to cement the relationship between Connecticut College and local and state organizations by placing a student in a position where he she can both learn and be of service.

DiGravio, a 1984 graduate of North Quincy High School, is a history major and government minor. He recently began his work as an intern in the New London High School Guidance Office.

Th

Quincy City Hospital has became the first community hospital in Massachusetts to be approved by the Department of Health to provide Magnetic Resonance Imaging (MRI) services on-site.

To date, community hospitals wishing to provide MRI services have been required to join with other hospitals in a free-standing site or a mobile MRI service, such as the one in which QCH now participates with the New England Baptist and Faulkner Hospitals.

Only large teaching hospitals, such as Massachusetts General Hospital and Brigham and Women's Hospital, have been able to obtain DPH approval.

In approving Quincy City Hospital's request for this service, the Department of Public Health specifically noted the expertise of Minta Philips, M.D., director of MRI services at QCH. Dr. Phillips is a summa cum laude graduate of Yale University, a graduate of Harvard Medical School, and has completed a fellowship in Magnetic Resonance Imaging at the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Phillips has extensive expertise in diagnostic imaging and is an instructor in radiology at Tufts-New England Medical Center. Because of her expertise and training, QCH is the only MRI service south of Boston, currently providing both central nervous system and body imaging.

Magnetic Resonance Imaging is the latest imaging technique to join traditional X-ray, nuclear medicine, ultrasound, and CT scanning, in the current practice of diagnostic radiology. This revolutionary new method for obtaining highly-detailed pictures of almost all structures in the human body, utilizes a combination of a powerful magnetic field with radio waves and a complex computer. Unlike X-rays, MRI does not generate ionizing radiation. This allows physicians to do repeated scans on a patient, and allows scans of patients, such as children, who physicians are especially reluctant to expose to radiation. There is also no need for the injection of intravenous contrast material, reducing the risk associated with invasive diagnostic techniques.

MRI is the most advanced technology available for obtaining images of the brain and spinal cord. An increasing number of clinical applications are being developed for other body systems such as the circulatory and musculo-skeletal systems. The number of situations in which MRI will replace current diagnostic methods is expected to continue to grow at a rapid pace.

With this addition of a full-time, on-site MRI service, Quincy City Hospital will have the most comprehensive Department of Radiology, of any hospital between Boston and Providence, the hospital said.

'Lent And The Olympics' Bethany Topic

There will be two worship services Sunday at Bethany Congregational Church (United Church of Christ), Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center.

The chapel service is at 9 a.m. and the sanctuary service at 10 a.m.

The Rev. Joel F. Huntington, associate minister, will preach at both hours on the topic, "Lent and the Olympics." The Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will lead the liturgy at both hours.

Lay Scripture readers will be Heather Stuart in the chapel and Vivian Miller in the sanctuary.

At the 10 a.m. service, the Chancel Choir will sing under the direction of Peter F. Krasinski, organist and choir director.

The sacrament of Christian baptism will also be celebrated as Nicole Marie Coletta is taken into the family of faith. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Coletta (Donna Middledorf). Nicole's godparents will be Mary Lou Middendorf and Edmund Coletta.

The service will be broadcast live over WJDA, 1300 kc., at 10 a.m.

Sunday School will be in session from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. with classes for children of pre-school through eighth grade. Nursery care for babies is also provided as well as a toddler class for young children. Early Childhood Coordinator, Pam Curran, will be present to supervise the care of infants through first graders.

At 11 a.m. there will be a fellowship hour in the Allen Parlor. Individuals and families from the community are welcome to share in worship and in the fellowship, and also welcome to enroll children in the Sunday School program.

From 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., an adult discussion group will meet in the upstairs parlor with light lunch and child care provided.

There will be a Lenten Devotional Service Wednesday, March 2 at 7 a.m. in the chapel.

Theme of these weekly services is "The Twelve Christ Chose."

Following the 30-minute service, a light continental breakfast will be served in the Parish House. Both the worship service and breakfast are open to the public and people can leave for work or school by 7:45 a.m.

For information concerning Bethany's ministries and programs, contact the church office, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays at 479-7300.

"Julia and Julia" — This is a strange psychological thriller about a widow whose husband returns from the dead. He had been killed six years earlier while they were on their honeymoon. Believe me, this film is guaranteed to send chills racing up and down your spine. It stars Kathleen Turner, Gabriel Byrne and Sting. ★★

"The Serpent and the Rainbow" — I think most of us have a fascination for the macabre, supernatural phenomena and witchcraft. This film definitely appeals to that side of us. It is based on Wade Davis non-fiction account of voodoo practices in pre-revolutionary Haiti. I couldn't help but shudder at the absolute power voodoo can have over those who believe in it. The stars are Bill Pullman, Cathy Tyson, Zakes Mokae and Paul Winfield. ★★½

"She's Having A Baby" — My boy, but babies are certainly popular these days in the world of cinema. In this contemporary comedy-drama, a young couple confronts the realities of marriage as they await the birth of their first child. I think this movie definitely captured today's views. ★

Presidents Edge Silver Lake, But Find Cathedral Too Much

The Quincy boys' basketball team completed another frustrating season last week by splitting even in its invitational tournament and finished up with a 2-18 record.

John Franceschini's Presidents pulled out a thrilling 58-56 overtime victory over Silver Lake in the first round of the tournament, but lost in the finals to Cathedral, which had greater size and depth, 78-59.

In the championship game Cathedral, (15-3) pulled out to a 16-9 first quarter lead and widened its advantage to 34-19 at the half.

Cathedral came up with numerous steals, just as it did in its semifinal win over Stoughton, which resulted in several easy baskets.

Scott Logan scored 13 points for Quincy, Dan Biagini had 12, Chris Noble 11 and Nick Dragone 10. Mike Perkins, the hero of the semifinal victory, was held to six points.

Against Silver Lake the Presidents, who were in the game all the way, had to rally from seven points down in the final four minutes of regulation.

Perkins was the hero with 23 points and 15 rebounds. He sank six straight free throws and tied the score at 50-50 in regulation time with a driving layup off a nice feed from Noble.

Dragone (10 points, three steals) put Quincy ahead in the overtime session with two free throws, but the Lakers' Jason Harris, who scored 27 points, tied it up with two free throws of his own. Perkins grabbed a rebound and scored from underneath and the Lakers' Erik Hammerquist tied it again with two free throws.

Dragone's basket was matched by Harris and Jim Kimmell, playing only because Joe Russell had suffered a cut lip, stole the ball at mid-court and drove in for the winning basket with less than 10 seconds left.

"These kids have worked so hard all year, this was just a great win," said a happy Franceschini. "They really wanted to do well in this, our first invitational tournament. Everyone played great, but Mike Perkins was super."

North Girls Give Bregoli 100th Victory

The North Quincy girls' basketball team not only moved to within one win of qualifying for the Eastern Mass. Tournament for the fifth time in Paul Bregoli's eight years as coach, but it presented Bregoli with his 100th victory last week.

The Raiderettes could clinch a tourney berth with a victory over Newton South Tuesday night in the opening round of North's Invitational Tournament. If they missed, they will get one final chance today (Thursday) when they face Reading at 4 p.m.

Bregoli got his 100th win when North defeated Waltham, 55-40. Later in the week the Raiderettes wound up their Suburban League season with a 36-26 win over Brookline.

Nancy Flukes, who moved in on 1000 career points and was named the league's MVP, got North off to a quick start against Waltham with two early baskets. North led, 12-11, after one quarter.

The Raiderettes and Waltham were tied, 24-24, at halftime but North's zone defense, which had trouble containing the Waltham guards, was switched to man-to-man in the third quarter.

Flukes got the team started with a long jump, giving her 335 points this season, breaking the school mark held by JoAnn Runge set in 1981-82. North took a 39-29 lead into the final quarter.

PAUL BREGOLI

Waltham cut the lead to 44-40 with 3:45 left but North's players hit some pressure free throws down the stretch with Deirdre Murphy hitting three, Rita Rooney two and Flukes six. North did not allow a point in the last 3:45.

Flukes led all scorers with 27 points, Murphy had 11 points, 12 rebounds and three steals, Patty Feeney eight points and five assists and Rooney eight points and five rebounds.

Playing probably its finest defensive game of the year, North topped Brookline in a game not as close as the final score would indicate. North raced out to a 10-0 lead after four minutes with Flukes scoring eight of the 10. Feeney was immense on defense, making several steals. After Brookline cut the gap to 12-9, Paula Tolson hit a foul line jumper with two seconds left in the quarter for a 14-9 lead.

North extended a 22-9 halftime lead to 28-9 and Brookline didn't score until three minutes left. North's bench held Brookline scoreless for 3:30 of the fourth quarter.

Flukes again led the way with 14 points, 11 rebounds and five baskets and Murphy had six points, seven rebounds and three steals.

"Two great efforts by the team brought us to 11-7 and once again all the kids contributed, especially in the Brookline game," Bregoli said. "Kids like Stacey Welch, Tarra Meyer, Melissa Miles and Debbie Panaro did a great job for us and have been all year.

"Flukes has been immense down the stretch for us. She's breaking all these records, yet is doing it within the structure of the team concept. She needs 16 points to break 1000 points, a remarkable milestone for any player. The kids gave me a nice thing with balloons, a cake and a bird to deliver the message on my 100th win. It was very special to me."

Raiders End Season With 3-Game Skid

The North Quincy boys' basketball team had to win its last four games to qualify for the Eastern Mass. Tournament, but the Raiders finished downhill as they lost their last three games, ending a disappointing first season for coach Ted Stevenson. North finished at 9-11.

After being eliminated from the tourney by Taunton, North lost a 52-50 squeaker to Waltham, and finished up by losing to Brookline, one of the Suburban League's top teams, 88-65.

In the Brookline finals Teddy Stevenson finished up as the league's top scorer as he scored 20 points and had eight rebounds.

B.J. Sylva scored 12 points and had nine rebounds and Dennis Cronin nine points and four steals for the Raiders, who trailed at halftime, 45-30.

Against Waltham North Quincy made a line comeback after trailing, 43-33, at the half.

Stevenson and Kip Caldwell scored 13 points each. Mark Kennedy and Derek Goodson had three steals each in the final quarter as North fought back. Cronin scored on a driving layup with 30 seconds left to pull the Raiders within two.

North Squeezes Into Tournament Berth

The North Quincy hockey team, needing one point in its last three games to make the state tournament for the fourth time in the past five years, just squeezed in last week when it overcame a 3-1 deficit to tie Waltham, 3-3, for the necessary point.

Kevin Jago's Raiders will bring a 10-6-3 record into the tournament. North made fine showings in each of its last three tourney appearances. A year ago North was only 4-14-1 after three straight tournament appearances.

After tying the score early in the final period, North had to hold off a furious Waltham flurry to preserve the tie and a tournament berth.

The Raiders iced the puck with 27 seconds left in the game. North's Jay Rodrigues, who scored the all-important tying goal, won two key faceoffs and goalie Brian Mahoney made some fine stops to preserve the tie.

Those were the longest 27.6 seconds of my life," said Jago. "At the start of the season, I didn't know how many games we would win--maybe only three. The kids really came along and showed a lot of heart.

"I didn't want to go into Brookline (one of the Suburban League's top teams) chasing a point."

Waltham's Roland Henrie put Waltham on the board first at 11:18 of the opening period but Bob Thomas tied it for North 32 seconds later with Mary Feeney and Sal Manganaro assisting. Waltham again took the lead at 12:55 on Shawn Campana's unassisted goal.

Tony St. Cyr made it 3-1 Waltham at 5:56 of the second period. Matt Furtado, who finished as the number three scorer in the league with 49 points, tied it at 10:35 with Rodrigues assisting.

Rodrigues scored the tying goal at 2:45 of the third period with Billy Dineen assisting.

"Brian Mahoney came up with some real big saves for us," said Jago. "Paul McGrath, who has been outstanding all year, was the glue to our defense. In the third period he got his stick on a rebound. That was the play of the year for us."

North dropped its season's finale to Brookline, 5-2, last Thursday, after upsetting the Indians earlier in the season.

Furtado and Rodrigues had a goal and an assist each for the Raiders. Brian Zimmerman and McGrath had assists, while Mahoney had another fine game in goal with 32 saves.

Hart To Play Pro Football In England

UMass-Boston offensive lineman Joe Hart of Quincy has signed a professional contract to play football in England.

Hart, 6-7 and 315 pounds will play for the Wallsal Titans of the English Football League. Under league rules, teams are allowed five Americans on their roster, but can have only three on the field at one time.

Hart played at Quincy High and later for the U. of Texas at El Paso. After suffering a back injury, he sat out a year before returning to play for UMass-Boston last fall.

Finnegan Team Wins PresidentsAlumni Classic

It was a night of former basketball greats at the Quincy Vo-Tech gym as Quincy coach John Franceschini and his staff conducted the Presidents Basketball Alumni Classic, an event they hope will become an annual one.

The game saw graduates as far back as 1963 playing alongside graduates of the 1980s and providing the fans with a night of great basketball and fun.

The winning White team was coached by former head coach Marty Finnegan and the Blue team by Joe Amorosino, who succeeded Finnegan as the Presidents' coach.

The White squad was led by P.J. Fay (1981) with 16 points and Billy Shaughnessy ('85) with 15. Other team members were Mike Dracchio ('85), Shaun Burnes (81), Mitch Finnegan (78), Rick DeCristofaro (70), Peter Papile (82), Ed Scanlon (65), Mike Connolly (79), Jim Rendle (66), Bob Dacey (76), Don Parry (86) and Ron Mariano (64). Joe Brill was assistant coach.

Church, Parish, Commonwealth Program At Quincy Historical Society

The Quincy Historical Society will meet Thursday, Feb 25, at 7:30 p.m. at the Adams Academy Building, 8 Adams St., Quincy.

Speaker for the meeting will be the Rev. Sheldon W. Bennett, minister of United First Parish Church, Quincy.

In colonial days and for about 50 years after independence, affairs of the church and state in Massachusetts were closely related, according to the historical society. It was not until 1824 that church and state were separated in Quincy and not until 1833 finally throughout the Commonwealth by constitutional amendment.

Rev. Bennett, Ph.D. will reflect on the history of United First Parish Church in the light of issues of church and state within the Commonwealth.

Dr. Bennett has been minister of the church since Dec. 1, 1986. He received a master of divinity from Harvard Divinity School in June of 1986. He brings to his ministry a background in science and business, with a Ph.D. in physics from Columbia University.

He has served as assistant professor of physics at Harvard University.

The meeting is open to members and non-members at no charge. Refreshments will be served.

Nursing Program, Talent Show On QJC Video Magazine

This week's edition of the Quincy Junior College Video Magazine presents four segments spotlighting courses and student activities at the college.

Program host Frank Cammarata introduces Patricia Dunn, chairperson of the Practical Nursing Program, which last week received re-accreditation from the National League of Nursing, the only college in Massachusetts to do so.

In other segments, Senator Paul Harold, appearing on Quincy Community Television's "For The Record" program, updates the situation at the State House regarding legislation pending for state financial assistance for Q.J.C. Harold also discusses the possible merger with the college and Massasoit Community College.

Grant For Youth Garden At Lincoln Hancock

A National Gardening Grant from the National Gardening Association has been awarded to Stephen Cantelli, a Quincy teacher, to begin a youth garden at Children's Garden Park at the Lincoln Hancock School.

The Quincy Youth Garden will begin early in the spring and will continue throughout the summer and fall months. Children and community members will participate in a variety of gardening activities.

This program was chosen from nearly 500 program applicants based on its committed leadership, innovative programming, strong community support and relative need for the supplies contained in the NGA Gardening Grant package.

Interested community members may contact Steve Cantelli at 479-1019 for more information.

KERRI KELLEY

Kerri Kelley Wins Award

Kerri Kelley, a third grade student in Theresa Broderick's class at St. Ann's School, Wollaston, was recently awarded the first place trophy for her participation in the Multiple Sclerosis Readathon.

She was also presented with a Polaroid camera.

Kerri was sponsored by many of the local business people in Wollaston, as well as many of her friends and neighbors.

CARL WINDERL
Jacque Estler

Poet Debuts On Ch. 3

South Shore poet, Carl Winderl will blend education and entertainment during his "Poet at Large" video series which premiers tonight (Thursday) at 5:30 p.m. on Ch. 3.

The program will feature scenes of plainclothes Winderl in classroom settings with local high school students. Other parts of the program will include street scenes of Winderl as a questionable character in black leather jacket and dark sunglasses in the surrounding community.

According to Patricia Dunne, producer and director of the series, "The show is really about reading, writing, and teaching poetry, but we give it a twist without non-traditional approach."

Each program in the series will be an episode within a continuing storyline.

Winderl has been a resident of Quincy for 14 years and is associate professor of English at Eastern Nazarene College in Wollaston.

WEEK OF: February 25

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
You tend to be generous — sometimes a little too generous. Imagination is extremely strong, and emotions run deep. In finances, the key is to be more organized. New friendship is the theme of the coming six months. The latter half of 1988 may present opportunities to travel to exotic destinations.

AQUARIUS – January 21 - February 19
Week is favorable for making a blueprint of your short term plans. Experimenting with different systems can lead to a new approach for dealing with a bothersome chore.

PISCES – February 20 - March 20
Relationships are progressing slowly but steadily. New faces appear on the scene. Special events offer surprises. Sports and health programs are spotlighted through the week.

ARIES – March 21 - April 20
You may find yourself taking an unpopular stand on a family related issue. Musical and other cultural events are favored through the week. Buying and selling are highlighted.

TAURUS – April 21 - May 22
You excel in the role of salesperson, this is a fine week for promoting your products or your ideas. Diplomacy is your middle name. Platonic friendship is highlighted.

GEMINI – May 23 - June 21
The week accents teamwork, but be sure not to duplicate the effort of others. The cloudy messages of others require clarification. Family health survey is important.

CANCER – June 22 - July 22
The week sees you in the limelight as you may qualify for an award of merit. Good week for adding missing pieces to collections. Your sense of style is sharp.

LEO – July 23 - August 22
Midwinter blahs are all but forgotten in a lively week that includes visitors, unexpected announcements, and possible travel. Household problems require prompt and careful attention.

VIRGO – August 23 - September 22
Inventive spirit soars during a creatively rewarding period. Tax and other accounting matters require a thorough review. Career benefits may be on tap. Weekend offers prospect of travel.

LIBRA – September 23 - October 22
In store this week are the opportunity for travel and a perfect occasion for patching up a hurt relationship. An intriguing invitation may arrive after the weekend.

SCORPIO – October 23 - November 21
New projects require careful review before you commit your time or money. Good week for expanding your wardrobe or decorating a room, your sense of design is noteworthy.

SAGITTARIUS – November 22 - December 22
Independence is your middle name in a week that sees you speaking out about pet peeves. Good week too for proposing ideas. Romance is on a steady course.

CAPRICORN – December 23 - January 20
Career appears on a steady path, but takes a back seat to personal relationships. A friendship that recently seemed hazy is much brighter. If handling documents, read the fine print.

BORN THIS WEEK
February 25th, singer George Harrison. 26th, actor Tony Randall, 27th, actress Elizabeth Taylor, 28th, actress Bernadette Peters, 29th, dancer Lorna Wilson, March 1st, singer Harry Belafonte, 2nd, actress Jennifer Jones.

YMCA Spring Program Registration Continues

Registration for all spring programs, courses and classes continues at the South Shore Y.M.C.A.

Prospective members will have an opportunity to tour the facility and inquire about what the Y.M.C.A. offers.

Aquatic programs for adults and children are scheduled to begin between the last week in February and first weeks of March. Pre-school aquatic programs include Water Baby classes (ages 6 months to 3 years), Young Tot Swim (ages 3-6 years) and Young Tot Gym-Swim.

Most of the pre-school Y.M.C.A. aquatic programs began Feb. 22.

Young aquatic classes include synchronized swimming and youth swimming lessons.

Adult classes range from co-ed aquaerobics to Adult Lap Swimmers Stroke Clinic. Class sizes may be limited and signups are on a first come basis.

A full range of youth programs are also offered for ages 3-17. Gymnastic classes, Floor Hockey League, Karate, Wrestling and Y.M.C.A. Leader's Club are some of the programs offered to young people.

In addition, the South Shore Y.M.C.A. has a Day Care Facility as well as babysitting area.

The South Shore Y.M.C.A.'s Nautilus area offers such programs as: Nautilus Diet, Healthy Back Program, Senior Nautilus and Youth Fitness and Nutrition. The South Shore Y.M.C.A. serves the communities of Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree, Hingham, Scituate, Norwell, Cohasset, Hull and Milton.

For further information regarding programs call 479-8500 or visit the Y.M.C.A. at 79 Coddington St., Quincy.

Student Demands At Vo-Tech 'Rigorous' Says Guidance Counselor

Ever since Quincy Vocational Technical School opened its doors 20 years ago, Richard Haines has worked as a guidance counselor.

"I've seen the transition as students moved from the Age of Aquarius to where they are now which is a more work oriented attitude, and a more serious outlook," Haines said during an interview pondering the past two decades.

"What has continued to baffle me," Haines continued, "is that parents nor students in any generation understand that the demands in a vocational technical school are rigorous and the discipline enormous."

He noted that as young people learn a trade and an occupation, they are part of a team all assigned to complete a certain part of a project, and if one fails they let the others down. "What we instill in students is that they are all essential to the whole, as of course is the case in the work place," Haines said.

A resident of Weymouth,

RICHARD HAINES

Haines holds a bachelor's degree in education and a master's in counseling and psychology from Boston University. He served in the United States Air Force, was a consulting psychologist at Norfolk House of Correction, and for five years was a camp director on Cape Cod. He also worked at Central Middle School and Braintree High School.

He believes that students must develop a respectful attitude about work if they are to succeed. "I think many students who come to this school initially experience culture shock because the work is hard and the discipline demanding," he said, adding, "but we soon see a pattern emerge whereby students develop very positive attitudes."

Like other educators, Haines laments that the public continues to have a mistaken impression about the value and worth of vocational technical education. "We are not trade schools, we are not places for students who are not bright, or for those who cannot succeed. Rather, we are places of sophistication where highly skilled training and academic education takes place, and we are places that graduate young men and women who excel and achieve," he concluded.

Designer Selection Committee Meets Feb. 29

The Designer Selection Committee will meet Monday, Feb. 29, at 8 a.m. in the Planning Department Conference Room, third floor, City Hall Annex.

The agenda will include evaluation of proposals and ranking of the finalists for the award of designer services for ventilation and heating alterations at Quincy High School and Quincy Vocational Technical School.

The committee will also evaluate proposals and rank the finalists for the award of designer services for the Quincy School System for compliance with laws and regulations under the Asbestos Hazard Emergency Response Act.

Light Vote Seen Here Super Tuesday

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

About 26 percent of Quincy's registered voters are expected to turn out in the Massachusetts Presidential Primary next Tuesday, March 8, estimates City Clerk John Gillis

The state primary is part of Super Tuesday, the day thousands of Democrats and Republicans will go to polls in 20 states and vote from a crowded field of presidential hopefuls.

This election also marks the first time in Quincy's history that the city's wards and precincts within those wards have been made equal by population, Gillis said.

The 1985 Massachusetts State Census resulted in 31,000 changes in Quincy's precincts and almost 6,000 changes in all the wards, Gillis said. As a result, Quincy now has 30 precincts instead of 39.

Each ward has about 14,789 people. The city's population is approximately 88,000.

The Democratic ballot lists Gov. Michael Dukakis, Sen. Albert Gore, Florenzo DiDonato, Sen. Paul Simon, Congressman Richard Gephardt, the Rev. Jesse Jackson and former Sen. Gary Hart. Former Gov. Bruce Babbitt, who dropped out of the race on Feb. 18, is fifth on the ballot.

Among the Republican candidates are Marion G. (Pat) Robertson, Vice President George Bush, Jack Kemp, and Sen. Bob Dole. Former GOP hopefuls Pierre DuPont and Alexander Haig Jr. are also on the ballot.

Gillis said he expects a low turnout because Gov. Dukakis is running very strong in his home state. A low number of registered Republicans in the city, 6,042 compared to 28,338 Democrats, will also affect the turnout, he said.

Democrat, Republican Ward Committee Candidates Page 14

There are 10,471 registered Independents in Quincy. The total number of registered voters is 44,851.

Female voters outnumber male voters in Quincy, 25,575 to 19,273.

In the 1984 primary, about 25 percent of Quincy's voters went to the polls. In that contest, Quincy, along with the rest of the state, gave Hart the edge over former Vice President Walter Mondale.

Hart collected 3,863 votes to Mondale's 3,187 with former senator and 1972 Democratic nominee George McGovern tallying 2,339 votes.

On the Republican side, President Ronald Reagan, who ran unopposed, drew 935 ballots from his fellow party members as well as 201 write-in votes.

Unlike 1984, there is no incumbent President running. "Super Tuesday," as in the past, will probably "make or break" many campaigns.

A total of 1,307 out of 4,160 delegates to the Democratic National Convention are at stake next Tuesday. On the Republican side, 803 delegates out of 2,277 total delegates are up for grabs.

In addition to the presidential contests, there are races for state committee man and state committee woman for Norfolk District, which includes Quincy, Braintree, Holbrook and Avon.

On the Republican ballot for state committee man are incumbent Andrew W. Card Jr. of Holbrook, a former state representative, and William E. Devine Jr., of 139 Sagamore St., Quincy.

Kathryn D. Roberts of 37 Estabrook Rd., Quincy, is running unopposed for the Republican state committee woman seat.

The Democratic state committee race features Bernice C. Mader of 108 Connell St., Quincy, running against Rosemary C. Wahlberg of 264 Southern Artery, Quincy. The latter has attempted to remove her name from the ballot but it was too late.

Robert E. Gibbons of 17 Taylor St., Quincy, is the only candidate of the Democratic state committee man ballot.

Election results should be known by 11 p.m. Tuesday, Gillis said.

McCauley Proposes Tax Rate Hikes

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Tax bills will be going up this year according to Mayor Francis McCauley's classification plan which he is scheduled to present to the City Council Monday at 6:30 p.m. at City Hall.

McCauley said he will recommend that the council approve the plan which would set the residential tax rate at $12.22 per thousand dollars of assessed value.

That is up 81 cents from last year's rate of $11.41 per thousand dollars of assessed value.

The tax rate for commercial, industrial and personal property (CIPP) would be $22.41 per thousand dollars of assessed value, up $1.42 from last year's $20.99.

The value of an average single family home in Quincy has risen from $116,714 in fiscal 1987 to $117,000, said McCauley. Taxes on such a home would increase from $1,332 last year to $1,430, an increase of $98, he said.

The tax bill increase reflects the cost of government, said McCauley.

Last year, both rates were down from the previous year.

The total value of the city for fiscal 1988 is $3,818,885,750, up $123 million or 3.3 percent over fiscal 1987, the mayor said.

The classification plan calls for a residential factor of 81.8088 and the valuation of commercial, industrial and personal property at 150 percent of full fair cash value.

McCauley said he will make his presentation to the council and then be available to answer questions.

Once the plan is adopted by the council, it must be approved by the Department of Revenue, according to the mayor.

McCauley said he hopes to have tax bills in the mail April 1. They would be due in 30 days.

Estimated first half tax bills, which were based on half of last year's tax bill, were sent out last fall.

10-Movie Screens Planned At Quincy Fair

"We expect terrific things out of Quincy," said the president of Entertainment Management Corp. which plans to open in May a Quincy Sq. movie theater which will eventually feature 10 screens.

The theater will be known as Entertainment Cinemas at Quincy Fair Mall, according to company president Bill Hanney.

It will feature first run films and possibly some foreign movies at a rate similar to that of the General or Showcase Cinemas, $5 to $5.50 a ticket, Hanney said.

"It's going to be a very luxurious cinema complex, similar to Copley Place," he said.

The project booths and seats will cost well over $400,000, according to Hanney.

"We plan on going all-out with decor and equipment," he said.

Hanney said that phase one of the project will include seven screens, and phase two will feature three screens.

"Every theater will have stereo," said Hanney, "and two theaters in phase one will have superior stereo.

"Phase two will have 70mm, six track Dolby stereo," he said.

There will be 100 to 400 seats in each cinema, Hanney said.

The lobby will feature entertainment systems with coming events, and the theaters will be equipped for the hearing impaired, according to Hanney.

The box office will be computerized so that customers can purchase tickets in advance, and remotely located box offices will allow purchase by credit card, he said.

The concession stand will offer the usual items as well as hot dogs, ice cream, coffee and tea, Hanney said.

The schedule calls for six shows a day, starting about 1 p.m. and the last show about 9 p.m., Hanney said.

"There will be bargain matinees and senior citizen discounts," Hanney said.

From the Hancock St. entrance, phase one will be located on the left hand side, and phase two, on the right side beyond Pier 1 Imports, Hanney explained.

Hanney said he is leaning towards offering free parking in the Ross Parking Deck, but no decision has been made.

His company also has four theaters in Scituate, four in Buzzards Bay, and one in Stoughton, the South Shore Performing Arts Center, which offers movies and live shows.

Robert Colman Elected QCBPA President

ROBERT COLMAN

Robert J. Colman, owner of Colman's Sporting Goods Store, is the new president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

Colman was elected by the QCBPA Board of Directors. He succeeds Robert J. Quinn of the South Shore Bank, who as past president, becomes a member of the board.

Donald Johnson of Quincy Savings Bank was elected vice president. Beth Ann Strenge, Hurley Insurance Agency and Roger E. Perfetti, Bay Bank Norfolk Trust were re-elected secretary and treasurer respectively.

Elected to the Board of Directors by the general membership were:

James D. Asher, WJDA; Richard P. Barry, attorney; Mark Bertman, Rogers Jewelry; Henry Bosworth, The Quincy Sun; Gary J. Cappuccino, Bank of New England; Eileen Cohen, Sweet's 'n' Things; William Fitzgerald, Photo Quick Quincy; Phyllis Godwin, Granite City Electric Supply; James Hession, Finian's Restaurant and Pub; John Kerrigan, Baskin-Robbins Ice Cream; David Leitch, Burgin Platner & Co.; George Montilio, Montilio's Pastry Shops; Donald Moreau, Woolworth's; Bernard Reisberg, Bernie's Formal Modern Shop; Charles Ryder, Ryder's of Quincy; Leo Sheehan, Quincy Cooperative Bank and George White, The Patriot Ledger.

Steve Gillig of U-Turn Restaurant, serves on the board as a past president.

Durkin Announces For State Representative Seat

Quincy School Committeeman Stephen J. Durkin has announced his candidacy for state representative in the Second Norfolk District.

Durkin, a Democrat and an attorney, is the first official candidate for the seat vacated by Thomas Brownell to accept appointment as an associate justice in Plymouth District Court.

Durkin made his announcement at a press conference Tuesday at the Adams Academy.

Durkin said as a state representative his constituents could "depend on me to be a hard-working and productive legislator who is sensitive to the needs and concerns of our district and who is capable of effectively advocating for those needs and concerns at the State House."

Durkin's official statement follows:

"Today, I am announcing that I am a candidate for State Representative for the Second Norfolk District, the legislative seat recently vacated by Thomas Brownell. While the Legislature is in the process of redistricting, the Second Norfolk will likely include the neighborhoods of Houghs Neck, Adams Shore, Merrymount, Germantown, Wollaston Hill, Hospital Hill, the Adams Street area, and parts of Wollaston, West Quincy and Quincy Center.

"As a lifelong Quincy resident, serving in my fifth year on the School Committee, I am familiar with many of the district's neighborhoods, problems and needs. It is an extremely diverse, interesting and challenging district, one that I welcome the opportunity to represent in the Massachusetts Legislature.

"I am running for State Representative because as a legislator I would have an opportunity to make a much greater impact not only in the area of public education, but also on a wide range of other important public policy issues.

"Moreover, having served as an elected official, I have become increasingly aware that many problems facing our city can no longer be effectively addressed solely at the municipal level.

"More and more, we will likely see that a great many problems will require regional and statewide solutions. If Quincy is to remain an attractive community in which to live and raise our families, we must continue to have strong and effective local representation on Beacon Hill.

"As a member of the School Committee, I have been accessible to constituents and responsive to their concerns, and as questions have arisen regarding our schools, I have done my homework and I've been able to exercise informed, independent judgment. These are some of the attributes which would characterize my service as a legislator.

"As a State Representative, my constituents can depend on me to be a hard-working and productive legislator, who is sensitive to the needs and concerns of our district, and who is capable of effectively advocating for those needs and concerns at the State House.

"Further, I intend to be an extremely visible and active legislator, gathering community input by holding regular office hours and attending community meetings throughout the district on a regular basis. I would also strive to keep my district informed of developments at the State House through regular newsletters, news releases, and personal contact. I believe strongly that the public deserves to know what its elected Representatives are doing in the Legislature.

"In this regard, I believe that keeping the public informed and keeping the process open represent important steps toward restoring the public's confidence in the Legislature as an institution - and this should be an important goal of all our legislators.

"While the process in the House of Representatives has become more democratic and more decentralized under Speaker Keverian we should always be looking to further improve the process as well as to make the Legislature function more efficiently and productively to the benefit of Massachusetts citizens.

"During the course of the campaign for this important legislative seat, I hope to meet personally with every voter in the district, and to discuss with them their views regarding critical issues facing our city and our state such as health care, education, the harbor clean up and the environment, affordable housing and various other issues that profoundly affect all our lives.

"I believe strongly in the importance of public service and I take very seriously the public trust that comes with elected office. I know that I have the energy, the enthusiasm, the background and experience to be an effective legislator and with your support I'm confident I'll be a State Representative Quincy will be proud of."

City's 100th Anniversary Signs Installed At Entrances

Signs proclaiming Quincy's 100th year celebration which will be kicked off in June, are being installed at entrances throughout the city.

The sign layout was designed by Loreto "Larry" Coletti, a city employee sign painter from the Police Department's General Services Division.

Coletti also designed the 100th anniversary license plates that are being sold throughout the city at $5 each.

They are being sold at the following locations: Quincy Sun, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Sq., Colman's Sporting Goods, 1630 Hancock St., Baskin Robbins, 1434 Hancock St., and Sweets 'n' Things, 1470 Hancock St., all in Quincy Sq.; Quincy Civil Defense Dept. 55 Sea St., Manet Health Center, 1193 Sea St., Houghs Neck, Squantum Community Center, 50 Huckins Ave., Quincy.

Also, Ward 2 Community Center, Fore River Clubhouse, 16 Nevada Rd., Quincy Point; West Quincy Community Center, Granite St., Beechwood Community Life Center, 225 Fenno St., Wollaston; Atlantic Neighborhood Center, 12 Hunt St., North Quincy; Park and Recreation Department, 1000 Southern Artery.

Truck Causes $100,000 North Quincy Fire

An electrical malfunction in a truck parked in a North Quincy business was the probable cause of a three-alarm fire which resulted in an estimated $100,000 damage at the site Sunday morning, Fire Department officials said.

Fire Chief Carl Valenti said the fire broke out at 11:46 a.m. in a truck at Jones Ornamental Iron Co., 9 Arlington St.

The cement block building with a metal roof also houses Donovan Bros. Automotive Services, 30 Fayette St., Valenti said.

According to Valenti, Chris Baughman of Donovan Automotive discovered the fire under the hood of the 1986 pickup truck which had been driven into Jones Automotive about two hours earlier by Roger Jones.

Baughman called the fire department after he was not able to extinguish the fire himself, said the chief.

"The truck was fully involved in flames when the fire department arrived," said Valenti.

"The fire extended to the overhead wooden components and roof rafters," he said.

"It was extremely hard to fight because it was all up high. That's why it went to three alarms.

"It was also because of the possible extension to the South Shore Rehabilitation Center at 3 Arlington St..

"The guys did an excellent job confining the fire to the area," he said.

Valenti said the other vehicles parked in the garage were not damaged by the fire, but may have sustained smoke and water damage.

There were no injuries reported, he said.

Twelve pieces of apparatus were at the scene until 1:37 p.m.

Mutual aid from Boston, Weymouth, Braintree and Milton covered the Quincy stations, Valenti said.

The deputy chief in charge was Paul O'Connell, according to Valenti.

Hat Rack License Suspended 5 Days

By KRISTINE STRENGE

The Hat Rack, 7-9 Copeland St., Quincy, may be hanging up its liquor license for five days due to a liquor violation.

Tuesday, at a hearing in City Hall, the City's License Board voted to suspend The Hat Rack's liquor license for five days because of a liquor violation of taking alcohol out of the establishment.

The Hat Rack has eight days to appeal the sentence to the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission in Boston.

The board received a police report from Quincy Police Sgt. Richard Laracy, liquor Inspector which stated, "Officer Calabro observed at 1:30 a.m. on Jan. 11, 1988 James Hatfield Jr., the son of the owner of The Hat Rack, carry out the rear door of the establishment a case of Michelob Lite and put it in the rear seat of a car operated by Gina Wojciechowski."

Laracy said, "The Hat Rack license does not allow alcohol to be taken from the premises at any time, especially after hours as in this case."

James Hatfield, owner of The Hat Rack told the board members his son thought he could take the alcohol because his father owned the establishment. Hatfield said, "He used poor judgment."

City Clerk John Gillis, also chairman of the board, said, "James Hatfield Jr., is the night manager of The Hat Rack in Weymouth and should know better."

Atty. James Marsh representing The Hat Rack, told the board the establishment did not benefit from this. He said, "It was not to feather their own nest."

Gillis said, "I want them to serve some type of penalty so that other people know what we (License Board) do when liquor is taken out of an establishment."

Neither Marsh nor Hatfield said if they were going to appeal.

Rosemary: 'Elect Bernice'

Rosemary Wahlberg has an unusual political problem.

ROSEMARY

Her name is on the March 8 presidenttial preference ballot as a candidate for Democratic state committeewoman in the Norfolk District which comprises Quincy, Braintree, Holbrook and Avon.

The problem is that she would rather you pass her up and vote for the other name on the ballot -- Bernice Mader.

BERNICE

"Bernice will make an excellent state committeewoman," says Rosemary.

Wahlberg and Mader are longtime active Quincy Democrats and friends.

Kathy O'Donnell, who has held the seat for a number of years decided not to seek re-election for professional reasons she is now handling public relations at Brigham and Women's Hospital.

KATHY O

Word about her decision not to seek re-election apparently did not spread very fast But Wahlberg finally heard it.

She checked with the Secretary of State's office to see if anyone had filed papers for the post And, just two days before the filing deadline no one had

She was afraid the seat might wind up empty, so she took out papers, quickly collected the necessary 50 signatures and filed them

Then, she heard Mader was running So Rosemary tried to withdraw her nomination papers But, too late

Her name, she was told, would appear on the ballot She couldn't get it off

"So," says Wahlberg, "I'm kind of stuck."

Anyway, if you are a Democrat you can help unstick her by going to the polls March 8 and voting for Bernice instead of her

Rosemary would like to be elected later as a delegate to the National Democratte Committee on the Dukakis slate

But on March 8, though, give Bernice a vote Rosemary would appreciate it

ON THE REPUBLICAN side, State Committeewoman Kathy Roberts of Quincy is running unopposed for re-election But she's going to be busy

KATHY R

She has been named Norfolk County Coordinator for the Bob Dole for President campaign

Roberts, a Quincy businesswoman, has been GOP state committeewoman since 1976 and a delegate to various state conventions

In 1980, she was a delegate at-large to the National Convention in Detroit and in 1984 a Ronald Reagan delegate at the National Convention in Dallas

She was also the first woman member of the Quincy Kiwanis Club and she was named by Mayor Frank McCauely to the Planning Board

And, what does she think about Dole?

"Bob Dole has broad based support He will work well with the Congress He is a strong leader yet very humane and compassionate He enjoys widespread support among the Democrats I feel Bob Dole will support and appoint women to his administration"

CITY COUNCIL President Pat Toland has a birthday party coming up Wednesday, March 16 (7-10 p.m.) at the Quincy Neighborhood Club

PAT

Word is that she will be making a political announcement And, that could only be that she is an official candidate for the state reptesentative seat vacated by Thomas Brownell to become associate justice of Plymouth District Court

By the way, Toland is making no secret of her birthday this one is

"I'll be 56," she says "And I've got more energy than a lot of people a lot younger than that"

Quincy Hospital Offers Advice On Winter Walking

With winter's snow, ice, cold winds and dropping temperatures, people in many parts of the country find it easy to sidestep their walking routine for the warmth of couch and comforter

Couple that with a natural tendency to eat a bit more during the winter months, and you have the perfect equation for getting out of shape quickly.

The staff at Quincy City Hospital wants you to know that it does not have to be that way. With extra care and will power, winter walking can be very satisfying And it can bring an extra measure of psychological pleasure that comes with winning a battle against the elements

One easy step to beating the cold: go out against the wind and return with the wind That way, you'll find the bracing wind's chill when you are still warm from being indoors

Other keys to successful walking in winter include:

Always warm up. This edict holds true for any sort of physical activity, regardless of the season, but it is especially important in the winter. Once you get outside, muscles have a tendency to remain tight if they have not been properly warmed up inside, increasing the risk of injury. Mimicking the walking motion at half speed is one of the best ways to prepare for walking

Dress properly. Obviously, your choice in clothing should be determined by the conditions, the distance you will be walking, and your pace Generally, a combination of cotton and synthetics worn in layers works best, but be careful not to wear too many thick items that can impede natural movement.

Cover your head and your hands It is great to have all the right clothes for your body, but don't overlook your head and hands Wearing a well-insulated hat can work wonders in helping to retain body heat, and gloves are very important since hands and feet are most susceptible to cold

The best rule for walking in winter is use your common sense. There is no need to become an alarmist about exercising in cold weather Just follow a few basic rules and it can be a highly-enjoyable activity

Toothbrush 'Swap' At Library

Children are invited to bring their toothbrushes to the Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy Sq Saturday between 10 a.m and 2 p.m. to "swap" for a new one

Representatives from the Quincy Office of Dental Associates Incorporated will be in the Central Children's Room of the library to explain how and why everyone should care for their teeth

Since the month of February was National Children's Dental Health Month, and March is National Nutrition Month, the time is right to learn good health habits and oral hygiene, the library notes. The hygienists will show cartoons which encourage proper dental care, distribute free toothbrushes and hand-outs.

If your child has not yet adopted good oral hygiene, bring him or her to the library to "swap" old habits for new ones.

Durkin Comments On Ricci's School Assessment

Editor, The Quincy Sun

As a member of the Quincy School committee, I read with interest the recent story in the Patriot Ledger concerning Superintendent Robert Ricci's assessment of the school system's performance

Dr Ricci gave to our elementary schools a grade of B, to our middle schools a grade of C, and to our high schools a grade of C-plus This evaluation angered more than a few teachers and parents as well as at least one School Committee member

When Dr. Ricci came on board as Superintendent he brought with him demonstrated management skills, a successful track record in a challenging urban school district, and an objectivity that comes with being an outsider. It was my feeling when the School Committee hired Dr. Ricci that the above attributes would serve Quincy's school system well

While it was arguably not very useful for Dr. Ricci to use letter grades in assessing the school system's performance, I thought it refreshing to hear from our Superintendent of Schools that everything is not fine and dandy with our schools, and that there is a great deal of room for improvement

As the Patriot Ledger recently reported, Mr. Anselmo's primary reaction to Dr Ricci's assessment was one of anger at the detrimental effect the assessment would have on public relations As the Ledger correctly pointed out in a recent editorial, however, our school system is not primarily in the business of public relations We are in the business of educating children

Although some may disagree with Dr Ricci's evaluations, certainly no one would contend that there is no room for improvement in our schools. To be sure, we should always be striving to better the educational offerings to our students

On the other hand, in his efforts to bring about improvements Dr Ricci should work closely with and seek input from both staff and parents in an atmosphere of cooperation Participatory decision-making often produces the best results

Speak Out For Special Election For State Representative

Editor, The Quincy Sun

Two months into 1988 and the second Norfolk District in Quincy has no representative on Beacon Hill

With each day that passes it becomes more probable that no special election will be held and that the people of this district will have no voice in the legislature

This is an issue that affects more than just our district but the entire city as well At a time when Quincy is faced with sludge plants, staging areas, treatment facilities, polluted beaches and other threats to our quality of life, it is disturbing to think that we could be without a voice or a vote for an entire year

But what is most unsettling to me is the [illegible] surrounding this issue. The local media is mute; [illegible] where are the voices of those who are paid to speak for us In both the house and senate they appear to be more concerned with the wishes of the Democratic leadership than with the best interests of the people of Quincy

Does anyone really believe that we are better served without our representative?

Only public pressure can bring about a special election and that pressure must come from community leaders and elected officials The time to raise our voice is now

Know Where The Candidates Stand On Abortion

Editor, The Quincy Sun

Voters in the Presidential Primary should know the candidates' positions on that most basic of all human rights - the right to be born

Democratic candidates Dukakis, Gephardt, Gore, Jackson, Hart and Simon all support abortion-on-demand which has led to the brutal destruction of one and one-half million preborn babies in this country each year

Republican candidates Bush, Dole, Kemp and Robertson all support the right-to-life position, and could be depended upon to help restore human, civil, God-given rights to the most vulnerable members of our society - our preborn babies

Women In A ~~Man's~~ World

Sandra Colman:

Her Products Answer Men's Skin Care Needs

(This is the second in a series of articles about women in professional and business fields that were once considered strictly a male's domain).

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

If you're a man who's been confronted with the question "How's your face?," Sandra Colman of Quincy has the right answer.

Colman is president of ColmanCo, Inc., a business specializing in men's skin care treatment. Headquartered in Suite 203 in the Quincy Savings Bank Building, 1374 in Quincy Center, ColmanCo, Inc., created and distributes Pro M 100, a men's facial skin treatment lotion.

The product's slogan asks "How's your face" and if it's dry, rough or weather-beaten, then Pro M 100, a fragrance-free lotion that moisturizes, soothes and protects skin is for you.

Colman's business began in 1985 when she left her job as a brand manager for an international distributed cosmetics company in New York and moved back home to Quincy.

"When I came back I had an idea for a men's skin treatment business because it was a needed category. Skin treatment is something you don't have to tell men they need. They can feel they need it," Colman explained.

Colman discovered there was a definite market for men's skin treatment after designing and conducting a random sample survey of about 200 men in 1985. What she found was very encouraging.

"The survey revealed a lot of men were using women's skin care products. These products are, first of all, mostly fragranced and second of all, they are very heavy and very expensive.

"We decided to come up with a product to answer men's skin care needs," she said, adding her product is ideal for men who spend a lot of time outdoors.

Pro M 100 is a facial moisturizer that is fragrance-free and contains aloe vera, a natural soothing agent, sun screen, and a very light moisturizing product that is quickly absorbed into the skin. The lotion leaves no residual.

"It is also available at a very affordable price," she added.

Sold in a black and white designed package, Pro M 100 is available in a three ounce tube for $5. Colman said the product closest to Pro M 100's quality sells for twice as much at a third less size. The lotion also comes in a smaller travel size.

"The tube makes it very portable for any gym bag or pocket," Colman said.

The product is distributed nationally with the help of sales representatives, Colman noted. Locally, it is available at Brooks Drugs stores, Bradlees, Colman's Sporting Goods, various beauty shops as well as golf pro shops and ski resorts.

Also, some people who have used the lotion but couldn't find it in any store have called ColmanCo, Inc., looking to buy it. "Some people have gone to the trouble of tracking us down by looking at the back of the tube and asking us to send it C.O.D.," Colman explained.

Occasionally, a buyer will go to a store where Pro M 100 is sold only to discover it is out of stock.

"Some people were so ernest in buying it that they called from Philadelphia, Chicago or Connecticut asking more be sent, Colman remarked.

And the reason for this pursuit is simple: "For some people it's the only product that works," she said.

Colman graduated from Babson College with a bachelor of science degree in both marketing and management. She explained that starting and managing her own business was always one of her goals.

Colman, whose father, Robert Colman, owns Colman's Sporting Goods, says, "I always wanted to go into business for myself. And after working in the cosmetic industry for six years, I recognized a great opportunity and I decided to pursue it," she explained.

One of the factors that spawned the male skin care business is the fitness craze, Colman said.

"Men were working very hard to get their bodies in shape and they realized their skin is just as important." Colman quickly pointed out that Pro M 100 is not a seasonal product since it fits in with all seasons, whether men are skiing, sailing, golfing or just plain outdoors.

One of the reasons for the product's popularity is its fragrance-free quality.

"The reason for fragrance-free was in consideration for men who don't like any kind of fragrance. For those who already have a favorite cologne, we didn't want to clash.

"We really gave our customers a lot of thought," Colman said.

And the response: "Men just love it without a fragrance," she added.

As for ColmanCo's future, Colman said she will introduce two new men's skin products later this year. She is also planning more permanent placements for the product across the country.

And not only is Pro M 100 popular with men, many women are now beginning to use it, Colman said. "It was targeted and formulated for men but now women are using it. It's sort of like a role reversal."

Colman, who has almost 10 years experience in the cosmetics industry, offered these helpful hints for men and women skin care.

"Precautionary measures are always better than corrective measures. Do not expose your skin to too much sunlight. When it is dry, moisturize and cleanse it properly.

"Try to set up a routine for your skin in the morning. When you shave, put on moisturizer. It takes about five seconds," she said.

And soon after, you'll be answering the question, "Where did your dry face go?"

Popularity, 1927: 'Smoking, Drinking And Petting'

March 3-9, 1927

61 Years Ago

Miss Edith Chapman, president of the Wollaston Women's Christian Temperance Union, warned members at a meeting in the Union Congregational Church that "popularity today means smoking, drinking and petting."

"Mothers and older people of today should realize that there is something else besides being popular. Popularity is only a passing thing, anyway. There is such a thing as being distinctive and belonging to the aristocracy of decency."

DOWN WITH HOMEWORK!

School Supt. James N. Muir told members of the Massachusetts Field School PTA that he was all for a longer school day and less homework for youngsters in the Quincy school system.

"After a child has done his day's work in school," he said, "he should not be expected to carry a barrel of books home and pore over them."

Fair Housing Committee Confers With Clergy

By KRISTINE STRENGE

The Quincy Fair Housing Committee opened its doors to approximately 45 clergy from Quincy and the Greater Boston area Tuesday, at City Hall.

The ecumenical conference, "Let's Open Some Doors," was "a great success" according to Janet Ellis, Equal Opportunity Administrator.

The conference brought together the clergy to discuss issues of multi-cultural awareness, integration and racism.

Ellis said "The conference added to the dialogue between Quincy clergy and minority clergy, bringing them closer together."

Opening remarks were given by Mayor Francis McCauley, Ellis, and Rev. Fred Atwood-Lyons, co-pastor Quincy Point Congregational Church.

After the opening remarks six small discussions groups were formed to discuss such topics as, How can we achieve cultural exchange in the churches of Quincy?, and How can we encourage interaction among people from different backgrounds?

Organizers hoped that the conference will encourage continued dialogue between clergy and the community on these issues.

The Quincy Fair Housing Committee sponsored the event as one of its outreach efforts to make the city accessible and welcoming to diverse cultures. Plans for a future meeting have not been set.

Anthony J. Viapiano, 66 Edwards St., senior, second honors; Robert F. Hegarty, 145 Wilson Ave., junior, second honors; Brian J. Hegarty, 145 Wilson Ave., sophomore, second honors; and Jeffrey M. Pugliese, 99 Assabet Rd., sophomore, second honors.

Quincy Hospital Offers Community Health Screenings

In conjunction with its physician referral service, Quincy City Hospital is now offering community health screenings each Wednesday afternoon.

The screening consists of a comprehensive blood chemistry analysis, which will evaluate blood glucose, cholesterol, BUN, creatinine, calcium, hemoglobin and several other parameters.

A urine specimen will also be taken for analysis.

A registered nurse will review the results of the screening test with the patient. Copies of the test results will be given to the patient's personal physician.

If the individual does not have a personal physician, the nurse will assist the patient in the selection of a physician through the Quincy City Hospital Doctor Directory (physician referral service).

Incorporated into this referral is the matching of the patient's individualized medical needs with the specialty of the physician.

Community Health Screenings will be offered each Wednesday from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. in the out-patient department. Date of the next screening is March 9. Patients will register for the testing through the Out-Patient Registration area in the Admitting Department.

Fee for the screening is $[illegible] and is due at the time of service. Cash, check or bank card are accepted for payment.

For additional information on the Community Health Screenings, the hospital's Diabetes Clinic or the free blood pressure screening clinics which are held regularly at the hospital, contact the Ambulatory Care Department at the hospital at 773-6100, ext. 3009, between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. weekdays.

Contact with the Physician Referral Service, the "Doctor Directory," may be made between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. weekdays, at 786-0005.

Sexual Assault
Coping With An Attack

If you're attacked:

- Keep your head. Stay calm as possible, think rationally and evaluate your resources and options.
- It may be more advisable to submit than to resist and risk severe injury or death. You have to make that decision based on the circumstances. But, don't resist if the attacker has a weapon.
- Keep assessing the situation as it is happening. If one strategy doesn't work, try another.

Possible options in addition to non-resistance are negotiating, stalling for time, distracting the assailant and fleeing to a safe place, verbal assertiveness, screaming to attract attention, and physical resistance.

- You may also be able to turn your attacker off by telling him that you have AIDS, or some other social disease. Other bizarre behavior such as throwing up or acting crazy may also help to turn the attacker off.

After an assault or rape:

- Go to a safe place and call the police. The sooner you make the report, the greater the chances the attacker will be caught.
- Do not shower, bathe, douche or destroy any of the clothing you were wearing at the time of the assault. Do not disturb anything in the area where the assault occured. It is important to preserve all physical evidence for court use.
- Go to a hospital emergency room for medical care. Ask the doctor to make a note of all injuries received as a result of the rape. Make sure you are evaluated for the risks of pregnancy or venereal disease.
- Call someone to be with you. You should not be alone. Contact a rape treatment center to help you deal with the consequences of the assault.
- Write down a description of the assault's circumstances and the attacker. Police need all the information they can get about the assailant.

Take Action - Today

1. Practice being alert and observant. You can avoid many threatening situations, and if you are attacked you will be able to accurately describe the assailant to the police.
2. If someone down the block has been attacked, be a good neighbor. Lend an ear and lead them to others who can help.

Delahunt Wants To Deport Stabber To Cuba

The knife wielding assailant man, whose attacks on four women in Quincy and Milton last winter prompted some alarmed residents to carry mace on the streets, was convicted on eight charges last week.

William Marguetty, 29, a Cuban immigrant, was found guilty by a Norfolk Superior Court jury of armed assault with intent to murder and four counts of assault and battery with a dangerous weapon.

He was sentenced to 72 to 80 years in prison, the maximum sentence allowed under state law. He will not be eligible for parole for 48 years, when he is 77 years old.

"This is a case that demands severe punishment," said Superior Court Judge Roger J. Donahue who handed down the sentence.

Norfolk County District Atty. William D. Delahunt said Massachusetts taxpayers should not have to pay the high cost of keeping Marguetty in prison.

Delahunt said he would ask immigration authorities to deport Marguetty to Cuba to serve his sentence. He came to this country in the 1980 Mariel boatlift.

WILLIAM DELAHUNT

According to Delahunt, it could cost up to $20,000 a year to keep Marguetty in the state's maximum security prison.

He called Marguetty "an extremely dangerous individual."

In addition to the Quincy and Milton stabbings, Marguetty is charged with stabbing to death a Roslindale woman, killing a New Bedford woman and attacking a 13-year-old girl with a knife at a bus stop.

Of the four victims in Quincy and Milton, one has moved out of state, and another plans to move away.

By Representative Michael W. Morrissey

This is the 20th in a series of articles written by Rep. Michael W. Morrissey, 1988 Legislative Session

I am pleased to announce that Governor Michael Dukakis has recommended $4.25 billion in fiscal assistance to local governments ensuring continued property tax relief for all Massachusetts citizens. Quincy's share will be $32,329,591, an increase of $826,300 from last year.

The state's local aid program has been a pivotal factor in guaranteeing the fiscal health of local governments. From fiscal year 1983 to fiscal year 1989, direct local aid has grown from $1.70 billion to $3.06 billion, a 79 percent increase. Even after adjusting for inflation, this represents a real increase of over $1 billion in direct assistance for localities. In the past, Massachusetts support of local government had been well below average; today, it stands a full four percentage points above the national average.

Beginning in the early 1980's, in response to the enactment of Proposition 2½, Massachusetts state government has devoted a major share of its new resources to local aid. State government has met the challenge posed by local property tax limits and has enabled local government to maintain and even expand local services. Local governments spent $7.33 billion in fiscal year 1981, prior to the implementation of Prop 2½. By FY 83, this had fallen to $6.91 billion. But the latest U.S. Census figures show that by FY 86, local spending had risen to $7.96 billion - a real dollar increase of $360 million or 5 percent since the year before Prop 2½ took effect.

The success of the local aid program is reflected by the dramatic decrease in property tax burdens across Massachusetts. While nationally, local tax burdens continue to increase, our burden is the lowest among the Northeastern states. While once 38 percent above the U.S. average, the local tax burden in Massachusetts is now 14 percent below the rest of the nation.

Citizens of Quincy should realize that the improvements undertaken by the city are in large part due to the state's local aid support and over the years. Local governments are responsible for many of the daily concerns of our cities. Localities educate our children, police the streets, fight fires, collect rubbish and perform a wide variety of highly visible services. In fact, the 351 cities and towns are the Commonwealth's primary partners in providing basic public services, developing local and regional economies and spreading opportunity to all of our citizens. Virtually all of the operations of government throughout the Commonwealth involve cooperation between the state and its local partners.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

We all have many keys on our key chains ... big ones ... small ones ... shiny ones ... dull ones. How many times have you tried to open your door at home or your car only to find that you were using the wrong key? It can be mighty frustrating ...

We waste a lot of time in life trying to open doors with the wrong keys. Most people wish to open the door to happiness. They try one key after another but the door will not open. Yet at the same time people all around them seem to be opening their doors with their keys ...

What are these right keys - the keys that really open the doors to contentment, happiness, satisfaction and health? One of these keys is compassion; another diligence. There is a self-control key. There is no doubt that the key which opens the door to popularity is thoughtfulness.

Knowledge is a wonderful key, but there is a greater one still. This key is the key of faith. The wonderful thing about this key is that it is reserved for no special person or group. It can be put on anyone's key chain ...

Quincy Hospital Free Blood Sugar Screening March 10

The Diabetic Education Department at Quincy City Hospital will sponsor a free diabetic blood sugar screening for the community Thursday, March 10.

Between the hours of 9:30 a.m. and noon, the hospital's Diabetic Teaching Nurse will be available at 1000 Southern Artery, Quincy Point.

The screening consists of a blood test by simple fingerstick. Fasting is not required prior to the test, and results are available in two minutes.

According to QCH, recent blood sugar screenings throughout the community have been successful in identifying persons with elevations in blood sugar, so that they might be referred to their physicians for treatment.

For those individuals who do not have a private physician, and need one, or would like to see a physician, the Diabetic Teaching Nurse is able to provide referral.

The program is under the direction of Arleen Ferretti, R.N., C.D.E., Certified Diabetes Educator, who is available to perform the testing, and to answer questions.

For additional information on this, or on any of the Diabetes Education Programs at Quincy City Hospital, call 773-6100 extension 3029.

'Voice Of Christ' Squantum Church Topic

"How the Voice of Christ Comes" was the title of the sermon preached Sunday at the First Church of Squantum by the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor.

Scripture readings during the service were by Barbara Walter and Tom Williamson.

The Youth Choir and the Chancel Choir were directed by Mary Ruth Scott.

Hymns were sung by the congregation and accompanied by pianist Janet Williamson and organist Scott.

Greeters for the forming were Janet Sumner and Joan Hansen. Ushers were Harry Holmes and Stewart Scott. The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Kathryn Hansen and Eva Martin.

Sunday night the pastor met with young people interested in becoming a part of the Covenant of Discipleship which leads to membership in the church.

The church is offering two different Lenten programs. The first group, which is studying "Contemporary Films and the Christian Faith," met Monday to discuss "Mosquito Coast." On Tuesday, March 8, the film topic will be "The Mission." The meeting starts at 7 p.m.

The other group, which is held Wednesday nights, is working through "Big Stories in the Old Testament." The subject this week was the tower of Babel. On March 9, the group will begin their study of the patriarch Abraham. This group meets for supper at 6:30 p.m. and moves upstairs for discussion at 7:15 p.m.

This Sunday, March 6, is Covenant Sunday at the First Church of Squantum. There will be a single worship service for the whole church at 10:30 a.m. Sunday School meets during the service and a nursery is provided.

Members who cannot attend the service but wish to renew their covenant should inform the pastor of their intention before that morning.

Besides the Lord's Supper and the ceremony of covenant renewal, young people intending to join the church will become part of the Covenant of Discipleship during the service. Membership in that group will eventually lead them into full membership in the church. Three adults will also join the church that morning.

The sermon topic Sunday is "His Bread, His Wine."

'Open Your Eyes' Lenten Topic At St. John's

"Open Your Eyes - Recognizing God's Presence in Ourselves and Others" will be the topic of the third in a series of special Lenten discourses Tuesday, March 8, at 7:30 p.m. at St. John's Church, Quincy Center.

Speaker will be Brother Joseph W. LaGressa, O.F.M., director of Youth Ministry and Religious Education at St. Ann's Church, Neponset.

Overall theme of the retreat is Lent, a time of renewal on the journey into Easter, a season of hope.

Brother LaGressa will also speak at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesdays, March 15, and Wednesday, March 23.

All are welcome.

'The Look' Lenten Sermon At Bethany Church

There will be two worship services at Bethany Congregational Church, on the Third Sunday in Lent, March 6, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center.

The chapel service is held at 9 a.m. and the sanctuary service at 10 a.m.

Holy Communion will be celebrated at both hours.

The Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will preach a sermon entitled "The Look" at both services.

Lay scripture readers will be Robert C. Siddens at the early service, and Corinne M. Mikami at the late service. The Rev. Joel F. Huntington, associate minister, will be the liturgist at both hours.

At the 10 a.m. service, the Chancel Choir, will be directed by organist Peter F. Krasinski.

The worship service is broadcast "live" direct from Bethany's sanctuary at 10 a.m. over radio station WJDA, 1300kc. In addition, a cassette tape of the sermon and service can be obtained at cost for $2 by contacting the church office.

Sunday school will be in session from 10 to 11 a.m. with classes for children from pre-school through eighth grade. Nursery care for babies is also provided as well as a toddler class for young children. Bethany's professional early childhood coordinator, Pamela Ford Curran, will supervise the care of infants through first graders.

At 11 a.m., there will be a fellowship hour in the Allen Parlor. Individuals and families from the community are welcome to attend and share in the worship and fellowship, and to enroll children in the Sunday School.

From 11:30 to 12:30, an open adult discussion group will meet in the upstairs Ladies' Parlor, and a light lunch and child care is provided. The topic is "Koinonia Christian Community" and the group is led by Jerry and Lisa Birr.

There will be a Lenten Devotional Service Wednesday, March 9, at 7 a.m. in the Bethany Chapel. Theme is "The Twelve Christ Chose" examining the lives and work of the Apostles and the meaning of discipleship today. Rev. Elden D.J. Zuern will give the meditation on "Matthew and Thomas." Following the 30-minute service, a light continental breakfast will be served in the Parish House. Both the worship service and breakfast are open to the public and people can leave for work or school by 7:45 a.m.

The youth group for seventh through 12th graders meets Sunday at 7 p.m. in the Parish House.

For information concerning Bethany's ministries and programs, contact the church office weekdays, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at 479-7300.

People Vs. Jesus Jury Trial At Faith Lutheran

Faith Lutheran Church has been subpoena summoned to Lenten Services this year to serve as the jury in a trial in which the People vs. Jesus of Nazareth.

During the weeks of Lent, different witnesses will be interviewed. Such witnesses as Barabbas, Pilate, John, Herod and James will be cross-examined by both a prosecuting and defense attorney.

The congregation will be asked to reach a verdict -- is Jesus a fraud to be sentenced to death, or is He to be their Lord and Savior?

Pastor James Kimmell and various members of the congregation will take part in this dramatic event. The public is invited.

Services are Wednesdays at 201 Granite St., Quincy, at 7:30 p.m. through March 30.

Quincy MS Assn. To Meet March 10

The Quincy Association to Overcome Multiple Sclerosis will meet at the First Church of Squantum, 164 Bellevue Rd., Thursday, March 10 at 7:30 p.m.

Speaker will be Cindy Zagieboylo, Director of Support Services.

All patients, families and people interested in Multiple Sclerosis are welcome. The rear entrance is wheelchair accessible.

Indian Tribe Member To Speak At First Parish Church

"Survival of Two Worlds" will be the title of a talk by Anita Nielsen, guest speaker, at the regular worship service at United First Parish Church, "Church of the Presidents," Sunday, March 6 at 10:30 a.m.

Nielsen is a member of the Wampanoag Tribe. She is the daughter of Chief Wildhorse of Mashpee and is herself a grandmother. Recently retired from work in the Education Department at Plymouth Plantation, she continues to teach and lecture on American Indian traditions and culture throughout New England and New York.

In her talk, Nielsen will speak on the Wampanoag spiritual view of life and offer a warning for the survival of both cultures in this age of science and technology. There will be a period for informal discussion and questions in the Church Parlor, following the service.

Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett, minister, will lead the worship service and give the morning prayer. Norman Corey, Music Director, will play organ works by Buxtehude, Walcha, and Reger. Zoe Buhl and Lauren Davidson, members of the Youth Group, will serve as ushers.

Historic United First Parish Church, "Church of the Presidents," is located in Quincy Center. First established in 1636 as a Puritan Congregational Church, it has been Unitarian since 1750. It is the church of Presidents John and John Quincy Adams whose tombs are in the church along with those of their wives Abigail and Louisa Catherine.

The church conducts a church school for children and child care is provided. Visitors are welcome and are invited to attend the Social Hour following the service.

Counseling Ordered For Woman In Mayor's Office Attack

A young, distraught single mother who threatened a secretary in the mayor's office with a saw Monday morning, will be given the chance to work out her problems rather than go to jail.

Janine M. Cunningham, 19, of 33 Waterston Ave. was arrested and charged with assault by means of a dangerous weapon, a hand saw, in connection with the incident involving secretary Colleen Whalen, 24.

Cunningham pleaded innocent at Quincy District Court Monday afternoon at her arraignment before Judge Edward Viola.

She was given pre-trial probation, and ordered not to have contact with the mayor or Whalen.

Cunningham must also be evaluated at a local mental health center.

Her case was continued to May 10, at 9 a.m. for review.

If she stays out of trouble, the charge will be dropped, Viola said.

"It's clear she was crying out for help," he said.

According to Paula Killion, her court appointed attorney, Cunningham was out of work and about to be evicted from her apartment.

"I feel very badly for her," said Whalen, who was unhurt but shaken up.

"She was obviously very desperate.

"I'm glad no one was hurt, especially me."

According to Whalen, the woman entered the outer section of the mayor's office at City Hall with her 20-month old daughter.

She put the child down, walked toward Whalen, took a 12-inch saw out of her bag and made a threatening gesture toward the secretary.

Whalen grabbed the woman's arm and called for help.

Mayor Francis McCauley and his executive secretary, Peter Kenney, subdued the woman who was arrested by City Hall officer Carmine DiRamio.

The child, who sat quietly throughout the incident, was taken to her grandmother's house.

Cunningham's father, Kenneth, later came to the mayor's office to apologize.

"We've had our share of people coming in who were drunk or belligerent," said McCauley.

"But this is the first time we've had an act of violence.

"She is a single parent being evicted from a private apartment, desperate and in need of help.

"But she used the wrong approach."

McCauley said he did not remember hearing from the woman for help before.

Whalen, a secretary in the mayor's office for over two years, was at work Tuesday, still a bit shaken up from the incident.

Police Dept. May Link With Interpreters For 100 Languages

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The Quincy Police Department is investigating the possibility of hooking into a communications system with interpreters for 100 different languages to better serve the city's growing population of non-English speaking residents.

"There's a definite need," said Lt. William Curran, who is in charge of communications, as well as being the liaison with the addition to the police station currently underway.

"We're waiting for Communications and Language Line, Inc., a private business in California, to respond with literature," said Curran.

He explained that the seven day a week, 24-hours a day system would be activated by pressing a button on the side of a phone at the police station, which would connect with a "hotline" to Communications and Language Line.

Three-way communication would be possible with the caller to the police station, a police officer and the translator in California, said Curran.

The system would also have the capability for a 1-800 number which officers could call from outside the station, he said.

Curran said the costs for the system seem reasonable. After a $250 installation fee, there would be a $15 a month maintenance fee with seven and a half minutes free every month, he said. Cost to use the system would be $1.94 per minute.

"You can get a lot of questions asked in a minute," said Curran, who thought the police department could probably pay for the system out of its normal phone bill appropriation.

"If not, we'll have to go to the mayor for an appropriation," said Curran.

"But we want to learn a little bit more about it, to evaluate it and see if it does everything it claims," said Curran.

"It's more than we've got now. Right now, you use your extra senses, you draw pictures. It's extremely hard to communicate with people that way.

"We've got to look into something like this."

Curran said he does not have figures available on how many calls police get each day from residents who do not speak English or who speak it slightly.

He said he intends to get a count on such calls for the next month or two.

Curran said he also plans to call police departments in such major cities as New York and Miami for their opinions of the translating service.

He said he hopes to reach a decision on the service within the next week or two.

The police department is looking into a new phone system for the addition scheduled to open July 1, he noted.

Curran was among several representatives of the police department who attended a meeting of the Asian American Committee of Quincy last week at Wollaston Lutheran Church.

Others attending from the department were Sgt. Thomas Casey and Robert Hanna, Crime Prevention Officer.

During the meeting, a woman who speaks Mandarin, Cantonese and Vietnamese volunteered to help the police department with translating.

"We definitely need some sort of assistance," said Curran. "But we don't know about liability in bringing interpreters into certain situations. We can't jeopardize someone in that manner.

"I'm not knocking the system," said Curran. "But it is something that has to be totally examined and looked into."

Lisa Roth Named Chamber Membership Manager

Lisa Roth, of Hull, has been named manager of the membership department at the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, 36 Miller Stile Rd., Quincy.

A 1984 graduate of Simmons College in Boston with a management degree, Roth has experience in real estate sales, specializing in condominium projects with Codman Co. in Boston.

About her position with the Chamber, Roth said, "I look forward to capturing new businesses for the Chamber, new members have limitless options when they join this organization."

The Vermont native said she is looking forward to the months ahead as a building block, a period to become acquainted with the people and the organization.

Roth has found that the strength of the Chamber is with its members. "Their dedication, unlimited energy and willingness to promote the Chamber is what the membership department is all about," she said.

An avid skier and competitive tennis player, Roth has also studied as a classical flutist.

Nursing Home Placement Support Group Offered By Quincy Hospital

Quincy City Hospital announces the formation of a support group for individuals in the community facing the difficult decision of nursing home placement for a family member or loved one. This group will provide an opportunity to express feelings relative to placement and mutual support, a review of nursing home costs and admission procedures.

Group facilitators will be Mernie Clifton, M.S.W. and Carol Hannon, M.S.W. of the hospital's Social Service Department.

The first meeting will be held Monday, Feb. 22 from 2 to 3 p.m. For interested persons who are unable to attend during the day, an evening program will be held on Wednesday, Feb. 24, from 6 to 7 p.m.

Both meetings will be held in the Board Room, located on the second floor of the Administration Building. There is no charge for the program, and refreshments will be served.

Contact the Social Service Department at the hospital at 773-6100, ext. 4176 to reserve a space in either meeting group.

Mary Nolan Class Senator

Mary Ann Nolan, of Quincy, has been elected senator of the Class of 1988 at Saint Anselm College, Manchester, N.H.

A sociology major at the college, she was sworn in recently in a brief ceremony at Saint Anselm's Cardinal Cushing Center. This is her first one-year term as senator.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard F. Nolan, 27 Avon Way.

Mixed Feelings On Self Service Gas Stations

The City Council held a 45-minute public hearing Monday night on the mayor's proposal to allow self service gas stations in Quincy, but the opinions were about split.

Self serve stations have been prohibited by ordinance in Quincy.

The City Council amended the mayor's proposal to allow 25 percent of the gas stations in the city to become self serve.

Atty. Robert Fleming, who said he represented oil interests, particularly Merit Oil, was among those who spoke in favor.

"Self service can work efficiently to benefit the consumer," said Fleming, who noted such things as increased safety with a fire suppression system and decreased prices.

Hal Awde, owner of stations on Furnace Brook Parkway and Adams St., said he would like to offer self serve at one island and full service at another island at each station.

Bill Marsters, who said he has owned a Mobil Station on Sea St. for 30 years, said, "I can't see what's wrong with the operation that's been going on for years.

"It's big business vs. little business. Service will not be there with self service."

The owner of a Sunoco station said, "As an Irishman and a worker, there is no way I was going to let this go down without a fight."

No action was taken.

Council president Patricia Toland recessed the hearing and said that written testimony from the public will be accepted until Thursday at 4:25 p.m.

'Not Now Darling' A Nice Debut For Dinner Theatre

By KRISTINE STRENGE

"Not Now, Darling," the first production of the new Quincy Dinner Theatre has Darling Productions off to a good start.

An audience of approximately 200 filled the hall at the Masonic Temple for the adult British comedy opening night.

The humorous combination of mink, mischief and mistaken identities amused the audience throughout the evening. "We've been doing this show off and on for 12 years and it still cracks even us up," commented producer and actor George Stevens.

The audience enjoyed watching the characters escape from a tangled web woven when trying to hide their infidelity by mixing business with pleasure.

The two-act play, which lasted two hours with a 15 minute intermission, took place in an elegant fur salon of Bodley, Bodley & Crouch located in the West End of London. Though the set left room for imagination, the cast compensated with such good acting that eyes were left on the cast.

The introverted, meticulous, loyal business partner, Aronald Crouch, played by Skip Maloney of South Weymouth delighted the audience to the fullest.

Gilbert Bodley played by George Stevens of Braintree was able to seduce the audience into laughter by his smooth Don Juan character.

Janie McMichael, played by Madelon Finnegan of North Andover, a blond bombshell "who always gets what she wants" received a great review for her performance.

The other theatrical veterans of Darling Productions, which cause the audience to increase their intensity of laughter and applause that evening were, Molly Hoenkeppel of Cohasset as Miss Tipdale, Rosemary Martinez of Marshfield as Mrs. Frencham; Jim Leonard of Hingham as Mr. Frencham, Pam Rich of South Weymouth as Sue Lawson; Tommie Stevens of Braintree as Maude Bodley; Tom Maloney of Taunton as Harry McMichael; Greg Bazaz of Stoughton as Mr. Lawson; and Debbie Habib of Quincy as Miss Whittington.

Prior to the play there was a social hour at 6:30 p.m. which was not open bar but the drinks were reasonably priced. A Canadian Club and soda went for $2.50.

At 7:30 p.m. the guests enjoyed the company and conversations of others while being served a sit-down dinner by Domenic's Catering of Quincy. The entrees consisted of salad and bread, choice of scrod or roast beef, potatoes, green beans, vanilla ice cream with strawberry sauce, and coffee or tea.

The dinners, with generous proportions, were well liked. As one guest said, "We won't go hungry tonight."

The evening was ended with a glass of champagne and a chance to talk with the cast and crew.

"Not Now, Darling," final showing was Sunday, Feb. 28.

Darling Productions next show will be Neil Simon's "Last of the Red Hot Lovers," March 19, 20, 25, 26 with a Sunday matinee March 27.

The final show will be D.L. Coburn's Pulitzer Prizewinning Gin Game April 23, 24, 29, 30, and Sunday matinee May 1.

The company will begin a new year-long season in the fall which will include longer runs of each production.

The Quincy Center Dinner Theatre was made possible by the Masonic Lodge AF & AM.

Reservations for all shows are available at 843-5662. Visa and Mastercard are accepted, and tickets may be picked up at Darling Productions, 654 Rear Washington St., Braintree.

Wollaston Credit Union Elects Board, Officers

Wollaston Credit Union recently held its 40th annual meeting of the Board of Directors, Officers and members.

During the meeting the following members were re-elected to three year terms:

Advice On Wood Stove Use Available From Lung Association

Recent cold waves in New England have caused many residents to fire up their wood stoves. Improper operation of these stoves leads to the release of harmful pollutions. It is important to operate wood stoves properly and use fuels correctly.

The Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association is offering a small packet of information to wood stove owners and others who are planning to purchase a stove.

Topics covered include choosing a woodburning stove, its proper installation and operation, fuels to use, and wood-smoke pollutants. Newer wood stoves with catalytic combustors also are described.

For a free copy of this handy packet, call 668-6729 or write to the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association, 25 Spring St., Walpole 02081.

Bad Start Costly To North In State Tourney

By TOM SULLIVAN

North Quincy's hockey team made its fourth appearance in five years in the state tournament last Sunday and a bad start was costly as the Raiders lost to unbeaten Bay State League champion Walpole, 5-2, in a South Sectional first round game at Boston University's Walter Brown Arena.

The Raiders (10-6-3) were the last-seeded team and Walpole (18-0-3) was seeded second.

North fell behind, 4-0, as Walpole's Joe Verderber, one of the state's highest scorers with 77 points, had a hat trick.

"Our kids gave it all they had and it was an excellent season," said coach Kevin Jago. "We won only four games last year and I didn't know what to expect this season. I thought we would improve some, but the kids really did a fine job and it is too bad they couldn't have gone farther in the tournament."

The game was rough with 22 penalties totalling 37 minutes being called.

Verderber scored the first two goals and Joe Murphy added a third to give the Rebels a 3-0 lead after one period.

Walpole made it 4-0 with the only goal of the second period by Tim Sullivan and that's the way it stood going into the final session.

Sophomore Joe Fasano put North on the board at 7:20 of the period with Rich Connelly assisting. Matt Furtado made it 4-2 with his 27th goal of the year. Fasano and Marty Feeney assisted. Verderber put the frosting on the cake with an open-net goal.

"The alarm clock finally went off in the second period," Jago said. "They pushed us around for nearly two periods before we finally woke up."

The play became rougher after Furtado's goal moving North to within two goals. Tempers began to flare with 2:04 left.

North's Bill Dineen was given a major penalty for fighting. Walpole's Sean O'Neill was called for roughing along with teammate Gerard Murphy, while North's Jay Rodriguez had a roughing and a misconduct.

Furtado finished with 55 points, North's first 50-point scorer. The line of Furtado, Dineen and Rodriguez was one of the highest scoring in the Suburban League.

The Raiders' Paul McGrath, a league all-star, and Joe Keegan played outstanding defense all season and goalie Brian Mahoney had a fine season, lowering his goals-against average from 6.42 to 3.20 in one year.

Frustrating Season Ends On Dim Note For Quincy

This looked like the year for the Quincy High hockey team to have a winning season and possibly making the state tournament for the first time in six years.

"We could do something this year," said Coach Bob Sylvia, in his 24th season as the Presidents' coach, at the start of the season. "We had only 32 candidates, including 17 seniors, and if we don't do it this year, I don't know when we will."

Things looked promising after Quincy compiled a 5-2 record against Greater Boston League opponents.

However, the Presidents were able to win just two Suburban League games while losing 10 and two weeks ago ended a frustrating 7-2 season by losing to Newton North, 5-1.

season by losing to Newton North, 5-1.

Erik Abboud scored the lone Quincy goal with Paul Scola assisting.

"We couldn't have a freshman team this year with only two freshmen reporting and I don't see how we can have a junior varsity team next season," said Sylvia. "It is possible we won't have any hockey at all in two years. Things looked awfully dim and something must be done to save our hockey program.

"We gave up too many goals this year (90). We did well in our games against Greater Boston League teams but our league season was awfully frustrating."

Quincy scored 69 goals and scored well against the GBL teams.

The Presidents had to play the last three games without three of their top players, Rod Davis, Tim Mann and Ken Staskiewicz.

Scola led Quincy in scoring with 12 goals and 15 assists for 27 points. Shawn O'Neill, who had a fine year on defense, had eight goals and 10 assists for 18 points.

"Scola had 10 penalties and O'Neill had 16, which is to be expected against a defenseman playing good aggressive hockey," said assistant coach George Peachey.

Ken Staskiewicz and Mann are the only regulars due back next season. Also returning will be Dave Mellyn and backup goalies Craig Galligan and Fred Regan, who saw little action this season.

Flukes Scores 1000th Point

Raiderettes Qualify For E-Mass Tourney

The North Quincy girls' basketball team qualified for the Eastern Mass. Tournament for the fifth time in eight years and senior Nancy Flukes scored her 1000th career point as the Raiderettes swept both their games in the first North Quincy invitational round-robin tournament.

The North girls (13-7), who won their last six games of the season, were seeded 12th in the South Sectional tournament and faced fifth-seeded Durfee (17-3) last night (Wednesday) in the opening round. If they won, the Raiderettes will meet the New Bedford-Boston English winner in the quarterfinals Saturday at 6 p.m. at Boston English.

North edged Newton South of the Dual County League, 53-52, in the first round of the North tournament.

The Raiderettes continually took the lead only to have Newton South keep coming back. Senior tri-captain Patty Feeney got North off to a fast start with two early baskets. Seven points by Flukes and a Deirdre Murphy layup gave North a 15-8 lead. South came back but Tarra Meyer hit a driving layup at the buzzer to give the Raiderettes a 20-12 lead after a quarter.

North's offense stalled throughout the second quarter and only a jumper by Paula Tolson, a jumper by Flukes and two free throws by senior-tri-captain Karrie Pistorino allowed North to be tied at 29 at the half.

Flukes took charge early in the third quarter, scoring five quick points. Her second basket at 4:28 of the quarter on a pass from Feeney was her 1000th career point and she was presented the game ball by coach Paul Bregoli. It also gave North a lead it never would relinquish. North went up, 43-36, after three as Feeney hit for five points and Stacey Welch hit another buzzer-beater.

Debbie Panaro with four points and Welch with four were North's offensive in the final quarter as North took a 51-42 lead. But Newton came back and outscored North, 10-2, with 11 seconds left. Kellene Duffy tied up a Newton player for a jump ball with four seconds left. South had one more chance to win it but a last-second shot missed.

Flukes led the way with 18 points, nine rebounds and three assists and Welch scored six points.

A scrappy Reading team of the Middlesex League gave North all it could handle as the Raiders won, 38-30, in their second tourney game.

Flukes again led North early with five points, while Kerri McDonald and Feeney also added baskets as North took a 9-4 lead.

The Raiderettes managed only one basket in the second quarter, that on a steal by Pistorino, but hit on five free throws for a 16-11 halftime lead.

Murphy, playing her best quarter of the season, scored nine points in the third quarter while Flukes added six to give North its biggest lead at 33-15.

After an early Meyer basket, Gail Girasella of Reading caught five, hitting four straight jump shots as Reading went on a 9-0 run to cut the gap to 35-26. Miles hit two clutch free throws and Tolson added another as the Raiderettes held on.

Flukes, who has broken several North Quincy records, again led the way with 14 points and Murphy had six.

Flukes was named the tournament's MVP and joining her on the all-star team were Girasella of Reading, Jen Rosen and Dawn Nunnally of Newton South and Tiffany Mosher, daughter of former Quincy High baseball coach and assistant football coach Bud Mosher, and Anne Cavigan of Silver Lake.

The standings: Quincy Sun, 11-3-3, Johnson, 10-6-1, Doran & Horrigan, 7-8-3, Burgin Platner, 1-12-4.

Mite B's 1-1-1

Quincy's Mite B hockey team had a win, a tie and a loss during the past week.

The team tied All-Bright, 4-4, with Robbie Winter scoring two goals and Eric Wood and Joe Bracken one each. Jimmy Casinelli had two assists and Winter, Eric Wood, Bracken and John Barron one apiece. Matt Langille and Eric Joyce played solid man-to-man defense and Jeff Coleman, John Manning, Tommy Sullivan and Betsy Stone were strong on the boards and in the corners.

Goalie Timmy Sheehan's hot glove defeated Charlestown at BU's Walter Brown Arena. Sheehan made some spectacular kick saves with good control and some timely cover-ups. Back checking by Sullivan, Coleman, Eric Wood, Manning, Bracken, Stone and Winter slowed the strong Charlestown skaters and tight defensive play by DiMattia, Joyce, Langille, Tim Wood and Casinelli shut down a strong Charlestown scoring line.

Quincy dropped a 3-2 squeaker to Dedham. Trailing, 3-0, the Mite B's scored twice in the final 1:47 of the game. Eric Wood scored to start Quincy's comeback and he scored again with 23 seconds left. Sullivan and Coleman had assists. It was Quincy's first loss in six weeks. John Dobbins, DiMattia and Timmy Wood had strong defensive games.

Grande's Team Leads St. John's League

John Grande's team leads St. John's Holy Name Bowling League with a 20-4 record, followed by Ben Williams' team at 16-8.

The rest of the standings: Joe Matarazzo, 14-10, Don Gilliland, 10-14, Tom Feltrup, 8-16, and Bob Saluti, 4-20.

Saluti rolled the weekly high single of 114 and Grande had the high three of 313.

Gilliland's team had both the high team single of 387 and the high three of 1114.

The top ten: Grande, 102.4; Saluti, 99.8; Matarazzo, 93.8; Feltrup, 93.1; Dues DiCesare, 92.2; Lew MacLennon, 91.7; Art DiTullio, 90.8; Gilliland, 90.7; Williams, 89.7; Ernie DiTullio, 89.6.

Squirt B's Win

Quincy's Squirt B hockey team defeated Dedham, 4-1, in a state tournament game.

Dedham scored less than a minute into the game but Quincy came back in the second period with a goal by Chris Geary, with Robbie Callow and Dan Mann assisting.

Mann made it 2-1 with assists for Steve Barrett and Jason Fennelly. Ronnie McGann and Tim Kunz had the other goals with assists for Mann and Fennelly.

Freshmen Brighten Quincy, North Girls Hopes

The Quincy and North Quincy girls' varsity basketball coaches have something to look forward to in this year's freshman girls who finished winning seasons recently.

The North girls, coached by Earl Metzler, finished at 12-5, winning their last six games. The Quincy girls, coached by Mary Holleran, wound up with a 9-6 record.

The young Raiderettes completed the season with a 37-28 victory over the young First Ladies.

North was led by its three-guard offense of Kara Sullivan, Tara Miles and Kelly LeBlanc. LeBlanc led all scorers with 14 points on a variety of long jump shots, which included her ninth three-pointer of the season. Erin O'Neill and Joanna Rugnetta controlled the boards and were a key factor in the win. Soyon Park turned in a fine effort both defensively and offensively.

Erin Doherty and Amy Baker played excellent games for Quincy, each scoring eight points, while other standouts were Melanie Sullivan, who did an outstanding job rebounding, and Christen Barrett, who played strong defense. Amy Baker made some spectacular full-court passes that led to easy hoops for the First Ladies.

North was eight for 10 from the free throw line in the second half. Kara Sullivan took control in the fourth quarter with help of Miles. Twenty-four North points came off fast break opportunities.

In their previous game the North girls rolled over Marshfield, 54-13, going on a 50-1 run at one time.

Miles, LeBlanc and Erin Lydon combined for 40 points during that run. Miles had 16 points, 11 steals and 10 assists. Rugnetta grabbed 11 rebounds and had six points and Park, Michelle Donovan, Karine Kabilian and Erin Twoomey played fine games.

Earlier North had defeated Westwood, 35-24, in a game not as close as the score would indicate. Westwood scored 15 points in the final quarter.

LeBlanc had 13 points as North jumped out to a 10-2 lead and never looked back. O'Neill had five points and 14 rebounds, Miles eight points and Rugnetta seven. Stephanie Head and Kristen Joyce had fine defensive games.

Miles led the team in points with 162, free throw percentage (50 percent), steals and assists. Sullivan led in scoring percentage (11.5 a game) and free throws (31). Rugnetta led in rebounds and blocked shots and LeBlanc in three-point shots with nine.

Mite A's Move Into 3rd Place

Quincy's Mite A hockey team took over third place in the Greater Boston League with a win and a tie over the past weekend.

Quincy edged Needham, 3-2, as Paul Princiotto had two goals and Robbie Pirelli one. Playing outstanding games were Mike O'Brien, David Rowell, Timmy Hunter, Matt Watkins, Mike Ryan, Danny Stone, Matt Jarnis, Danny Hughes, goalie Brian Beaton, Coleman and Manning. Coleman and Manning were up from the B team, filling out the A team roster.

Beaton made the play of the game, stopping the tying goal as the puck was deflected off a Needham player's stick and went sliding toward the open net. Beaton alertly moved over to stop the puck.

Quincy tied Pembroke, 1-1, with Hughes scoring the Quincy goal and Stone assisting.

With 2:30 left in the game goalie Brian Walsh came out to challenge a breakaway when the Pembroke player took the shot, the puck going off the inside pad of Walsh and hitting the inside post and sliding along the goal line inches from going in. Out of nowhere came Stone, who cleared the puck, stopping the potential winning goal.

Mayor's Proposed Smoking Restrictions Face Uphill Battle

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The mayor's proposal to restrict smoking in Quincy eating establishments appears to face an uphill battle.

At a public hearing held Monday night by the City Council, opponents outnumbered proponents during the hour and 15 minute session.

No action was taken.

Those in favor of the proposal spoke of the serious health risks associated with smoking, or breathing second hand smoke, and those against talked about the high cost of air cleaning devices and the difficulty of enforcing no-smoking.

The proposal would require air cleaning devices in all eating establishments with seating capacity, and a no-smoking section comprised of 25 percent of the seats in restaurants with over 40 seats.

An owner or person in charge of a restaurant who permits smoking in a non-smoking area would be subject to a fine of $50 to $100 for a first offense, and $200 to $500 for subsequent offenses.

Edward L. Sweda, Jr., an attorney and State House lobbyist for GASP (Group Against Smoking Pollution) called the no-smoking restrictions a "good proposal."

"GASP has learned over the years that it is the tobacco industry and the tobacco industry alone that benefits from unrestricted smoking in public places," said Sweda.

"The fears and concerns of some restaurant owners and others have been allayed as these laws have been implemented and found to work well.

"None of the 53 laws enacted by Massachusetts communities to limit smoking in restaurants have been repealed or even weakened in any way.

"I am confident that, once it takes effect, the proposal before you tonight will work well here in Quincy."

Health Commissioner M. Jane Gallahue, who drafted the proposal with the mayor, noted that healthy non-smokers are at risk of lung cancer from the cigarette smoke of others.

"I hope and pray that you accept this ordinance," said Councillor Thomas Nutley.

"Second hand smoke causes lung cancer in healthy people.

"The evidence is so overwhelming about cigarettes. It's absolutely essential that these (air cleaning) machines be put in."

Quincy resident Carol Field said she hoped the council would vote for the proposal.

"The price of the (air cleaning) machines may be expensive, but what price would you put on the life of your fellow Quincy residents?"

City Councillor Timothy Cahill, owner of Handshakes Cafe in Quincy Sq., said that an air cleaning device for his establishment would cost $2,200 to $2,700, plus $20 a month for maintenance.

"That's a tremendous amount of money to spend for a machine, it's another burden the business person has to take.

"We already pay more taxes, and we may have to pay health insurance for employees.

"I work 60 to 80 hours a week, and it is a very difficult business.

"We have tremendous amounts of problems with labor, and we are hiring younger, and younger people.

"It would be difficult for a young person to tell an older person to put a cigarette out.

"It's not just a cut and dried issue.

"I'm not in favor of smoking, but a great many people like to smoke cigarettes, especially after dinner.

"I applaud your efforts, but it is unfair to people who own restaurants."

Jack McDonald, owner of the Common Market, said that "the state is doing it right" referring to the law which takes effect April 13, to restrict smoking in public places including restaurants that seat 75 or more people.

John Perette, owner of Jonathan's Seafood, said, "It's a nice package, but you can't stop people from smoking. Smoking is part of the restaurant business."

Mike McFarland of Barry's Deli said that he has never heard from a customer that his restaurants are smokey.

"We're in the hospitality business," said Andy Walsh, owner of Walsh's Restaurant. "We're not there to make enemies.

"I'd hate to see the day when we have bouncers for smoking."

Maureen Rogers of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce asked that a study committee be appointed on the topic.

Councillor Larry Chretien suggested that the situation be addressed on the federal level.

Anne Hutchinson: She Was Often Compared To Joan Of Arc

This biography was compiled by the members of Alpha Delta Kappa International Honorary Sorority for Women Educators, XI Chapter, Quincy, in recognition of the varied contributions of Quincy women over the last 200 years.

ANNE HUTCHINSON

She was often compared to Joan of Arc, for each believed in God and stood up for what she believed yet each was condemned. There is a bronze statue in front of the State House in Boston. It is a statue of Anne Hutchinson with her face lifted toward the sky.

She was born Anne Marbury, in England around 1590, daughter of the Rev. Francis Marbury. Perhaps, he challenged her to direct her thoughts toward God for at an early age she had formulated her own religious views.

Anne married William Hutchinson and together they had numerous children, some sources say 10, others 14. In 1634, they emigrated to Boston. Anne was then 44. Later, they built a home in what is now the Wollaston section of Quincy. There is a plaque marking the area where her home stood.

Anne Hutchinson was the first woman in America to publicly exercise her equality concerning religion, and is famed as the first organizer of women's clubs. She is not only known for nursing the ill, but because of her ideas on Christianity, caring for the whole person - body, mind and spirit. She opened her home for weekly meetings, sharing ideas and encouraging women of the colony to voice their opinions. All this caused much excitement. Women had never been encouraged to speak openly of their thoughts of the heart and mind. Governor Harry Vane and Assistant Minister John Cotton were among her friends and admirers. She was accepted and respected in the community.

However, she was not always content just to review the minister's Sunday messages. She began to critique the sermons of the minister, Rev. John Wilson of the Boston church, and express her own theological views. She struck at the authority of the clergy and the Massachusetts Puritans.

Soon, Rev. Wilson and the other ministers considered her a harmful influence on the women of the colony. Ex-governor Winthrop and the businessmen agreed, holding their own meetings, Winthrop was able to gain enough support to defeat Vane in the next election. Vane, upset by the election results, returned to England; Anne losing a trusted friend.

With the governor's backing, the ministers called a council of churches. They determined that Anne Hutchinson should stand trial.

She stood before the general court, accused of "traducing the ministers." It was long and unpleasant, no woman or man spoke in Anne's favor. The trial system did not guarantee protection to a witness and all were afraid that speaking out might cause them to stand trial, too.

Because Anne Hutchinson believed in free worship, free expression and free speech, she was banished from Massachusetts into the wilderness.

In 1637, she and her family helped establish a settlement on Aquidnock Island, now known as Rhode Island. After her husband's death in 1642, she took her children to New York. In the following year, Anne Hutchinson and all but one of her children were killed by Indians.

Anne's faith in God was so strong, her belief so lasting, that she pronounced at her trial and banishing, "The Lord judges not as men judge." Let us remember her as a woman of courage; let us always look upward.

Dawn Rossi Completes Semester At Disney World

Dawn Rossi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Renaldo L. Rossi, of Quincy, recently completed a semester at Disney World in Florida through the Walt Disney World College Program. Dawn is currently enrolled in the Travel & Tourism Administration program at Fisher Junior College in Boston.

The 1986 Sacred Heart High School graduate worked for Lagoon Transportations at Epcot Center as a boat operator. Miss Rossi was selected from 2,000 students from 114 different colleges and universities from around the country to work at Walt Disney World.

"I needed to know all about the nine countries, the architecture of the Park, how deep the Lagoon was, the history of Walt Disney, not to mention how the boat works, basically information," Miss Rossi said. "It was great to learn the different customs of the people vacationing as well as the other employees."

(Cont'd from Page 1)

He said he plans to open 10 more in Middleboro.

But for now, his thoughts are on Quincy.

"We feel it is one of the top theater locations," said Hanney.

"We hope to involve the whole city, and bring more activity to the downtown area at night, the way it should be."

Quincy Fair, located at the site of the former Sears Building, houses such tenants as Pier 1 Imports and the Registry of Motor Vehicles.

"The leasing program is finally coming along," said Atty. Ron Marshall, spokesperson for Francis Messina of Braintree, Quincy Fair developer.

"We hope that in the not too distant future that we'd be fully occupied there and that would help out not only Quincy Fair, but certainly the whole business district on Hancock St."

Teams Bunched For Top In Jaehnig League

Action continues in the Jaehnig Chiropractic Basketball League with three teams tied for second place one game behind Joe's Pub.

Joe's improved to 6-1 with a 58-43 victory over Cahill's Produce. Paul Forbes scored 17 points and Dean Coletti 14 for Joe's, while Jim Kelly had 12 and Peter McGillicuddy 10 for Cahill's.

The Mount broke open a tight first half with a powerful second-half explosion to top J.B. Heating, 88-69. Bruno Giles scored 25 and Tony DePina 21 for the Mount, while Brian Levitt had 18 and Steve Waitekus 16 for Heating.

The Quincy Nets defeated Clean Machine, 76-58, relying on their powerful front court of Peter Johnston (18), Jim Conboy (16), Al Wolfe (14) and Rick Stoltz (10). Bob O'Shea and Mike Granahan had 14 each for Clean Machine.

Timmins Contracting overcame a major height disadvantage with quick ball movement and accurate shooting to post a 70-65 win over the Jaehnig Club. John Timmins had 24 points, Steve Millane 22 and Paul Elvin 16 (all in the second half) for Timmins, while Rich Maguire and Paul Leonard combined for 40 points for Jaehnig.

The standings: Joe's, 6-1; Mount, 5-2; Timmins, 5-2; Quincy Nets, 5-2; Jaehnig, 3-4; J.B. Heating, 2-5; Clean Machine, 2-5; Cahill's, 0-7.

Mark Millane leads the scorers with a 22.3 game average, followed by Leonard, 21.4; Coletti, 19.3; Maguire, 19.1, and Steve Millane, 18.8.

The playoffs will get under way on Monday, March 21. Games are played Monday nights at St. Joseph's Hall in Quincy Point.

Croke Helps UMass To Winning Season

The UMass-Boston hockey team posted its first winning season (15-9) in four years and competed in the ECAC playoffs. The Beacons were blanked by Babson, 5-0, in the opening round.

Dennis Croke of North Quincy was one of the team's top forwards and was the number two scorer with 16 goals and 22 assists for 38 points.

The Beacons, under first-year head coach Bill Stewart, were one of the surprise teams this year in ECAC-East play.

Red Cross Water Instructors Safety Course Starts March 22

Recreation Director Barry J. Welch announces the Quincy Recreation Department will sponsor an American Red Cross Water Safety Instructor's Course.

The course is designed to provide individuals with the skills necessary to teach American Red Cross Swimming Programs to the public. Those successfully completing this course will receive National Red Cross certification.

The course is open to individuals who are at least 17 years of age and hold a current Advanced Lifesaving Certificate. Although phone reservations will be accepted, all persons must pass a qualifying swim test before formal acceptance into the course.

The course will begin Tuesday, March 22, and will continue Tuesdays and Fridays from 6 to 8 p.m., and some Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. The training takes approximately four weeks and all classes will be conducted at the Lincoln Hancock Community School Pool.

Registration can be made by phone or in person at the Quincy Recreation Department, 100 Southern Artery, starting March 14.

Quincy residents will have first preference, followed by persons who live in communities served by the South Shore chapter of the American Red Cross. These communities include Quincy, Weymouth, Randolph, Braintree, Holbrook, Hingham, Hull, Milton, Norwell, Scituate, and Cohasset. Registration is limited and will be done on a first come first served basis.

There is a fee for the program. Additional information can be obtained by calling Welch at 773-1380 ext. 204.

Mayor's Proposed Smoking Restrictions Face Uphill Battle

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The mayor's proposal to restrict smoking in Quincy eating establishments appears to face an uphill battle.

At a public hearing held Monday night by the City Council, opponents outnumbered proponents during the hour and 15 minute session.

No action was taken.

Those in favor of the proposal spoke of the serious health risks associated with smoking, or breathing second hand smoke, and those against talked about the high cost of air cleaning devices and the difficulty of enforcing no-smoking.

The proposal would require air cleaning devices in all eating establishments with seating capacity, and a no-smoking section comprised of 25 percent of the seats in restaurants with over 40 seats.

An owner or person in charge of a restaurant who permits smoking in a non-smoking area would be subject to a fine of $50 to $100 for a first offense, and $200 to $500 for subsequent offenses.

Edward L. Sweda, Jr., an attorney and State House lobbyist for GASP (Group Against Smoking Pollution) called the no-smoking restrictions a "good proposal."

"GASP has learned over the years that it is the tobacco industry and the tobacco industry alone that benefits from unrestricted smoking in public places," said Sweda.

"The fears and concerns of some restaurant owners and others have been allayed as these laws have been implemented and found to work well.

"None of the 53 laws enacted by Massachusetts communities to limit smoking in restaurants have been repealed or even weakened in any way.

"I am confident that, once it takes effect, the proposal before you tonight will work well here in Quincy."

Health Commissioner M. Jane Gallahue, who drafted the proposal with the mayor, noted that healthy non-smokers are at risk of lung cancer from the cigarette smoke of others.

"I hope and pray that you accept this ordinance," said Councillor Thomas Nutley.

"Second hand smoke causes lung cancer in healthy people.

"The evidence is so overwhelming about cigarettes. It's absolutely essential that these (air cleaning) machines be put in."

Quincy resident Carol Field said she hoped the council would vote for the proposal.

"The price of the (air cleaning) machines may be expensive, but what price would you put on the life of your fellow Quincy residents?"

City Councillor Timothy Cahill, owner of Handshakes Cafe in Quincy Sq., said that an air cleaning device for his establishment would cost $2,200 to $2,700, plus $20 a month for maintenance.

"That's a tremendous amount of money to spend for a machine, it's another burden the business person has to take.

"We already pay more taxes, and we may have to pay health insurance for employees.

"I work 60 to 80 hours a week, and it is a very difficult business.

"We have tremendous amounts of problems with labor, and we are hiring younger, and younger people.

"It would be difficult for a young person to tell an older person to put a cigarette out.

"It's not just a cut and dried issue.

"I'm not in favor of smoking, but a great many people like to smoke cigarettes, especially after dinner.

"I applaud your efforts, but it is unfair to people who own restaurants."

Jack McDonald, owner of the Common Market, said that "the state is doing it right" referring to the law which takes effect April 13, to restrict smoking in public places including restaurants that seat 75 or more people.

John Perette, owner of Jonathan's Seafood, said, "It's a nice package, but you can't stop people from smoking. Smoking is part of the restaurant business."

Mike McFarland of Barry's Deli said that he has never heard from a customer that his restaurants are smokey.

"We're in the hospitality business," said Andy Walsh, owner of Walsh's Restaurant. "We're not there to make enemies.

"I'd hate to see the day when we have bouncers for smoking."

Maureen Rogers of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce asked that a study committee be appointed on the topic.

Councillor Larry Chretien suggested that the situation be addressed on the federal level.

Anne Hutchinson: She Was Often Compared To Joan Of Arc

This biography was compiled by the members of Alpha Delta Kappa International Honorary Sorority for Women Educators, XI Chapter, Quincy, in recognition of the varied contributions of Quincy women over the last 200 years.

ANNE HUTCHINSON

She was often compared to Joan of Arc, for each believed in God and stood up for what she believed yet each was condemned. There is a bronze statue in front of the State House in Boston. It is a statue of Anne Hutchinson with her face lifted toward the sky.

She was born Anne Marbury, in England around 1590, daughter of the Rev. Francis Marbury. Perhaps, he challenged her to direct her thoughts toward God for at an early age she had formulated her own religious views.

Anne married William Hutchinson and together they had numerous children, some sources say 10, others 14. In 1634, they emigrated to Boston. Anne was then 44. Later, they built a home in what is now the Wollaston section of Quincy. There is a plaque marking the area where her home stood.

Anne Hutchinson was the first woman in America to publicly exercise her equality concerning religion, and is famed as the first organizer of women's clubs. She is not only known for nursing the ill, but because of her ideas on Christianity, caring for the whole person - body, mind and spirit. She opened her home for weekly meetings, sharing ideas and encouraging women of the colony to voice their opinions. All this caused much excitement. Women had never been encouraged to speak openly of their thoughts of the heart and mind. Governor Harry Vane and Assistant Minister John Cotton were among her friends and admirers. She was accepted and respected in the community.

However, she was not always content just to review the minister's Sunday messages. She began to critique the sermons of the minister, Rev. John Wilson of the Boston church, and express her own theological views. She struck at the authority of the clergy and the Massachusetts Puritans.

Soon, Rev. Wilson and the other ministers considered her a harmful influence on the women of the colony. Ex-governor Winthrop and the businessmen agreed, holding their own meetings. Winthrop was able to gain enough support to defeat Vane in the next election. Vane, upset by the election results, returned to England; Anne losing a trusted friend.

With the governor's backing, the ministers called a council of churches. They determined that Anne Hutchinson should stand trial.

She stood before the general court, accused of "traducing the ministers." It was long and unpleasant, no woman or man spoke in Anne's favor. The trial system did not guarantee protection to a witness and all were afraid that speaking out might cause them to stand trial, too.

Because Anne Hutchinson believed in free worship, free expression and free speech, she was banished from Massachusetts into the wilderness.

In 1637, she and her family helped establish a settlement on Aquidnock Island, now known as Rhode Island. After her husband's death in 1642, she took her children to New York. In the following year, Anne Hutchinson and all but one of her children were killed by Indians.

Anne's faith in God was so strong, her belief so lasting, that she pronounced at her trial and banishing, "The Lord judges not as men judge." Let us remember her as a woman of courage; let us always look upward.

Dawn Rossi Completes Semester At Disney World

Dawn Rossi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Renaldo L. Rossi, of Quincy, recently completed a semester at Disney World in Florida through the Walt Disney World College Program. Dawn is currently enrolled in the Travel & Tourism Administration program at Fisher Junior College in Boston.

The 1986 Sacred Heart High School graduate worked for Lagoon Transportations at Epcot Center as a boat operator. Miss Rossi was selected from 2,000 students from 114 different colleges and universities from around the country to work at Walt Disney World.

"I needed to know all about the nine countries, the architecture of the Park, how deep the Lagoon was, the history of Walt Disney, not to mention how the boat works, basically information," Miss Rossi said. "It was great to learn the different customs of the people vacationing as well as the other employees."

(Cont'd from Page 1)

He said he plans to open 10 more in Middleboro.

But for now, his thoughts are on Quincy.

"We feel it is one of the top theater locations," said Hanney.

"We hope to involve the whole city, and bring more activity to the downtown area at night, the way it should be."

Quincy Fair, located at the site of the former Sears Building, houses such tenants as Pier 1 Imports and the Registry of Motor Vehicles.

"The leasing program is finally coming along," said Atty. Ron Marshall, spokesperson for Francis Messina of Braintree, Quincy Fair developer.

"We hope that in the not too distant future that we'd be fully occupied there and that would help out not only Quincy Fair, but certainly the whole business district on Hancock St."

Graining, Marbling Workshop At Historical Society

Jane Viator, an interior decorator specializing in the restoration of old houses, will conduct a one day workshop on Graining and Marbling at the Quincy Historical Society Saturday, March 12 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Graining and Marbling has played an important role in the decorative arts in America; according to the historical society. The use of paint to create finishes which resemble more rare and costly materials dates to the earliest years of New England's settlement.

Furniture and architectural surfaces were often embellished in this way. Later, doors and baseboards in stylish homes were grained to look like mahogany. Rosewood graining was especially popular on Victorian furniture.

JANE VIATOR

This craft, which goes back as far as Ancient Egypt, is being revived today in museum houses, public buildings and private homes the Historical Society said.

The program will provide participants with hands-on experience in learning about the preparation of surfaces for painting, mixing glazes, choosing color, selection and care of brushes and other materials.

Prepared boxes or frames will be provided to workshop members to decorate.

Fee for the workshop and all materials is $65. Call the Quincy Historical Society at 773-1144 for reservations.

Quincy Singer Nominated For Grammy Award

Ceremonies were scheduled to be held last night (Wednesday) at New York's Radio City Music Hall.

It was recorded for the movie, "Back to the Beach," with Frankie Avalon and Annette Funicello.

According to the Orange County Register, Dale, 50, is on a wave back to the top as surf music pioneer after some hard times.

Twenty months ago, he lost to creditors his Balboa Peninsula mansion which had been built by King Gillette in 1926.

He has also rebounded from a bout with cancer, a kitchen fire that left his picking hand damaged, and the loss of the fortune he made trading in real estate through the 1960s and 1970s.

During his career, he brought regional hits like "The Wedge," "Let's Go Trippin'" and "Miserlou" alive with his heavy-strung Fender Stratocaster guitar. He was called "King of the Stomp" and "The Priest of Surfing."

Dale, who now lives in Garden Grove, Calif., was a double for Elvis Presley in "Let's Make Love" and was in "Beach Party" and "Muscle Beach" with Frankie Avalon and Annette Funicello.

He started out as a western singer.

The Grammy nomination comes at a time when he says he is again being booked for club and county fair concerts and recording projects.

Dale headlined a surf music reunion concert at the Forum, wrote and recorded a theme song for radio station KRLA, and a 30-second theme for the European operations of MTV, rock video channel.

He recently made a record, not yet released, with Cathy Wellington, a backup singer of Elvis Presley.

Among those rooting for Dale to win the award was his aunt, Mrs. Helen Scurtis of Quincy.

Judi Whalen On Dean's List

Judi A. Whalen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Whalen of Squantum, was recently named to the Dean's List at New Hampshire College for the fall semester.

Granite Cooperative Joins Federal Home Loan Bank

Granite Co-operative Bank, Quincy, has become a member of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Boston, announces Richard F. Syron, president of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Boston. The membership became effective Feb. 9.

Granite Co-operative Bank, located at 440 Hancock St., Quincy, was established in 1953. It provides a wide range of deposit services, including savings, NOW, money-market, and retirement accounts, and certificates of deposit. Its lending programs include home-mortgage, home-equity, home-improvement and home-construction loans. Mortgage loans comprise 66 percent of its total assets.

Granite Co-operative Bank is a state-chartered, FDIC-insured, co-operative bank. It has assets of $83 million and deposits of $73 million.

In addition to its main office, Granite Co-operative Bank operates a branch at 120 Granite St., Quincy Center.

Robert F. Foy IV is president and chief executive officer of Granite Co-operative Bank. John R. Caulfield is vice president and chief financial officer; Marjorie F. Corcoran is vice president. Bernard C. Cohen is chairman of Granite Co-operative's board of directors.

Granite Co-operative Bank joins 307 other thrift institutions that are members of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Boston. Included are 158 members in the state of Massachusetts.

Chartered by Congress in 1932 as a central bank for thrift institutions, the Federal Home Loan Bank of Boston has a membership consisting of savings banks, savings and loan associations, and co-operative banks in the six New England states. Members hold total assets of $103 billion and are the bank's sole stockholders.

Membership in the Federal Home Loan Bank expands a thrift institution's ability to provide home mortgages and make other loans in its communities. Members may borrow from the Federal Home Loan Bank to fund mortgages and other types of loans and to meet savings withdrawal needs. The bank also offers members a variety of other banking and investment services to help them operate profitably and serve their communities with a wide range of financial services.

The Federal Home Loan Bank System is a national network of over 3,000 mortgage-lending institutions, 12 regional Federal Home Loan Banks, and the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation (FSLIC) in Washington, D.C. The system was created by the U.S. Congress in 1932 to promote the growth of a strong home-finance industry.

PERSONALS

PRAYER OF APPLICATION TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit you who solve all problems who light all roads so that I can attain my goal you who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and who in all instances of my life are with me I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you and even in spite of all material illusion I wish to be with you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy towards me and mine. Repeat this prayer 3 consecutive days. After 3 days the favor will be granted even though it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after favor is granted without mentioning the favor.

Red Cross Month

Mayor Francis McCauley has proclaimed the month of March as "American Red Cross Month" in Quincy.

"The American Red Cross of Massachusetts Bay exemplifies the spirit of humanitarianism through its efforts at home and abroad, during times of war and peace, by its stated principles and efforts on behalf of people struck by personal or natural disasters," said McCauley.

"I urge all citizens to recognize this outstanding organization and its contribution to the quality of life in our city," he said.

2 Residents Receive Arson Watch Rewards

Two Quincy residents recently received rewards from the Arson Watch Reward Program for providing authorities with information that led to the arrest and prosecution of an arsonist.

Paul Nolan was awarded $250 and Kathy Bunner $1,500 from the Massachusetts Property Insurance Underwriting Association, sponsor of the Arson Watch Reward Program on behalf of the Property-Casualty Insurance Companies of Massachusetts.

Although guaranteed complete confidentiality by authorities and reward officials, Nolan and Bunner had no hesitation in publicly acknowledging their role in this case, in the hope that it will encourage citizens of the commonwealth to come forward with information concerning set or suspicious fires.

Nolan and Bunner provided the Quincy Fire Department with pertinent information which ultimately resulted in the conviction of the responsible person who set the fire that occurred on Feb. 16, 1987, at 280 Fayette St., Quincy.

The Arson Watch Reward Program is a state-wide program designed to encourage citizens, with information concerning planned or executed arson fires, to provide that information to their local Fire or Police Departments or call the Arson Watch Hotline at 1-800-682-9229. Rewards of up to $5,000 are available.

Police Dept. Receives Grant For Video Tape Equipment

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey announces that the Quincy Police Department has received a Justice Assistance Act Grant from the Massachusetts Committee on Criminal Justice for $18,053.

The grant will be used for the purchase of video tape equipment to aid the Quincy police in the battle against drunk drivers.

"This grant is another example of the continued effort of the Commonwealth to assist local authorities in combatting the terrible drunk driving problem that we fear today," Morrissey said.

The Massachusetts Committee on Criminal Justice will also evaluate the impact of videotaping operating under the influence arrests to see if it helps reduce district court delays.

The Quincy District Court has one of the largest drunk driving case loads in the Commonwealth.

City Employees To Picket Hospital

The Quincy City Employees Union representing 425 city clerical and office workers will picket Quincy City Hospital today (Thursday) from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

John J. Keefe, president of the Hospital Library and Public Employees Union said:

"The city has stalled negotiations by refusing to meet to negotiate for the last six months. The union has accepted the same terms as other city unions but the city refuses to settle."

He said picketing will continue at City Hall Monday, March 7 at 6:15 p.m.

Richard Koch, Sr. Honored As Quincy Sun's Citizen Of Year

Richard J. Koch, Sr., described as a man who gave generously of his "time, talent--and heart" to Quincy over four decades, was honored posthumously Sunday as The Quincy Sun's "Citizen Of The Year."

The award was presented to his wife, Simmy, at a reception at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center attended by more than 100 persons, including city officials, family members and representatives of the many organizations he was associated with.

Also attending were Deputy Civil Defense Director Anthony Siciliano and Ruth Wainwright, long-time community volunteer, first and second recipients of the award.

Speakers were Mayor Francis McCauley, Fr. Cornelius Heery, pastor of Sacred Heart Church who nominated Mr. Koch for the award and Quincy Sun publisher Henry Bosworth.

Bosworth presented Mrs. Koch with a clock plaque that cited her husband as the Citizen Of The Year for 1987.

The inscription read:

"For Four Decades Of Dedicated
And Distinguished Community Service To A City He Loved.
He Will Not Be Forgotten."

Bosworth called attention to the clock and noted:

"The clock is symbolic. It symbolizes that Dick always had time for anyone who needed him."

Mrs. Koch thanked The Sun, the judges and Fr. Heery for the award.

She also paid tribute to those in attendance who she said "were always there to help Dick do all the things he did."

"That's how things got done," she said.

Dukakis, Bush Winners Here

MICHAEL DUKAKIS

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN and ROBERT BOSWORTH

Two Massachusetts native sons rode to big victories in the state and here in Quincy in Super Tuesday presidential primaries.

Gov. Michael Dukakis of Brookline led the Democratic field with 54 per cent of the Quincy vote.

Milton born Vice-President George Bush topped the Republican candidates with 59 percent of the vote here.

Missouri Congressman Richard Gephardt was far behind Dukakis with 14 per cent and barely ahead of Rev. Jessie Jackson who had 13 per cent.

Tennessee Senator Albert Gore Jr. who finished first in five primaries in the South, had five per cent of the Democratic vote in Quincy.

Kansas Senator Robert Dole finished a distant second to Bush with 21 per cent of the Quincy vote.

The voter turnout in Quincy was 37 per cent.

Bernice Mader carried Quincy in the Democratic State Committeewoman ballot, polling 5,849 votes to 4,173 for Rosemary Wahlberg. The latter had attempted to have her name withdrawn from the ballot and had urged voters to elect Mader.

In the Republican State Committeeman race, Andrew Caird topped William DeVine 1,627 to 1,311.

Robert F. Gibbons of Quincy, the only candidate on the Democratic State Committeeman ballot, received 8,087 votes.

Dukakis polled 7,019 votes.

Gephardt had 1,875 votes; Jackson, 1,765; Gore, 650; Paul Simon, 529; Gary Hart, 229; Florence DiDonato, 96; Bruce Babbitt, 74; and Lyndon LaRouche Jr., 21.

There were 423 votes of no preference cast.

A total of 13,091 votes were cast in the Democratic presidential race.

Vice President George Bush led the group of Republican presidential hopefuls with 2,080 votes followed by Robert Doyle, 730; Jack Kemp, 296; Pat Robertson, 158; Pierre DuPont, 62; and Alexander Haig, 22.

There were 60 votes of no preference. A total of 3,498 votes were cast on the Republican ballots for presidential candidates.

4-Year Terms For Mayor, Council Appear Doomed

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

A final vote has yet to be taken, but it looks like Mayor Francis McCauley's proposal to increase the terms of mayor and city councillors from two to four years is doomed for the second time.

The City Council's Ordinance Committee voted 5 to 2 Monday night, to recommend to the council that the proposal not pass.

Voting against the proposal which would put the question on the ballot for the voters were Councillors Timothy Cahill, Thomas Nutley, Charles Phelan, James Sheets and Michael Cheney, committee chairman.

Councillors Ted DeCristofaro and Larry Chretien voted in favor of putting the question on the ballot.

Not present for the vote were Councillors Stephen McGrath, who had leaned towards favoring the proposal, and Patricia Toland.

Cheney said he would not call for a vote until the full council is present.

"It's not final until the council votes," noted McCauley.

"I can't see any reason not to put it on the ballot and let the voters decide.

"It's not a radical procedure," he said. "It's in effect in most parts of the country.

McCauley had originally submitted the proposal two years ago, but it was voted down by the council.

Councillor Chretien made a motion to recommend passage, but the motion failed for lack of a second.

He has said that changes in the way government operates should be decided by the voters.

DeCristofaro said he was personally opposed to the proposal, but would vote to put it on the ballot.

"We're here to make the tough decisions," said Nutley. "I'm very, very strong for the two year term."

Phelan said after talking to constituents in his ward, he doesn't think the issue should be put to the ballot.

"I feel very comfortable with the two year term," said Cahill. "It forces us to be responsive to the constituents."

Cheney said, "If you are doing a good job, people will return you to office."

$6 Million Project

USS Massachusetts May Be Restored Here

The $6 million restoration of the Quincy-built USS Massachusetts could be the first project of Mass. Shipbuilders which is expected to buy a portion of the General Dynamics Shipyard soon, according to Sen. Paul Harold.

"The timing of the project should coincide with the purchase of 75 to 80 acres at the shipyard (by the employee buyout group)," said Harold.

The 182-acre shipyard has been owned since last summer by the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority which purchased it from General Dynamics for some $49 million.

"The buyout is expected to be formalized in a number of weeks," he said.

A price for the 75 to 80 acres has not yet been determined, according to Harold.

But it will be financed with a mortgage guaranteed by the Mass. Industrial Finance Agency in conjunction with another state agency, as yet unnamed, said Harold.

The employee buyout group, comprised of former shipyard workers, will take out a loan from State St. Bank for operational money with equipment as collateral," he explained.

The group will also have access to buildings, such as the steel and machine shops, not on their property, according to Harold.

The $6 million is part of a transportation bond expected to be acted upon by the House of Representatives and Senate as early as next week, Harold said.

The project will go out to bid, but at the request of Harold and others, it must be repaired in Massachusetts and the Quincy Shipyard would be the only one in the state large enough to handle it, he said.

The USS Massachusetts, built in Quincy during World War II, has been on display at Battleship Cove, Fall River, for about 20 years, said the senator.

Harold noted that there is a question whether the battleship can be transported to Quincy for restoration because of cement used as ballast.

If it cannot be transported, the project could still be done by Mass. Shipbuilders as an off site project, he said.

"This will be an appropriate first project for them to revitalize the shipyard," said Harold.

134 Quincy Names On Unclaimed Money List

A total of 134 Quincy residents and businesses are among 32,000 due more than $23 million from abandoned accounts, according to Massachusetts State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane.

Under the state's Unclaimed Money Law, bank accounts, insurance proceeds, checks, stock certificates and the like that have gone untouched for at least five years are deemed to be abandoned.

All such accounts must be reported to the Treasury, which then attempts to notify the rightful owners or legal heirs.

Last year, Treasurer Crane returned more than half of the $20 million in reported abandoned accounts.

Crane said compliance with the law continues to improve.

"Nevertheless, once again we have had to assume the role that rightfully belongs to others. How can anyone fail to locate Boston Gas, Conrail, Newsweek, or the New England Patriots?" the treasurer asked.

Until claimed, all funds are kept in the state's General Fund where they are invested for the benefit of all residents and taxpayers in Massachusetts.

McCauley To Hold Public Finance Info Meeting

Mayor Francis McCauley will hold an informational meeting on the city's finances for fiscal 1988 and 1989 this morning (Thursday) in the second floor conference room in new City Hall.

The meeting is open to the public.

Coffee, juice and pastry will be served at 7:45 a.m. The presentation will begin at 8:15 a.m. and should conclude by 9 a.m., the mayor said.

Among those invited to the meeting are members of the City Council and School Committee as well as Sen. Paul Harold and other local representatives.

"We'll cover the entire fiscal scene," said McCauley.

"What we are seeing is a tightening of state aid and escalation of such [illegible] sewer rates and [illegible] removal.

"The council and [illegible] committee are under [illegible] pressure to spend more [illegible] it is important that [illegible] good picture of [illegible] financially."

McCauley said [illegible] such sessions [illegible] past.

DeCristofaro Wants Job Openings Posted In Quincy

Ward 2 Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro has suggested to the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority that it post all job openings at various places in Quincy.

DeCristofaro suggested City Hall and the Quincy Shipyard, now owned by the MWRA, as possible sites.

He noted that such posting is now done at the Charlestown Navy Yard.

"But this does not benefit people of this locality seeking employment," said DeCristofaro.

He also told the MWRA that it would be very [illegible] if it could set up a small [illegible] the administration [illegible] on East Howard St. in Point.

Cheney Stalls Dept. Head Raises Until City Meets With HLPE Union

The chairman of the City Council's Ordinance Committee said Monday night that the mayor's proposed pay raises for department heads will remain in committee until the city agrees to meet with representatives of the Hospital, Library and Public Employees union.

About 50 HLPE union members bearing signs such as "HLPE Needs Help" picketed in front of City Hall prior to the meeting, and then filed inside.

The holdoff on action for the pay raises was at the request of the union which has been negotiating a new contract since February, 1987.

Ordinance Committee Chairman Michael Cheney explained that a number of residents and union members have been concerned because of lack of meetings with the city.

"The council cannot be negotiators," said Cheney, "but we can leave the pay raises in committee until meetings are scheduled."

"We've asked the council to support our position," said John Keefe, HLPE executive director.

"I know the mayor has pay raises proposed for his immediate staff. They're non-union people.

"We've asked the council to sit on that until the city employees get their raise."

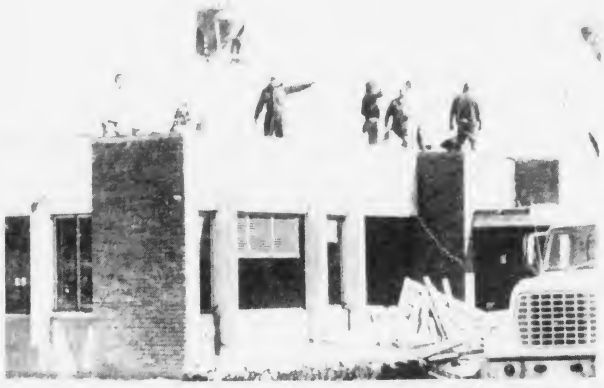
Keefe said that a letter from city labor negotiator David Gruenbaum stated that he won't discuss the wage situation until the union agrees to drop 67 supervisors.

"We are in no position to give up bargaining rights to any of our members," said Keefe.

"These employees are very frustrated," he said.

"They've waited a whole year without any good reasons.

"They've agreed to accept the mayor's wage settlement that he has given other city employees.



"There's no reason to be stalled like this.

"I think you'll see more drastic action by the city employees."

Union members picketed in front of Quincy City Hospital last week.

Mayor Francis McCauley said he did not mind the delay in action by the committee.

"The raises will be retroactive anyway," he said.

A NEW ROOF was recently installed at the former Registry of Motor Vehicles Building on Broad St. which is being converted into a shelter for the homeless. Members of Roofers Union Local 33 of Dorchester donated the labor for the job, and the Interfaith Sheltering Coalition provided the supplies. The 45-bed shelter is scheduled to open in mid-April.

Council Wants Input In Future MWRA Discussions

The City Council adopted a resolve Monday night, introduced by Ward 2 City Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro, requesting that the mayor involve the council in future discussion with the Mass. Water Resources Authority prior to any new agreements being reached.

The M.W.R.A., which purchased the Quincy shipyard last summer for $49 million, recently announced an agreement with the city to site an interim sludge treatment plant at the yard m DeCristofaro, in whose ward the shipyard is located, said, "The entire citizenry of the City of Quincy is affected by commitments made by the administration and the M.W.R.A.

"With matters of this magnitude, there must be order to ensure that the Quincy residents are truly represented."

Sunday Dancing Ban May Be Lifted

By KRISTINE STRENGE

Area senior citizens will have at least one more Sunday to put on their dancing shoes in Quincy.

The City's license Board granted a temporary license to Singles World Couples World, Inc., to operate a ballroom dance for senior adults Sunday, March 13 at the George F. Bryan V.F.W. Post.

Recently Janice M. Ohlson president of Singles World Couples World, Inc. was informed by City Clerk John Gillis and Sgt. Richard Laracy, liquor inspector, that she was in violation of a city ordinance forbidding dancing on Sundays in Quincy except at weddings and christenings.

City Council President Stephen McGrath plans to propose to rescind the ordinance at next Monday's City Council meeting.

According to Ohlson, who has been operating the Sunday evening dances at the Bryan V.F.W. Post since April of 1974, approximately 300 people who range in age from 50 to 80 attend the dance, including several retarded and handicapped people.

"There has always been a police detail present and I honestly believe that in all 14 years there have only been one or two occasions when someone had to be taken in for protective custody," she said.

Laracy said in a letter to the board, "If I shut this dance down Sunday without notice it wouldn't be fair to older people who come some distance to dance there."

Blood Pressure Screnings

Quincy City Hospital will conduct a free blood pressure screening for the public Tuesday, March 15, in the Ambulatory Care Department from 1:30 p.m. to 3 p.m.

The Ambulatory Care Department is located on Hunting-1.

Mayor Still Looking For Budget Cuts

Mayor Francis McCauley said he expects to complete his review of the city's municipal budget for fiscal 1989 this week, in preparation for submission to the City Council Monday, April 4.

McCauley said he will be looking for additional areas to cut.

He said the budget will probably be sent to the School Department for printing the end of next week.

Once the budget is submitted, the council has 45 days in which to act.

Quincy Junior College Is Self-Supporting

(The writer of the following letter submitted a copy to The Sun for publication)

Ms. Janet Coughlin
20 Wedgewood St
Quincy, MA

Dear Ms Coughlin

Your opinion concerning Quincy Junior College in both The Quincy Sun and the Patriot Ledger has been read I appreciate your concern for and support of maintaining a public higher educational presence in the City of Quincy

Contrary to your opinion the College is self-supporting and we pay for our " custodians, maintenance and various other employees " Since the imposition of the property tax capitation law and our independence the College has not received support from city tax and, I might add, we have paid to the City of Quincy and the Quincy Public Schools over one and half million dollars for services rendered

It is likewise important to note that we educate our students at about an average cost of $2700 each while, according to data provided by the Regents, at Massasoit the cost is $2970 and at Blue Hills $5263. The average day student at Quincy actually pays about $900 yearly given available federal aid, however, it is my belief that students selecting to attend a public municipal community college should be supported by the state equally

While I appreciate your insight given your employment by Massasoit, it is appropriate to be mindful that Quincy existed before public community colleges were established in the Commonwealth. Such long service to this region as evidenced by the fact that only 35 percent of our students are from Quincy is indeed thought provoking, just as is our being fifth of thirty public colleges and universities in the enrollment of minorities (14%) and first in the enrollment of women (71%)

Hopefully this response will help you come to believe as I do that there is a deserved place for Quincy in our future Thank you

Sincerely,
O Clayton Johnson

Endorses Self-Service Gasoline Stations

(The writer of the following letter submitted a copy to The Sun for publication.)

Councillor Michael J Cheney, Chairman
Ordinance Committee

Dear Chairman Cheney

At your meeting on Feb 1, 1988 I gave you various articles supporting self-service gasoline stations. I again, as one of the oldest owners of a gasoline permit in Quincy, want to endorse the use of self-service for Quincy We are behind the times

In the Ledger this Monday (March 1), the front page devoted 25 percent of its space to the lack of labor in the area and the poor prospects for the future Self-service would alleviate this very real problem I have now in getting employees

The articles I gave you, specifically a letter from N F P A dated Feb 19 1987, indicate that self-service with its fire suppression system is much safer than full service with its automatic nozzles

I have taken an informal survey of the gasoline station operators in the area who said almost unanimously, they want self-service so they can devote more of their time to inside work where they make more money

And finally I am trying to compete with stations in Braintree, Milton and Dorchester, who currently have self-service The customer has the last say, if they don't want to go to a self-service station they can go to the more than 40 percent of the stations left in the state who currently do not provide self-service. The same way the consumer decided years ago when I was a kid to go to the small 1st National store where the grocer got everything for you, or go to the "new" Stop & Shop and push your own carriage around

Please let us provide self-service if we want to and let the driver decide with his her pocketbook

McGrath Off To Mayoral Start?

Don't look now, but is Steve McGrath getting off to an early start for mayor?

McGRATH

A $100 per person ticket reception for him is being held tonight (Thursday) from 6 to 8 p.m. at the National Fire Protection Association headquarters, Batterymarch Park, West Quincy

It's being sponsored by the Steve McGrath Committee

McGrath reportedly has no debts hanging from his successful run for City Councillor at-large last fall

So...

When it comes to $100 political function tickets in Quincy, they are usually for something more than a City Council re-election bid.

Like mayor

Insiders say this is the first step in building a campaign war chest for a 1989 mayoral run.

Observers estimate it will cost at least $100,000 to wage a mayoral campaign Maybe more, depending on what hats are in the ring.

McGrath makes no bones about the fact that he would like to be Quincy's next mayor

When he decided to vacate his Ward 5 seat to run at-large, that was part of the plan. He wanted the at-large seat for better exposure to launch a mayoral campaign with

And, when he came up topping the at-large field, that was the frosting on the cake

McGrath has a reputation for looking and planning ahead

He apparently is doing that again tonight

STATE HOUSE SOURCES think there's a good chance that a good chunk of West Quincy could wind up in the Second Norfolk District under one redistricting plan

SHEETS

Four Ward 4 precincts -- about 80 percent of West Quincy -- may be shifted to the Second Norfolk District where James Sheets, of course, is city councillor

If it happens, it might convince Sheets to get into the race for the state representative seat vacated by Thomas Brownell to accept an associate justice of Plymouth District Court He's reported to be thinking of getting in

MORRISSEY

Also, according to the redistricting speculation, Rep Michael Morrissey's first Norfolk District which extends from North Quincy to West Quincy, could change one of two ways

Under one, he would keep his present district while adding a little more area Under the other, it would be mainly a North Quincy-Wollaston area, similar to the district he represented 10 years ago when he was first elected

WHEN THEY RETIRED Julius Erving's No 32 at U-Mass Amherst a few days ago, they were also retiring George Burke's number

BURKE

Burke, Quincy attorney and former city councillor and district attorney, and one-time Boston Celtic rookie, held a number of career scoring records at U-Mass before Erving got there

And, while he was cavorting on the court, he wore No. 32

Burke was on hand for the ceremonies when No 32 was retired in Erving's honor He and Erving have become good friends

At a luncheon that day, Erving as one of the speakers revealed he didn't want No 32 He had worn No 42 in high school and when he got to U-Mass, he had hoped to continue wearing that number

But he was told that No 42 was already being worn by a player who also happened to be a captain

Erving recalled that he was then informed that No 32 was available and had been worn by some good players through the years

"One of those players," Erving said, smiling in Burke's direction, "was a guy they called Trigger "I said he must have shot a lot with a name like that "

Burke, whose nickname was Trigger in those days says "There must have been something about that No 32 Julius did a lot of shooting wearing it

Erving broke most of the scoring records that Burke had set Burke has no regrets that Erving did beat them

"He's so genuinely a nice person Listening to him brought tears to my eyes He's so sincere "

A few days later, Burke was with the well known again This time he was a guest at a small private dinner at the Charles Hotel along with Geraldine Ferraro

"Real down to earth," he says of her

They had a long chat about the law and the case involving her husband and son

More On Closing Of Point Middle School

Editor, The Quincy Sun

I wonder how many people know why Point Middle School was targeted to close? Dr Ricci states - low enrollment as No 1 Yet elementary schools "everywhere" are over-crowded today Of course a major factor is elementary schools were closed And, "like now," they thought it was "best " Of course another factor is the population is expanding, according to figures from the Massachusetts Department of State Education "

But, if Dr Ricci deducts 464 students off the total enrollment for the next four years, then maybe Quincy's figures could remain low And of course this is what is needed to justify the consolidation of Point and Sterling.

With Point children out of Point Middle then Daniel Webster could occupy the whole building Which is fine but that opens the doors for Government programs Being that Lincoln Hancock Snug Harbor and Daniel Webster are the only three schools that participate in this program, and being that all three schools are "over-crowded" what better way was there than to take our middle students out for a money making opportunity'

No matter what Dr Ricci proposes, or how good he makes it sound, don't you wonder what his real intentions are? No wonder the School Committee ignored us, they knew all along Point would be the only school to allow this opportunity not to pass by Even though Dr Ricci states "education" is the issue, - don't you wonder? All his plans, all his goals, sound good, but then again, they're supposed to! Many people feel there is more to this than meets the eye It's time to speak up -- as until the actual move it is not over

In the Superintendent's Recommendation, January 1988 - Middle School Consolidation - a sentence and I quote "It's not the best but leave it alone " was said referring to "a arrangement that has worked in the past," meaning Point Middle Well I've heard another saying I like better I quote "If it's not broken, why fix it?"

Dr Ricci also focuses on our children working together developing new friendships and taking "pride in their new school " Which school do you mean as there have been a few? And for how long should they have pride? Until you move them out again? Dr Ricci speaks of a "true middle school, well Point has always been a K-8 and to compare them with other middle schools is not considered fair! And I'll also add, no more than Point being a "true middle school," is Point a Day Care"? To take our children out of Point so you can either profit or give yourself an "A" is not what I'd call a "good educator "

As for Sterling, Broad Meadows, Atlantic and Central, I would look into what you will total in and students, now! It wait, come September might be surprised! A sure since this "Day Care be having children as "2 years and 9 mon precautions will be to make sure there is no paint" or "asbestos" be age the school is One question Why these children from P for your mistakes? He been through enough! I closing created this m did other schools endured that but to pa so you can provide Care" for people who a little too much!

Don't you wonder w Ricci is trying to impr who matters more? And our School Committe back him, doesn't so much for them either!

Women In A ~~Man's~~ World

Patricia Hunt:

Following Her Father's Footsteps As A Lawyer

(This is the third in a series of articles about women in professional and business fields that were once considered strictly a male's domain).

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

"I've always liked a good fight," says Atty. Patricia Hunt who practices law with her father, Atty. Paul Hunt, in Quincy Sq.

"I'm not that easily intimidated," said Hunt, who practices general law such as real estate transactions, lawsuits, contracts, probate, some criminal cases and occasionally adoptions.

"You have to be unafraid to take a position and prosecute it," she said.

"You have to be willing to fight for your client.

"You may be the only one between a business and disaster. You have to go in and protect it.

"Your job sometimes is to take the heat and you can't be afraid to do that."

Despite working in her father's office part-time during high school and college, she didn't start out to be a lawyer.

"My father didn't encourage me to follow in his footsteps," said Hunt. "It's not the most peaceful profession. A lot of it is problem-oriented."

After being graduated from Bridgewater State College, she taught third grade at the Daniel Webster School in Quincy Point for a short time, but left as scores of teachers were being reduced from the teaching force.

She decided to either go to law school or into the computer field, and chose Suffolk Law School.

"I liked teaching, but I like this more," she said. "Teaching is creative in one way, and law is creative in another way.

"It's an interesting profession. There are so many things you can do with a law degree."

After graduation, she joined forces in 1980 with her father, who had been an assistant U.S. attorney and assistant senate counsel. He has practiced in Quincy for well over 20 years.

They share an office suite with other lawyers who had included the late Quincy Mayor-Senator James R. McIntyre.

"It's very enjoyable working with my dad," said Hunt. "Sometimes he tries to pull rank, but it's usually in a humorous way."

ATTY. PATRICIA HUNT

One of the things he has stressed is the importance of keeping one's word, said Hunt.

"It's extremely important to stand by your word," she said.

"The most important thing is the client, and you have a code of professional ethics that you have to live by.

"For example, you don't discuss a client's confidence, you don't take a legal position that's totally unfounded."

Hunt said she works with her father on a team basis.

"It works well," she said. "Two heads are better than one."

For example, she handled the documentation and closings, and her father handled matters such as zoning for a new building at 21 McGrath Highway, Quincy.

"The best part of the job is the challenge," said Hunt. "You think back on cases that were successful, where you saw a good result."

One involved a workmen's compensation case in which the person she represented, as well as others, had been murdered on the job, she explained.

Hunt set out to prove that her client incurred losses before his death by a gunshot wound to the head, and was entitled to compensation.

"No one observed him before he died, so we had to prove the loss of such things as eyesight, hearing," she said.

"We had to prove that more likely than not this person suffered all these injuries before he died."

For the case, Hunt educated herself on medical matters by going to the public library and also talking with the medical examiner.

She proved her case and won a settlement for the man's children.

"It was a very good legal case," she said.

Another, less serious case, involved the discharge of an American Legion baseball coach, according to Hunt.

"The individual sued and said he was entitled to due process under the Constitution," she said.

"We won," said Hunt. "The case was dismissed, then the individual appealed the dismissal, and that was turned down.

"It could have had effects down the line."

She said she particularly enjoys working on adoptions.

"It's a wonderful thing," she said.

"It's a joining, a beginning.

"Usually the children go, too, and they meet the judge.

"It's one of the good things you see."

"Law is a good profession for women, for anyone," who has been married since 1984 to a lawyer, Philip Tanner.

"You can concentrate on one area, or do a smattering of things.

"You have to be interested in people, in solving problems and anticipating problems."

"I feel bad about the public perception of time being wasted in courts.

"One of the hardest things to get used to is the length of time cases take. But you learn to flow with it."

Contrary to recent reports about other women lawyers, Hunt said she has not really felt discriminated against because she is a woman.

"I'm in a different type of position than many women. I've never been in a large law firm.

"Some of my friends feel that they may have been discriminated against.

"I'm not in your typical situation - I work with my dad."

"I love my job," she said. "Most of the time, anyway."

City's First Blackout Test A Success

March 10-16, 1942
46 Years Ago

Quincy's first test blackout since the start of the war was pronounced a success as the city and surrounding towns went dark between 9:15 and 9:30 p.m., except for the signal lights on the New Haven Railroad and two radio tower beacons.

A police check on three Quincy families, who faced fines up to $500 and a year in prison for refusal to cooperate in the blackout, discovered that they had simply forgotten about it.

A spokesman for the Quincy Electric Light and Power Co. said that about 70 percent of all Quincy residents went around turning off their lights rather than draw the heavy blackout curtains.

The normal load on the company's residential lines on week nights at 8 p.m. was 8,500 kilowatts. At 9:15 p.m. on the night of the blackout, however, transmisston was down to 2,300 kilowatts.

BUILDING BOOM

"It appears that Quincy will have one of the greatest, if not the greatest home building years in its history," said Building Inspector Alrick Wiedman as contractors rushed to build houses for war workers.

Alewife Realty Trust Co. of Arlington was building a $160,000 development of 54 family units in Quincy Point and a $282,000 development of 94 family units, mostly on Quincy Shore Boulevard in North Quincy.

A New Coating For Fish
With Instant Potato Flakes

Here is a new coating for fish that I have never seen in print anywhere. But then I don't profess to have read every cook book and recipe printed. This coating is done with instant potato flakes and comes out so crispy, you'll simply love it. I promise! I used it on some sliced squid and served it both as an appetizer and then as an entree. They looked like fried shrimp on the platter.

Now, if you are turning your noses up at the sound of the word "squid" (or calimari as they are called in Italian), you may also use this on any kind of fish from scallops to haddock. Is that better?

CRISPY COATED SQUID
About 3 or 4 cleaned squid
(cut in one inch pieces)
1 egg beaten and mixed with a little milk enough flour to coat the fish about 2 cups of instant potato flakes
(more if needed)

Assuming you purchased cleaned squid (I certainly did), wash and cut the squid in bite size pieces, (about an inch or so). Roll in the flour first, then the egg mixture and finally the magic flakes. I used peanut oil for the frying, but you can do your own thing. Drain on paper towel, and either eat immediately or keep in a warming oven or microwave until later. Aren't they crispy???

Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian-And Then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at That's Italian, Franklin St., South Quincy; Previte's Market, Sumner St., Quincy Point; Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount and Winfield Gift Emporium, Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Central Middle School will observe National Middle School Week during the week of March 13 where each day students will feature a tribute or theme.

On Monday Central students will celebrate Central Pride Day. Tuesday will be Tribute to Staff and Students. Wednesday will be Tribute to Women. Thursday will be the Wearin' of the Green, and Friday will be Tribute to the Arts.

On Tuesday afternoon the Central Student Senate will entertain the teachers in the Media Center over cake and ice cream.

Again this year several students have written an original play and will enact the roles in a tribute to women.

Under the direction and coaching of Mary Catherine Iannoni students will gather in "Heather's attic" to name their club and list their activities. The finale will be an original Rap, "Women are wonderful and special too."

Authors and actors and actresses are Michael Giese, Cheryl Kelly, Tracey Linehan, Paul McCluskey, Heather Powell, Kathleen Roach, Nicole Tantillo, Christina Tritone.

Famous women who will be highlighted are Chris Evert, Jane Fonda, Sandra Day O'Connor, Geraldine Ferraro, Sally Ride and Barbara Walters.

Props will include some original art work by Cassian Jae and Samuel Kwan.

At this assembly both the band and the choir will perform under the dir... of Susan Aborn and Be... Goldstein.

Domestic Violence

What is spousal abuse?

It is the physical or emotional mistreatment of a woman by her husband, ex-husband or even male companion.

Spousal abuse often involves physical contact. Slaps, shoves, blows intended to do harm. It often involves a dangerous weapon, a knife, gun, tool, or heavy object.

Myths and facts of spousal abuse:

Myth: Family violence is not a crime. It occurs in the home and is strictly a private matter that doesn't effect anyone else.

Fact: Any physical attack against a person is a crime no matter where it happens or who does it. Violence within a family threatens the entire community. Children of abusive parents often are physically or sexually abused. In many cases these children perpetuate the cycle of violence by later abusing their own children.

Myth: Family violence is not widespread.

Fact: The 1984 Attorney General's Task Force on Family Violence estimates that family violence occurs in the country in staggering proportions. Nearly a third of female homicide victims are killed by their husbands or boyfriends. Almost 20 percent of all murders are family related. In addition to the million reported cases of child mistreatment there may be yet another million unreported cases.

Myth: Family violence happens mostly among low income groups and minorities.

Fact. Although violence in families is drastically underreported it is known to effect all social classes and economic levels.

Myth: Wives and children seldom get hurt, and when it gets that bad, they can simply leave.

Fact: The victim needs medical attention in 20% of all self reported assaults. Fear, economic dependency, fears for children, complex family emotional ties and lack of safe places to go make leaving a difficult if not impossible task for many abused women.

Myth: No one can help. The police, the courts, social workers either don't want to get involved or can't do anything effective about a family's problems.

Fact. Women's health centers, mental health agencies, volunteer groups, and law enforcement in more and more areas are working to help victims of family violence by providing safe shelters, counseling, emergency assistance, legal aid and mediation programs.

The cycle of violence:

Most people when beaten or intimidated by someone in their own family feel helpless, afraid, embarrassed and guilty. These emotions, plus the belief that what happened was not really a crime, often keep victims from taking any action. [illegible] EVERYONE HOPES IT WON'T HAPPEN AGAIN. Unfortunately, the events usually follow a predictable cycle. Tension builds, erupts into an attack, comforts and a period of reconciliation follows until the tension again builds to release. It goes [illegible]

Next Week: How you can protect yourself against abuse:

If you are the victim of spousal abuse and would like help or just someone to talk to about your problem, call DOVE - Hot Line 471-1234 or the DOVE regular at 471-5087.

If you are being assaulted and need help immediately call the Quincy Police at 911.
